SEES FUTURE HOMES COOLED AS THEATERS

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Sept. 28—"Shut the windows, turn on the electricity and keep cool."

That may be the procedure followed in the future by those whose energies do not respond to the high temperatures of the summer months. For the modern house of tomorrow will have a cooling plant just as the modern house of today has a furnace, believes Professor Edward P. Miller, head of the department of mechanical engineering at Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

"The increasing demands upon human energy in the age of swift progress and keen competition call for new measures for physical comfort and protection," said professor Miller. "Extreme summer heat shows human activity and lowers efficiency in all branches of endeavor, whether it be in factory, office building or home.

"The household furnace has overcome the cold of winter, but humanity still suffers from summer heat. It seems likely that within a few years cool rooms in which to work and live will be considered just as much a necessity as warm homes and buildings are in winter.

"It is not a serious problem now to produce air-conditioning and cooling plans for domestic purposes. These will consist of a refrigeration system in which air will be cooled and the moisture removed before it is put into circulation in the buildings.

"Air conditioning and cooling equipment is best adapted for buildings of special construction with ducts for distributing the cool air, and insulation to prevent leakage of heat from outdoors. Instead of opening all windows and doors as is now done in summer, they will be closed. Double windows probably will be used and the air in the building will be used over and over again after being washed and cooled.

"The home cooling and air conditioning plant of the future will function with no more attention than the electric refrigerator. It also will be operated by electricity and will be operated with thermostatic control to maintain an even comfortable temperature regardless of the heat outdoors."

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Breed Theater

The change of program at the Breed theater today brings to that popular play house one of the best double feature pictures shown there this season.

Olive Borden, lovely little Fox star who has reached the top of the list of film luminaries in one great leap, has the greatest role of the screen career in Yellow Fingers, her first starring vehicle for Fox Films, which opens as the main feature.

In this gripping story of the South Seas Miss Borden is cast as Saina, ward of "Brute" Silane, a sea captain. She has grown up in ignorance of the fact that she is a half-caste, and falls in love with her guardian. The shock of finding out who and what she really is, when she overhears the captain telling Saina's history to the girl he loves, is too much for the girl—and she turns native with a vengeance.

It is a role that brings out all the hidden store of tremendous dramatic power in this talented little actress—and gives her the opportunity to show her great versatility in emotion acting.

Ralph Ince is cast in the leading male role.

Harry Carey appears as the second attraction on this bill in his latest western picture, The Seventh Bandit with the usual quota of Harrey Carey thrills and moments of suspense. James Morrison plays the brother, Harriet Hammond is the heroine, a woman doctor who finds practicing medicine in a cold rush town full of strange adventures. Tribly Clark is the brother's sweetheart, a dance hall girl and Walter James is the villain.

Palace Theatre

Gloria Swanson will be seen for the last times today in her latest success "Fine Manners" in which this popular star is supported by Eugene O'Brien and a notable cast. "Fine Manners" gives Gloria one of her greatest roles and she takes full advantage of it giving the finest performance of her career. Those who have not seen it should not let this last chance slip by. There is a corking comedy, a new Aesops Fable and the Topical Events for good measure, making a show well worth seeing. Tomorrow comes Constance Talmadge in "The Duchess of Buffalo" with Chester Conklin and a host of popular fun makers, a comedy drama that was such a tremendous hit at the Capitol theatre, New York that it was held over for a second week, something that rarely occurs at that great theatre. The Duchess of Buffalo is a riot of fun and has also a delightful and wholly charming love story and is by far the best thing Connie Talmadge has ever done in all her list of successes. You will forget all your cares in watching this great photoplay that is sweeping the country with gales of laughter. Champion Gene Tunney will be seen in the fourth exciting chapter of his adventure serial "The Fighting Marine." With a new Aesops Fable "A Rough and Ready Romeo," the Topical Events and Walter Lang and his musicians in tuneful numbers will complete a most attractive bill. On Friday evening for one night only the Palace will present on the stage for the first time Semi-Professional Vaudeville with future stars of the stage, in a novel entertainment. Many of today's headline acts received their opportunity on try out nights and New York booking agents will be present on Friday night to look over the future stars. It promises to be great entertainment and a packed house will no doubt be present to enjoy the fun.

Monthly Health Examinations

Once a month is not too often for every pre-school child to be thoroughly looked over by a physician. Children of this age are growing so rapidly that they need special care. They should be weighed regularly, and this monthly examination includes weighing and measuring. People all over the state are now beginning to realize the value of such monthly examinations, and health centers are springing up not only in the cities but in the small rural towns. Over 50 such centers have been established in Connecticut. Mothers are very glad to bring their children for this monthly "check-up". They feel quite safe, since through this service their children are kept healthy. At the conferences they learn the rules of health to be observed in the home. All physical defects found at the conferences are referred to the family physician for treatment.

Such a well child conference is to be held at: Wauregan, Tuesday, Oct. 5 in Company hall, from 2 to 4 p. m. and at South Coventry, Thursday, Oct. 7 in the public library at the same hours.

Breed Theater

Mare Nostrum (Our Sea), Rex Ingram's first production for Metro-Goldwyn for more than two years, will have its premier presentation at the Breed theater Sunday.

Filmed on the original locations in Spain, France and Italy, so vividly described by Blasco Ibanez in his famous book, with Alice Terry and Antonio Moreno in the feature roles, Mare Nostrum has been one of the most widely discussed pictures made in recent years.

Ingram and his company traveled more than 10,000 miles from the time they left New York, until the picture was completed in Nice, France.

Mare Nostrum is Blasco Ibanez's favorite of all the stories he has written. He refused to allow the picture to be produced until Rex Ingram was able to do it.

Alice Terry and Antonio Moreno have the outstanding parts of their cinema careers in Mare Nostrum. As Freya Talbero, the beautiful spy, Miss Terry is superb. Moreno makes the character of Ulysses Ferragut, the Spanish captain, actually live on the screen.

Mare Nostrum is a triumph for the author, director and two stars.

Lyceum Theater, New London

Otis Skinner, coming to the Lyceum theater, New London, on Saturday, October 2, needs no introduction to local theatergoers. This time he will appear in his greatest success The Honor of the Family.

The play was been adapted by Paul H. Potter, from the French of Emile Fabre, based on Balzac's story La Rabouilleuse. In this production Mr. Skinner will appear as Colonel Philippe Bridau, a character whose portrait he paint with bold, broad strokes and with vivid colors, and Mr. Skinner is in his element where he has no living peer.

The story is regarded as one of Balzac's finest analytic studies of human character and passion, and the role of Philippe Bridau, a hero of countless fights and wearer of a medal for bravery that he received from the hands of Napoleon himself, is said to offer Mr. Skinner all the opportunities for both characterization and strong dramatic work that he could desire. Colonel Bridau is a remarkable hero with tremendous qualities who will never give up any fight without the fiercest of struggles. An unusually strong cast surrounds Mr. Skinner in this play.

Mail orders will receive immediate attention, and the box office sale will open at the Capitol theater, tomorrow, Thursday, September 30.

Motor Coach Service New London-Norwich to Hartford

Through the acquisition of the Hartford-Willimantic Jitney Line the New England Transportation company, motor coach subsidiary of the New Haven railroad acquires a through route between New London and Hartford via Norwich and Willimantic and to serve the public interest direct motor coach service started September 26th.

In the operation of this route the latest type DeLuxe parlor car coaches will be used, manned by carefully trained and competent operators.

The coaches will leave New London railroad station at 7:00 a. m., 1:00 p. m. and 4:00 p. m., leaving the Norwich station northbound 40 minutes later. In the opposite direction coaches will leave the Hotel Bondmore Coach Terminal at 8:30 a. m., 1:00 p. m., and 4:00 p. m.

The through fare from New London to Hartford will be $2.10 and from Norwich to Hartford $1.75. One way railroad tickets will be honored on the motor coaches thus affording passengers privilege of checking baggage to Hartford or to points north and west thereof.

ANNOUNCEMENTS
Broadway Theater

Rudolph Valentino's host of admirers will take great interest in his Sheikology sayings which brought him considerable tribute:

Radio may be able to send photographs and songs; you can't broadcast kisses. A sheik lies to a woman, a knave about her. Women hate lovers who are false and sheiks hate women who are wise. Love is a great deal like a ferry boat—it is an eternal transport. We get along very well on the desert because there are no ferry boats. No sheik ever walked a mile for a camel. Nor for anyone else. Modern version: Going to hell on camelback. Up-to-date sheiks kiss and never tell. But lipstick does. Early to bed, early to rise, will make a good sheik otherwise. Your true sheik demands a woman as brilliant as a diamond, as dainty as a flower, as charming as Cleopatra, as patient as Penelope and as dumb as Dora.

Ireland has its donkey rides, America its buggy rides, and Arabia its good old fashioned camel rides. But all roads lead to Rome.

Scandals and sandals rarely clash in the desert. We have very few sandals.

No sheik ever needed a ukelele to help him by moonlight.

They never walk back on a sheik. We do not use automobiles.

I told a girl I was a sheik. She said, "So's your old man." The girl in the play says "Love 'em and Leave 'em" but what if they wont leave? If Satan's courtyard is paved with good intentions the Sheik should make a fortune with cement. There was once a sheik with two thousand wives. Such popularity must be deserved. It is reported in the chronicles of Arabia that when Satan met the sheik out walking, one day they stared at each other. Then Satan said, "Get thee behind me, Ahmed." A city without a skyscraper is like a desert without an obelisk. The sheik's advice to newlyweds: It isn't the initial cost, it's the upkeep.

His last picture. The Son of the Sheik closes its phenomenal run at the Broadway theater today.

Thursday, Friday and Saturday will be five splendid Keith-Albee vaudeville acts again.

MARKETS AT A GLANCE

New York

Stocks irregular: Dupont soars 10 points to new high.

Bonds mixed; St. Paul issues active.

Foreign exchanges steady; Italian lira firm.

Cotton lower; easier southern markets.

Sugar firm; strong spot market.

Coffee weak; easier Brazilian cables.

Chicago

Wheat higher; bullish Liverpool cables.

Corn easy; large old crop supplies.

Cattle steadier.

MARKET FLUCTUATED

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—(AP)—Opposing speculative forces again struggled for control of the price movement in today's stock market, with neither side able to gain any decided advantage. Operators working for higher prices succeeded in marking up a number of industrials and rails, but the rallies did not hold in many cases whereas bear traders were able to uncover a few weak spots but failed to unsettle the general list. Commodity markets furnished much more speculative interest, sugar prices being bid up to new high levels for the season while cotton futures broke to the lowest levels in years.

Credit conditions were again a source of uneasiness to the "bull" element. A reduction of nearly $85,000,000 in brokers' loans last week failed to arouse any widespread enthusiasm. On the other hand, call money renewed at 5 1-4 per cent and held steady at that figure all day, despite the rather heavy calling of loans by out-of-town banks.

Failure of the Allied Chemical directors to make a special dividend distribution at today's meeting caused disappointment in some quarters, the stock selling down to 139 and then rallying to 40 1-4 where it was off 1 3-8 on the day. American Smelting, which is believed to harbor a large short interest as a result of the recent decline in silver prices, was bid up to 149 7-8 but slid back later to 139, up 1 point net, with buying influenced by reports that the directors would either increase the regular dividend or declare an extra next week.

General Motors, which is expected to make an unusually favorable showing in the third quarter, was bid up to a new high of 161 7-8 for the present stock, closing within a point of the top. Other motors were mixed, Moon dropping over 3 points to a new low at 16 5-8 on rumors of unfavorable dividend action. U. S. Steel crossed 150 in large volume, but met large offerings around that figure and slipped back to 149 where it was up fractionally on the day. Baldwin, which was run up nearly 5 points yesterday, dropped back 1 3-4 on profit-taking.

Dupont soared over 9 points to a new high at 324 7-8 on expectations that special distributions received on its large General Motors would be passed on to Dupont stockholders. Special stre gth also developed in air reduction, Brooklyn Edison, Brooklyn Union Gas, Commercial Solvents B, Mathieson Alkali and South Porto Rican Sugar.

On the other hand, American Linseed preferred broke over 4 points to a new low, and weakness cropped out in Coca Cola, Case Threshing, Continental Can and Gimbel Bros.

Rails held fairly steady although Chesapeake & Ohio, "Nickel Plate" common and some of the other recent strong spots yielded moderately on realizing.

Time money was on a flat 5 per cent. basis as against 4 7-8 to 5 earlier in the week. Prime mercantile paper held steady at 4 1-2 per cent.

Wheat prices advanced fractionally. Cotton closed 8 to 13 points net lower.

Coffee broke 28 to 40 points.

Foreign exchanges held fairly steady with demand sterling quoted around $4.84 11-16 and French francs around 2.80 cents.

TAFTVILLE

Mr. and Mrs. James Davies and daughter, Betty, of New Bedford, Mass., were week end guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Weller, Jr., and family of Lisbon.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Paquin and son, Edmund, and Mrs. Paquin's sister, Miss Mary Bergeron of North B street, have moved to Bristol, Conn., where they are to make their home in the future. Mr. Paquin resigned his position in the mule spinning department of the Ponemah mills last week.

William Pollard of South Second avenue has returned to the village after spending the summer in England and on the Isle of Man.

The Young People's society of Christian Endeavor met Sunday evening in the vestry of the Taftville Congregational church, with Miss Mary Greenhalgh as leader.

A meeting of the members of Court Wequonnoc, No. 88, Foresters of America was held Thursday evening in the courtrooms in Parish hall. A number of business matters came up for consideration and were disposed of.

The members of Castle Perilous, No. 88, K. O. K. A., met Friday evening in the vestry of the Taftville Congregational church. Albert Airey, Jr., presided as king. It was announced that the knights and esquires were to hold a round table council meeting this week. Some of the matters that are to come up for discussion are the county palatine, and the degree of yeoman which is to be conferred upon a candidate at the local castle next month.

Mr. and Mrs. John W. Seddon have arrived at their home on South B street after spending the summer in London, England, the guests of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Gottlieb Stranz. The return trip was made on the steamship Carmania. While abroad, Mr. and Mrs. Seddon accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Stranz on a motor trip through the United Kingdom. Mr. Stranz is vice-president of the Kraft Cheese Co., in charge of import and export business throughout Europe and northern Africa.

Snyeg, one of the Samoyede dogs owned by the Rurik Kennels, went to best of the breed at the Eastern States exposition dog show at Springfield, Saturday. Before this he had won two blue ribbons in the ring and had been declared winners dogs. The Samoyede club bronze medal went to him as the best male in the class. Feodorovna, a young female bred at the kennels, which attracted attention at the New London show because of her winning over veteran bitches, also had two blue ribbons and a special to her credit, and she obtained the Samoyede club's bronze medal for the best female, as well as taking winners bitches.

Garry-Robillard

Hormidas J. Garry of Hunters avenue and Miss Ida Marie Robillard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Robillard of South B street were quietly married Monday morning at 8:30 o'clock at Sacred Heart church by the pastor, Rev. U. O. Bellerose. The bride was charmingly gowned in blue velvet with hat to match. Following the ceremony there was a wedding breakfast at the home of the bride's parents on South B street, following which the newly married couple left on a Canadian tour. The groom is proprietor of the Sanitary Barber shop on Hunters avenue. His bride has been employed as clerk in a Norwich store. Upon their return to town they are to make their home on South B street.

Miss Louie Unsworth of Mystic was a week end visitor at the home of Miss Elizabeth Newton of North A street.

Alfred Senecal of South B street left Tuesday to spend a week in Quebec, Canada.

Miss Mary Martin of South Fourth avenue has returned from a few days' stay in Providence, R. I.

MOWEEN CAMP SUED FOR AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENT

Suit for $1,300 damages has been brought in the superior court by the Dolly Madison Baking corporation of Springfield, Mass., against Moween Camp, Inc., of New York, which operates a camp at Yantic.

The suit is because of an automobile accident on Aug. 26, 1926 on West Town street in Norwich, when it is claimed an automobile of the plaintiff company was forced off the road and into a stonewall on the right by an automobile of the defendant company. Both machines were proceeding in the same direction at the time. As a result of the damage which the bakery company machine sustained, it is claimed that it greatly depreciated in value and its use was lost to the bakery company for a long time, this being worth $15 a day.

The suit is returnable in October.

SMILE, FAITH AND COOPERATION ARE KEYS TO SUCCESS, SAYS SPEAKER

Working with a smile, with faith and with co-operation will be the keys to success, said Clarence T. Hubbard, assistant secretary of the Automobile Insurance company of Hartford, when he addressed the September membership meeting of the Chamber of Commerce Tuesday evening at the Wauregan hotel upon the topic, Selling Your Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Hubbard, who is past president of the Hartford Advertising club and well known contributor to many magazines, made his address particularly one shining as he emphasized the points in his talk in a unique manner by bits of sleight of hand.

The meeting was the first of the fall season for the Chamber of Commerce, which it opened most auspiciously, as there was an attendance for supper at 6.15 of over 100 men and women and a spirit of enthusiasm prevailed. Swahn's orchestra furnished a spirited musical programme during the supper hour and Edward A. Rich was the song leader.

Before the speaking programme opened, President James L. Case called upon Rev. Dr. D. A. Pitt, who was a guest, to offer prayer for blessing upon Norwich under divine leadership during the coming year.

President Case welcomed the representative body of citizens at the meeting and called upon Secretary John J. O'Rourke, who spoke of the formation of the Civic Council, consisting of representatives of local organizations to meet and discuss matters on the welfare of the community. Mr. O'Rourke also spoke in appreciation of the offer by the Misses Lucas to give to the town a tract of eight acres at Trading Cove for a town forest.

He also mentioned the matter of storm guards on the two greeneville bridges and the Preston bridge which citizens have petitioned for to be brought up at the annual town meeting.

Membership Campaign.

President Case asked the co-operation of the members in the membership campaign which will take place in the week of Oct. 11 with the goal of doubling the membership towards work of the Chamber of Commerce.

Address by Mr. Hubbard.

He introduced Mr. Hubbard as the speaker of the evening upon "Selling the Chamber of Commerce to the Citizens of Norwich"

The further promotion of Norwich Chamber of Commerce work, dependent on increased membership, was urged by the speaker in support of the "Forward New England" movement. He outlined some of the recent activities of the six New England states in their endeavor to coordinate and "energize" this traditional section of the country.

"This is no time to contrast New England conditions with those of Florida," stated the speaker. "We are indeed sorry for the very unfortunate losses occurring in what is probably the greatest advertised state, for those losses not only affect their immediate prosperity but our own as well. In fact I think New England and Connecticut particularly further forwarded herself in the very constructive manner in which she responded to help Florida out in her calamity.

"However, it is appropriate and I think ethical to call attention to the fact at this time, not in any spirit of boasting, but simply in review, that New England has been fortunate to be so immune from the visits of such disasters as Florida has for the second time gone through. If for no other reason we should be grateful to this section of our country for such good fortune we have had so far, and as we are reported to be out of grave danger of earthquake, tornado and volcanic possibilities, we should allow that fact to encourage us in our work individually, but not as any platform for advertising braggadocio or personal gloating. The fact that we have it so easy in New England is responsible for our rather smug content. Florida, California, Texas and those states who have cities which have been devastated by tornadoes, earthquakes and floods have in the challenge to their residents developed a building spirit. They have had the experience of being forced to rebuild and reconstruct and make themselves more secure. Thousands of individuals have had to face empty bank accounts, lost property and interrupted enterprises—to build all over again. They do and immediately. We here in New England seldom interfered with by climatic disaster are somewhat resting on our oars and enjoying a little too independently the prosperity made possible by pioneer forefathers who fought their way through the hardest obstacles and who started the first 'home office' of America right here in New England.

To Forward New England

"One of the most impressive facts to me in the continued movement of the New England states to further assert and advertise themselves and their advantages is found in the repeated admissions on the part of all of these who are shouldering this responsibility that they have no intentions or desires of copying the methods of community boosting or advertising as used by some of the other rapid-growing territories in the south, the west and the southwest. Rather there is a cry and a continued note of warning, if you please, to forward New England only on a sound and even conservative basis.

"This tone must be carried through if we expect to permanently anchor our further progress. New England conservatism must not entirely withdraw and be replaced by aggressiveness, but should rather step back a few rows at this time and permit well controlled aggressive attempt to take place or else the efforts of the other sections of the country will leave us as 'runners-up.'

"Recently upon a train to Providence I watched with particular study the various mills and factories along the route to see what signs they had to announce their business. I passed many of these mills and factories and observed no signs whatever to inform the thousands of train passengers and motorists from other states who go by and who could carry away a favorable impression of the products manufactured in this center. During that whole ride I saw only one sign and that was on a large mill in Rhode Island and one which I considered very poor New England advertising. It consisted of two words in very large letters—'FOR SALE'. Norwich manufacturers should not hesitate to announce their products by attractive yet dignified signs.

"With these thoughts in mind every one of us should constantly take advantage of this wonderful fact and get behind the New England movement and help put in across. We should write more proportionate insurance business in Connecticut than in any other state in the Union. In our ambitions and cooperative effort to bring this about, let us consider some of the present facts, as cold as they are.

"Do you realize that New England has been losing some of its industries and some of its assets during the past few years, and entirely because other sections of the country have shown greater initiative. The shoe business has crept away from us and gone south, where the cotton industry has also migrated. The clock industry has moved west and likewise the small tools business. The automobile industry had its start in New England, and for that matter right in Hartford, where Hiram Percy Maxim practically held the situation in his palm at one time so to speak. Yet where is the automobile industry today.

"Where is most of the radio equipment manufactured today? Where does most of our clothing come from, and most essential where does the New England food come from? True, we still contribute many things to the world, and are by no means hopeless back-numbers, but we have lost many prosperous opportunities.

Boost New England Attractions.

"This is now fully realized, and very encouraging attempts are being made to put New England on its feet. The Boston Chamber of Commerce is backing the Forward New England movement, which received its impetus from the convention conducted by the Hartford advertising club. A number of industrial engineers are now surveying New England's possibilities. A co-operative advertising campaign is being actively planned, wherein New England will be advertised in the Saturday Evening Post and other publications. There is no reason why we cannot in our own individual way make New England as famous as California or Florida. Note I say in our own individual way, as we would not want to imitate these states. Will Rogers says he doesn't know whether Florida is an ad or an asset, while you all know the California will all its recognition is after all a land of the lemon, the prune and the nut.'

Attract Prosperous People.

"You must have the intelligence to know that with all of your wonderful facilities you cannot sell when people haven't money with which to buy. Nothing succeeds like success and prosperous people are the best prospects. There are your undeveloped sales opportunities in New England and in Norwich. Lend your help and assistance to back up what New England is doing and what Connecticut is trying to do, not only in keeping it as a historical community, but as a prosperous growing and recognized section of the country. We have everything here to be thankful for—climate, even though we do make fun of it—it is far better working climate than other states—we have financial facilities, close proximity to the Atlantic Ocean, short-haul railway systems, beautiful residential sections, cities located within easy motoring distance, and a variety of industrial production. Add this to our insurance activities and the millions they bring into the state and to New England, and there is much to be genuinely grateful for.

Of the many New England Chambers of Commerce I have been before I have not observed any so definitely organized as your own in the way of knowing just what you are aiming for as indicated in the progress for 1926. This should make it very easy to further build the chamber's membership, which should embrace every professional and business man in the city of desirable qualifications. In these busy days with so many different organizations claiming the financial and moral support of the business men of today, it is necessary in order to gain new interest to have something definite to offer. This you have done. Many Chamber of Commerce memberships are solicited and the people who are approached have no idea what a Chamber of Commerce does or is supposed to do. In your advertising you have made it very definite, and I am most enthusiastic over your slogan—'The World Uses What Norwich Produces.'

"Your 1926 programme, including interest in the aviation field, in building code revision, street improvement, transportation matters, community chest, etc., is a big assignment, and no doubt 1927 will include further attention to these subjects along with many more. I hope that you will include as a definite item Co-operation with the Forward New England movement. I also hope that a Better Business Bureau may be considered and perhaps an Advertising club. However, my purpose here tonight is not to suggest ways and means to expand your platform of activities, as it seems in this direction to be far ahead of many other Connecticut chambers, but rather to present facts concerning New England and Connecticut which will prompt you men to go out and build up a bigger and stronger membership.

Selling New England.

"For the first and most important accomplishment which New England must put across is to sell New England to New Englanders. This must commence with each local community. Our Connecticut cities have not in every instance fully sold themselves to their own communities. That is one of the big jobs the Norwich Chamber of Commerce must tackle—selling Norwich to the people in Norwich as well as to those outside.

"If you do not publish a booklet descriptive of the city of Norwich I would urge that it be done and in a high grade, dignified manner. In the survey made of the way in which New England cities are advertising, it was reported, I am most sorry to say, that Connecticut was forced down on the list with only two cities issuing booklets concerning their communities and those two are not Norwich or Hartford. The Automobile club of Hartford is now working on a high grade booklet of credit to the city.

Pockets Are Valuable.

"Let me give you a concrete instance of why this is so important. A manufacturer sent letters of inquiry around the country as to a possible location for his plant. He wrote to the various Chambers of Commerce asking them to send booklets and particulars. His was a desirable plant. The replies from New England and particularly Connecticut were shameful. Hardly any city had a booklet of any kind—some sent post cards and a few very formal letters and a large number never answered at all. Contrast this with the west and south, where cities nowhere near the population of Norwich responded with elaborately illustrated, three-color booklets, followed up by special delivery letters and telegrams. They offered to pay the expenses of the manufacturer to visit their locality. They agreed to send a representative to New York city and meet him. They agreed to build his factory for him and help sell stock in order to get it started. Of course, Connecticut and New England have too many advantages to be immediately disrupted by such business promotion methods far superior than ours, but if continued over a reasonable length of time they will make their inroads felt for advertising and selling is a very powerful force and you yourselves have seen many inferior products made nationally famous through powerful selling and advertising campaigns. Knowing this we can readily realize the further opportunities before us in advertising New England, whose products are unquestionable and superior, and if linked with proper advertising and selling of a sound and dignified nature can further strengthen and preserve this section of the country. All of this must begin locally and your meeting tonight is an effort in just that direction."

AMENDED COMPLAINT HOLDS IN SUIT FOR INSURANCE

In the suit of Melville Smith of New London against Automobile Insurance Co. of Hartford over a claim for $10,000 as insurance upon the Steamer Atlantic in a voyage from Charleston, S. C., to Bridgeport in June, 1925, Judge Newell Jennings of the superior court handed down a decision Tuesday at New London, which denies the motion of the defendant company's attorney to strike amended complaint from files and motion addressed to complaint.

In his memorandum Judge Jennings says:

1. Paragraph one of the motion is disposed of by the entry of record "Filed by leave of court." It is denied.

2. Paragraph two of the motion is denied as not being so objectionable as to be vulnerable on a motion to expunge.

3. With reference to paragraph three of the motion, the memorandum filed by Judge Avery on January 27, 1926, reads in part as follows:

"If the plaintiff proves that the vessel was insured, was seaworthy at the beginning of the voyage, and was lost during the voyage, the presumption then arises that the loss was caused by a 'peril of the sea.'

Since the complaint as amended conforms to that requirement, the motion might be denied without further comment. Taking up the details of which more specific statement is desired, however, (a), (c) and (d) are disposed of by the claim of the plaintiff that he is suing on a binder and not on a policy, (b) has already been complied with, (f) is disposed of by the memorandum referred to and (g) and (h) are matters of defense, to be raised by answer.

The motion is denied.

FINDS NO CAUSE OF ACTION IN COMPLAINT

In sustaining a demurrer in the suit of Frank J. Drozd against Andrew J. Majesky, both of New London, Judge Newell Jennings of the superior court handed down the following memorandum of decision on Tuesday:

"The defendant is in possession of certain property in New London and claims under a lease of the premises dated July 1, 1926 from the owners.

"The plaintiff claims damages of $10,000 from the defendant and bases his claim on the possession (by assignment) of a lease of the same premises from the same owners dated Sept. 1, 1923. In paragraph 2 of his complaint the plaintiff sets up the usual covenant for quiet enjoyment quoted verbatim, from the lease. From a reading of the whole complaint, it is clear that the plaintiff bases his claim on a breach of this covenant. This covenant was entered into between the plaintiff and the owners of the property—not between the plaintiff and the defendant.

"The entire complaint is concerned with the relations of the plaintiff and the owners up to the last paragraph. This alleges the hiring of the premises by the defendant. Under the complaint as drawn and without any demand for possession, it sets up no cause of action against the defendant. The demurrer is sustained."

The property involved is the store at 362 Main street and the bakery at 358 Main street, New London, with a garage in the rear of the bakery.

DIVORCE SUITS FOR CRUELTY AND DESERTION

Two divorce suits have been brought in the superior court in which the writs were filed Tuesday at the office of the clerk of the court in this city.

Amy Tarbox Hackim of Norwich seeks divorce from Joseph Hackim of Wallingford, whom she married Sept. 20, 1920. She alleges desertion on May 24, 1922.

Adele Haddad Abraham of Norwich seeks divorce from Amos Abraham, also of Norwich. She alleges intolerable cruelty since Aug. 22, 1917, the date of their marriage, and she asks custody of three minor children.

The first named suit is returnable in October and the other in November.

SELLER OF REVOLVER HELD FOR HIGH COURT

Steve Stavensky, Colchester, gasoline station proprietor, was bound over to the next term of the criminal superior court under bonds of $300 charged with selling firearms without a permit, when presented before Justice of the Peace Frederick Baker of the Colchester court Monday afternoon following his arrest by the state police in the investigation of the shooting of Sophie Skut, eight-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Skut of Colchester, Sunday afternoon.

The girl, who was shot by the accidental firing of a supposedly unloaded revolver in the hands of 13-year-old Joseph Rutka, remained in a critical condition at the St. Joseph's hospital at Willimantic Tuesday with a bullet in her brain and her condition unchanged. Her chances of recovery are considered remote.

Following the shooting, which occurred in the Skut barn, the state police at Groton were notified and in an investigation found that Stavensky sold the revolver to the Rutka boy Sunday morning for $1.45. The boy went to the barn with several other children where Mrs. Skut was milking cows and carelessly pulling the trigger of the revolver twice the boy playfully pointed it at the Skut girl and the weapon discharged, the bullet passing through the girl's eye.

NORWICH SALESMAN ROBBED OF $30,000 IN JEWELRY

According to an Associated Press despatch from Boston, Alfred Haring of No. 434 Laurel Hill avenue, this city, was robbed of jewelry valued at $30,000 in the Hub city Monday. The robbery was disclosed by the Boston police when they broadcast a description of the rings, bracelets, brooches and diamonds stolen from Mr. Haring. An effort was made Tuesday evening to get in touch with Mr. Haring at his home on Laurel Hill avenue by telephone, but there was no one at his home.

The stolen jewelry consists of samples that were being shown to Boston stores by Mr. Haring, who is employed as a salesman for manufacturing jewelers of Newark, N. J. Two heavy sample cases were being carried from one jewelry house to another by William Ford of Boston, a carrier employed by Mr. Haring. He set down one of the cases outside the West street entrance to a store while he carried the other inside. When he (Ford) returned a moment later the first case had vanished.

The theft was not made known until an all night search had been made by the Boston bureau of criminal investigation. It was said that the retail value of the stolen jewelry would run far in excess of the announced loss.

CONVENTION TO NAME SHERIFF FOR COUNTY

The Republican county convention for the nomination of a candidate for sheriff has been called by the convention committee for Saturday, Oct. 2, in this city. The convention will be called to order at noon time at the county court house, and that the incumbent Sheriff Sidney A. Brown of this city will be renominated by acclamation is a foregone conclusion. Sheriff Brown was first regularly elected in 1906, but had served as sheriff since February 2, 1905, filling by appointment the unexpired term of Sheriff George O. Jackson who died in office.

He has served continuously since that time, each year with renewed success and has been re-elected each time with increased pluralities.

WILL RESIGN PASTORATE AT NEW LONDON CHURCH

Rev. Joseph A. Elder announced to his congregation at the Huntington Street Baptist church in New London Sunday that he has decided to terminate his pastorate there on June 1, 1927. He came to New London in 1899 from New Haven where he had been pastor of Hope Baptist church for six years.

In connection with the announcement of his intended resignation he stated that he had been considering taking this step since the death of his wife two months ago. He has two sons, Thomas Potter Elder, who is studying in Yale art school, and Freeman Elder, a student at Wharton School of Business Administration, University of Pennsylvania.

SENATOR BINGHAM'S COUSIN LOSES OLD VIOLIN

An old violin valued highly for its tone and associations, was lost Tuesday by Edward Idler, cousin of United States Senator Hiram Bingham and member of the Lenox String quartet of New York city, on the road between the senator's summer home and Branford, according to an Associated Press dispatch. Mr. Idler had started to drive to New York with the instrument beside him and missed it at Branford. Search and inquiry was made for miles but the violin was not found.

St. Vincent's Guild Service.

Acolytes from many parishes will be in attendance at Christ Episcopal church this (Wednesday) evening at 7.30 for the special St. Vincent's guild service with choral vespers and procession of the guilds. There will be special music and a preacher from out of town.

ORCHARD RAIDER WAS FINED IN CITY COURT

A Fountain street youth, charged with trespass was fined $1 and costs, a total of $10.90 in the city court Tuesday morning by Judge Arthur F. Libby. The boy got into trouble over the theft of peaches from the orchard at No. 47 Lake street, owned by Nicholas Delmen. The orchard has been raided by boys several times.

Numerous complaints have been received from late orchard owners that boys have been stealing their fruit, breaking down branches and making a general nuisance. Boys caught stealing fruit will be presented in court where they will probably be given good sized fines hereafter.

Attended Episcopal Conference

Rev. T. H. M. Ockford of Poquetanuck was at the Choate school in Wallingford, last week to attend the conference of the clergy of the Episcopal diocese of Connecticut.

NORWICH TOWN

At the meeting of the Rural association held Wednesday evening, Sept. 26, it was reported that the flag of the association which is displayed from the flag pole at the top of Meeting House Rocks, on holidays, such as Memorial day, Fourth of July and Armistice day was badly worn. It was voted that the association purchase a new flag. Later an interested member very generously offered to present the new flag to the association and this has been done. The flag is cared for by troop No. 20, Boy Scouts of Norwich Town, which has assumed the patriotic responsibility of properly caring for the flag and displaying it on legal holidays.

John 4: 24, "God is a Spirit; and they that worship Him, must worship Him in spirit and in truth;" at the Sunday morning worship at one of the Norwich Town churches this was the text used. Parishioners at the First Congregational church listened to a fine sermon from this text by the pastor, Rev. Gurdon P. Bailey, and also the members of the Methodist church, as Rev. Albert H. Wilson, the pastor, preached from the same text. It was without knowledge of either clergyman, that the other chose the same lines of Scripture for the morning service. Mrs William Weaver was leader of the Christian endeavor service at the Methodist church, Sunday evening. The topic assigned was What Work Shall We Plan For This Year? I Corinthians 3: 6-15.

At the Congregational Y. P. S. C. E. Sunday evening the leader was Miss Jessie E. Hyde, using the above topic.

Theodore Sterry has returned to Middletown following a brief visit to his home in Norwich Town. Mr. Sterry is filling an engagement as violinist in a six-piece orchestra in one of the theatres here, having begun playing a week ago Sunday.

Dr. Lloyd Case who recently visited here for two weeks, is booked to sail today (Wednesday) from San Francisco, for his home in Honolulu. This is following a two months' trip through several of the states, in the interest of the government, for which he is assistant territorial veterinarian of Honolulu.

Sirens and Horns of Ironwood, Mich., Sounded When the Discovery Was Announced—The Men Had Subsisted on Birchbark Tea Made in Lunch Buckets Over the Fire of Miners' Lamps—The Men Were Fed and Given a Few Hours' Rest Preparatory to Bringing Them to the Surface.

IRONWOOD, Mich., Sept. 29.—(AP)—Forty three imprisoned and starved miners were found "alive and well" today half a mile from the earth's surface in the A. Pabst iron mine, where they had been imprisoned five days.

A plea for light greeted rescue workers who crossed a shaky 30 foot "cat walk" and penetrated the prison of the men. The miners said they had subsisted on birchbark tea which they made in their lunch buckets over the fire of their miners lamps.

Sirens and horns of the town sounded the hopeful note which thousands waited for since noon last Friday, when a cage dropped in a shaft, loosening tons of rocks and earth, killing three men outright and trapping the 43 miners on the eighth level of the mine almost a half mile from the surface.

Shortly before noon miners and rescue workers from Chicago worked their way up to the eighth level from another level almost a mile from the earth's surface, and found ladders extending to the eighth level in fair condition. They threw rails and power line across a 30 foot chasm, and with the daring of tight rope walkers skipped across to the hope of imprisoned men to be greeted by Tom Trewartha, a sturdy mine boss who reported all hands well.

Rescue workers tapped a signal on an iron pipe shortly before they reached the men, receiving a signal reply.

George Hawes, assistant director of safety of the Pullman company of Chicago, who formerly worked here and who volunteered for rescue work was the first across the "cat walk," and was greeted by Trewartha, who grasped his mind.

"How are you?" Hawes asked.

"We are all O. K. forty three men all right. We lived on tea made from birchbark."

Hawes shouted the news to his companions who hurried to an outer shaft and reported the men "alive and well."

Shortly thereafter food and carbide lights were en route to the men, while preparations on the surface were made to remove them to hospitals for treatment and to relieve them to their damp and soggy clothing.

Soup, coffee, cigarettes, chewing tobacco and fuel for their lamps comprised the first load of relief supplies.

With Hawes, going up the shaft was Chief Engineer Oscar Olson of the Oliver company and Captain Gust Erickson, in charge of the Pabst mine. It was Erickson who had superintended the construction of two tunnels around the shaft obstruction and who at considerable risk bridged the shaft from the twentieth level after it had been reached by two days of hard work across hundreds of feet of open shaft to the shaft ladders, some of which remained in good condition. He left the mine shortly before the accident last Friday.

When the party going up passed the thirteenth level they signalled with eight raps to the men on the eighth level, who replied. When the party reached the eighth level, Hawes was unknown to any miners there.

Capt. Erickson rushed down the shaft and across the bridge to the surface with the glad news that the men were safe and gave instructions concerning their needs.

The men requested carbide for their lamps, as the paraffin burning lamps they had taken off the electric train cars had not given the sharp illumination to which they were accustomed from their miners' lamps.

The 43 men had descended the shaft to the twentieth level while they were imprisoned, but as there was no tunnel connecting the 20th and 21st levels, they were unable to come further down and then across horizontal passage to the other shafts of the mine.

The miners who climbed in the dark down 1,200 feet of the shaft from the eighth to the twentieth levels, were unable to reach the 20th level because the shaft was wrecked in that place and there was no way of stepping over the 30 feet from the ladder on one side to the opening of the other.

In climbing up it was necessary at one place to put a few rails across the obstruction in the shaft and part of the way the rescuing trio crossed the obstruction on rails and then crossed back to the shaft ladders.

About a dozen ladders were lowered in the cage immediately, and hundreds of feet of heavy planks were sent down also. The ladders replaced makeshifts in the shaft and the planks were used to improve the bridge and to put up protecting.

Dr. William MacCant, company physician, went down with the first detail of rescue workers and supplies which were carried in canvass sacks slung over their shoulders, to enable them to climb down the ladders more easily the soup and coffee was carried in vacuum bottles.

The men were fed late today and were given a few hours to rest, while the safety work was being done in the lower part of the shaft and the ladders repaired. They planned to come to the surface tonight.

The rescue car of the United States bureau of mines is almost touching the shaft house of the eighth shaft, from which the men will emerge.

BUSINESS CONDITIONS IN NEW ENGLAND IMPROVING

BOSTON, Sept. 29.—(AP)—Business conditions in New England have improved since summer, and the current rate of industrial activity is almost equal to the average maintained during the past few years, according to the monthly review of industrial and financial conditions by the Federal Reserve bank of Boston.

"The New England business activity index for August was higher than in July, but below that for August last year, the review sets forth: "New England cotton mills consumed more cotton during August than in July, the first month in which an increase has been reported since last March. The rate of activity, however, is still less than a year ago.

"Activity in New England woolen mills has been improving since May, and operations have been on a higher scale than either one or two years ago. Shoe factories have increased their scale of operations considerably since spring in anticipation of the usual heavy seasonal shipments, and current output is slightly larger than a year ago.

"Distribution of merchandise through New England retail stores has been unusually large in the past two months for this season of the year. Sales during August were the largest on record for the month, with one exception.

SINCLAIR COMMON STOCK AT LOW LEVEL FOR YEAR

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—(AP)—Common stock of the Sinclair Consolidated Oil corporation was hammered down to a new low level for the year at $13.50 a share on the New York stock exchange today on selling inspired by the decision of the United States circuit court of appeals at St. Louis, reversing the decision of the lower court in upholding the lease on the Teapot Dome oil reserves. The stock rallied to 13 1-4 at the close, as against a high of 24 7-8 earlier in the year.

The Sinclair corporation, in a statement tonight, declared the circuit court decision can have little effect upon that company, stating that the Sinclair company is not a principal in the case, its interest being due merely to the ownership of about 25 per cent of the stock of the Mammoth Oil company, which controls the lease."

RESIGNS JUDGESHIP OF DANBURY CITY COURT

DANBURY, Sept. 29—(AP)—J. Moss Ives, for nine years judge of the city court of Danbury, has resigned, it became known today, when acceptance of his resignation was received from Governor John H. Trumbull. Judge Ives gave as his reason for withdrawing from the court, of which he has been the head since 1917, the fact that the demands of the office have interfered greatly with his private practice, and thus have impaired his income.

The announcement of Judge Ives resignation was received with surprise here. The deputy judge is Samuel A. Davis, assistant clerk of the superior court who is expected to be appointed judge.

Judge Ives frequently has served as acting judge of the common pleas court.

MIDDLETOWN BICYCLIST KILLED IN COLLISION

MIDDLETOWN, Sept. 29.—(AP)—Andrew Irilk, 14, of 18 South street, was almost instantly killed today when the bicycle upon which he was riding, collided with an automobile truck at Union and Sumner streets.

The boy was coasting down the Union street hill and had no chain on his bicycle. His machine crashed into the fender of the truck owned by the United Motor Line company of Waterbury and operated by James Carroll, of 1125 Albany avenue, Hartford. The boy was thrown into the air and landed on his head, his skull being fractured. He died before medical aid could reach him.

Carroll was held by the police on a technical charge of manslaughter pending an investigation by the coroner. It was said that the truck had stopped to allow a trolley car to pass and had just started up when the boy's bicycle crashed into it.

BOOTLEGGING CASE MAY INVOLVE SOCIETY PEOPLE

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—(AP)—Persons whose names appear most frequently in society columns may be called as witnesses when Henry Finlay, Fifth avenue dealer in art prints, is called before the grand jury to answer charges of bootlegging.

Finlay was arrested late today and taken before United States Attorney Buckner, charged with illegal sale of intoxicants. A raid on his rooms is said to have yielded lists of patrons, including many prominent business men, lawyers, bankers and society women. Among the documents were price lists and directions for mixing various drinks.

That snappy slogans are in vogue in the bottleg trade was indicated by one reading: "Booth's gin has always been a favorite. That is why some gentlemen prefer it to — even blondes."

GERRY TALKS OF "SOUP KITCHENS" IN NEW ENGLAND

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Sept. 29.—(AP)—The prediction of "soup kitchens" in New England cities to feed factory workers this winter, and severe criticism of the republican campaign issue of nation-wide prosperity, were made in a statement issued here today by U. S. Senator P. G. Gerry, national chairman of the democratic senatorial campaign committee.

The statement declared that "it is significant that President Coolidge is now very anxious to be regarded as outside the campaign. Several days ago Senator Lawrence C. Phipps, national chairman of the republican senatorial campaign committee, announced that 'the sole issue' this year was whether the electors want to sustain President Coolidge or not.

BANANA PLANTATIONS DAMAGE BY CYCLONE

BUENAVENTURE, Colombia, Sept. 29—(AP)—Telegraphic advices received here state that great destruction was caused at Santa Marta to banana plantations by a cyclone. The United Fruit company plantations was reported to have suffered heavily.

The town of Cienaga suffered damage from floods caused by the storm.

Trial of Daugherty and Miller to Proceed

Dismissal Motions Denied After Arguments by Counsel Behind Closed Doors.

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.— (AP) —The conspiracy trial of Harry M. Daugherty and Thomas W. Miller, halted to permit Judge Mack to listen behind closed doors to lengthy arguments of defense counsel for dismissal, will resume tomorrow. The dismissal motions were denied late today and announcement was made that Judge Mack had decided the case must go on.

The scene of the trial was transferred to the judge's chambers in the Woolworth building from open court as soon as United States Attorney Buckner rested his case yesterday afternoon. The jury was sent home, the defendants left, and only judge and counsel were permitted to attend the private hearing.

Although this procedure was said by attorneys and court attaches to be unusual it was said not to be unprecedented. No reason was officially given for not hearing the motions in open court.

The special hearing adjourned after a two hour session yesterday and resumed at 9 o'clock today. When the jury was ready to file into the box at 11:30 o'clock the clerk announced that the morning session had been adjourned. At 2 o'clock judge and lawyers were still closeted in chambers and again the jury was sent home.

In the Woolworth building reports were numerous and varied as to what was going on in Judge Mack's room but the only official announcement was made about 4:30 o'clock when the meeting at last broke up.

At that time Buckner told newspaper men the court had given him permission to state that the motions for dismissal had been denied and that the regular court session would be resumed tomorrow, when the defense will attempt to break down the evidence presented by the government in the first three weeks of the trial.

He also said that Judge Mack had ruled that George E. Williams, who said she was an actress, were married at Portchester, N. Y., by Justice of the Peace Malcolm Merritt.

Gene Tunney, world's heavyweight champion who conquered Jack Dempsey in the Sesqui-Centennial stadium last Thursday night is expected to visit Hartford within a few days.

The New Hampshire democratic convention went on record in favor of enforcement of all laws, "including the 18th amendment" and held the "republican party, now in full control of enforcement, responsible for failure to enforce the latter."

Stockholders of the New York Central railroad, meeting at Albany, N. Y., yesterday, voted in favor of increasing the capital stock by $100,000,000 and of leasing the Michigan Central, the Big Four and the Chicago, Kalamazoo and Saginaw railways for a 99 nine year term.

Miss Amelia C. Wendereth, of Wilton, executive secretary of the Bridgeport, chapter of the American Red Cross, received notification that she has been commissioned to head a unit of 125 Red Cross relief workers who are to proceed immediately into the stricken area of Florida.

Forty assistant priests of the Roman Catholic diocese of Springfield are transferred in orders issued by Bishop Thomas M. O'Leary, effective Oct. 1. The list is probably the largest ever issued by the present bishop and affects virtually all of the larger parishes of the diocese.

One man was fatally injured in Meriden late last night and another was so badly hurt that his death was expected within a few hours, when their automobile struck a parked car and overturned near the center of Meriden. Edward Patkoske, of 109 Hicks street, Meriden, a passenger in thethe auto, died soon after arrival at the hospital.

NEW DEVELOPMENT IN HALL-MILLS MURDER CASE

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Sept. 29—(AP)—A man who four years ago found the mattress long sought as a valuable clue and believed to have been part of the furnishings of the abandoned Phillips farm house, trysting place of the slain Rev. Edward W. Hall and Mrs. Eleanor Mills, was questioned today by the state's investigators.

The man is Leonard Cray, mulatto of Kingston, who lived near the New Brunswick-Trike-Lincoln highway crossing in September, 1922. He told Inspector Underwood he found two bundles at the crossing about the time the time the crime was committed. One, he said, contained a mattress, two sheets and a woman's coat; the other a blood-stained pair of khaki trousers and man's shirt, and two dresses.

Through the recovery of these clues the investigators hope to locate the actual scene of the murders. Although the bodies were found beneath a crabapple tree some distance from the farm house it was believed the couple had been slain elsewhere.

SUDDEN DEATH OF AN AGED COUPLE IN TORRINGTON

TORRINGTON, Sept. 29.—(AP)— A neighbor who went to call on Francis Devoe, 82, a Civil war veteran, and his wife, 79, this morning failed to gain a response to his knock. He secured a ladder and with his daughter ascended to the second floor of the house to the Devoe apartments. They detected the odor of gas at once and found that a jet in the kitchen was slightly open. Mr. Devoe was found dead in bed and his wife in a dying condition, partly clothed and lying partly on the bed. She died within a few minutes after being found. Medical Examiner H. B. Hanchett after an examination said that Mr. Devoe had evidently died of apoplexy during the night and that his wife on arising this morning and finding him dead had been fatally stricken with a heart attack. The gas, it was said, had nothing to do with the deaths.

INFLOW OF GOLD AND SILVER SLOW IN FRANCE

PARIS, Sept. 29.—(AP)—The inflow of gold and silver to the bank of France in exchange for paper notes thus far has fallen far short of that of 1925 when more than a billion and a half francs in metal was turned over to the bank for paper at par.

The French peopl, however, are bringing in their hoarded gold in increasing numbers both in Paris and the provinces. And officials, encouraged by today's exchanges, are hoping for an impressive increase of the metal reserve or the bank under the new system.

OBITUARY

Dr. William Jewett Tucker

HANOVER, N. H., Sept. 29.—(AP)—Dr. William Jewett Tucker, aged president emeritus of Darthmouth college, died this evening at his home here. He had been ill for a long time but the end came suddenly. Mrs. Tucker was the only relative with him at the time.

Although the college community had been warned several days ago that Dr. Tucker was critically ill and his daughter, Mrs. F. W. Cushwa, had hurried here to be with him, it was later said he had gained slight. Mrs. Cushwa returned to Exeter, where her husband died an instructor at Phillips-Exeter academy.

The news that death had occurred at about 5 o'clock came as a shock to this college town which had known the educator intimately since 1893 when he became president of Dartmouth and for four earlier years while he was a student here.

John De Koven Alsop

MIDDLETOWN, Sept. 29.—(AP)—John De Koven Alsop, 47, of this place, died in the Hartford hospital today, after a long illness. He is survived by two brothers, Joseph W. Alsop, of Avon, public utilities commissioner, and F. J. O. Alsop, of Boston.

Mr. Alsop, who was unmarried, attended Yale and during the World war, served two years, being commissioned as a lieutenant. The funeral will be held Saturday.

Vera Cruz Presents Normal Appearance

Property Losses From Hurricane $200,000 to $250,000—Two Drowned.

VERA CRUZ, Sept. 29.— (AP) —Although considerable property damage was caused in the city of Vera Cruz by a hurricane which swept it yesterday, the city today was returning to normal with little to justify early reports that it had been destroyed or greatly damaged.

A correspondent for the Associated Press who arrived on the first through train from Mexico City in response to reports that the city was severely damaged, found the business and residential sections presenting a normal appearance. Although reports were received that two persons had been drowned in the outlying poorer quarters of the city, the local authorities thus far have been unable to find any dead. No foreigners were injured.

Property losses, which may reach 200,000 or 250,000 pesos, consist of razed wooden buildings along the waterfront, including a yacht club, a group of frame houses and refreshment stands and a wrecked marine coal loading station.

Damage in the business and residential sections consisted chiefly of uprooted trees, roofs torn away and broken windows. The basements and ground floors of some houses were flooded.

Banana and sugarcane plantations were severely damaged over an area extending about 100 miles inland, the torrential rains beating down plants and ruining many crops.

Twenty or 30 small craft, ranging from row boats and gasoline launches to 30-foot schooners, in Vera Cruz harbor were reached and damaged by the pounding on the shore.

United States Vice-Consul Wilbur A. Myers declared today the hurricane was the worst Vera Cruz has known in the past quarter of a century despite the fact no deaths have been verified and no great property damage caused to the business and residential sections.

A rainfall of cloudburst proportions fell for 14 consecutive hours commencing Monday night and flooding the city streets. About 10 o'clock yesterday morning a terrific wind swept over the city from the gulf and swept inland damaging the plantations.

The storm disrupted radio and telegraphic communication with Mexico City, resulting in the reports which flooded the capital that Vera Cruz had been destroyed or greatly damaged. Regularly scheduled railway trains between Vera Cruz and Mexico City maintained service.

MAY TRY NON-STOP FLIGHT FROM PARIS TO NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—(AP)—Paul Remassen, French aviator, who last year failed in an attempt to take off on a non-stop flight from Paris to New York for the Raymond Orteig prize of $25,000 may make another attempt in a new plane the latter part of October, it was revealed today by Mr. Orteig on his arrival from France.

Mr. Orteig accompanied by his wife, had gone to Paris hoping to be the first to greet Rene Fonck and companions at the end of their projected flight from New York to Paris but learning of the S-35's fatal crash on its take-off, they decided to return home.

REVENUE FREIGHT LOADINGS ESTABLISH A NEW RECORD

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—(AP) — Revenue freight loadings announced today by the American Railway association established a new record for all time in the week ending September 18, when the total reached 1,187,011 cars.

This was the 17th week during the current year in which car loadings have exceeded 1,000,000. The figure represented an increase of 35,665 over the previous record, established in the week ending September 4, and was 62,573 over the highest figure for a like period in 1925. It was 155,930 greater than the total for the preceding week, which included Labor day.

SWINE OWNERS ARE GIVEN WARNING OF HOG-CHOLERA

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29—(AP)—Swine owners were warned by the department of agriculture today to be on the alert for outbreaks of hog-cholera, frequent reports of which have been received from scattered areas chiefly in the central west.

Officials say that control of the disease most prevalent in the fall, is somewhat hampered by a temporary shortage of serum for immunizing susceptible animals, and that the situation is more serious because a large proportion of swine have not been immunized owing to the low ebb of cholera in recent years.

NATION MUST DEVELOP ITS WATER RESOURCES

OMAHA, Neb., Sept. 29—(AP)—The United States has reached the stage where it must consider the development of its water resources as a whole and should proceed at once with a great national plan for construction, Herbert Hoover, secretary of commerce, told leaders of the Missouri river project at conferences here today.

"We must prepare," he said, "to enter a national construction program such as we would have now if we had not been compelled to participate in the World war. I believe we would be negligent if we do not undertake this great development."

RECORD TIME FLIGHT FROM NEW YORK TO HAMPTON ROADS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29—(AP)—Lieut. Frank H. Conant, 2nd, navy air pilot, on duty at the bureau of aeronautics claims the record flight time from New York to Hampton Roads in two hours flat from take-off to landing.

He made the trip yesterday in a brand new land type plane, leaving Mitchell Field, Long Island, at 2:35 p. m. and landing at the Hampton Roads air station at 4:35 p. m. on the dot.

The air line distance is 312 miles which gave an average speed of 156 miles an hour.

The Rev. Arthur Truman Randall, rector of St. Andrew's Episcopal church Meriden, aged 72 years, has tendered his resignation as rector, to take effect on January 1, next.

MORRIS' FIRST SPEECH IN HIS CAMPAIGN FOR GOVERNOR

Mr. Morris Declared That Every Republican Administration in the State During the Past Fifteen Years Has Increased Expenses and Taxes Except During the Stringency of War Time Economy—John E. Doughan Was Nominated to Oppose John Q. Tilson, Republican Nominee for Representative.

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 29.—(AP)—John E. Dougham, former New Haven town clerk, was nominated at the third congressional district convention here tonight to oppose John Q. Tilson, republican nominee in the forthcoming campaign.

The convention also adopted a platform favoring the repeal of the 18th amendment, condemning the action of the last congress in denying Connecticut the right to an additional congressman and one more vote in the electoral college, opposing the "unequal quota" in the Johnson immigration act, and favoring a commission to control distribution and prevent profiteering in the event of a strike or lockout.

Charles G. Morris, democratic nominee for governor, delivered his first campaign speech at the convention session, taking up the question of state finances and defending the independent voter.

"Every republican administration in this state during the past 15 years," Mr. Morris said, "has increased expenses as well as taxes except during the stringency of war time economy."

Mr. Morris in his first speech since receiving the party's nomination for governor said:

"The republican party has decreased federal taxes but it has increased them in every state in which has control. That may be played up in a campaign as being economy—but some of us feel like the general who was told that his army had won a victory and who replied: 'Yes, but with a few more victories I shall have no army.' A little more of the same sort of republican economy and we may have no private property left to tax.

"Already about one-sixth of the annual earnings of the people of this country are absorbed by taxes which are expended for maintaining our galaxy of republican governments.

"In the face of this claim for republican economy let us look at the truth as it appears in Connecticut."

"Notice that though the first year of the Baldwin administration, which was spending moneys appropriated by the preceding republican administration, produced no considerable economy; the line of state expenses falls as soon as the democratic party's policies could really take effect. For the same reason they acted as a check on the first year of the Holcomb administration. But every republican administration in this state for 15 years before after and since had increased expenses as well as taxes except during the stringency of war time economy.

"Our republican friends joyfully declare that the state has lived within its income. If any of you have ever had a son or daughter in college who may have had difficulty in living within a fixed income you can see how easy it would have been for your children to live within their allowance had you only furnished income to them on the same generous plan as the taxpayers of Connecticut have furnished to the state.

"Are any of you of German ancestry so that you know the meaning of the name of Hohenzollern? That means the German kaiser's family name and means 'high taxes.' Here are wild mounting taxes in Connecticut but need to ask who is our Hohenzollern?

"From a servant of our most high came another pronouncement the other day besides the one on economy to the effect that he has no use for the independent voter. From the very founding of this nation its made and its freedom have been rooted in the independence of its voters. When we shall have no more independent voters we shall have no more freedom. Two party government where the citizen who is independent of party is not an asset is an anomaly.

"I believe in parties and party government. They are a necessity and may be valuable or harmful according to what they do. The true function of a political party is to propose a governmental programme that shall so appeal to the intelligence of a majority of the voters that they will support it; not to get such a strangle hold on the voter that he dares vote only one party ticket. The independent voter who thinks before he votes and then votes as he thinks is the guardian of the liberty of a free people. The dependent voter who votes without thinking is not only a menace to a free country but he offers himself as a slave to whomsoever may get control, by fair means or foul, of the party name which the dependent voter blindly follows.

"If the independent citizen, who uses all his power and intelligence and is ready to change his party allegiance when it may seem desirable to do so in order to make the state better, is an undesirable citizen, then George Washington and Nathan Hale were undesirable citizens and the Tories of 1776 must be idolized for clinging to the party in power through thick and thin without using their brains. We may pray God to forgive the Tories in 1776 and of today, but as free men who think before we vote some of us cannot be taught to idolize them."

MURDER AND SUICIDE BY A MANUAL TRAINING TEACHER

LEOMINSTER, Mass., Sept. 29.—(AP)—Mrs. Irene Leger was murdered in her home here tonight by Don C. Clark, instructor of manual training in the Fitchburg public schools, who turned the revolver on himself and committed suicide as police were entering the house.

Constantine Leger, husband of the dead woman, called the police when he returned to his home tonight and found Clark there threatening to shoot him if he entered.

Leger told the police the house was dark and his wife met him at the front door, requesting he wait a minute before entering. She closed the door, he said, and locked it. Going to the back of the house he was met by Clark and warned away.

He went to the home of a neighbor and called the police. A patrolman responded and together they returned. Again Clark appeared at the back door and said he would shoot the first person who tried to enter. Two more officers were called and they broke through the door.

Before they [illegible] the report of the house two shots were heard. At the foot of the stairs Mrs. Leger's body was discovered and at the head of the stairs the body of Clark lay with a bullet hole in the head. Mrs. Leger had also been shot through the head.

DR. KING RESIGNS AS SEC'Y OF PENNSYLVANIA

HARRISBURG, Pa., Sept. 29.—(AP)—Resignation of Dr. Clyde L. King, as secretary of the commonwealth, effective October 15, and appointment of E. H. Conarroe, deputy secretary, as his successor were announced today by Governor Pinchot. Dr. King will resume his place on the faculty of the University of Pennsylvania.

ARGENTINE PARLIAMENT VOTES TO STRENGTHEN FLEET

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 29.—(AP)—Parliament tonight authorized the Argentine government to expend 75,000,000 gold pesos to recondition and strengthen the Argentine fleet. The appropriation represented an increase requested by the government.

SENIOR COURT JUDGES TO VISIT WHITE HOUSE TODAY

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—(AP)—Led by Chief Justice Taft, senior circuit judges who have been in conference here, called at the white house today to pay their respects to President Coolidge. Mr. Taft with other justices of the supreme court, will visit the white house Monday upon the opening of the court's fall term.

DETECTIVE CHARGED WITH COMPOUNDING A FELONY

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—(AP)—District Attorney Banton announced today that Noel C. Scaffa, private detective who recovered gems worth $663,000 which were stolen from Mrs. Jessie Woolworth Donohue last year, would be placed on trial next month for compounding a felony.

DEPLORES PRODUCTION OF POOR MOVING PICTURES

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Sept. 29.—(AP)—The power of motion pictures for poor pictures, misrepresenting conditions in America, the National Women's Christian Temperance Union was told here today by Miss Maude Aldrich, director of the motion picture committee of the Union. She declared that many films despict disregard and disrespect for authority, "whichstrikes at the very foundation of all civilization."

The convention authorized the sending of groups to the International Motion Picture conference in Paris, pledged in the interests of "prohibition, peace and purity to secure higher standards of motion picture production in order to preserve American ideals at home and to guarantee a proper interpretation of American life abroad."

MORTGAGE BOND DEALS TO BE INVESTIGATED

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—(AP)—H. [illegible] Hicks, president of the National association of securities commissioners in convention here, today appointed a committee to investigate fraudulent real estate mortgage bond transactions, which he claims caused investors a loss of $50,000,000 last year.

George Gordon Battle, lawyer of this city, cautioned the association that to give discretionary power to prohibit the sale or issue of securities to any state or federal board "would hamper and prevent the sale of honest securities and retard oportunities for material progress." Mr. Battle said he believed the government should be given the fullest power of investigation through fact finding bodies but as little arbitrary power as possible.

SALE OF N. Y. SUN AND N. Y. EVENING TELEGRAM

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—(AP)—The New York Sun and the New York Evening Telegram have been bought from the Metropolitan Museum of Art the residuary legatee of the late Frank A. Munsey, by Williams T. Dewart president of the Munsey companies.

Mr. Dewart tonight said that the transaction included the Mohican properties, a chain of grocery stores and that the amount involved was approximately $13,000,000.

"It was Mr. Munsey's plan to have the associates of his newspapers join with him in the conduct of the business," the Sun will say. "For many months prior to Mr. Munsey's death Dec. 22 of last year, he had been planning the mutualization project."

SENTENCED TO PRISON FOR AN INDECENT ASSAULT

BRIDGEPORT, Sept. 29.—(AP)—Howard Farley, 28, married and father of two children, was convicted by a jury in criminal superior court this afternoon, and was sentenced by Judge L. P. Waldo Marvin to six to ten years in state's prison on a charge of indecent assault. Farley was convicted on complaint of a young girl who had been in this country about a year, coming here from Ireland.

FRIENDS PLANNING BENEFIT FOR FLORIDA LOSERS

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Sept. 29.—Mr. and Mrs. Arthur J. Racicot and children, Miss Regina and Master Arthur, Jr., former local residents, were in the midst of the hurricane which devastated sections of Florida, according to a letter received from Mrs. Racicot. The Racicots reside at Little River, near Miami. They lost all their personal possessions and witnessed a great deal of devastation. A dance is planned here for the benefit of the Racicot family. Mrs. Racicot, until her departure with her husband and children for Florida a short time ago, was a dancing instructor, with classes in this city and Windham

SCRAP AT BALL GAME RESULTS IN COURT FINE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Sept. 29.—Patrick Haggerty, first baseman for the West Ends, was fined $2 and costs in police court this morning for assault on Philip Ruel. The assault occurred in a recent game between the West Ends and the American Thread nine, Ruel being a member of the latter team. In running to first base, Ruel accidentally collided with Haggerty who was in the act of catching a thrown ball. Haggerty landed on his back with considerable force, got to his feet and crossed with a hefty right to Ruel's jaw. Ruel went down for the count and difficulty was experienced in reviving him. Haggerty was arrested shortly afterwards when Ruel's father made a complaint. In court, Haggerty through his attorney, Arthur T. Kelley, entered a plea of nolo. He was fined $2 and cost, the assessment amounting to $17.55, because of the many witnesses who had been summoned.

The case of John McKernan of 53 Chestnut street, Hartford, charged with manslaughter in connection with the death of Joseph H. DANIELSON

TWILIGHT BASEBALL LEAGUE ENDS SEASON WITH FEAST

(Special to the Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Sept. 29—Away from here at 6:30 this evening in three big motor coaches, 90 members of the Danielson Twilight Baseball league, their managers and league officials spent the evening in Providence attending a theatrical attraction and then came out to North Scituate for a dinner party at an inn.

It was a jolly crew that went out on this expedition, arranged as a sort of compensation for a season's steady playing of baseball without pay and with only such revenue for the league as was donated in the hat collections taken at each game. From the fund baseball equipment was purchased to meet the league needs and the residue went to give them the fine party from which they returned during the early hours of this morning.

At the theater in Providence some of the stage folks took occasion to joke some of the league members—by prearrangement, and this, of course, added to the pleasure of the party.

At the dinner at Chop Mist inn the menu was as follows:

Little Neck Cocktails
Sweet Pickles Sliced Tomatoes Olives
Chicken Bouillon en Tasse.
Fish
Broiled Spring Chicken
Mashed Potatoes String Beans
Belgian Pudding
Orange Sherbert Ice Cream
Coffee

At the inn professional entertainers from a Boston bureau added to the zest of the affair and there were speeches by league officials and representatives of teams. It was a great little party.

MRS. CHESTER CODDING DIES VERY SUDDENLY

(Special to the Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Sept. 29—The sudden death of Mrs. Evelyn Irene Codding, 47, wife of Chester Codding, at their home here shortly after 2 o'clock this morning was a shock to the community and news of particular sadness. While Mrs. Codding has not been in the best of health for months, she has been able to attend to her household duties and there was nothing to indicate that the end was so near. Mrs. Codding suffered an attack of acute indigestion during the night and died before a physician could respond to a call for his services. Mrs. Codding was ill only a few minutes. Dr. George M. Burroughs, medical examiner, gave the causes of death as acute indigestion and arterio sclerosis.

Mrs. Codding was born in this town May 7, 1879, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nathan A. Short. She had lived her life here and was one who claimed the admiration of all who came to know her. Particularly sad is her passing at this time to leave in addition to her husband, ten children, the youngest but seven years of age. The children are Mildred Floyd H., Deborah M., Zylpha, Albert, Harold, Priscilla, Marjorie, Ruth and Barbara. Another child, Philip, died during the past summer. Mrs. Codding also leaves her parents, resident on North Main street and a brother, Winthrop Short also of Danielson.

CANDIDATE HALL DENIES MEMBERSHIP IN KLAN

(Special to the Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Sept. 29—A. E. Hall, democratic candidate for first selectman, authorized Wednesday The Bulletin to announce that he is not a member of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, as has been circulated throughout Killingly since he was nominated for the office. This story has tended to injure Mr. Hall's chances of election and is refuted by Mr. Hall as without truth or foundation in fact. "I am not a member of any fraternal order or organization" Mr. Hall said in denying that he holds Klan membership. Mr. Hall is well known as an honest and straightforward man in Killingly. His word that he is not a Klansman will be accepted. Mr. Hall shares with many of his supporters the regret that it had become highly advisable that he deny the insidious story circulated to injure him, but it was so unfair and so untrue that denial was regarded as necessary. Mr. Hall's statement will clear the beclouded political atmosphere very considerably. It will tend to keep the record straight and to let the candidates battle for election on their merits.

Goodyear church was well attended Sunday morning. Rev. Charles A. Downs spoke of "Goodyear All-Weather Christians taking as a text 2 Tim. 4:2. "Be instant in season and out of season.' Irene Cobb as violinist and Joseph Green with a trombone accompanied the organist, May Longbottom. Miss Nancy Whitaker, Mrs. Joseph Green and Gladys Child sang an offertory trio. The pulpit was decorated with beautiful flowers provided and arranged by Mrs. Charles A. Downs.

Senexet Grange No. 40 of South Woodstock has accepted an invitation to neighbor with Killingly grange at its meeting Monday night next. The visiting grange is to furnish the literary program and Killingly will entertain in its customary hospitable style.

All of Danielson will have an opportunity next Sunday afternoon to do something to relieve the distress of those who were made homeless and were injured in the Florida hurricane. In a movement participated in by all the theatres in Connecticut and which has the endorsement of Governor Trumbull the Orpheum theatre is to give a benefit special show Sunday afternoon with a program of pictures. The use of the theatre is donated by the S-A Amusement company, the film exchange co-operating will supply films without charge and the theatre staff will work without compensation. All the money that is taken in for admission will be turned over to the Red Cross to be sent on for Florida aid. Similar benefits will be held throughout the state, Sunday afternoon.

Killingly delegates to the republican 28th senatorial district convention to be held in Putnam today (Thursday) is made up of Henry Logue, Mrs. Ida Assington N. Logue Greig and Grace T. Barstow. Attorney E. L. Darbee of Danielson is a candidate for the nomination.

Ivan Elfgren of East Killingly, a civil engineer with the New York Central lines, has returned to New York after spending some time at his farm place on Bear hill near East Killingly.

October 11 has been set as the date for the republican caucus of Killingly to name candidates for representatives and for such other offices as the caucus is entitled to nominate.

Chief A. P. Woodward of the fire department was a special guest of the Twilight leaguers on their trip to Providence Wednesday evening.

Despatches from Carson City, Nevada, note that a decree of divorce has been entered by the supreme court of that state to Mrs. Belle Stanton McLaughlin from James McLaughlin, wealthy lumber manufacturer of Cumberland R. I., who returned to Danielson last Sunday after going through the terrific hurricane at Miami the week before. Mr. McLaughlin has spent a large part of his time in Danielson the past two or three years.

The Carson City decree ends five years of legal warfare between Mr. and Mrs. McLaughlin and a tangled skein of technical of court battles including two former divorce decrees is included in the compilation of happenings incident to their agreement to disagree. At Carson City Mr. McLaughlin's counsel withdrew at the last minute and the case went by default, a fact that is regarded as marking the end of the long and tedious court actions. Under the decree of the court Mrs. McLaughlin is allowed $500 monthly as alimony and counsel fees of $1,000.

Mrs. McLaughlin was Belle Stanton of Norwich, younger daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Stanton, of East Great Plain.

Nightly services will mark the mission to be opened Sunday at St. James' church by Oblate Fathers of Mary Immaculate.

To date Sidney H. Perry, borough tax collector, has received between $17,000 and $18,000 in tax assessment money. About $10,000 remains to be collected between now and October 15. The payments to date this year are regarded as particularly good.

There was some attendance from Danielson at the Worcester fair Wednesday.

Among other things electors will be asked to pass upon at the business meeting of the town next Monday will be relative to accepting the layout of Union street, between Main and Water streets.

Gasoline is down to 23 cents a gallon at numbers of filling stations in town, this figure including the two cents per gallon state tax.

WOMEN OF MIDDLE AGE

Praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Mrs. Annie Kwinski of 526 1st Avenue, Milwaukee, Wis., writes that she became so weak and run-down that she was not able to do her housework. She saw the name Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the paper and said to her husband, "I will try that medicine and see if it will help me." She says she took six bottles and is feeling much better.

Mrs. Mattie Adams, who lives in Downing Street, Brewton, Ala., writes as follows: "A friend recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and since taking it I feel like a different woman."

With her children grown up, the middle-aged woman finds time to do the things she never had time to do before—read the new books, see the new plays, enjoy her grandchildren, take an active part in church and civic affairs. Far from being pushed aside by the younger set, she finds a full, rich life of her own. That is, if her health is good.

Thousands of women past fifty, say they owe their health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

PUTNAM

JURY FINDS WETHERBEE NOT GUILTY OF CHILD'S MURDER

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Sept. 29.—The jury found Raymond Wetherbee of North Grosvenordale, not guilty of murder at 3 o'clock this afternoon, after 45 minutes' deliberation.

There was a spontaneous outburst of handclapping on the part of the spectators which brought from Judge John R. Booth, who has presided during the trial which began September 15, to clear the room. Not until everyone had been ejected could the clerk poll the jury.

Charles E. Salsbury, of Plainfield, was the foreman. When Miss Bradford, the clerk, put the usual question, "Gentlemen of the jury, do you find the accused guilty or not guilty?" there was a unanimous response from the jurors, "Not guilty."

All of the morning session of the court was taken up with the arguments of Samuel E. Harvey for the defense, and William A. King for the state. After the noon recess, Judge Booth read his charge to the jury. It required 45 minutes so that it was nearly two o'clock when the jury retired. Although none of the jurors is talking, it is believed that only one ballot was taken.

Wetherbee was jointly indicted by a grand jury with Agnes Pytko for murder in the first degree, in connection with the death of her newly born child, on the night of June 29th of this year. The state had to rely almost wholly on the statement of Miss Pytko, and she had told so many conflicting stories previous to the trial of Wetzehbee that it is thought the jury placed but little credence in her testimony.

Wetherbee established a pretty good alibi which proved him at his home in North Grosvenordale during all of the night of June 29th. In addition to this, the testimony of Miss Falkins, head nurse of the Day Kamball hospital is believed to have created a deep impression on the jurors. She went on the stand yesterday morning and said that she had talked to Miss Pytko immediately after she was brought to the hospital. She asked her if she had had a doctor, meaning at the time the child was born, and Miss Pytko had said, no. Then she asked if anyone was with her, her mother or anyone, and she had answered, "My mother is dead! my sister was with me."

Another contributing factor is thought to have been the testimony of Dr. S. B. Overlock, surgeon at the Day Kimball hospital, and Dr. Charles J. Bartlett, of New Haven. Both declared that they did not believe the infant could have been born in the way in which Miss Pytko had described on the stand; also said that it was impossible for the vital cord to be cut as she said that she did it—by holding it in one hand and drawing her thumb n[illegible] three times across it. Both physicians had tried to do this themselves and failed, and both had watched others try to do it without making, as they said, any more than a dent in it.

FLORIDA TAG DAY NETS SUM OF $271 FOR RED CROSS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, Sept. 29.—Miss Jennie Willis, chairman of the local Red Cross committee for the Florida relief fund reports that the sale of tags for that purpose amounted to $271.

Word has reached Putnam from Florida that Dr. and Mrs. Ernest Chapdelaine and Frank Cordier and Dan Weeks, all former Putnam residents and well known here, survived the terrific hurricane that devastated Miami and other portions of the state.

Dr. Chapdelaine is the son of Mayor and Mrs. Victor Chapdelaine. He was located at Miami and word reached his parents that he is safe. The doctor's office was damaged by the deluge, rain coming through the roof of the building and the living apartment was also damaged slightly.

A letter sent by air mail by Frank Cordier was received by his father, stating that he and Dan Weeks were safe. They live at Little River, a suburb of Miami.

John Levesque of Church street this city was before Judge M. H. Geissler of the city court, charged with driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor. He was found guilty and assessed a fine of $100 and costs which he paid.

Thomas Minabil was also before the city court charged with firing a revolver on Pomfret street. He paid a fine of $5 and costs.

The first meeting of the Men's club of the Second Congregational church is to be held in the church parlors Monday, October 5th. Dinner will be served at 6:30 after which there will be a programme and two speakers. Rev. Wilbur S. Deming of Ahmednagar, India, and Rev. J. Edwin Elder of Cope, Colorado. They will talk on "The Church as an Agency of Fellowship." The committee in charge consists of Walter J. Bartlett, R. C. Bosworth, C. D. Sharpe, George A. Rawley and Carl E. Weeks.

Mrs. Janet Gurintz of Woodstock has been entertaining two of her brothers over the Jewish holidays. They drove to Worcester to attend a party, leaving their car parked in the street near where the party was held. When they were ready to drive home the car was gone. The police of Worcester were notified and the car was traced to Oxford where it was found, badly smashed. It is reported that four men were implicated in the theft and that one of them had been arrested.

Charles Lyon, 81, a native of Woodstock, died suddenly from heart disease at his home in Providence. He had not been in his usual health for some time but attended the fairs at Woodstock and Brooklyn where he met many old friends. The funeral service was held Tuesday afternoon at his ome and was attended by many of his relatives and friends from this vicinity. Mr. Lyon was born in East Woodstock, the son of Colonel and Mrs. Elisha Lyon. He married Mary Spaulding of Woodstock whose death occurred several years ago. They had one son, Edward Lyon, who married Ada Clark of Woodstock. Besides the son, Mr. Lyon is survived by a brother, William Lyon, two sisters, Hattie Lyon of Providence and Sarah Lyon Morse, of Massachusetts.

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK

Next week, commencing with Sunday, President Coolidge has designated as Fire Prevention week, a time for giving additional thought to the many opportunities for and the desirability of preventing fires.

When we stop to think whether it is worth while to prevent fires we are confronted with the fact that the loss by fire last year reached a total of nearly $570,000,000, while the loss in human life through fires averages about 20,000 a year. Certainly, whether it is the saving of property or the saving of life, there is sufficient reason for putting forth every possible effort in the cause of prevention. It is so obvious that it ought not to be necessary to urge individuals to such efforts and probably it wouldn't be except for the fact that a realization of the benefits of prevention too often comes immediately after rather than before a serious loss.

When we stop to realize that one dwelling house in this country burns every four minutes and that a large percentage of all fires could have been prevented there is good reason for endeavoring to bring to the attention of the general public, at least once a year, the need of fire prevention. With more than a half billion dollars going up in smoke every year there is involved a needless loss. It is not difficult to realize how certain fires might have been easily prevented. It is by no means a hard job to be careful in the interest of prevention, but experience shows that there must be a careful sending home of the need of exercising care at all times in the interest of protection and prevention.

Whether it is 50 or 75 per cent of the fires that can be prevented it is a goal worth striving for, but before that prevention can be obtained the important work of impressing the real situation upon the people is necessary, an that is the aim of Fire Prevention week. It is never possible to tell just what it accomplishes but there can be no thought of a let up in its support till everyone understands the need of and practices fire prevention.

TEAPOT DOME AGAIN

When the Teapot Dome case was decided by Judge Kennedy and he found that there had been no fraud, and because of that awarded the decision to the Sinclair interests, it was evident that that was not a final disposition of the case. The government was unwilling to let it rest there. Justification for that unwillingness is now found in the decision rendered by the federal circuit court of appeals in which the district court is reversed, and the Teapot Dome leases are ordered cancelled as fraudulent.

Whether this decision will be fought remains to be seen but it seems probable that there will be no disposition to let it rest on the part of either side until it has been passed upon by the supreme court. It is only a short time before the Doheny case will come before the highest court in the land for argument. It is possible that the decision in that case will deal with the points involved in such a manner that it will cover the Teapot Dome case and make an appeal unnecessary. But whether it does or not it is apparent that progress has been made in connection with the famous oil case.

By the decision it is to be noted that former Secretary Denby of the navy is cleared of any wrong doing. The corruption in connection with the lease is pointed out and the responsibility for it is placed upon former Senator A. B. Fall, who was also at one time secretary of the interior.

Concerning the $230,000 in Liberty bonds handed over to Fall by Sinclair the court says, "If a government official, engaged in making contracts for the government, receives pecuniary favors from one with whom such contracts are made, a fraud is committed on the government, and it matters not that the government is subjected to no pecuniary loss or that the contract might have been an advantageous one to it. The entire transaction is tainted with favoritism, collusion and corruption, defeating the proper and lawful functions of the government." That deals with the bonds which it was charged were turned over to Fall as a bribe and supports the contention.

CUTTING DOWN WASTE

Cutting down the wates and making articles more servicable are among the aims of the efforts in behalf of standardization. The folly of having certain hydrants and fire hose with a kind of a thread and other hydrants and fire hose with a different kind of a thread can easily be imagined when it is realized that frequent calls are made by one city upon the fire fighting apparatus of another and unless there is an interchangeability of couplings such solicited aid is bound to be useless.

In a different way it has made apparent that it was unwise to have 66 varieties of vitrified brick, with the result that the number has been reduced to four, while 78 varieties of beds, springs and mattresses have also given way to four under the efforts in behalf of standardization which have been sponsored by the department of commerce.

There have been 51 different lines of manufacture which have responded to the standardization appeal and the wisdom of it can be appreciated when it is shown that there are now 69 different kinds of woven wire fences where there were formerly 552, 12 different sizes of bed blankets where there were formerly 78 and 24 steel barrels and drums where there used to be 66 varieties. The effort upon milk bottles has been quite as marked since there are now but ten kinds where there were 78.

These changes have not been made without a thorough investigation of the respective merits. Government experts have participated and American manufacturers have not been slow to see the merits of abandoning wasteful practices where such could be done to their own benefit and the benefit of the purchasing public. What has been accomplished in 51 lines it can be expected is not being overlooked by other lines of manufacture. The value of the example is being heeded and opportunities are being sought for applying similar waste elimination elsewhere. The idea of stopping waste is certainly not visionary when such a large response is made to the standardization effort.

THE NEW TOWN COMMITTEE

The reorganization of the republican town committee has been awaited with interest. It has been apparent for some time that it was on the way and it is to be hoped that under Chairman George M. Charbonneau that more effective results will be obtained and conditions which have prevailed in the past will be eliminated.

Need for the change was emphasized by the last election, where dissatisfaction among party members resulted in an overwhelming victory for the opposition. It was only a repetition of what had been happening for some time but it was made more emphatic than ever. There was a division within the party ranks which had not been closed, so much so that many were unwilling to run as candidates knowing that election was impossible. It resulted in the defeat of many excellent citizens and good partisans but it was a condition which did not improve through trying to ignore it.

With the new committee and the new chairman in charge of the local affairs of the republican party a stronger and better organization is anticipated. There is evidence that the protest has been heard and that it is being heeded, and it is to be hoped that it will mean an effective, working organization not just before election time but throughout the year.

HIGHWAY DANGERS SHOWN

Attention is directed to the hazards of the highway for those cyclists who are not in control of their machines by the fatality in Middletown, where a 14 year old boy coasting down a hill on a bicycle which had no chain collided with a truck and was thrown to the pavement and his death.

There is no gainsaying the fact that the bicyclist is entitled to his part of the highway but there are countless cases where those guiding autos are driven frantic by the antics of youngsters who are disposed to do stunts. Coasting down hill without feet on the pedals, or hands on the handlebars, is a trick which many delight to practice and some are disposed to do regardless of the traffic. Others wobble along the highway in such a manner that drivers are in constant fear that they are going to flop in front of their cars, while others are catching onto the side of trucks and cars to be towed along unmindful of the consequences that are too often in store.

Such distressing results as that at Middletown are constantly pictured by drivers who have visions of similar fatalities because of the risks which the bicyclists take. As one driver expresses it, "There's no telling what they are going to do and I'm always on the uneasy seat until I get ahead of them." The worst of it all is that the cyclist in too many instances doesn't appreciate how much danger he is actually inviting for himself by his stunts. What might have been done years ago is certainly grossly unwise in these days when all users of the highway have reason to strive for safety instead of imperiling themselves and paving the way for trouble for others.

The coasters on bicycle or sled, the roller skaters and the cyclists should recognize the perils of the highway quite the same as the pedestrians and the drivers of all kinds of vehicles. Streets are dangerous playgrounds.

IN THE TICKET KIOSK

"Oh, my soul!" moaned the dark-haired ticket seller as she slithered in and around and behind the door of the glass cage, and she twisted and turned herself and hoisted herself on to her high stool, as she resurfaced her face, her lips and the front of her hollow under the chin that so many people neglect, as she smoothed down her frock and her hair, as she, in short, got ready for business.

"What's a matter your soul now?" inquired the yellow-headed one, who had done her slithering, sliding, twisting and resurfacing just before the advent of her coadjutor.

"Jus' dog tired, that's all. Tired of work, tired of folks, tired of livin', jus' tired!"

"A person gets that way," agreed the yellow-headed one, "but usshally," she added wisely, "there's a reason."

"Makin' change and gettin' it right is enough to make a person mad, that's what, in the biggest rush and all—"

But at this point the early afternoon crowd began to filter in and conversation in the kiosk became, and remained, spasmodic.

"Las' night, now," resumed the black-headed one, "the line pushin' an' shovin', bawling the price tickets they wanted, shovin' bills in at me, 'zif I could tell ones an' fives an' twenties by my second sight, an' had as many hands as one these cormorants, or whatever you call 'em—"

'Have to keep your wits about you, I'll say," said, very agreeably, the yellow-headed one, in a moment of crowd cessation.

"Then comes one these little young, tall, stringy fellas, pushes in a bill, says 'Two fifties, please,' and takes 'em an' stands still, blockin' the way—and me trying to take cash an' give tickets under his arm an' over his shoulder—'Look here, Son,' I says, 'you're blockin' traffic, see, and the "Go" sign is up.' He looks at me an' smiles, an' I see what bright sorta black eyes he has—"

"Law, Susy, you never fell for a pair of kid's eyes?"

"He says, 'You never gave me back my change,' he says. 'I gave you a tw—,' he says."

"Well, forevermore, wasn't that the cheeky way to raise a dollar!" exclaimed, quite outdone with the duplicity of man, the yellow-headed one. "Wait a minute till you tell me did he josh you out of it—"

"He did not," said Susy, when she could. "An' he says, 'I'm afraid I'll have to report it to the manager, because, you know, I gave you a two-dollar bill," he says. . . college boy, I bet you . . . . I hate their affected ways . . . . An' I says, "It's all the same to me, but just the same you don't get me in for losin' a dollar, comin' out short when I cash in,' an' then he goes on in"

There passed before the booth many women, a few children, a scattering of men.

"One ticket, please, a 50," said a woman, standing before the kiosk.

Susy had begun to speak again, and, absent-mindedly she took the customer's half dollar and clicked out the ticket.

"Yes, the little snip, thinkin' he's so smart, goes on in and don't he go to the manager, just like he said he would, and don't the manager check over my change, personally, himself, and ain't there just only one two in my whole stack for the whole bloomin' afternoon."

"For the love of Pete."

"An', o' course," between sales of tickets, pursued the aggrieved Susy, "I never knew, positive, he'd gave me a two. . . . but if he hadn't of, might just as well had the difference . . . a person has to be honest because it's right an' all . . . but still and yet . . ."

There passed a long line of movie fans.

"I bet if folks buying tickets was to make a mistake you couldn't make me believe they'd ever pass anything back over the plate."

"I'll say they wouldn't. Why, they'd jus' go on and cackle to think they'd done the house for four bits."

So, of course, it would be, and was at this moment, than an earlier purchaser of a single ticket (who might have been seen waiting about, as though expecting to be joined by a friend, with whom the Dutch-treat theory prevailed,) stepped to the ticket window and, holding out her pasteboard strip, asked;

"I beg your pardon, is this one ticket or two?"

"Two," replied the surprised Gwendolyn.

"Then one of them belongs to you. I only paid for one," said the woman and moved away.

"Well, for the love of Pete!" exclaimed in startled chorus the black-headed Susy and the golden-locked Gwendolyne.—Chicago News.

TRAFFIC

Automobile Hotels Becoming Popular.

Garages Hold Parking Solution. Increasing Automobiles Make Terminals Necessary.

The tremendous increase in the use of automobiles in the past ten years had made it evident that cities would have to make some provision for their care. The streets can not care for the great volume of moving traffic and at the same time afford convenient or sufficient storage space. The importance of the automobile terminal problem is indicated by a survey of American cities recently conducted by the Erskine bureau in conjunction with the National Association of Building Owners and Managers. In 17 cities it was found that 1,424,660 automobiles enter the central business district every day, an that in these districts there is only curb space available to park 85,421 cars.

The same study showed that storage garages and parking lots in these same cities afforded space for 147,091 cars. In these cities there are now 341 modern garages and their number is being rapidly increased. Everywhere it has been noted that when such garages are well located and efficiently operated that they are well patronized by the public and are successful financially. With the present rate of increase it will not be long in several of the cities before there will be garage space for all of the cars that desire to enter the business district.

Frequently merchants, realizing the advantages which would come from a parking space for their customers have assisted in the building and operation of garages. One of the largest retail stores of the world, located in Chicago, recently inaugurated a service whereby customers may have their cars taken by a driver to a garage and returned when the shopping is over.

Public officials can often assist in the storage of motor cars by making available for parking purposes pieces of public land that would otherwise be idle. In one city for example a piece of undeveloped park land has been turned into a parking space capable of accomodating 3,000 automobiles. The space is filled every fair day, and the public treasury receives a substantial income from the fee of 25 cents per car.

Business men who are constructing stores, theaters, and other establishments which draw large numbers of people should seriously consider incorporating in their plans provision for the storage of automobiles. This step would render their places of business much more attractive to the motoring public. In Los Angeles for example it has now become almost standard practice to build garages in the basements and sub-basements of new office buildings.

Business men in all cities should adopt the slogan of "a convenient parking place for every automobile." In this manner business will be stimulated and the full utility of the motor car will be realized.

Make the Most of Books

By James Hosmer Penniman, Litt. D

"Writing Maketh an Exact Man"

Take notes freely and as much as possible in your own language. "Writing maketh an exact man." According to Dr. Watts, more is gained by writing out once than by reading five times. What you have taken notes of is thereby fixed in your mind and when you have classified your subject according to its natural divisions you have, in so doing, formed new associations which will help you to remember it.

When your materials are collected and arranged, your work is half done. What remains requires a mental faculty of a higher order:—the power of coordination.

Just here the difference appears between a penny-a-liner and the author of a book of permanent value. Both men may be industrious, both may have good ideas, but the author has a breadth of mind which enables him to coordinate his knowledge; he pursues a connected chain of thought leading to definite conclusions, he has assimilated what he has found in books, reinforced it by his own observation and study, and the result is a compact and organic whole, a material addition to the knowledge of the world.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Sir G. Rowland Blados, who as senior eligible alderman has been chosen as the next Lord Mayor of London, is, like the most of his predecessors in the high office, prominent in the commercial life of the English metropolis. He is the head of one of the oldest printing concerns in London, the firm having been founded by his grandfather. After long service as an alderman of the City of London Sir Rowland was elected sheriff in 1918 and was knighted at the Guildhall by the king when his majesty and the queen visited the city in connection with the celebration of their silver wedding. The new Lord Mayor has been a conservative member of the House of Commons for Epsom for the past eight years. He is an ardent devotee of outdoor sports and in his younger days was noted as a cricketer.

YOUR HEALTH

A NOTEWORTHY EXPERIMENT IN HEALTH

By E. R. Stitt, Surgeon General, U. S. Navy

Member Gorgas Memorial Institute

St. Thomas, one of the West Indies, is a small island 33 square miles in area, having a population of slightly over 10,000. Shortly after its purchase in 1917, officers of the naval medical corps were placed in charge of its health administration and they immediately put into force a system of disease-prevention.

Intestinal diseases, as most directly affecting mortality rates, were attacked first. Proper sewage disposal was instituted; water supplies protected; food substance screened; places favoring the breeding of flies cleaned up, and typhoid vaccination made universal. These undertakings were completed in 1918. Since that time, there have been no cases of typhoid reported and the general death rate for diseases of the alimentary tract, which for the ten-year period prior to our occupation amounted to 359 per 100,000 for the year 1919 was 61.

The mosquito borne diseases, malaria, dengue, and filariasis, which also were causing much sickness and economic disability, were combatted by eradicating the insect carrier, and—in case of malaria—by treating the population so thoroughly that there should remain no reservoir of the disease for its future propagation. These diseases continue to be a problem only in the more remote rural districts.

Smallpox has been extirpated by repeated vaccination. The spread of leprosy has been arrested by effective segregation in a colony where modern methods of treatment are employed. Yaws has been made rare through early sterilization of infected persons by arsphenamine; veneral infections, previously all but universal, have been curtailed; and, although at one time the streets, jails, and asylums were thronged with pellagrins, changing the dietary habits of the people brought about the practical disappearance of pellagra in two years.

The infant mortality was appalling, one-third of all babies dying within the year. A school for the training of native nurses to be instructors in hygiene among their people, maternity and baby clinics, visiting nurses, and an annual babyshow, combined, have reduced the former mortality 28 per cent—and the lowering is still progressing.

A "health record" of every individual has been opened. While the record was originally adopted to serve as a medical history, the collection has proved to be of inestimable value as a source of data for clinical and epidemiological studies. St. Thomas is unique in being the only political unit in the world having such a system.

The experiment here reported, although conducted on a tropical island, indicates that by the application in our country of measures that are practicable inexpensive, and not burdensome, we would be spared something over a quarter of million deaths a year. What might be saved in ill-health, sickness, suffering, and disability can only be surmised.

Little Talks on Thrift

BLESSING IN DISQUISE

True thrift often involves great sacrifices, but every sacrifice in a worthy cause is a blessing in disguise.

A young man, who has made rapid advancement in the business world, and, from every standpoint of good citizenship and personal progress, is an outstanding success, recently was asked to outline the principles which have served for his guidance. His written reply was as follows:

"I believe in doing more than I am paid to do, because I believe that it will pay in the long run and that I can prove to be of greater value to myself and to my friends. If necessary, I will make sacrifices. I have made them in the past, and I expect to make them in the future. I do not believe any man can really succeed who is not willing to make sacrifices and make them promptly and willingly when they are called for."

Here is one of the best lessons in thrift ever uttered because it teaches success through sacrifice.

All real success must ever stand on th solid foundation of sacrifice, and, with equal truth, it may be said that the practices or thrift are of greatest value because of the strength of character, will-power and complete self-mastery which they impart.

The employe who is willing to make the sacrifice of doing more than he is paid to do—the man or woman who saves at the sacrifice of temporary pleasure, can rest assured they are on the high road of success.

Count your sacrifices as steps in the pathway of success. — American Society for Thrift.

The farm was declared by Senator Arthur Capper, of Kansas, to be better off than at any time since the World war and his partial revival from the slump of post war years was attributed by Capper to the efforts of the republican party in his behalf.

Stories That Recall Others

Intricacies of Etiquette.

Freddie age five, was being trained to tip his cap to the women. Soon after his mother's explicit explanations regarding that particular etiquette, he went into the yard to play. His mother looked after him. Soon, Mrs. Smith next door came out. She and Freddie engaged in conversation, but, much to the mother's chagrin, no cap was tipped.

When Freddie came into the house, his mother said, "What did I tell you about tipping your cap to the ladies?"

"I haven't seen any ladies, yet," said Freddie.

CHORAL VESPER SERVICE BY ST. VINCENT'S GUILD

At Christ Episcopal church Wednesday, the feast of St. Michael and All Angels, was observed from 5.30 p. m. to 7 p. m. under the auspices of the St. Vincent's Young Men's Guild, a church supper was served to 250 patrons and after the supper acolytes from many parishes attended a beautiful choral vesper service, procession of the Guilds and benediction in the church. There was a special programme of music in charge of Organist Stanley Pierce. The preacher was Rev. Robert C. Daley of St. Stephen's church, Fall River, Priests of the Polish Independent Catholic church, and priests of the Russian and Portuguese churches were present. Guilds were present from the cathedral, Hartford, Grace church, Hartford, Church of the Good Shepherd, Hartford, Danielson, Greeneville and Springfield.

The preacher, Rev. Robert C. Daley, took as his text, the 15th verse of the first chapter of Daniel: And at the end of ten days their countenances appeared fairer and they were fatter in flesh than all the youths that did eat of the king's meat.

The preacher said that during the past three weeks he had read more about boys than he had in the past three years and that as he was thinking most deeply on this subject the rector of Christ church invited him to deliver the sermon at the vespers Wednesday evening. People think that religion is dead all the zest and thrill out of life, said the preacher. People think that if we are loyal to our God we are not strong manly men to take our place against other men.

We are never complete without the religion of Jesus Christ. We may be versed in the fine arts, we may be well educated, we may have a high social standing, but we are not complete until we have drunk in the spirit of Jesus Christ. We should taste of the love of Jesus Christ. The hardest work we do is to create a spirit to accept Jesus Christ. The hardest thing for us is to train people to worship God.

The preacher spoke of the life of St. Francis. Thousands of boys and girls, men and women will go and kiss the spot where that boy preached, he said. St. Paul tells us the same old story—that in order to have the spirit of Christ there must come humiliation. We must be obedient to God. St. Francis answered the call to preach the gospel of the kingdom of God.

In the church there is an atmosphere that comes from the throne of God. You were born to worship God. You were made by God to worship Him. We are lowly servants of Jesus Christ. Boys, don't serve the altar without getting something from it. Listen to the voice of God.

The offertory soloist was Arthur G. Blackledge. The procession of the Guilds was a beautiful feature of the service and the altar was very prettily decorated for the occasion.

About 250 patrons were served at the attractively decorated tables in the dining room, the color scheme being red. Red flowers were used in the decorations. The menu included baked beans, potato salad, cabbage salad, chili sauce, potato chips, sliced tomatoes, rolls, coffee and cake. Mrs. C. Montgomery Budlong was chairman of the supper committee and those acting with her on the committee included Mrs. George A. Turner, Mrs. John M. Moody, Mrs. Francis Gilman, Mrs. Williams, Mrs. Gustave Lambert, Mrs. Maxson and Mrs. Southouse.

ENGAGE NEW PHYSICAL DIRECTOR FOR Y. M. C. A.

At a meeting of the directors of the Young Men's Christian association Wednesday afternoon at the association building it was voted to engage William C. McKean of Springfield, Mass., as physical director to succeed Emmett J. Fritz, to recently severed his connection with the association to accept a similar position at Fitchburg, Mass.

It is possible that Mr. McKean may be here by Oct. 1, but at any rate soon enough to have the gymnasium classes begin within the next week.

Mr. McKean comes with the best of recommendations as to his ability in the important field of physical education. He has had several years' experience as physical director in Y. M. C. A. work, as well as wide experience in school and playground work through a period of about ten years. He was in the World war overseas for about 15 months, having served with ability as an artillery officer. He is 39 years old, is married, his family consisting of his wife and a nine year old daughter.

The association management is looking forward to a most successful regime in the physical department, and plans will be put into operation looking to larger service to the community along the line of physical education.

Methodist Junior Department Social

An attractive programme of games, which were followed by refreshments, made an entertaining afternoon from 4 to 6 Wednesday afternoon for the junior department of Trinity Methodist Episcopal church school. There was an attendance of about 30.

OFFERING 8 ACRE TRACT AT TRADING COVE TO TOWN FOR TOWN FOREST

The offer of a gift to the town of Norwich of tract of land containing eight acres at Trading Cove from the Misses Nancy and Mary Lucas of 94 Sachem street is one of the matters to come before the annual town meeting next Monday evening. It is the intention of the Misses Lucas in making the gift that the tract shall be a town forest, very much in the way that many places in Massachusetts have wooded tracts adjacent to them which are designated as town forests.

It is the intention that the tract shall be preserved in its natural state, thus serving for a park which could be reached from the Thames river as well as from the land side by a road.

The tract in question is a piece of land that was brought many years ago by the father of the donors, the late Solomon Lucas, who for many years was state attorney in this country. At the time Mr. Lucas owned it he conceived the idea of making it the nucleus for a park, expecting to interest several other Norwich men who would acquire adjoining land and present the whole to the town for a park.

This plan was forming in his mind at the time before Dr. John Rockwell presented the present Mohegan park to the city and when that gift was announced, Mr. Lucas allowed his plan to drop. Since his death, March 13, 1906, his daughters have held the property and now are offering it as a gift to the town in the way of carrying out something of their father's original intentions regarding this land.

The land is a rather hilly tract, covered with a growth of trees, and is located on the northerly side of Trading Cove, one corner jutting out into the cove. Near this point there is quite a shelving ledge of rock down to the water line in the cove. There is a small section by the side of the Central Vermont railroad tracks where a dock for a boat landing could be built, it is believed. The tract can be approached by a road, which, it is understood, can be reached from Everett street.

RESERVES DECISION IN SUIT FOR $900 DAMAGES

Suit for $900 damages brought by Santo Samataro, a barber in a New London hotel, against the Howard Street Coal and Grain Co., of that city was before Judge Newell Jennings for trial in the superior court there Wednesday. At the conclusion of the evidence and the arguments, Judge Jennings reserved decision.

Much conflicting testimony was introduced.

According to the testimony of Samataro he was driving slowly in a southerly direction in Shaw street on Oct. 7, 1925, when the truck of the coal and grain company came around the corner of Moore avenue on the left side of the corner and at a high rate of speed. The witness testified that the speed of the truck caused him to swerve over to the left of Shaw street in an attempt to escape a collision but he was too late and the truck, with one ton of coal aboard, crashed into his car, practically demolishing one side of it.

He also testified that the driver told him that he had no operator's license for that year, that there was no horn on the truck and that the brakes were of no use.

The driver for the defendant in his testimony said that he was approaching the intersection at a slow rate of speed and in second gear. He said that his brakes were in first class condition and that there was a horn on the truck which was sounded. He admitted that he had no license but said that he had not renewed his license for that year and had only driven on that particular day. He alleged that Samataro was driving on the left hand side of the road at between 30 and 35 miles an hour.

Other witnesses included John W. Miller for the plaintiff, who said he estimated that $300 would be needed to repair the sedan properly but that it was put in shape to run for about $90. Mr. Mary Pierpoall, and Miss Anna Respo testified for the defense as did Morris Greenblatt, manager of the coal and grain company.

The case of Mary Kalamian against David Kalamian, which was listed as second for Wednesday went off the calendar.

COTTON MILL MEN WILL DISCUSS RAYON'S FUTURE

Merchandizing and the future of rayon will be the chief topics of discussion at the open forum which will be a part of the programme of the 123st convention of the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers in the Copley-Plaza at Boston, October 13 and 14.

Henry C. Everett, Jr., treasurer of the Winnsboro Mills, Winnsboro, S. C., will be chairman of the forum which will open at 2:30 o'clock the afternoon of the second day of the annual meeting. The discussion of merchandizing will follow the addresses on style creation and application, during the afternoon of the first day and the style show on that evening. Problems now confronting the manufacturers in their efforts to obtain a larger and more profitable volume of business will be considered and there will be a free exchange of ideas as to the best methods to be adopted to meet present difficulties.

Long draft spinning which is one of the most vital questions now interesting the cotton manufacturers will be another of the subjects discussed. Long draft spinning offers the possibilities of lower production costs and for that reason is being given much attention by textile men. Several types of machinery for this system are on the market but most of them are declared to be of too recent origin to allow of time to decide definitely the full benefits of the system.

Many of the manufacturers are expected to talk on rayon. A number of them will undoubtedly voice their opinions as to the future of this textile fabric as there has been considerable comment in textile circles recently and much speculation as to whether the consumption of rayon is to continue to increase or not. Some cotton manufacturers have expressed the belief that the rayon industry will not make any substantial gains during the coming year while others are more optimistic. All agree, however, that it is a separate fibre in itself and will never take the place of either silk or cotton.

With 84 new members enrolled and the total membership at more than 1,000 the association is now completing its most successful and active year. The association, which is the oldest trade organization in the country, is now the largest it has been in its history according to W. Irving Bullard, treasurer of the association and chairman of the committee which has been conducting a membership campaign in the New England states and New York. Mr. Bullard will present a report on the campaign at the first business session of the convention Wednesday afternoon, October 13 at 2:30 o'clock.

Sub-committees which have carried on the membership campaign in Connecticut and Rhode Island include C. S. Fowler, Westerly Textile company, Westerly, and Lewis M. Carpenter, Ashland Cotton company, Jewett City, Connecticut.

Made Upside-Down Cake

A class of 37 Wednesday afternoon, at the Gas & Electric Dept. lecture room, watched Miss Gladys L. Peckham as she demonstrated the method of making upside-down cake. This delicious cake is baked in a frying pan, in such a manner that the brown, sugar which it contains melts through, serving as frosting. It is eaten with whipped cream and was pronounced delicious by the class members. In the same lesson Miss Peckham taught making inexpensive, tasty and healthy applesauce cake. She was assisted by Miss Irene Broadhurst.

Her instruction next Wednesday will be on mince meats, green tomato and ordinary mince meat.

She will begin her free evening lessons Monday, October 18th, from 7 to 8, giving a course of advanced lessons.

CALLS FRANKLIN EXAMPLE OF GOOD CITIZENSHIP

Although a large number of the members of the Norwich Rotary club are attending the fall conclave of Rotary International at the Hotel Aspinwall at Lenox, Mass., the meeting of the Norwich Rotary club proved very interesting Wednesday noon. The outstanding event of the meeting was the delightful talk on "Good Citizenship" by Principal Henry A. Tirrell, of the Norwich Free Academy.

Mr. Tirrell said in part:

When we generally speak of a person or thing being good it is in a negative sense, good meaning the absence of evil. There has been many a good person, who yet has contributed nothing to his community or the world at large. I like to think of a man who has left something behind that is a benefit to the world. I like to think of Robert Burns as a good man although he had many failings, and there are others who would not be termed in the strict sense of the word, as good, yet who have contributed something beneficial to humanity. I hope that when the final accounting comes that our contributions to the world will be credited against those things which we have done that were not exactly good.

I think Benjamin Franklin illustrates my idea of good citizenship. Franklin was the son of a soap maker and he had very little school education but he was endowed with a keen mind, practical and diplomatic. As a boy he was bound out to an older brother to prevent him from running away to sea as his father suspected he might. He did run away from his brother and went to Philadelphia where he took up the printing trade. Later he went to London in search of funds and an opportunity to go into business.

How many of our boys today would leave and go to London on their own? Not many I think. There was nothing yet in Franklin's life that was very good or commendable. He stayed in London for a time and then returned to Philadelphia where he took up the printing business again. He first gained recognition by printing an almanac and I think it was the only interesting almanac ever published. He also published the Pennsylvania Gazette. There was nothing heroic or romantic about his life so far. He never had strong religious convictions in the sense of being an ardent churchman. He had a practical mind and great foresight and the inclination to help his fellowmen and better the community. His learning was slight, except through practical experience, but his wisdom was great. Many of the civic departments of cities were ideas of Franklin. He started the first police department and the first fire department in Philadelphia. It was Franklin who started the school that is now known as the University of Pennsylvania and the Franklin Union in Boston was made possible through his will.

As a writer Franklin was brilliant and his almanac was published in several languages.

At the age of 41 he gave up earning a fortune to devote his time towards the welfare of his country. When 70 years old he was one of the committee of five who drafted the Declaration of Independence, and has as much to do with the obtaining of our independence as any other man, obtaining a loan of $20,000,000 from France when our country was in need. In other words he was always doing something for the benefit of his country and the world at large. All of France and England knew of him, as the son of a soap-maker, who had received no education, but still could talk to kings and royalty. This continued Mr. Tirrell, is my definition of a good citizen, one who was always ready to assist towards the progress of the world. While there probably are no Ben Franklins among us today, no doubt there are many who could assist in the welfare of their community, with their knowledge of their particular lines. To obtain better results and to keep the various communities better posted, it is necessary that these people should be kept together and it is with this purpose in view that the local chamber of commerce is about to begin a membership campaign by which it hopes to double its present membership. Perhaps they may not have been always right in the past but right or wrong they have always worked for the welfare of the general community and it is for this reason that the chamber of commerce should be boosted in Norwich.

At the business session Vice-President Nelson J. Ashley presided and E. Larue Bliven was the song-leader assisted by Lucius Briggs. John J. O'Rourke had charge of the program for the meeting and introduced Mr Tirrell.

The Norwich Rotary club was well represented at the opening day of the fall conclave on Tuesday and although the baseball championship changed hands the Norwich boys had a wonderful time at Lenox. The ball game was a sad blow to the Norwich club which has held the title of the 76th district for several years. Hartford with "Hod" Eller, former Cincinnati Reds star hurler, working in the box downed the local club 5 to 0. Only one solitary hit was made off Eller's delivery and that by Ed Harris. Eller fanned nine men while Harris went him one better. Golf and tennis was also played and the finals will be announced later.

Lieut. Franklyn Lord Promoted

First Lieutenant Franklyn T. Lord of Company H, 169th Infantry, is made captain and will remain in command of the company, a machine gun unit. He succeeds Captain Dunne, who was transferred to the National Guard at Hartford, where Capt. Lord is residing.

Capt. Lord is the son of Mrs. Helena M. T. Church of 23 Broad street, this city.

For D. A. R. State Meeting

Mrs. Alfred J. Brosseau, president of the National society, Daughters of the American Revolution, will be guest of honor and principal speaker at the state D. A. R. meeting to be held in Hartford at the Center church next Tuesday.

Connecticut College

On Wednesday morning, Sept. 29, after the usual chapel services, the president of the senior class of Connecticut college, Miss Harriet Taylor of Meriden, announced in formal and dignified tones the exclusive privileges of her class. The seniors were lined impressively along the gymnasium steps, while the lesser classmen harked to the words from below.

"We, the class of 1927, being the possessors of unusually sound intellect and general superiority, have decreed that all those who have not attained the formidable heights of seniority shall pay due homage and respect by adhering to the subsequent edicts and statutes:

1. Upon the white curbstones only may we tread.
2. When the wintry blasts descend from the northern heights it shall be our privilege to promenade in unbound galoshes.
3. It shall be our privilege to enter the post office between 6:45 and 8:55 in the wee hours of the morning. At this time all other lower beings shall immediately take their places in the chapel.
4. In order that we may be shielded from the onslaught of ravenous underclassmen, we shall enter the dining room before the sweep of the hungry hordes.
5. We shall hereafter enjoy our repast in the hidden recesses of the alcove at the refectory.
6. And if from our delightful solitude we are disturbed by gay childish prattlings, it shall be our right to request quiet by the mere raising of our distinguished hands.
7. On the first Sabbath of the month we shall seek seclusion in Knowlton hall for the evening meal.
8. When we travel to and from the village in the thereby honored trolley coaches we alone shall occupy the side-benches near the portals and enjoy our tour in comfort and ease.
9. We shall at all times and in all places expect such courtesy and consideration due our reputable years.

Given under our hand and sword this 29th day of September in the year of Our Lord 1926 in the city of New London, state of Connecticut."

This is the second set of instructions for the freshman class, the first having been those issued them by the sophomores on the evening of their formal initiation. At present the college abounds with girls wearing red and white skull caps—part of the initiation stunt for the class of 1930.

The C. Quiz, a most solemn and formal occasion for the entering class, occurred on Wednesday evening in the college gymnasium. The seniors in cap and gown marched to their places on the stage of the gymnasium. The freshmen sat mutely on the floor of the gym and the sophomores ranged themselves in important places along the side. In the balcony were sympathetic juniors to give their sister class moral stamina. The seniors were privileged to call upon the freshmen by name and ask them some questions concerning that part of the "C", a book stating all the important rules and regulations governing the student body, which they had been ordered to memorize. If the freshman failed to answer the question correctly she was given one more trial. If she again did not know the right answer she was requested to write a formal paper of 500 words on some given subject. The sophomores too each called upon some freshman. After this ordeal the freshmen were allowed to seek their respective dwelling places.

Convocation lectures for the coming year have been announced. Convocation is held every other Tuesday at 4 p. m. The program for the year follows:

Oct. 12—Hiram Bingham, United States senator from Connecticut, "The Future of Aviation."

Oct. 26—Frank Tannenbaum, "The Prison and the Prisoner."

Nov. 9—Margaret Deneke, chairmaster of Lady Margaret hall, Oxford, England. "Dance Forms" (Bach, Haydn, Mozart, Beethoven, Schubert, Chopin, Brahms, Debussy).

Nov. 23—Ida M. Tarbell, "Woman's Possible Contributions to a Finer Public Life."

Dec. 7—John Macy, "Reading for Enjoyment."

Jan. 11—Richard S. Lull, director of the Peabody Museum of Natural History, Yale university, "Prehistoric Connecticut."

Jan. 25—Herbert Cescinsky, "American and English Furniture Contrasted."

Feb. 15—Mary Agnes Hamilton, "Young Men and Young Women in Their Attitude Toward the Future."

March 1—S. K. Ratcliffe, "The Rebirth of Society."

March 15—Lorado Taft, "Beauty in American Life."

The convocation committee consists of Dr. Gerard Jensen, Dr. Dederer, Miss Orrie Sherer, Miss Hurlbert, and Dr. Morris.

Concert ushers for the Connecticut college series were chosen on Wednesday. Miss Estred Alquist of Norwich was chosen.

The artists who are on the program this year promise to render delightful evenings to their listeners.

Recently the Glee club had try-outs for freshmen and upper classmen. Among those chosen was Miss Frances Joseph of Stonington.

WILL NAME REPRESENTATIVES AND PROBATE JUDGES

The republican ward caucuses and town conventions for the purpose of nominating candidates for the legislature, and justice of the peace candidates will be held in this city and throughout the state on Monday, Oct. 11, in accordance with a decision arrived at by the republican state central committee at a meeting at Hartford Tuesday afternoon.

Chairman J. Henry Roraback, presiding, pointed out that past experience had shown the advisability of not holding caucuses and conventions for the nomination of representatives until after the various town elections on Oct. 4.

After a lengthy discussion of the limitations of the party rules which specify 15 days notice of caucuses and primaries, it was finally decided to hold the primaries on Oct. 11 with the town committees to select their own dates for the town conventions.

Chairman Roraback urged state central committee members to use their influence as early as possible in order to aid the speakers' bureau in furnishing programs. He also announced that the national speakers' bureau had promised to send some speakers to Connecticut.

State central committeewomen met with Miss Katherine Byrne, vice-chairman of the state central committee following the committee meeting and discussed plans for their activities in the campaign. Each committeewoman is to hold a meeting of town vice-chairman and other workers in her district as soon as possible to make detailed plans for the campaign in her district. Further general meetings of all the state central committeewomen with Miss Byrne have not been decided. Miss Byrne said, but she will be at state headquarters for conferences with women leaders throughout the campaign.

To Name Probate Judges, Too.

According to the opinion of Chairman Roraback that judges of probate are to be nominated Oct. 11 in such probate districts as do not have more than one town, republican candidate for probate judges will be nominated at the same time as candidates for representatives in the following towns:

Avon, Bristol, Burlington, Canton, East Granby, East Hartford, Enfield, Farmington, Granby, Hartland, Manchester, Marlborough, Plainville, Simsbury, Southington, Suffield, Windsor, Bethany, Branford, Madison, Meriden, Milford, Oxford, Prospect, Cheshire, East Lyme, Groton, Lebanon, Ledyard, Lyme, Montville, New London, Stonington, Old Lyme, Salem, Stonington, Bethel, Brookfield, Danbury, Fairfield, Greenwich, Newtown, Redding, Ridgefield, Shelton, Sherman, Stamford, Stratford, Ashford, Brooklyn, Canterbury, Chaplin, Eastford, Hampton, Killingly, Plainfield, Pomfret, Putnam, Sterling, Thompson, Woodstock, Barkhamsted, Cornwall, Harwinton, Kent, New Hartford, Norfolk, Plymouth, Roxbury, Salisbury, Sharon, Thomaston, Watertown, Watertown, Clinton, East Haddam, East Hampton, Essex, Haddam, Killingworth, Old Saybrook, Portland, Westbrook, Coventry, Hebron and Somers.

BISHOP ACHESON OBJECTED TO GROTON CHURCH HYMN

There has been much discussion in Groton about the reported disagreement between Rev. Frederick W. Haist, rector of Calvary Memorial church, and the Rt. Rev. E. C. Acheson, D. D., bishop coadjutor of Connecticut. The trouble is alleged to have been caused by the singing of a hymn which the bishop alleged to be antiquated and of such nature as to be un-Christian.

It has been ceremoniously stated that the hymn was not sung. According to Rev. Mr. Haist, the hymn, which is listed as 208 in the church hymnal, was rendered, three stanzas being sung before it was stopped. The bishop took exception to the words of the second stanza and signified for the organist to cease playing during the singing of the third stanza. On completion the hymn was stopped.

The bishop continued that as "This hymn is not suited to be sung in a Christian church and I hope that it will never again be rendered in my presence."

Rev. Mr. Haist took exception to the remark made by the bishop and informed him that the hymn was put in the hymnal by authorities and was approved by the church at large. It has been reported that a heated argument took place but according to Rev. Mr. Haist this is untrue.

The hymn in question is by Isaac Watts. The title is Come Holy Spirit, Heavenly Dove, and the words of the second stanza to which Bishop Acheson took exception are:

So how we groveling here below,
Fond of these earthly toys;
Our souls, how heavenly they go,
To reach eternal joys.

The congregation of the church supporting the rector, saying that he is in charge of the hymns to be sung in the church and that he acted according to his rights, and point to canon 46 which states:

"It shall be the duty of every minister to appoint for use in the congregation hymns and anthems from those authorized by the Rubric, and with such assistance as he may see fit to employ from persons skilled in music, to give order concerning tunes to be sung in his church. It shall be his special duty to suppress all light and unseemly music, and all irreverance in the performance."

ACADEMY FOOTBALL TEAM ROUNDING INTO SHAPE FOR NEW BRITAIN GAME

Opening the 1926 football against New Britain High at New Britain on Saturday the Academy football team is in exceptional shape for so early in the season. Coach Courtland Whitney has rounded the team into what appears to be almost midseason form, in a short space of three weeks. The boys have been worked hard but with surprisingly few injuries and are in prime condition for their first tussel.

Working with a squad of only about 20 candidates Coach Whitney has driven his charges at top speed until he made what looks to be one of the most formidable football teams in many years. Scrimmage has been the order of the day for the past week finishing up with a two hour drill on Wednesday in which the varsity demonstrated that it had plenty of scoring punch by tallying six touchdowns against the second varsity. As a defensive team the Academy has an almost impenetrable line, and a nice secondary defense. The line from end to end is one of the heaviest that the Academy has ever had, while the back field is fast and shifty.

Prospects for a most successful football campaign are indeed bright if the team will keep up the spirit with which it has started the season. There have been no serious injuries so far and the practice has not been light. Several candidates are out of the game now a few days with muscle strains and bruises but outside of these the team is in wonderful shape.

The ends, Marks, Moore, Green, Hussey and Lacroix have shown remarkably well in practice both on the defense and on the offense. They are fast and pretty sure tacklers. The tackle berths will be taken care of by Kahn, Fidell, McCluggage, Mish and Gilbert. Kahn and Fidell make a nice pair of tackles with McCluggage and Mish as an extra set. Shea and Gulemb are holding down the guard positions in fine shape although this is Shea's first year with the varsity. Fox and Gilman have also been playing a good game in these positions.

The center position is taken care of by Freddy Schwartz. Schwartz is a boy of strength and a veteran of last year's team. He is playing nicely in his position. Gulomb has played the center position in several practice sessions with the result that he is fast developing and may make a goood substitute for the husky Schwartz.

In the backfield there is speed combined with a powerful driving force. Captain Eddie Brewer looks better than ever this year and is playing his usual smashing game. On either side of Brewer is McGlone at left half and Pete Labenski at right half. Both McGlone and Labenski have been showing real class, Labenski is the better ball carrier of the two, but McGlone is a nice running back that hits the line with force. Billy Tirrell has been directing the team from the quarterback position while Jimmy Williams is out of the game with an injury. Tirrell is playing a nice game.

Others out for backfield positions are Vitiano, Fenton, McVeigh, A. Tombari, Salkowski, Brock, C. Brewer, Flather and D. Courbois, all of whom have shown ability.

The schedule for the Academy is as follows:

Oct. 2—New Britain High at New Britain.
Oct. 9—East Greenwich Academy, R. I., in Norwich.
Oct. 16—Westerly at Westerly.
Oct. 23.—Bridgeport at Norwich.
Oct. 30—Chapman Tech at New London.
Nov. 6—Wilby High of Waterbury in Norwich.
Nov. 13—Bulkeley High of New London in Norwich.
Nov. 20—Stonington High in Norwich.
Nov. 26—Alumni in Norwich.

RAIN CLINCHES THIRD PLACE FOR ATHLETICS

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 29.—(AP)—The Athletics today sat back and watched a persistent Scotch mist rain them into an assured award of third-place money in the American League. They can't lose any more games, because they are not going to play any more.

Today's doubleheader with Washington was declared off because of rain. The Mackmen held third position over Washington by a two-game margin. Had they played and lost both games they would have been tied for third place with the Senators. Third place money would have been divided between the teams, giving each player an estimated $300.

With third place assured, players believe they will receive about $600 each from the world series money.

MISS COLLETT WINS EASY MATCH FROM MRS. ROOD

HAVERFORD, Pa., Sept. 29—(AP)—An easy victory for Glenna Collett, and one not so easy for Edith Cummings, featured the second match round for the women's golf crown played under continuing dreary skies and over links pooled with "casual water" here today.

While Glenna in defense of her title was eliminating Mrs. Norman Rood, of Wilmington, Del., 8 and 6, and Miss Cummings forging towards a recovery of the crown she held in 1922, was defeating Bernice Wall of Oshkosh, Wis., 1 up, another of Glenna's early season conquerors was being vanquished. Helen Payson, Maine champion, went down in spite of consistently good golf, before the well rounded game of Mrs. Courtland Smith, New Jersey state champion, 2 and 1.

Two western golfers who suffered unexpected elimination today after winning matches against seemingly more formidable foes yesterday were Mrs. Lee Mida, and Mrs. J. S. Cassriel of Chicago.

Mrs. Mida, who yesterday put out Maureen Orcutt, metropolitan champion, 4 and 3, today lost by the same score to Mrs. J. L. Anderson of Garden City, N. Y.

The greens upset Mrs. Mida, as they had upset Maureen, the Chicagoan requiring three putts at eleven of the sixteen holes.

Mrs. Cassriel, after putting out Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd, 1924 champion, 3 and 1, today met a psychological defeat at the hands of Mrs. Norman Toerge, of Glen Cove, N. Y.

WHO WILL BE HERO OF THE WORLD'S SERIES

NEW YORK, Sept. 29—(AP)—As the outstanding two figures of the world's series, Babe Ruth and Rogers Hornsby carry unusually heavy burdens of responsibility into the battles that start here Saturday.

Not since 1909, when Hans Wagner and Ty Cobb matched their playing skill, has the baseball classic brought together a rivalry so colorful as that between the mighty slugger of the Yankees and the brilliant manager of the Cardinals, like Wagner, Cobb and others of playing fame, Hornsby and Ruth may find it difficult to meet expectations or they may, in the pinch, rise to greater heights.

This will be Hornsby's first turn in baseball's big show but Ruth will be taking the stage for his seventh performance. The Babe alternately has been a "bust" and a start but he has never quite broken in among the ranks of the champion's immortals. Ruth's mauling mace played a big part in the defeat of the Giants by the Yankees in 1923 but in the previous two all-metropolitan classics, the Babe was subdued by John McGraw's "master-minding."

While all eyes will focus on Hornsby and Ruth, it may fall to the lot of a less conspicuous performer to step into the spotlight. More often than not, the records reveal, the role of the world's series hero has fallen to unheralded players.

The Yankees' youthful keystone workers, Koenig and Lazzeri, for instance, might grasp the opportunity to leap to fame. Or such Cardinal rookies as Thevenow and Douthit might prove to be the big stars. Then there is Alexander the Great, veteran Cardinal twirler, bidding for glory eleven years after his last world's series experience with the Phillies.

Here's the complete list of world's series heroes, as popularly chosen since 1905:

1905—Christy Mathewson, pitcher, Giants.
1906—George Rohe, third baseman, White Sox.
1907—Henry Steinfeldt, third baseman, Cubs.
1908—Frank Chance, first baseman and manager, Cubs.
1909—Babe Adams, pitcher, Pirates.
1910—Jack Coombs, pitcher, Athletics.
1911—Frank Baker, third baseman, Athletics.
1912—Hugh Bedient, pitcher, Red Sox.
1913—Eddie Collins, second baseman, Athletics.
1914—Hank Gowdy, catcher, Braves.
1915—Duffy Lewis, outfielder, Red Sox.
1916—Harry Hooper, outfielder, Red Sox.
1917—Urban Faber, pitcher, White Sox.
1918—George Whiteman, outfielder, Red Sox.
1919—Dicky Kerr, pitcher, White Sox.
1920—Stanley Coveleskie, pitcher, Indians.
1921—Johnny Rawlings, second baseman, Giants.
1922—Heinie Groh, third baseman, Giants.
1923—Casey Stengel, outfielder, Giants.
1924—Stanley Harris, second baseman and manager, senators.
1925—Hazen Cuyler, outfielder, Pirates.

ROGER HORNSBY'S MOTHER DIES AFTER LONG ILLNESS

AUSTIN, Tex., Sept. 29.—(AP)—Mrs. M. D. Hornsby died here this afternoon, happy in the knowledge that her son, Rogers Hornsby, had carried his St. Louis Cardinals to the National league pennant. Her hope that she might be spared long enough to see her son in the triumph of world's series play, however, remained unfulfilled.

With the true devotion of a mother, Mrs. Hornsby insisted during her critical illness that Rogers remain in New York to prepare his team for the opening game of the series Saturday.

The Cardinal manager had made tentative arrangements to bring his mother to St. Louis for the series games played there, but a week ago it became evident her condition was too serious for her to undergo the trip. Mrs. Hornsby was confident that St. Louis would win.

For eleven years she had been an invalid and much of the time was spent in bed.

Left a widow many years ago with five small children, she reared all to maturity. About four years ago, however, one of her sons was shot to death in a restaurant at Fort Worth, Tex., and two years ago another died after an operation for appendicitis. The loss of these sons contributed to her decline.

HORNSBY TO PLAY AT REQUEST OF MOTHER

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—(AP)—His mother's dying request that he remain with his team influenced Rogers Hornsby, according to an announcement here tonight, not to go to Austin, Texas, where his mother died this afternoon, until after the world series. As a result of his decision, Hornsby will play second base and manage the St. Louis Cardinals in their world series contests with the New York Yankees, opening Saturday, at Yankee stadium.

"As it was my mother's dying wish that I remain with my team until after the series is over, as hard as this will be for me, I have decided to carry out her wishes," Hornsby said tonight, when told of his mother's death.

"My family has also requested me to carry out her wishes," the statement added, "and my mother's remains will be kept until after the series is over."

Hornsby did not know his mother had died until several hours after her death. He was torn between conflicting emotions of desire to be at her bedside and loyalty to his team when he went automobile riding before she died at the Austin home. Returning to his hotel, he found advices of her death and telegrams from members of his family saying that his mother had insisted to the very moment of her death that he remain with his team.

RESERVED SEAT SALE IS OVERSUBSCRIBED BY 15,000

NEW YORK, Sept. 29—(AP)—Reserved seats for the New York games in the world's series have been oversubscribed by about 15,000, the Yankees' management announced today and applications are still pouring in. Twenty thousand bleacher and twenty thousand grand stand seats will be placed on sale at 10 a. m. on each day the games are played in the stadium.

More men are marred by themselves than are made by their friends.

AGGIES PREPARING FOR WESLEYAN GAME SATURDAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

STORRS, Sept. 29.—The last scrimmage for the Connecticut Aggies before their opening game of the season with Wesleyan at Middletown on Saturday was held on Gardner Dow field this afternoon, with the first team opposing the seconds in a short but spirited clash.

All plays that will be used against the Red and Black were given a test under fire, Quarterback Schofield going through his entire repertoire in the course of the fray. Williams, Eddy and Noonan advanced the ball for substantial gains, both in running and passing, while the line functioned well in opening holes and cutting through to clear out the secondary.

In addition to the short scrimmage, Coach Dole devoted considerable time to line defensive, and also forward pass defense. The tackling dummy received harsh treatment from the varsity in the course of the afternoon's workout, and some time was also devoted to the kick-off play. The scrimmage was preceded by a long signal drill. Eddy and Williams went through a puting drill, and the success with which they got off high twisting spirals indicates that the kicking game of the Aggies will be well taken care of Saturday.

Freshman Coach Alexander's squad continues, with intensive drill each afternoon, the drill for the main part consisting of fundamentals of the game. No scrimmage has been attempted as yet, but indications are that there are a number of capable performers on the squad. As a group, backfield candidates shape up better than the linemen.

SUZANNE ARRIVES TO BEGIN PROFESSIONAL TOUR

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—(AP)—Suzanne Lenglen, former woman tennis champion of the world, arrived today to enter the ranks of professionalism as a "rebel" against the amateur rules of the game.

Exulting in her freedom from these rules, she declared there is too much dictatorship in the amateur organization, with the players being "bossed" to strictly. She also thought amateur players should share in the proceeds from matches.

"At Wimbledon, at Cannes and at Forest Hills," she said, "the promoters took all the profit after expenses had been met, while the players did the work. Why should the players not have their share?"

She readily admitted she had turned professional to make money, explaining she felt it was time she did something for herself. The former world champion appeared more like a woman of fashion than a tennis player when she arrived on the steamship Paris. She wore a costume made by one of the leading Parisian fashion designers, and brought eleven trunks crammed with the latest clothes from French shops.

Mlle. Lenglen will talk over radio station W O R tomorrow night, when she will tell of her plans.

CARROLL PITCHES TORONTO TO WIN OVER LOUISVILLE

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 29—(AP)—The Toronto Internationals nosed out the Louisville American association club by 2 to 1 in the eleventh inning of the second game of the Little World Series here today.

Owen Carroll, former Holy Cross star, came out victor in a pitching duel with Cullop of the Colonels. Carroll yielded but eight hits while Cullop was replaced in the box in the tenth by Wilkinson.

The victory gave the Maple Leafs two legs on the series, having won the initial fray yesterday, by 2 to 0.

Carroll pitched wonderful ball for the Leafs and should not have been scored on. Altogether, Carroll struck out 13 batsmen. Score:

TWO SENATORS TO BE MARRIED THIS WEEK

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—(AP)—Capitol baseball fans, who had to rest content with a fourth-place club in the American league this year, have something else besides baseball to attract their interest before the opening of the world series.

Announcement was made today that "Ossie" Bluege, regular third baseman of the former world champions, would marry next Saturday, and with the wedding here of Stanley Harris, youthful manager of the Senators, set for Friday, fans are wondering who is next. Harris will marry Miss Elizabeth Sutherland, daughter of Howard Sutherland, alien property custodian.

Bluege's bride will be Mrs. Margaret H. Eckert of Raleigh, N. C., where the wedding will take place. The romance began a little over a year ago when Bluege, severely injured when struck by a pitched ball, was taken to a hospital here. There, Mrs. Eckert, a nurse in training at the time, was assigned to his case.

THREE NEW PLAYERS ON YALE VARSITY

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 29—(AP)—Three new men were moved up to the Yale varsity football squad today following a long signal drill by the first eleven in preparation for its opening game with Boston university, Saturday.

The new players on the squad are John Brandenburg, of Louisville, Ky., Edmund Decker, of Montclair, N. J., and Sidney Quarrier, of Short Hills, N. J. Brandenburg and Decker are from last year's freshman team, the former being captain of that eleven. Quarrier is from the freshman team two years ago. He rowed with the varsity crew last year.

Challenge

The Taftville Red Tops would like to play the Ashland Cubs of Jewett City, Saturday at Taftville. This will be the second game of the series for Junior Championship of Eastern Conn. The Red Tops won the first game. Answer through this paper.

RIVERVIEW-TAFTVILLE GAME HOLDS CENTER OF LOCAL SPORT STAGE

What is practically a state championship will depend on the outcome of the Riverview-Taftville game at the State Hospital on Sunday afternoon. This game will loom as the big event of baseball in this corner of the state for the year and a record attendance for the State hospital grounds is expected. Riverview is a contender for state honors and has taken practically every team in the state into camp during the season while Taftville has likewise beaten the leading teams during its season.

Now, in the series between Taftville and Riverview, the interest is running high and both managers are scurring around rounding up the best possible club. Manager Troland comes forth with the announcement that he has secured Bunny Hearne, one of the premier hurlers of the Boston Braves. Hearne is a brilliant southpaw and Manager Troland feels that he will be capable of holding the Riverview club.

Besides Hearne Troland has secured Mitchell of the Hartford club for mound work. Tommy Commiskey is another league player who will wear the Taftville A. A. suit in Sunday's game. To make victory more certain for his club Manager Troland has secured the services of Shirley, formerly with the Washington club. Shirley will play first base.

Manager Zemke of the Riverview club had no announcement to make regarding his lineup for Sunday other than to say that he would have a club fully equal to the task of trimming Taftville in the final game of the series. One of the players that he has signed is Christy of the New Departure team. Christy is a hard hitter and fast fielder. Who will be on the mound is uncertain and will not be known until Friday or Saturday. Zemke has wired several pitchers in the minor leagues and it is certain that a first class hurler will be on the mound.

This game means a good deal to both clubs and neither manager is letting any points slip through his hands. Keen baseball has marked both games and it is expected that the crowd will reach close to 2,000 persons. Although it is really a championship game there will be no advance in admission prices.

FINAL STANDINGS OF NATIONAL LEAGUE CLUBS

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.— (AP). —The 1926 National league season was brought to a formal close today when the Boston Braves defeated the Phillies twice at Boston. The St. Louis Cardinals, champions of the circuit, were 29 1-2 games in front of the tail-end Philadelphia club.

The ruling affecting second, third and fourth teams in the final standing as concerns their shares in the world series spoils brings the Reds, Pirates and Cubs into the money division in respective order.

The final standing of the clubs follows:

National League	Won	Lost	P. C.
St. Louis	89	65	.578
Cincinnati	87	67	.563
Pittsburgh	84	69	.549
Chicago	82	72	.532
New York	74	77	.490
Brooklyn	71	82	.464
Boston	66	86	.434
Philadelphia	58	93	.384

FINAL STANDING OF THE AMERICAN LEAGUE

CHICAGO, Sept. 29.—(AP)—Rain at Philadelphia brought the American league baseball season to an official close today, cheating the Athletics and Senators out of their double header slated as the curtain bill.

The closing standing of the American league is:

	Won	Lost	P. C.
New York	91	63	.591
Cleveland	88	66	.571
Philadelphia	83	67	.553
Washington	81	69	.540
Chicago	81	72	.529
Detroit	79	75	.513

LANDIS ARRIVES FOR THE WORLD'S SERIES

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—(AP)—Baseball Commissioner K. M. Landis, who will preside at the world's series, arrived in New York with an apprehensive eye directed to the overcast sky.

"There should be some great baseball games in this series if the weather will give the boys a chance," said the commissioner. He was suffering, he said, from an annual "temporary popularity" noted only at world's series time. Many of his friends, some of whom he has not seen for 50 years, have a desire to witness some, or all, of the games, and have elected the commissioner as the medium through which they are seeking tickets. He intimated he had been forced to decline the honor.

FABER'S ALL-STARS A POWERFUL AGGREGATION

Sunday at the Carpet grounds in Moosup, Joe Faber's All-Stars will make their first appearance of the season as opponents of Manager Loughran's Moosup Town team, claimants of the Eastern Connecticut title. Faber's team, composed of nine crack performers naturally dispute Loughran's claim and negotiations were completed Monday whereby a three game series will be played between the two clubs to determine the championship. Realizing the strength of the Moosup team Faber immediately scouted about the state in search of high class ball-tossers and as a result announced the following lineup, and batting order:

Krauss of the J. B. Martin team will play left field. He is rated by minor league scouts as the fastest performer outside of organized baseball. Artie Coulliard ex-leaguer, will guard the initial sack. Spike Liberty, former Ashland star twirler, will roam the right side of the pasture. Joe Faber, who needs no explanation, at short stop. Wojak of the Williamsport club will cover the hot corner and Burns of New London will take charge of the keystone sack. Leo Jarvis will take care of the high ones in center field. Corrono of New Britain will catch.

Johnnie Tillman, the fastest pitcher in the New York-Penn league will be on the mound for Faber's aggregation.

Amherst Player Injured

AMHERST, Mass., Sept. 29.—(AP)—Alfred B. Pimm, Jr., of West Hartford, Conn., second string half back on the Amherst college football squad, sustained a head blow toward the close of today's practice which paralyzed him from the hips downward. It was the first severe injury of the present season here.

Accos Win Series

Sunday at Ashland park the Ashland Accos defeated the Taftville Everready's 5 to 0. That clinched the series for the Accos. Miller's pitching was a feature, getting twelve strikeouts. The game was called in the last half of the ninth when Minter, a local player was hit by a bat when it slipped out of a Taftville boy's hand.

McTigue Wins.

HALIFAX, Sept. 29.—(AP)—Mike McTigue, former light heavyweight champion tonight won a ten round decision from Roy Mitchell of Halifax, Negro claimant of the Canadian title. The bout was slow with no knockdowns.

CARDINALS AND YANKEES PUT PLENTY OF ACTION INTO PRACTICE

NEW YORK, Sept. 29—(AP)—With unprecedented interest in their world's series battle indicated by a complete sell-out of reserved seat tickets here three days before the opening game, the Yankees and Cardinals today went through the first workouts they have had since closing the regular season.

The death of Rogers Hornsby's mother kept the Cardinal manager from practice and cast a shadow over the National league's camp. Under the direction of Bill Killefer, however, the St. Louis squad put in a brisk drill at the Yankee stadium, where the series starts Saturday.

While the players limbered up in comparative peace and quietness there was anything but that at the offices of the Yankee club near Times Square where the rush of applications for tickets resulted in over-subscription of the available supply by 15,000. The Yankees put 25,000 reserved seat tickets on sale in blocks of three for the first, second and sixth games but the flood of requests approximated 40,000, according to Business Manager Edward Barrow.

This demand breaks all records for the series here, where at least part of the classic is being staged for the fifth time in six seasons. It indicates the probability of tremendous demand Saturday, when some 38,000 tickets in unreserved sections of the grand stand and bleachers will be put on sale, starting at 10 a. m.

The Yankees took the field for practice first today but did only light work, occupying an hour with hitting and fielding drill. Benny Bengough, the catcher with a broken arm, was a spectator and will see the big games although he has no chance to play. Babe Ruth, the other Yankee casualty, will be able to play but took his workout with caution. He did little running and no quick starting.

The big slugger has a weak ankle, slightly sprained in going after the ball along the right field foul line near the close of the season, and he said that his knee also developed some sprain.

"But I'll be in shape Saturday," he promised after the practice period.

The Cardinals went at their work with enthusiasm. They were glad to dig their spikes into the turf again.

Rain Tuesday kept them indoors and several of the regulars did not make the final trip to Cincinnati to close the season, so today's call to the bat found them baseball hungry.

The National league players, with the exception of Ray Blades, fast outfielder, reported fit for the important test. Blades has not recovered sufficiently from injuries suffered several weeks ago to hope to play in the series.

No further word concerning the likely opening game pitchers came from either hand but observers continued to view the prospect of a southpaw battle between Herb Pennock of the Yanks and Willie Sherdal of the Cards. Urban Shocker and Grover Alexander, veteran right handers, seemed slated for second game assignments here, although Manager Miller Huggins of the New York Yankees is known to place considerable confidence in Dutch Ruether, seasoned southpaw star.

WESTERLY

THORP AND NICHOLS OUT FOR GEORGE B. UTTER'S PLACE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Sept. 29—The republican caucus for the town of Westerly to nominate candidates for senator from Westerly and for representatives from the first and second Westerly voting districts to the Rhode Island State Legislature promises to develop several lively contests. According to the Westerly law, a preliminary caucus will be held for nominations and where more than one candidate appears, adjournment is taken to a later meeting.

For senator there are now two announced candidates, George B. Utter, representative for the past two years and Howard E. Thorp, a member of Westerly board of tax assesors. Both candidates have been members of Westerly town council.

The candidacy of Mr. Utter was announced by him, following the caucus last Monday night, when delegates weer elected to the republican state convention in Providence for the nomination of state officers, at which time opposition developed to Mr. Utter's being sent as a delegate. His name did not appear on a slate named by Herbert W. Rathbun and seconded by Max Novogroski, although it did upon the town committee slate presented by Secretary Charles D. Maxson of the republican town committee. Mr. Utter requested that his name be withdrawn.

Mr. Thorp announced his candidacy for the senatorial nomination, closely following that of Mr. Utter and declares that if necessary, with or without the endorsement of the newly elected republican town committee, he will carry his fight to the floor of the caucus. He states that his views coincide with those held by the parties which presented the opposition slate at last Monday's caucus, namely, that the town of Westerly for the past few years has not received all the returns and favors of the legislature to which it is entitled and that many of the plums have been distributed in the northern part of the state. Mr. Thorp says that when Representative Utter, as a member of the Rhode Island legislature, voted for the redistricting of the state, it amounted to a sale of Westerly birthright and furthermore, no assurance is held that, when the matter comes up again Mr. Utter's support will be given to a system in which representation in the legislature will be increased for the northern section of the state. He added that he had worked hard for the past seventeen years, as a council member and a tax assessor for the welfare of Westerly and its people and is willing if given support, to carry the fight into the legislative halls of the state.

Further interest is added to the republican caucus by the announcement Wednesday afternoon, by President John D. Nichols of Westerly town council, that he would make every effort to creditably fill the office of representative from the first Westerly voting district, held the past two years by Mr. Utter, if tendered the nomination and elected. He also is of the same fighting spirit as Mr. Thorp and with or without the endorsement of the first Westerly voting district republican committee, has stated that he will carry his candidacy to the floor of the caucus.

Of added significance is the fact that the name of John D. Nichols appears among the list of delegates elected to attend the republican state convention to be held in Providence at Elks hall, Wednesday, October 13th for the nomination of state officers. Mr. Nichols' name did not appear in the list of delegates on the slate presented to last Monday's caucus by the republican town committee.

Senator Abraham P. Datson, the incumbent from Westerly, and a member of the legislature on the G. O. P. side with six years service to his credit, declared this week that he will not run for office again.

"There isn't any particular reason except that I think I've been in the senate long enough. That's all," Senator Datson said in explaining his voluntary retirement.

Clifford W. Campbell, representative from the second Westerly district, is a candidate for re-election. The name of the aspirant to the first Westerly district place which Mr. Utter will leave has not been publicly announced.

COURTMARSH FREED BY VERDICT OF JURY

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, Sept. 29—In superior court at West Kingston today, before Judge Arthur P. Sumner, the jury, which was trying the case of George Courtmarsh of Richmond, R. I., charged with transporting for immoral purposes, brought in a verdict of not guilty.

In the case of state, Fred T. Mitchell vs. John Rodriques, charged with manslaughter, this afternoon when his plea of not guilty was changed to one of nolo, a sentence of fifty-five days in Providence county jail was imposed by Judge Sumner.

The jury impaneled was: Harry J. Mitchell, South Kingstown; James Baker, Walter P. Sweet, Clark Strate and George H. Sherman, North Kingstown; Thomas Chadburn, Amos A. Champlin, Arthur J. Edmond and John H. Farnsworth of Westerly; Orgin W. Harris of Hopkinton and John E. Taylor of Charlestown. John H. Farnsworth of Westerly was appointed foreman.

Rodriques was held in connection with the death of Anthony F. Guerra, which occured shortly after an accident on the Boston Post road in the town of Charlestown July 31 last. Guerra died at The Westerly hospital.

Among the witnesses from Westerly testifying were Medical Examiner Dr. Michael H. Scanlon and Highway Engineer Adolph L. Leon.

Recorded in the office of the Westerly town clerk is the transfer:

Sept. 28. Charles F. Champlin of Stonington to Samuel E. Larkin of Westerly, a certain lot or parcel of land, Lot No. 10, parcel No. 1, real estate plat of Peleg Clark estate.

The work of pouring the cement floor for the new Light and Power office building of the South County Public Service company, being erected at 45 High street, was in progress Tuesday. Metal conduits for wiring had been placed above the steel reinforcement for the concrete floor and all the piping, with the exception of the outlets was covered by the concrete mixture. The north brick wall has been carried up two stories and the granite stone courses with reinforced brick backing has already been completed for three or four tiers.

Sir Galahad club of Christ Episcopal church held its annual meeting Tuesday evening, when the following officers were elected:

General committee, William F. Morey, Charles M. Larkin, and Albert Holt; secretary, Jesse A. Barber; treasurer, William F. Morey; chairman, Charles M. Larkin; entertainment committee, James Gregory, William Marr and LeRoy Fontana; sports committee, Lewis Fontana, Albert Holt and Jesse A. Barber.

The senior class of the Westerly high school has elected officers as follows: President, Lloyd Briggs; vice president, Virginia Colins; secretary, Lydia Nichols; treasurer, Arthur Edmond.

The Potter Hill and Ashaway Women's Christian Temperance union is to hold its meeting this (Thursday) afternoon at the home of Mrs Mary E. Coon at Ashaway.

Rev. Arnt L. Schoning, pastor of the Broad Street Christian church, was in Providence Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. T. Edwin Brown of North Stonington were visitors in Westerly Tuesday.

Peleg I. Slocum left Westerly Wednesday afternoon for Bango, Me.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Barber, of Watch Hill and Westerly, will leave Tuesday next for Boston, where a short visit will be made previous to taking the Steamship City of Atlanta Tuesday afternoon for Savannah, Ga. From Savannah the remainder of their trip will be made by rail to Jacksonville, Fla., and to their winter home at Orlando.

Henry G. Clark of South Kingstown and Providence was in Westerly Wednesday.

After being the guest of his father, Joseph H. McGuinness in Pawcatuck, Howard D. McGuinness has returned to his home in Pawtcket.

Joseph Smith has returned to his duties as mail carrier from the New Haven railroad station to Westerly post office, after a vacation visit at Quonochontaug beach.

Bigger, better loaves

Heckers' Flour is rich in gluten, it holds a high place as an energy food and as a body builder.

It makes big, light loaves of bread of wonderful flavor and silky soft texture.

The superlative flour for bread and rolls—they taste better; keep fresher.

Two Minute Hair Dress

By Edna Wallace Hopper

That curl in my hair, that fluff and that glow are due to no expert's attention. I have no time for a hairdresser, and never have a Marcel wave.

Twice a week I apply a hair dress which great experts made especially for me. I have never found anything else to compare. My hair is always curly, always glowing.

Now I am placing this great hair dress at every woman's call. All toilet counters supply it as Edna Wallace Hopper's Wave and Sheen. My guarantee comes with each bottle. Unless it delights you, unless it doubles the beauty of your hair in an hour, ask for your money back. Go get it now. It will be a find.

On hospital walls for 5 years

Velour Finish has been washed and washed

THIS test in the N.Y. Hospital, N.Y. City, is the most practical test that could be made of the quality of this flat wall paint. It proves not only the washability but also the unusual durability of the product.

A wall finish which so adequately meets the particular demands of a hospital, will more than satisfy every requirement of the home.

Made in 27 lovely colors, Velour Finish combines to an unusual degree ease of application, attractive appearance, washability, durability and economy. Practical tests prove Devoe Quality.

JEWETT CITY

DOG QUARANTINE LAW IS TO BE ENFORCED

(Special to the Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Sept. 29—Dog Warden W. R. Palmer stated today that he had received complaints about a large number of dogs, whose owners are not obeying the quarantine law. He was in the borough looking up some cases, and said he should enforce the law unless the violation ceased. The quarantine has not been lifted yet, although it is likely to be soon. Until then every dog must come under the law. Recently, a man was bitten by a dog, running at large on Brown avenue.

The American Express Co., has announced that it will forward free of charge, any packages sent by an Order to Florida for relief work.

Rededication and Rally day are planned at the Baptist church Sunday next. For some three months, during the renovation of its auditorium, the church has been worshipping in its vestry. During that time the walls of its auditorium have been replastered, and walls and ceiling repainted. New panel lights have been installed and other improvements made. George H. Prior, together with the board of trustees, was the committee in charge of this work.

Next Sunday, Oct. 3, at 10:45 a. m., on going back into the renovated auditorium rededicatory exercises will be held. At the morning service Senior Deacon J. H. Phillips will speak on, "Some Sacrifices of the Past"; Geo. H. Prior on, "Experiences and Results in this recent, work of Renovation," and the pastor, Rev. E. E. Scates, on, "Rededication of Church and Self to God". In connection with the morning service an offering will be taken for the hurricane sufferers in Florida.

A special speaker has been secured for the evening at 7 o'clock, Rev. Elbert E. Gates, executive secretary of the Conn. Baptist convention, who is a gifted and popular preacher. There will be special music at both services with Chas. Edward Prior, Jr., of Bridgeport as soloist and in the evening also Chas. E. Prior will speak on "Remeniscences."

At 12 o'clock noon Rally day, with a prepared program, will be observed in the Sunday school. All exercises are open to the public.

The officers elected for the class of 1927 at Riverside Grammar school are president, Walter Richardson, Jr.; vice president, Russel Carpenter; secretary, Henry Czachorowsky; treasurer, Arthur Gray.

Mrs. Minnie Hobart returned Wednesday from New York, where her sister is very ill.

Miss Doris Bliss has been called to Schenectady, N. Y., by the serious illness of her father Leslie Bliss. She was accompanied by her grandmother, Mrs. B. C. Bliss. Mr. Bliss is in a hospital in Albany, where his tonsils were removed and this combined with other physical ailments, is making his condition very alarming.

It was Mrs. Eliza Smith, of Tift street, mother of Fred Smith senior, who was so severely injured by a fall down stairs, not Mrs. Smith of Aspinook street. She mistook the stairway for her bedroom door and fell down thirteen steps. No bones were broken, but her face was terribly bruised, and two stitches had to be taken under one eye.

The funeral of Sister Rita was held in Putnam Wednesday morning. Rev. J. J. McCabe of Jewett City was celebrant of the solemn requiem mass, assisted by Rev. Fathers Arthur Routhier and C. F. Bedard, of Putnam. Other priests present were Rev. J. H. Seiferman of Naugatuck, Rev. B. M. Donnelly and Rev. John Quinn of North Grosvenordale, Rev. R. P. Morrissey of Plainfieldand two Danielson priests. The beares were George Torney, James Dolan, Endor LeClaire and Leodor L'Homme, of Jewett City. Others who attended from Jewett City were the Boucher and Cassavant families, Misses Nellie Connell, Eugenie Heinou, Jennie, McCarthy, Mrs. Joseph McCarthy, Mrs. John Blake, Mrs. Blanchard, Mrs. Morey, Mrs. William McCluggae, Mrs. Roi and daughters, William Blake, J. A. Hourigan and Louis Masse. The Sister of St. Mary's Convent, Jewett City, attended in a body.

The Pachaug Community club is to meet this (Thursday) evening. The committee comprises Mr. and Mrs John Perkins, Charles Perkins and the executive committee.

The Happy MAYTAG "Wash-hour"

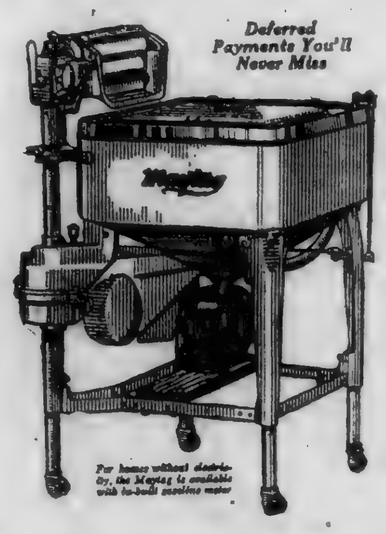
AN early start—real comfort while the washing is being done—and all through in an hour. That's the happy Maytag "wash-hour" that hundreds of thousands of Maytag users know.

Real comfort in washing—because of the many exclusive Maytag features that make washing easier. No other washer has these easy washing advantages—extension legs that makes the Maytag adjustable to your height; a life-lasting cast-aluminum tub that keeps water hot, and that drains and cleans itself in 30 seconds after the washing is done; a handily-placed wringer that instantly adjusts itself to a handkerchief or a blanket and wrings both dry.

Speedier washing—because big tubfuls are washed in 3 to 7 minutes—whole washings, 50 pounds of clothes (dry weight) are washed in one short hour.

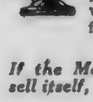
Deferred Payments You'll Never Miss



For homes without electricity, the Maytag is available with its own gasoline motor

Easier washing—because no hand-rubbing is required, even on collars, cuffs or wristbands—everything is washed spotlessly clean in the Maytag by water-action alone.

Cleaner washing—because of the unusual water-action created by the Maytag gyratator in the scientifically-shaped tub, wherein water is keep active in every inch of the tub all of the time.



Phone

Try the Maytag in your own home without obligation or expense. Do a week's washing free.

If the Maytag doesn't sell itself, don't keep it.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

Danny Sets Out

You'll get nowhere unless you start;
You can't arrive and not depart.
—Old Mother Nature.

Danny Meadow Mouse was upset. He was as badly upset as he had ever been in all his life. There he was at the seashore when he wanted to be home, and he hadn't the least idea in the world where home was. To make matters worse, the Man Bird which had brought him there was nowhere about. Without really thinking anything about it Danny had counted on that Man Bird to take him back home. Jimmy Skunk had dryly advised Danny to stay right there.

"I don't want to stay," wailed Danny. "I don't like it here any more. Besides, it isn't safe. Short-ear the Marsh Owl sits on the roof of my house every night, and Reddy Fox watches for me every day. What chance has a poor little Meadow Mouse got? I want to go home and I'm going."

"Well," replied Jimmy, "why don't you start? Talking won't get you there. If you are going, why don't you go? If I wanted to go anywhere I'd just go."

"Of course, you would," replied Danny. "So would I if I were as big as you and carried a bag of scent with me that everybody disliked. But I'm going just the same."

"I almost ran into Bluffer the Adder"

Danny crept out from under the bathhouse. Just then the shadow of Graywing the Gull flying high above swept across the sand just in front of Danny. Instantly Danny dodged back beneath the bathhouse. You see, he didn't know whose shadow that was.

"Oh!" said Jimmy Skunk. "You're back again."

"I haven't started yet," squeaked Danny.

A few minutes later Danny peeked out. The way seemed clear. He crept out. He ran as fast as his little legs could take him for the nearest clump of beach grass. He ran around this, gave a frightened squeal, turned a back somersault, and scampered back under the bathhouse as fast as his short legs would take him.

"Huh!" grunted Jimmy Skunk. "I thought you were going home."

"I am," declared Danny, trying to be dignified, but failing because his teeth were still chattering. "I—I just had a narrow escape."

"How was that?" asked Jimmy.

"I almost ran into Bluffer the Adder. I guess if he hadn't been asleep I wouldn't be here now."

Jimmy looked interested. "Bluffer the Adder, did you say? Where is he?" he inquired. Danny told him. "I think I'll go out and have a look at that fellow," said Jimmy. "I don't want him around here."

So Jimmy Skunk lazily got to his feet and went out. Danny followed a little way behind. He saw Jimmy poke his head around that bunch of grass and then he heard a great hissing. He heard Jimmy Skunk growl something. Then he caught a glimpse of Bluffer the Adder, who is called the Hog-nosed Snake, moving away as fast as he could, which wasn't very fast because Bluffer isn't a fast mover. Jimmy Skunk lazily turned back. "I told that fellow to move along," said he, "and he's moved. Now I guess you can start for home if you want to. Good-by."

"Good bye" replied Danny, and this time he really did set out. He turned his back on what had been his seashore home and started off without knowing at all where he was going.

NEW LONDON DRIVER IMPEDED PROGRESS OF FIRE APPARATUS

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 23.—It is imperative that the fire apparatus of this city be given the right of way when the services of the department are called for. The apparatus was not given that right last evening, when the Konomoc ladder truck was on its way to the Thames shipyard and as a result Louis Taner was prosecuted in the police court this morning. He admitted that he impeded the progress of the apparatus, but held that he did so without intention. Earl Rose, driver of the truck told the court that Taner persistently kept ahead of the truck and went nearly the length of Main street without turning out, that the apparatus might go by. Irving Labensky, the electrician, confirmed what Rose testified and Joseph Facas, the tillerman, also recited the same facts. It was the claim of Taner that he was fearful that his car, a Dodge touring machine, would skid on the wet pavement if he sheered out, but that opinion was not shared by others in the court room, for the car did not skid when Taner went to the curb. Judge Prince gave Taner the benefit of whatever doubt existed and suspended judgment, after some plain instructions had been given the accused.

James Connors forfeited a bond of $50 in the police court this morning rather than appear and be prosecuted for a breach of the peace. He was drunk and fighting yesterday when three officers arrested him; also locked up Louis Pearson with whom Connors was engaged in combat. Pearson was charged with both offenses, breach of peace and intoxication. He has five children and to support them is more than he is able to do. He was guilty of the offenses alleged and said so, but he has children and a wife to aid. So when he was sentenced to jail for six months and ten days, execution of the penalty was suspended, that Pearson might resume work and support his family.

Dr. E. Oliver Winship has sold a building lot, corner of Ocean and Glenwood avenues to Joseph R. Schwartz.

Morris Ilzcowitz and Ethel Greenblatt have sold to Hyman Rutman a house and lot on Squire street.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins R. Stoeckel today ordered suspended the driver's license of Albert Martel, 227 Pequot avenue. Commissioner Stoeckel also ordered the driver's license of Joseph A. Baton, United States Coast Guard, local section base, state pier, returned to the owner. The license was suspended two weeks ago for infraction of the motor vehicle law.

Caroline M. widow of Erastus Saunders died this morning at her residence, 19 Starr street. She has been ill for several years and is survived by a daughter, Miss Stella Saunders, of this city Mrs. Saunders was born in New London and always resided here.

James Whitney, 284 Crystal avenue, made complaint to the police this morning and placed in storage in a bike in front of his home last night and this morning he discovered that a camera which he had forgotten to remove from the car had been stolen.

Two automobiles, one a Ford touring car, and which had been left for days parked in the highways, were taken charge of by the police this morning and laced in storage in a garage. One of the autos which bears registration, N-4267, had been parked on Huntington street, near Washington street, three days. The other car bears registration, N-6503 and had been parked on Church street two days. Both owners as soon as their identity is established will be presented in the police court charged with violation of the city's parking ordinance, which prohibits automobiles being parked in any highway longer than 12 consecutive hours.

This evening it was revealed that the automobile that had been parked three days on Huntington street was a stolen machine, for it is owned by Edward G. Lamb of Ledyard. The police will endeavor to communicate with Lamb tomorrow and acquaint him of his car having been recovered. Lamb drove his automobile to New London last Saturday night and found a parking place on Meridian street. He left the auto there several hours and when he returned about 11:30 o'clock he discovered its loss and reported the theft at the police station. No trace of the auto was found and although it was known that the auto had been where it was abandoned by the thief 72 hours before, the police did not discover until tonight that the auto was the stolen property of Lamb.

One of the cabs of the Yellow Cab company, Crocker House garage, was wrecked last night in Groton when it overturned after having discharged its fare. The cab was so badly damaged that it will require an expenditure of several hundred dollars to place the cab back in service. The cab, which was driven by Joseph Payne, had received a fare in New London to go to Groton. After the passenger had been delivered to his home, Payne drove the cab to Church street intending to continue across the Thames river highway bridge to New London. As the cab was descending the grade and near the corner of Thames street, it skidded and when Payne applied the brakes it skidded still more. Finally getting beyond control of the driver it overturned. The cab slid along the highway several yards and then turned about and came to a stop headed in the opposite direction from that in which it was being driven. Payne was thrown out, but escaped injury other than a few bruises. A wrecker went to Groton this morning and towed the cab to a

Miss Elizabeth Stark, of 144 Huntington street; Mrs. Martha Williams, 129 Bayonet street and Mrs. John Muka, Groton, patients at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

OWEN MURTHA, BOATBUILDER, CLOSES BUSY LIFE OF 86 YEARS

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 29. — Owen Murtha, 86, one of the best known residents of New London, having resided here 70 years, died this afternoon at his home, 47 Squire street. He is survived by two daughters, Mrs. John J. Burke, with whom he resided, and Mrs. Margaret Fox, wife of Mayor William C. Fox, and by a son, John W. Murtha, New York. He was a member of the Ancient Order of United Workmen, Knights of Columbus and was the only surviving charter member of St. John's Literary society. He was also an associate member of Seaside council, Knights of Columbus.

Mr. Murtha became ill several weeks ago when infirmities attending his advanced years caused him to be confined to his home. For a fortnight or more it was believed that he could not survive, but he rallied and a decided improvement was noted. A few days ago he suffered another weak period and did not rally.

Mr. Murtha was born in Ireland, came to this country in 1856 and had resided here continuously since. He was a boat builder by occupation and soon after coming to this city he entered the employ of the Rogers Boat Building company, then located on Bank street. Afterwards he was employed by the Bentley Lumber company when that concern was located at Fort Trumbull. A few years ago he conducted an upholstering business in West Colt street, as well as the selling of antiques.

Trolley service of the Groton and Stonington Traction company between New London and Mystic, was interrupted through last night for the half hourly schedule was omitted and trolley cars between those two points were operated on an hourly schedule. About 8 o'clock a mishap occurred to the cut-out on the trolley wire over the Thames river highway bridge, which prevented any current being obtained until after the cars passed over the bridge. As a result cars arriving at New London waited over a half hour, departing on the half hourly trip and going only as far as the bridge. The passengers walked to the other side and boarded the car that arrived from Mystic, which returned immediately with the passengers. A gang of linemen were engaged several hours perfecting repairs.

Stephen Dion of 565 Bank street, made complaint to the police this afternoon that while he was at the Jennings school earlier in the day his bicycle was stolen from the school grounds.

John Connors of New Haven, who has been employed here as a teamster of late, was arrested yesterday charged with breach of the peace and intoxication, and failed to present himself in the police court this morning. As a result he forfeited a cash bond of $50 but he will be in court tomorrown morning for he is among the prisoners locked up at police headquarters this evening charged with intoxication. Connors was arrested on North Bank street this afternoon when staggering all over the street. Yesterday's breach of the peace charge resulted when Connors engaged in a fight on Water street, sustaining a lacerated forehead, which required two stitches to close the wound. When he left the police station last night he had $35 in his possession and instead of saving his $50 bond by presenting himself in court today he started to and did get drunk again.

Ira Rathbun of Waterford; Miss Lillian Berbstein, 72 Connecticut avenue; Mrs. May Judd, Old Mystic, and Miss Lena Bentova, 65 Pequot avenue, patients at Home Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

Miss Mildred F. May, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James R. May of Montauk avenue, has entered Lesley school, Boston, as a student in the kindergarten and graded school department.

Mrs. Charles F. Spaulding and son, Elmer Spaulding, of State street, are at the White mountains to remain for a week or more.

Miss Sarah Jordan has returned to her home on Howard street, after having spent several days with friends at Belchertown, Mass.

Mrs. J. Lester Parson closed her summer resident on Shore road, Eastern Point, today and returned to her home at Montclair, N. J.

Three of the local theatres will conduct motion pictures Sunday afternoon and the entire receipts will be turned over to the Florida relief fund. The production of the pictures will be the first time that a paid performance has taken place at either of the playhouses.

The state school teachers will hold a convention in New London Oct. 22.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

SPIRITUAL ACADEMY RE-OPENS SERVICES ON SUNDAY

After having been closed since June last, the period of the convening Spiritualists at the various camp grounds, the Spiritual Academy, 29 Park street, will re-open this Sunday at 3:30 and 7:30 p. m. with Nettie H. Harding, of Somerville, as lecturer and test medium. Mrs. Harding has been coming to this society for many years, and her remarkable psychic power is too well known to need further commending. She has served the cause as missionary and pioneer in fields where spiritualism was not known, and is well loved by all who hear and know her.

The balance of this year's list of speakers and mediums includes all of the favorites of former years, and offers as well, as in the past season, the great lights of the spiritual field; those whose gifts of oratory and mediumship stand unrivalled.

The past season, one of the most prosperous in years, was an indication of the greatly increasing interest in spiritualism, and everything points to a record attendance upon the opening Sunday.

As usual, special music is the feature of each service.

This society is the only one in this city, presenting its philosophy and phenomena under the laws and regulations of the National Spiritual association of Wasnington, D. C., that is best in spiritualism.

Broadway Theatre

There is no doubt but that the Broadway theatre management's announcement that Rudolph Valentino's last picture "The Son of the Sheik" will be held over for the remainder of the week is causing widespread comment and joy to the many hundreds who were unable to gain admission the first half of the week or through other causes were unable to attend. Here then is offered an opportunity to see this wonderful romance and star as eternal as life itself, before it leaves Norwich never to return again.

Vaudeville fans will also take pleasure in learning that there will be five acts of Keith vaudeville on the same program with "The Son of the Sheik." The bill includes such stars as:

Dawn Roberts in "The Buggy Ride" by William Smythe assisted by Faye White and Olga Elsler.

Charles Weber and Al Murray "Wise Men of the Yeast".

Dermotti & Co., in Mirth and Magic.

Duggan & Dixon in "Eccentricities".

Irma, Milo & Co., concludes the bill with "A Study in Art".

Breed Theatre

Two captured German submarines, which under the German flag carried the numbers U-63 and U-64, participated in the filming of Rex Ingram's production of "Mare Nostrum" (Our Sea) for Metro-Goldwyn, which is to have its first showing at the Breed theatre Sunday.

These U-boats, 180 feet long and carrying a crew of 40 men, have been in the active French naval service since the end of the war and the French authorities granted Ingram special permission to use them in maneuvers before the camera for "Mare Nostrum." They made a special trip from their Mediterranean base at Toulon to Nice, where many scenes of the famous Blasco Ibanez story were filmed. The boats were part of Germany's "terror fleet" during the war.

Alice Terry and Antonio Moreno have the leading parts in "Mare Nostrum." The remaining members of the cast were chosen from the best of the European actors and actresses.

NORWICH TOWN

In conformity with other Norwich Catholic churches, the Sacred Heart church held all masses on daylight saving time Sunday. Beginning Monday morning a standard time schedule was resumed. Following vacation period during the summer, the junior choir sang at the 8:30 mass, and the senior choir at the ten o'clock mass, Sunday morning.

At this church Monday morning, at 7:30, an anniversary requiem high mass was celebrated by the pastor, Rev. Charles W. Brennan, for the repose of the soul of Michael Donohue, for a number of years sexton at the Sacred Heart church. Mrs. William A. Murphy, organist, directed the musical part of the mass, at the close of which, Miss Mary Buckley sang "Abide With Me."

For the first Friday of the month, mass will be at 7 o'clock Friday morning. In the evening at this church at 7:30, there will be devotions in honor of the Sacred Heart of Jesus.

The weekly prayer meeting of the First Congregational church, is to be held this (Thursday) evening, in the chapel.

Strangers driving through Norwich Town these days are admiring the beauty of the gardens, lawns and trees, also the well kept grounds and so many fine residences.

Many stop to inspect Lowthorpe Meadows, expressing admiration for the beautiful view from the entrance gate. It is certainly a wonderful advantage to Norwich Town and to the city to have this charming little park, generously set aside for the pleasure of the townspeople forever.

Explains How Enlarged Veins Can Be Reduced

Often Times Veins Burst and Cause Much Suffering, Expense and Loss of Employment.

Many people have become despondent because they have been led to believe that there is no remedy that will reduce swollen veins and bunches.

If you will get a two-ounce original bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil (full strength) at any first class drug store and apply it at home as directed you will quickly notice an improvement which will continue until the veins and bunches are reduced to normal.

Moone's Emerald Oil has brought much comfort to worried people all over the country; is one of the wonderful discoveries of recent years and anyone who is disappointed with its use can have their money refunded. Lee & Osgood Co. sells lots of it.

Palace Theatre

Today Constance Talmadge in her latest laughing success "The Duchess of Buffalo" will be the feature attraction. This photoplay is Connie's most lilting story of love, laughter and luxury, and was such a tremendous hit at the Capitol theatre, New York, that it was held over for a second week, a rare thig at that grea theatre. The star is at her very best and is supported by a notable cast. Chester Conklin contributes a large measure of fun and Connie's new leading man, Tullio Carminati, is seen as her romanzic lover and a handsome and ardent one he is, and by the way, the girls are flocking to see him and raving about him. It would appear that in him the screen has found a new idol. "The Duchess of Buffalo" is guaranteed to dispel the worst case of blues, the person does not live who could sit through it without breaking into roars of laughter, and it has a good plot and dramatic love story to make it intensely interesting throughout. Gene Tunney the new champion of the world will be seen in the fourth chapter of his adventure serial, "The Fighting Marine", that grows more absorbing and thrilling with each installment. A new Aesops Fable, "A Rough and Ready Romeo" will contribute its quota of merriment and the latest news of the world will be provided by the always interesting Topical Events. Walter W. Lang, and his orchestra will furnish charming musical settings for this fine program. On Friday night only on the stage will be presented a new and novel entertainment, Semi-Professional Vaudeville by future stars of stage. Knowing that many headline acts get their opportunity on these tryout nights, New York booking agents will be present to look over the future stars. This form of entertainment is not only interesting but it's lots of fun, don't miss this first one.

Breed Theatre

"Whispering Smith" comes to the Breed theatre tomorrow. This is a tremendous Metropolitan picture production featuring H. B. Warner, Lillian Rich, John Bowers and Lilyan Tashman. The scenes are laid in the west during early railroad construction days when train wrecking and looting were common. "Whispering Smith" puts a stop to this plundering and how he does it, makes a highly thrilling story.

Sowing

Last year
I sowed alyssum seed
Along the flag-stones.
I sowed also
A bit of the timidity and uncertainty
With which I garden,
Being a tyro.
The sweet alyssum grew,
And blossomed whitely,
Obedient enough,
But seemed somehow
Not quite sure of itself.
This year, independently,
It came up of its own seed
And spread and bloomed
With the flourish,
With the certainty,
With the triumph,
Of a virtuoso!
Nevertheless,
Last year the seed was sown!

Last year
I sowed hollyhock seed
In a long straight garden row.
I sowed also
A bit of impatience
At the "perennial"
Marked on the little seed-envelope.
Last year
They bore no flowers.
This year
Great sturdy green stalks
Hold a million green buds,
And I shall have hollyhocks!
They will be yellow and white,
They will be pink and white,
Like the picture
On the little seed-envelope.
But last year
The seed was sown!
—Myrtle T. Sutherland in The Christian Science Monitor.

The Happy Day

All day long
I purpose in yonder
Green meadows to wander
And think of a song.

I shall take
Provision of berries,
Black treacle cherries,
And possibly cake.

Where the boughs
Of gilding willows
Freckle green pillows
I shall drowse;

Or wander blithe
Through scented acres
Where haymakers
Sharpen the scythe.

I shall not lack.
I shall not trouble;
Through fields of stubble
I shall come back—

While dusk is spread.
While twilight lingers—
With purple fingers.
A song in my head.
—Sylvia Townsend Warner, in "The Espalier."

ON MONDAY, OCTOBER 4th, 1926, AT EIGHT O'CLOCK P. M., for the following purposes:

To hear and act upon the annual report of the Selectmen and their recommendations, the reports of the Town Treasurer, the Sinking Fund Committee, the Town Health Officer, the Town School Committee, and the Trustees of the Otis Library, to fix the salaries of the Town Officials, to lay a tax to meet the lawful expenses of the Town, including the expenses of the Public Schools for the ensuing fiscal year, and to fix the compensation of the Tax Collector

Also, to determine whether the Town will authorize the Selectmen to borrow a sum not to exceed the amount of Three Hundred and Twenty-five Thousand ($325,000) Dollars at such times and in such amounts during the twelve months next ensuing as they shall deem proper, to defray the debts of the Town maturing before the next Annual Town Meeting and to discharge the notes or other obligations of the Town therefor as same in their judgment be for the best interests of the Town.

Also, to determine whether the Town will appropriate a sum of Five Hundred ($500.00) Dollars to be used for the current expenses of the Otis Library.

Also, to determine whether the Town will appropriate a sum of Fifteen Hundred ($1,500.00) Dollars to be used by the Selectmen for the repair, care and maintenance of the road bordering upon the highways of the Town.

Also, to see if the action of the Selectmen in the laying out of a road from Lincoln Forge to a connection with the layout of the improved highway on the Gardner Hill Road, cancelled.

Also, to appropriate a sum not to exceed Three Hundred ($300.00) Dollars to defray the travelling expenses of people residing in this Town who desire to attend the Putnam Trade School.

Also, to determine whether the Town will accept the offer of Nathan L. and Mary C. Lucas to convey to the Town of Norwich, a certain tract of land containing about eight acres and situated near Peach Brook, located in the Town, to be maintained by the Town as a Town Forest.

Also to determine whether the Town will appropriate a sum of money of not to exceed Eight Hundred Dollars to repair the pavement of children who are residents of the Town and who attend the Norwich Free Academy from the payment of the necessary term fees for the school year of 1926-1927.

Also to determine whether the Town will appropriate a sum of Eight Thousand, Five Hundred ($8,500.00) Dollars for the purpose of providing medical inspection and general health work among the children of school age residing in the Town of Norwich.

Also to determine whether the Town will appropriate a sum of Eighteen Hundred ($1800.00) Dollars to be used in maintaining a treatment station in the case of general disease.

Also to determine whether the Town will appropriate a sum of One Thousand ($1,000.00) Dollars to be used in repairing the necessary expenses of the proper observance of Armistice Day on November 11th, 1926.

Also, to determine whether the Town will appropriate a sum of One Thousand ($1,000.00) Dollars to place fire hydrants in the Village of Yantic between the railroad crossing and the Bozrah Town line.

Also, to determine whether the Town will appropriate a sum of Two Thousand ($2,000.00) Dollars for the purpose of building and erecting storm sewers on the lower end upon Preston Bridge and on the Laurel Hill Road.

Also to discuss other business proper to come before said Meeting.

Dated at Norwich, Connecticut, this 27th day of September, A. D. 1926.

WILLIAM F. MURRAY,
CHARLES P. BISSELL,
PATRICK T. CONNELL,
Selectmen of the Town of Norwich.

Superior Court, New London County
September 24th, 1926
MARY B. GOODNOW
vs.
THE FORT GRISWOLD PAPER CO.
Notice of Limitation of Time for Presentation of Claims

Notice is hereby given that in the above entitled action on the 17th day of September, 1926, the Superior Court, New London County, State of Connecticut, wherein the undersigned P. LeRoy Harwood was appointed permanent receiver of The Fort Griswold Paper Company, on said 17th day of September, 1926, made and entered the following order limiting the time for the presentation to said receiver of claims against said The Fort Griswold Paper Company:

"That four months from and after October 1st, 1926, be and the same is hereby limited for the presentation to said receiver of claims against said estate, that all claims not so presented be thereafter forever barred and that said receiver give notice to all parties concerned of said limitation, that all claims not presented within the time limited will be thereafter barred and of the address to which claims may be sent to him by mail by publishing such notice in three issues each of the 'Norwich Bulletin', a newspaper published in the Town of Norwich, and the 'New London Day', a newspaper published in the Town of New London, and by causing a copy of said notice to be mailed, postage paid to each known creditor, all on or before the 30th day of September,

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

MARKET WAS IRREGULAR

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.— (AP) —The stock market presented a spotty appearance today, with closing quotations irregularly lower. Extreme nervousness over the money situation was again apparent, due to the marking up of the call money rate from 5 1-4 to 5 1-2 per cent and the stiffening of the charge on the longer time loans and commercial paper. With directors of the Federal Reserve bank of New York holding their regular weekly meeting after the close of the market tomorrow, there was a rather general tendency to unload stocks in anticipation of a possible increase in the rediscount rate.

The day's business news was largely constructive. The chief development of the day was the raising of the regular dividend on the common stock of the Baltimore & Ohio from $5 to $6 which was announced after the market closed. The weekly steel trade reviews emphasized the sustained activity of the industry and the prospects of a good fourth quarter, but this was offset, in part, by the drop in the prices of heavy melting steel in the Chicago district. U. S. Steel common closed nearly a point lower at 148 1-8 after having sold close to the 150 mark earlier in the session.

Opposing speculative forces tried hard to break the market out of the narrow trading area within which it has been floundering for a fortnight or more, but without success. Operators working for higher prices succeeded in marking up a number of issues 2 to 8 points, but encountered large offerings and were unable to maintain the higher prices. On the other hand, speculators for the decline managed to force about a dozen stocks to new low levels for the year, but strong buying support for most of the high grade industrials and rails prevented them from unsettling the general list.

Moderate recessions were recorded by such recent industrial favorites as American Radiator, Baldwin, Texas Gulf Sulphur and Warner Pictures A, while American Smelting, Allis Chalmers, Case Threshing, Continental Baking A, Radio Corporation and Yellow Truck showed substantial net gains.

A sharp break of over 8 points in Atlantic Coast Line, half of which was later recovered, on the publication of an unfavorable August earnings statement, had a depressing effect on the rail list which other favorable earnings statements were unable to overcome. Chesapeake & Ohio rallied from a low of 169 to 173 3-4, closing at 172 1-4 for a small fractional loss on the day. Baltimore & Ohio showed a net loss of over 1 point at 106 1-2.

The time money market was dull with 5 per cent the ruling rate. Prime commercial paper was quoted at 4 1-2 to 4 3-4 instead of on a flat 4 1-2 per cent basis.

The principal commodity markets moved higher. Active wheat futures rallied about 2 cents a bushel and cotton scored net advances of 26 to 30 points, with reports of unfavorable weather influencing the buying in both markets. Raw sugar was unchanged and coffee prices yielded slightly.

Another break in silver forced the Chinese currencies to new low levels but the European rates held firm. Demand sterling was quoted slightly higher, around $4.84 3-4 and French francs were firm above 3.80 cents.

TAFTVILLE

St. Veronica's T. A. and B. society held a successful Whist party Tuesday evening in Parish hall. Twenty-four tables were in play. The first prize for ladies, a sandwich tray went to Miss Janet Archambeault, the second, a boudoir lamp to Miss Gabriel Paquette, third, a bread tray to Mrs. Arthur Allard and the consolation, a perfume bottle to Miss Jeannette Senecal. The gentlemen's first prize, a box of cigars was awarded to Lawrence Benoit, the second, an electric flashlight to Miles Fitzmaurice; the third a pack of cards to William Paradis and the consolation, a pair of suspenders to Alfred Magnan.

The scorers were Miss Agnes Marcoux, Miss Grace Phelan, Miss Lucie Couture, Miss Helen Breault, Miss Annie Dailey, Miss Florence Sullivan and Miss Agnes M. Dougherty. The chairman of the committee in charge was Miss Louise White, and Miss Mary Haulon was the deputy chairman. The reception committee included Miss Anna Dailey, Miss Lucie Couture, and Miss Agnes Murphy. The committee in charge of prizes was Miss Alice Legare, Miss Mayme Nolan and Miss Andrea Fromnader. The card committee was Miss Helen Breault, Miss Antoinette Legare and Miss Mary Ward. Miss Grace Phalen and Miss Elizabeth Ward were in charge of paintings and Miss Agnes M. Dougherty and Miss Nora Murphy had charge of the door and checking. The proceeds were for the benefit of the Sacred Heart church, of which St. Veronica's T. A. and B society is an auxiliary organization.

The Occawaan Camp Fire girls are to hold a ceremonial meeting Friday evening in the parlors of the Taftville Congregational church under the direction of their guardian Mrs. Edwin Jordan Crowdis and their assistant guardian, Mrs. Joan Volkman. The mothers of the members have been invited to attend, and the ceremonial will be followed by a social hour.

Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Proulx of Hunters avenue have left in their car for Canada, where they are to visit relatives in the province of Quebec.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Girard and family of North A street moved Wednesday to Hartford, where Mr. Girard has accepted a position as a barber, having resigned his position with the No. 3 weaving department of the local mills. Their son, Abel Girard is with the Underwood Typewriter company of Hartford and their daughter Miss Irene Girard has also been employed in that city for the past two months.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Bardsley of North A street have returned from England where they have been spending the summer. While there they visited friends and relatives at Ashton-under-Lyne.

Deputy collector of Internal revenue, George M. Charbonneau of Norwich was a visitor in town Wednesday.

William Kinder of Burlington, Vt., formerly of Attawaugan, was a caller in town Wednesday.

A meeting of the standing committee of the Taftville Congregational church, with chairman George H. Young presiding was held Tuesday evening in the church vestry.

The executive committee of the Taftville Rod and Gun club have received notice that they are to receive from the Connecticut State hatcheries at Middletown twenty-one 90 lbs. cans of brook trout fingerlings for distribution in this vicinity. It has been decided to liberate the contents of eight cans in some of the Lisbon brooks, ten cans in Beaver brook and three cans in Dragonis brook. Reports of club members show that game birds especially pheasants and grouse are to be very plentiful this season and that hunters may expect some good shooting. There is also a growing interest in the value of guinea-fowl as a game bird. Several fish and game organizations throughout the country are trying them with good results. When liberated, they revert to their wild nature very quickly, and are said to resemble quail when being hunted. The Rod and Gun club have contributed greatly in aiding the increase of fish and game in this locality.

ASKS RECEIVERSHIP ON CLAIM THAT COMPANY IS HEAVILY ENCUMBERED

New suits returned to the superior court for this county were filed here Wednesday at the office of the clerk of the court as follows:

Edith Farina Miller, of New London, seeks divorce from Ernest W. Miller of that city whom she married Jan. 23, 1915. She alleges desertion since Jan. 1, 1917 and asks the custody of four minor children running from 12 to 4½ years in age.

Suit for the appointment of a receiver for the 325 State Street Corporation of New London, owner of the Guard theatre property, has been brought by the Amherst Brick Co., of Springfield, Mass., which furnished brick for the construction of the building on the property, on which it is claimed there is a balance due for $3,300, for which a mechanics lien has been filed. It is claimed by the plaintiff that the incumbrances on the property are so large in comparison with the property value and the carrying charges against it and the expense of maintaining and managing it will be so large, that it is necessary that all rents and revenues from the property should be carefully conserved to meet these obligations; and it is necessary for the protection of the plaintiff that a receiver be appointed to take and hold possession of the property and to collect the rents and revenues during the pendency of this action, with power to pay from the obligations the rents and revenues.

Party defendants named who hold mechanics liens are: Warner-Miller Co., $874.44; Aben - Hardware Co., $282.43; Thames Lumber Co., $1,128.08; Thames Lumber Co., $486.50; Lavoie Bros., $766.44; John Mossbrooker, $262.50; Leroy N. Darrow, $92.22; Clark Construction Co., $40,706.94. It is stated also that there are two mortgages on the property, one for $360,000 held by the Colonial Bond and Mortgage Co., trustee, and the other for $190,000, held by the New Haven bank, N. B. A., trustee.

Suit for divorce from Lodovina Rosa Gonzales, now in Portugal, whom he married there in May, 1909, has been brought by Manuel Gonsales of New London. He alleges that his wife deserted him in May, 1923. There are two minor children, aged 17 and 12 years.

Sofia Bishop Bell of New London, seeks divorce from Homan S. Bell of the same city. She alleges that her husband has been guilty of intolerable cruelty and neglect to provide. At that time she was awarded $20,000 alimony and counsel fees. In March of the following year, however, she filed notice of withdrawal and discontinuance of her petition. The notice was filed within the six months period, at the end of which the decree would become final.

Her husband's lawyers, however fought the discontinuance, and Mr. Fitzgerald declared that Mrs. McLaughlin was merely taking "one more dig" at her husband's gold.

Noted Ruling Made

Chief Justice William H. Sweetland of the supreme court passed on the petition of discontinuance and at that time made his noted ruling that the "state strongly desires the continuance of the marriage relation, and hence is opposed to divorce." The court, however, refused her petition, and Mr. McLaughlin moved for a final decree.

His wife opposed it, and Chief Justice Sweetland ordered a writ of prohibition commanding the superior court to refrain from entering a final decree.

In August, 1922, Mrs. McLaughlin asked to have her husband adjudged in contempt to court because he had failed to pay her the allowance fixed by the court ruling. The request was denied by Judge Capotosto but later the same court ordered Mr. McLaughlin's counsel to turn over to Mrs. McLaughlin $1,100, due and unpaid. He also ordered Mrs. McLaughlin to consent to the filing of a final decree within 30 days and declared that the evidence before him showed that the parties could not become reconciled.

Within 30 days, however, the parties apparently had become reconciled, and Mrs. McLaughlin said that she "would live and die the wife of the man she married." Her petition was discontinued.

War broke out again in the following year when, in April, 1923, Mr. McLaughlin went to Reno to divorce his wife. He was ordered to pay all her expenses when she went West to testify in the case, and was forced to pay her $1335 before the case could proceed.

In December he was granted a divorce, but in November, 1925, the decree was set aside when legal domicile was questioned, and it was ruled that habitual use of drugs was not ground for cruelty. At the time of the decree, Mr. McLaughlin was ordered to divide the $40,000, which the court adjudged he was worth, with his wife. She declared this amount was ridiculously low and fought the decision.

The supreme court ruled in her favor and a new trial was ordered in August last year. Mr. McLaughlin was denied a rehearsing when his wife obtained a reversal of judgment.

Her latest suit is a success, and the withdrawal of her husband's counsel indicates that the McLaughlin legal war is over.

Brewer Property But Little Damaged

Dr. E. P. Brewer has learned that his property at Miami suffered but very little damage, losing only a few panes of glass while plate glass windows were not damaged. His total loss on one piece of property not covered by insurance will not be more than $50, probably. The property where glass was broken was located only a few blocks away from a part of the city where the force of the storm was most severely felt.

Rainfall About Quarter Inch

The rain at around midnight Saturday gave a precipitation of .27 of an inch, according to the measurement recorded at the Norwich water department office. The rain was accompanied by thunder and lightning.

Automobile Struck By Trolley Car

An automobile owned and operated by John Halpin of 176 North Main street was struck by a trolley car in Franklin square about 5:15 Wednesday afternoon. The machine sustained a damaged mudguard.

MRS. M'LAUGHLIN AT LAST WINS DIVORCE DECREE

Culminating five years, almost to the day, of legal warfare, Mrs. Belle Stanton McLaughlin, formerly of this city, on Monday scored what is believed to be a final victory in her suit for divorce from James McLaughlin, wealthy lumber merchant of Cumberland, R. I. The decree was entered by the Nevada supreme court at Carson City after a last minute withdrawal by McLaughlin's counsel when the case went by default.

The decision gives Mrs. McLaughlin $500 a month alimony and $1000 for counsel fees.

Rhode Island lawyers conducted the case throughout its history.

The present decree of divorce is the second secured by Mrs. McLaughlin during the complicated and long-drawn-out litigation, which has been carried on since September, 1921. Her husband also has secured one decree against her, but the decision was vacated by the high court of Nevada.

Mrs. McLaughlin's first decree was secured in Rhode Island in September, 1921, when the superior court favored her petition on grounds of extreme cruelty and neglect to provide. At that time she was awarded $20,000 alimony and counsel fees. In March of the following year, however, she filed notice of withdrawal and discontinuance of her petition. The notice was filed within the six months period, at the end of which the decree would become final.

SCHOLARSHIP TO FOSTER AGRICULTURE AMONG JEWS

As a means of furthering the interests of farm-minded people, scholarships covering expenses of a short course in agriculture at any state agricultural college are offered by the Jewish Agricultural society. These scholarships are available to any Jewish young man or woman with farm experience. The awards are made principally on the basis of the applicant's understanding of the practical phases of farming and his fitness to pursue the studies at an agricultural college.

The courses for which the society's scholarships are granted are given by the state agricultural colleges primarily for the benefit of those who either already are, or intend to be, engaged in farming. For the convenience of farmers, they are given during the winter months, when work on the farm is not very pressing. To the Jewish Agricultural society the value of this training has been amply demonstrated by the recipients of its scholarships in the past.

Those interested in these scholarships may obtain information and application blanks at the headquarters of the Jewish Agricultural society, 301 East 14th street, New York city. The scholarships are but one of the many ways in which this organization fosters agriculture among Jews.

COLCHESTER GIRL DIES FROM BULLET INJURY

Sophie Skut, eight-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Skut of Colchester, died late Tuesday night at St. Joseph's hospital, Willimantic. The girl was accidentally shot through the eye with a revolver in the hands of 13-year-old Joseph Rutka, Sunday, while the two were playing in the Skut barn, where Mrs. Skut was milking cows.

Following investigation by the state police, Steven Stevensky, proprietor of a gas station at Colchester, was arrested and later bound over to the next term of the superior court under bonds of $300, charged with selling firearms without a permit. It is alleged that Stevensky sold the revolver to the Rutka boy Sunday morning for $1.45.

The boy had taken the revolver to the barn and after pulling the trigger twice without discharge evidently believed the weapon unloaded. Playfully pointing the weapon at the girl, young Rutka again pulled the trigger, the bullet entering the girl's eye and lodging in her brain. She was rushed to the hospital where little hope was held for her recovery. She remained in a very low condition until late Tuesday night when a turn for the worse proved fatal.

Besides her father and mother, the child is survived by several brothers and sisters.

FEWER AUTO FATALITIES IN LAST TWO MONTHS

A decided falling off in automobile fatalities during the months of July and August has brought a slight decline in the automobile fatalities rate for the year up to September 4th, when compared with the same period last year. Whether this decline may be attributed to unseasonable weather or whether the many safety campaigns that have been carried throughout the country are bearing fruit, is not indicated by the Metropolitan Life Insurance company's statistical bureau, which has issued the figures after analysis of death causes among the company's seventeen million industrial policyholders.

This is the first time in the history of the company's automobile fatality rate among industrial policyholders, that, at this time of the year been shown over the same period of the preceding year. For the first six months of the year the comparison showed the usual increase which has been a source of worry to public safety officials for many years.

"It is still too early," according to the company's statistical bureau, "to assure that when the records for the year are complete there will be a lower automobile fatality rate than in 1925. It is entirely possible that the final quarter of 1925 may again be so unfavorable that the slight decline will be overcome and an increase may be registered for the year. The Labor day holiday, with its attendant large number of automobile accidents, was not included in the analysis.

"However," the bureau continues, "what has happened during the late summer is an exceedingly encouraging development and one that will be gratifying news to all who are interested in accident control."

SECURES DIVORCE FROM FORMER NORWICH WOMAN

(Special to the Bulletin)

WORCESTER, Sept. 29—William H. Joy of Worcester has been awarded a divorce decree from his wife, Mrs. Mary J. Joy of Brighton, formerly of Norwich, Ct., according to a decision handed down by Judge Frederick H. Chamberlain in the Worcester County probate court here.

Joy charged that he was deserted by his wife on August 15, 1922, less than three years after their marriage. They were wed at Norwich on Nov. 20, 1920. Mrs. Joy did not contest the suit.

ANOTHER PERUVIAN SUB IS BUILT AT GROTON

Completely equipped and outfitted, the submarine R-1, second vessel of her type to be built by the New London Ship & Engine Co., under contract with its parent concern, the Electric Boat Co., for the Peruvian navy, will leave the Ship & Engine Co., at Groton today (Thursday), for Provincetown, preparatory to undergoing her availability tests, which will be conducted on the ocean proving grounds off the Cape Cod port. The R-2, sister ship of the R-1, which has already been accepted by the Peruvian government, left here Wednesday for Provincetown and will accompany the R-1 on the trial trips.

Trial Engineer W. W. Foster and other experts in the employ of the Electric Boat Co., will sail with the R-1, although the officers and crew who will command the ship after she has been accepted by the Peruvian government will man her. They are Lieut. Comdr. Pablo Ontaneda, who will be skipper of the R-1, Lieut. Adan Bedhan, executive officer, and Ensigns Alejandro Bastante and Alfonso Balaguer. Lieut. Cmdr. Umerto Castaneda, inspector of machinery of the Peruvian Naval commission in the United States, who made the trial trips with the R-2 will also be aboard the R-1 to pass upon her mechanical performance.

The availability tests will be extended over a period of several days and officials of the Electric Boat Co., and the Ship & Engine Co., as well as the Peruvian officials are confident that the performance of the R-1 will meet with the same success that characterized the trials of the R-2. The latter vessel, exceeded the contract requirements in every respect. She maintained a surface speed of nearly 15 knots for four hours, and a submerged speed of ten and one-half knots. On her submergence test she remained at the bottom of the ocean for one-half hour at a depth of 253 feet.

The R-2 was launched at the Groton plant of the Ship & Engine Co., on April 29; the R-1 on July 12. The former vessel, already accepted by the Peruvian government, is under sole command of Comdr. Jose R. Alzanora, skipper, and his crew. The R-1 will be accepted as soon as her availibility tests have been completed, and it is expected that the two submarines will be ready to start on the 3,600 mile trip to Peru about October 15.

Both vessels were carefully designed to meet the requirements of the Peruvian navy. They are of the Holland type, of single hull construction and equipped with the most modern devices known to the art of submarine navigation. Each is equipped with four torpedo tubes, and one three-inch gun. They are propelled on the surface by two six cylinder Nelseco Diesel engines, especially designed for these vessels, which were built in the companies' shops at Groton. The main motors and all of the auxiliary motors were especially designed and built by the Electro Dynamic Co., of Bayonne, N. J., another subsidiary of the Electric Boat Co.

SUSPENDED DRIVER LIST HAS 61 NAMES IN WEEK

The weekly list of operators whose licenses to drive automobiles in Connecticut have been suspended for one year for driving while under the influence of liquor was given out Wednesday at the state motor vehicle department as a part of the effort to reduce this highway menace. There are sixty-one names on the list, the cases were appealed, four were Connecticut operators convicted in other states. The department's statement advised people to notify the department or the police in case they should see any of the suspended drivers operating motor vehicles.

The list includes William Bergeron, Norwich; William G. Bishop, Earl L. Campbell, Antelmo Severini, Arthur B. Prentice, New London; Louis Caron, Plainfield; Albert J. Richard, Everett A. Jones, Harry Cannizzaro, Westerly; George Chausse, North Grosvenordale; Benjamin D. Gagne, Putnam; Ovila E. Heroux, Danielson; and William H. Owen, Moosup.

CHARLES E. HUGHES TO BE U. S. MEMBER PERMANENT COURT OF ARBITRATION

President Coolidge Has Designated Mr. Hughes to Fill the Vacancy Created at The Hague by the Death of George Gray—Mr. Hughes, Who Has Had Wide Experience as an International Lawyer, is a Strong Advocate of Settlement of International Disputes by Abitration.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—(AP)—President Coolidge has designated Charles Evans Hughes of New York to be United States member of the permanent court of arbitration at the Hague for a term of six years.

He will fill the vacancy created by the death of George Gray, formr. American member of the court.

Mr. Hughes, who is a strong advocate of settlement of international disputes by arbitration, has had wide experience as an international lawyer, while the many public offices he has held offered him an unusual background for the post. He has served as an associate justice of the supreme court, as secretary of state under Presidents Harding and Coolidge and as governor of New York state.

Secretary Kellogg has instructed Minister Richard M. Tobin, at the Hague, to advise the secretary general of the permanent court of Mr. Hughes's designation to that tribunal.

SIX PERSONS WERE KILLED IN THE VERA CRUZ TORNADO

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Official reports this far state that six persons were killed in Monday's tornado which struck Vera Cruz and Tuxpa but reports are trickling in indicating that several villages in remote sections have suffered heavily.

Governor Jara of the state of Vera Cruz has reported that the hamlet of La Antigua has been wiped out but has made no mention of casualties." La Antigua has a population of not more than 600. Governor Jara also reported that landslides occurred in the mountainous district cutting off railway communication on the Interoceanico and Teocelo line. In addition he reported the destruction of the San Francisco bridge which was erected at a cost of a million dollars.

Of the six persons officially announced dead, two were killed at Vera Cruz and four at Jalapa. Twenty houses were destroyed in the latter place when the river overflowed.

FLOODS ARE MENACING FARMS IN ARKANSAS

FORT SMITH, Ark., Sept. 30.—(AP)—Threatened floods tonight were driving farmers in the Arkansas and Poteau river bottoms to seek safety in higher lands with live stock and equipment.

Heavy rains in the lowlands of Oklahoma have swollen both rivers and brought the Arkansas to flood stage. Weather bureau officials in sending out warnings to inhabitants of the inundated area today predicted a stage here of 35 to 38 feet for Friday morning. Flood stage is 22 feet.

The flood will be of short duration, river officials here believe, and will confine itself to the territory from the mouth of the Neosho river near Ft. Gibson, Okla., 120 miles west, to a point fourteen miles west of Fort Smith.

MANUFACTURING OUTPUT THE HIGHEST ON RECORD

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—(AP)—The nation's manufacturing output during August was the highest on record, the commerce department announced today after assembling statistics from practically all industries. The volume for the month was represented by the index number of 139 on a scale which makes the 1919 output equal 100 for the calendar year. This is an increase of 12 per cent over August 1925, and an increase of 7 per cent over the output during July of this year.

The textile and leather industries were the only ones which reported less production in August than for the same period of 1925. Automobile manufacture, which was assigned an index number of 267 for August shower the greatest expansion.

AUTOS VALUED AT $60,000,000 WERE STOLEN LAST YEAR

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Motorists lost $60,000,000 last year through the theft of automobiles, and the present situation is an "open challenge on the part of the underworld to the insurance companies," Alfred Reeves, general manager of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, asserted today.

Speaking before the Brooklyn Rotary club, he said that insurance rates are too high, and advocated a central detection bureau for catching automobile thieves. Careless automobile owners are partly to blame for the enormous loss, Mr. Reeves said. He urged the insurance companies to join together to "rout their common enemy," automobile thieves, and to use greater caution in issuing insurance policies.

2,000 CHINESE FISHERMEN PERISHED IN A TYPHOON

HONG KONG, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Two thousand Chinese fisherman are believed to have perished in a typhoon which raged throughout Monday. More than 100 junks which were engaged in fishing in the Canton river estuary and off the coast have not made port and are believed to have been wrecked or sunk.

The only known foreign casualty was the drowning of a Dutch resident of Hong Kong, who was blown into the water.

Shipping at Honk Kong, a British colony, and at Macao, a Portuguese settlement, was badly battered by rough seas, but the wind did comparatively little damage to the cities.

AMERICAN STEAMER AFIRE RUSHING TOWARD SAVANNAH

NORFOLK, Va., Sept. 30.—(AP)—The American Steamer New Britain is afire off the Georgia coast and is speeding toward Savannah. The Steamer Firmore reported by radio tonight.

The Firmore said she was then 14 miles from the New Britain and that flames were visible above the hatches. The message added that the Firmore was crowding on all steam to keep as close to the burning ship as possible in its dash toward Savannah.

PROCEEDINGS OF MILLER-DAUGHERTY CONSPIRACY CASE

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—(AP)—When George E. Williams managing director of the alien property custodian's office from 1918 to 1924 advised the release of $7,000,000 impounded assets of the American Metal company in 1921, he knew that another claim for some of the same property had been previously denied, he testified in the Miller-Daugherty conspiracy trial today.

Williams, who as first assistant to Thomas W. Miller as alien property custodian investigated the American Metal company claim of Richard Merton, was the first defense witness in the trial of Miller and Harry M. Daugherty for conspiracy to defraud the government of their best services in permitting the Merton release.

During the whole of the morning session he was questioned by William Rand, counsel for Miller. Rand's questioning tended to show that all the work of investigating the Merton claim and pasing on it for the A. P. C. office had been done by Williams and that Miller had signed it in good faith on his managing director's assertion that it was valid.

Shortly after the beginning of the afternoon session United States Attorney Buckner took the witness stand. Buckner had said earlier in the trial that Williams would be shown to have been a co-conspirator with Daugherty and Miller.

Judge Mack announced, however, before the defense began its case today, that William had not been shown to be a co-conspirator.

MODEL HUNG TO MAN'S WRISTS BEFORE FALLING TO DEATH

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Miss Dorothy Smith, 23-year-old clock model, who plunged to her death from a fourth floor window of an East Eighty-Ninth street apartment, early Monday a. m. hung with her fingers grasping the hands of wrists of a man for a minute before she fell, witnesses told Assistant District Attorney Brothers today.

The witnesses, who watched the tragedy from adjoining homes, were unable to say whether the man was trying to pull her back into the room or deliberately loosed his grip and left her drop to the paved courtyard.

Assistant District Attorney Brothers announced he had gathered sufficient evidence to go before the grand jury Monday and ask that Francis Murphy, from whose apartment the girl fell, and his companion John J. Fitzpatrick, be indicted on charges of homicide. Both men are being held without bail on that charge for hearing tomorrow.

STRENGTHENS STATE'S CASE IN HALL-MILLS MURDERS

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Sept. 30.—(AP)—"Sensational revelations" of Henry L. Dickman, the missing state trooper who was found in Alcatraz Island military prison, have strengthened the state's case against four persons indicted for the Hall-Mills murders, Special Prosecutor Simpson announced today. Dickman vanished after several months work on the case, and a recent report that he was bribed to leave was subsequently denied.

"Wickman has given brand new testimony," said Simpson, "and he has told of a witness of the murders not heretofore known. He will be kept at Governor's Island until the murder trial and will be an important witness for the state.

"His statement is too important and too sensational to make public. I'm on my way to a safe deposit vault where no one can get at it," he added.

AMHERST FOOTBALL PLAYER SUFFERS FRACTURED SPINE

AMHERST, Mass., Sept. 30.—(AP)—The condition of Alfred B. Pimm, Jr., of West Hartford, Conn., Amherst football player whose spine was fractured in a practice scrimmage yesterday, still was critical tonight. Surgeons in charge of his case said the outcome of an operation performed last night to remove pressure on the spine was "still conjectural."

Pimm, a junior and a second string halfback on the football squad, became paralyzed after suffering an injury to his head near the close of the day's practice. It was announced tonight that no relief from the paralysis below the middle of the trunk had been evidenced.

IRONWOOD JUBILANT OVER THE RESCUE OF MINERS

IRONWOOD, Mich., Sept. 30.—(AP)—The privacy of their homes today enveloped the 42 miners, rescued yesterday after five days entombment in the G. Pabst iron mine, following a cave-in which killed three of their comrades and shut them off from the world.

All of the men who spent last night in a hospital were discharged today. The community jubilation which followed their rescue gave way tonight to fireside Thanksgiving. Most of the men are married. Sunday the city will join a public service to give thanks for their deliverance from death.

Arrest of Postoffice and Bank Robbers

Postal Inspectors Believe They Have Broken Up a Gang—Eight Men in Custody.

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—(AP)—The arrest of eight men here and up-state is believed by postal inspectors to have broken up a gang that in eight months has robbed banks and post offices in New York, Massachusets and Pennsylvania of more than a million dollars.

Four of the men were arrested at the Cedarhurst inn, West Sand Lake, near Troy, described by postal inspectors as a "yeggman's hangout." Three were arrested there and the eighth was arrested in his home at Delmar.

Postal Inspector Charles H. Clarahan, who directed the investigation that led to the arrests, said the eight were suspected of the theft of a "million" in stamps in various cities, and also of post office and bank robberies in three states.

The men were described by the investigators as "burners," the term being applied because of their use of acetylene torches to gain entry into banks and post office safes.

Those arrested at the inn were Charles Dean, Frank Nolan, Michael McCabe and Charles Moffitt. They described themselves as salesmen. They were specifically charged with having burglar tools in their possession. The three arrested here were Joseph Blu, Thomas Reilly and Joseph McCarthy. The eighth man was Joseph Garibaldi.

Postal inspectators said all have criminal records. The arrests were made yesterday, but not made public until today to prevent "leaks."

RESIGNATION OF POLISH CABINET ACCEPTED

WARSAW, Poland, Sept. 30—(AP)—The cabinet of Premier Bartel presented its resignation tonight after a debate in the diet, and, much to the surprise of the general public President Moscicki accepted it.

The comment is made that Marshal Pilsudski, who remains as the power behind the throne, suddenly changed his mind, and instead of permitting the president to dissolve the houses of parliament, asked him to accept the cabinet's resignation following upon the decision of the diet on the credits asked by the government to carry on affairs for the last quarter of 1926.

It is learned that the four ministers of the Bartel cabinet representing the economic offices of agriculture, commerce and industry, land reforms and finance also advised against dissolution of parliament and elections in January, as was contemplated, stating that such procedure would interfere with the present work on improving Poland's economic situation. They also pointed out that January would be a bad month for elections in agricultural country, as the peasants would not come to the polls in the cold weather.

VIEWS OF PRESIDENT OF THE PHILIPPINE SENATE

MANILA, Sept. 30—(AP)—Manuel Wuezon, president of the Philippine senate, speaking from the floor of that body today, took issue with General Aguinaldo on the old revolutionary leaders unqualified support of Governor General Wood and in favor of large investments of American capital in the Philippines under American rule.

Quezon said that the Filipino people could not consistently co-operate with policies of the present administration in the Philippines calculated to retard the advent of Philippine independence or to withdraw from the people governmental powers and prerogatives already enjoyed by them.

Referring to large investments of American capital, Quezon said that while there was ample opportunity for investment capital should not be induced to come except with the clear understanding that the Philippines would be independent within a very short time.

NORTH DAKOTA CITIZENS TRAILING BANK ROBBERS

NEW ROCKFORD, N. D., Sept. 30—(AP)—Citizens deserted their business places and homes to join with officers in trailing four robbers who today held up and robbed the First National bank of New Rockford, escaping in a motor car with between $50,000 and $60,000. Part of the loot is in registered bonds. The posse formed and started in pursuit only a few minutes after the robbery occurred.

The automobile has a Minnesota license plate.

While one man sat the wheel of a motor car in front of the bank the other three entered, drew pistols and forced eight customers into a corner and four bank employes into a vault.

MUSSOLINI AND CHAMBERLAIN IN CONFERENCE ON YACHT

LEGHORN, Italy, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Sir Austen Chamberlain, British foreign secretary, and Premier Mussolini aboard the Italian Yacht Giuliana today discussed in private for more than an hour questions of international import.

An offiial communique issued afterward is taken as signifying that Great Britain and Italy are in perfect accord over the international situation and on those problems of Mediterranean basis, where mutual and unconflicting interests exist.

POLICE ON LOOKOUT FOR STOLEN AIRPLANE

BOSTON, Sept. 30.—(AP)—The Boston police are on the look out for a stolen airplane, piloted by a man with a cork leg and wearing a straw hat. The plane was stolen from Iola field, Kansas, and its description, together with that of the pilot, is contained in a circular received by the local police today from Sheriff Custer Davis of Iola.

HOLIDAY IN TULSA, OKLA., TO WELCOME "MISS AMERICA"

TULSA, Okla., Sept. 30—(AP)—Tulsa declared a half-holiday today to welcome the reigning American beauty, Miss Norma Smallwood, 18 year old Tulsa girl, who returned from Atlantic City, as "Miss America."

Business men left their work to march in a parade in which virtually every civic organization of Tulsa was represented. Mayor H. F. Newblock tendered the keys of the city to Miss Smallwood.

Two airplanes escored her train into Tulsa.

Steel Producers of Europe Form a Trust

They Are to Produce in Fixed Proportion Agreed Upon by the Steel Corporation.

BRUSSELLS, Sept. 30.—(AP)—The steel producers of western Europe today entered an agreement to form a great steel combine which will put an end to competition within their ranks.

Beginning tomorrow the signatories of the combine—French, German, Belgian, Luxembourg and the Sarre Valley interests—will produce steel, not in the measure of their capacity to manufacture or to market, but in a fixed proportion agreed upon by the steel corporation today.

What effect this regulation of continental production will have upon steel prices remains to be seen. Since neither England nor the United States are parties to the agreement, the continental consortium will still have to meet the full force of competition from these two great producers. The only difference will be that they are now in a position to meet this competition collectively instead of singly and to some extent will be able to stabilize prices by their fixed production.

The signatories of the consortium contend that today's agreement is merely to bring them out of the chaos of post war competition into a surer status akin to that under which their industry was operated before the World war. The agreement, they assert, will prevent overproduction will tend to guard against unemployment, and will militate against either sporadic flooding or tightening of the market.

The annual output of the combine will be limited to a minimum of 20,000,000 tons, to a maximum of 20,000,000. The members contributed the following percentages of the total: Germany 47.88; France 31.50, Belgium 11.65; Luxemburg 3.00; Sarre Valley 5.77.

The agreement is to deposit $6 in a common fund for each ton of steel manufactured within its allotted percentage.

For each ton produced over and above its percentage the producing country must pay $1 into the fund. A refund of $1 per ton will be paid any country failing to manufacture in any one year to produce its allotted percentage of the minimum of 15,000,000 tons.

Theoretically, the sale price remains optional with each country but it is hoped, owing to the taxes paid by over producing countries and refunds assigned by those failing to manufacture up to their percentage, to fix a price which will be adopted by all members of the trust and thereby eliminate competition between themselves.

No time limit on existing international affairs will be fixed. Settlement of accounts will be made at the end of each year.

COMBINE TO COMPETE WITH AMERICAN STEEL PRODUCTS

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 30.—(AP)—The new European steel combine might possibly bring keener competition for American steel products in Latin America and the Far East, spokesmen for leading manufacturers in the Pittsburgh district said tonight. Lower labor and cheaper transportation rates might afford the trust a better opportunity in South America, Japan, China and the Philippines, it was said.

The general opinion in Pittsburgh district circles was that the agreement would have slight effect upon the American industry, for, it was pointed out, the heavy foreign export demand during the war, it was said, the capacity of American mills was enlarged tremendously. At the close of the conflict the American manufacturers continued this policy continuing to meet domestic demands and trade growing from discoveries of new uses for steel.

TWO MERIDEN WOMEN IN AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENT

MERIDEN, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Mrs. Helen Sullivan and her daughter, Miss Lillian Sullivan, of 271 Wood street, Waterbury, were injured tonight when a machine in which they were riding, operated by Rudolph H. Poigman of 113 Birch street, Waterbury, failed to make the dangerous turn at Milldale Junction and crashed into a fence, then turning over in the yard of the Elite Manufacturing company. The women, after first aid treatment at the scene by Dr. W. J. Moore, of Cheshire, were taken to St. Mary's hospital at Waterbury. The daughter received numerous cuts and cruises, while her mother, in addition to a severe cut over the eye, has other hurts, the seriousness of which cannot be ascertained until after an x-ray examination.

CONFERENCE OF UNION AGAINST TUBERCULOSIS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—(AP)—A scientific and educational war on the tubercle bacillus, which last year took a toll of more than 75,000 lives in the United States alone, was declared today by speakers at the opening of the first conference of the International union against tuberculosis.

Tuberculosis specialists from twenty two foreign countries and more than 500 health workers from every section of the United States are in attendance.

Secretary Mellon was among speaker addressing today's meeting.

SOME BRITISH MINERS ARE RETURNING TO WORK

LONDON, Sept. 30—(AP)—While has been an increase tendency by miners in some districts to resume work the last few days, there has not been any general settlement and the long-standing strike continues. The number of men now at work is estimated at 156,000 out of a normal total of 1,107,000.

At a delegate conference in London today it was decided to submit the government's latest proposals to all the coal fields forthwith. The conference will re-meet next Thursday to consider the decision of the men.

CARTOONIST HELD IS NOMINATED FOR CONGRESS

BRIDGEPORT, Sept. 30.—(AP)—John Held, Jr., farmer and artist, of Weston, was nominated for representative in congress by the democratic congressional convention of the fourth district at the Stratfield hotel here this afternoon. Nomination was by acclamation.

NEW RUM AGREEMENT WITH GREAT BRITAIN OPERATIVE

Went Into Effect September 29—The Agreement Provides for a More Direct Exchange of Information Between the Two Governments in Relation to Smuggling—Also Creates Cooperative Measures to Prevent Illicit Trade Between British and American Territories.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—(AP)—The new rum smuggling agreement with Great Britain, negotiated at the time of Assistant Secretary Andrews visit to London last summer, has been declared effective as of September 29.

The agreement was made operative through an exchange of notes between the Washington and London governments.

While the text of the agreement is held in confidence, it is known that it provides for administrative cooperation between British and American authorities in the prevention of illicit liquor trade between British and American territories.

The machinery for carrying out terms of the agreement has been set up virtually by General Andrews and some effects from the preliminary work are said to have been observed already.

It provides among other things for a more direct exchange of information between the governments in relation to smuggling operations and it is the hope of Andrews that in time so much of the rum running from the British possessions near the American coast will be eliminated.

Azim L. Anninger, consul at the Bahama Islands will take charge of the bureau of foreign cost of which Andrews will now set up to carry out the agreement. It is for intended that prohibition agents will be stationed in this connection but that the offices of the state department in Bermuda and certain foreign islands may be used.

DECREASE IN NUMBER OF AUTO ACCIDENTS LAST WEEK

HARTFORD, Sept. 30.—(AP)—A slight decrease in the number of motor vehicle accidents when occurred in the state during the week of September 19 to 25 as compared with the corresponding week in 1925, is noted in the weekly accident report issued today the safety division of the state motor vehicle department.

The report shows that 448 accidents occurred last week as compared with 458 a year ago. 268 of the accidents were in fourteen cities while a year ago there were 278 accidents in these cities. The number of fatal accidents also decreased, there being eight last week and eleven in the same week in 1925.

Hartford again led the cities in the number of accidents, having 75, nearly twice the number which had the next largest total of 41. There were three six accidents reported in New Haven Totals in other cities as follows: Waterbury, 22; Stamford, 18, New Britain, 15; Danbury, 9; Meriden 9; New London, 7; Norwalk, 7; Winsted, 5; Greenwich, 5; Middletown, 4.

Places where the fatal accidents occurred and the persons who were killed were as follows: Naugatuck, Marion Wesbefsky; Greenwich, Mrs. Constantine; New Britain, Dennis Mc-Loughlin; Bridgeport, Ernest Donahue; Waterbury, Theodore Kohler; Guilford, Mrs. E. Nicholas; Middletown, Daniel Crowley; Hartford, Rosanna Delasnio.

DECISION CONCERNING TAXATION OF AUTOMOBILES

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30—Deductions from taxable income for wear and tear on passenger automobiles, also depreciation and attorney's fees and court costs in combatting anti-trust law charges were refused today by the board of tax appeals.

The decision with respect to automobile depreciation and attorney fees was made in the case of Arthur B. Chivers, former Atlanta, Georgia, newspaper man, who claimed deductions of $471 for exhaustion of an automobile and $250 for club dues. The board held that the automobile was used principally in the business and tended to increase the earnings of the newspaper in which Chivers was interested.

In another decision, the Columbus Board of Equalization of Ohio was denied the right to deduct $4,782 from its income for expenses incurred in defending itself in an anti-trust case. The company was successful before the lower and [illegible] courts, and after by Ward Brothers Inc.

NO DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATE ANNOUNCED FOR SHERIFF

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Sept. 30. — The Windham county convention to nominate a candidate for sheriff and appoint a county committee, from the twenty-eighth and twenty-ninth democratic senatorial districts, has been called by Lawrence Keegan of Thompson and Valentine L. Murphy of this city, for Saturday. So far as is known there are no candidates in the field and a choice for sheriff will have to be made at the convention. Fifty delegates from the fifteen towns of the county have been notified to answer to the roll call.

REBEKAH CELEBRATION OF 75TH ANNIVERSARY

WILLIMANTIC, Sept. 30.—Commemorating the seventy-fifth anniversary of the Rebekah degree, Violet Rebekah lodge No. 57, I. O. O. F., members feasted at a chicken pie dinner in Odd Fellows' hall, last night. Over one hundred were present including representatives from Obwebetuck lodge, No. 16, Windham Encampment, No. 10, and Canton Windham, No. 2. Past Noble Grand Mrs. Mary E. Lovett of Violet Rebekah lodge was mistress of ceremonies. Music for group singing and the dinner concert was furnished by Mrs. Arthur J. Dubreuil, pianist and Ralph H. Gibson, violinist. For the exercises Mrs. Lovett made the introductory remarks explaining the purpose and significance of the dinner. On behalf of the sister lodge she extended a cordial welcome to those present. Mrs. Lillie A. Hersant, noble grand of the celebrating lodge, was the first speaker, sketching the growth and accomplishments of the lodge, with particular reference to the fact that local Odd Fellowship had contributed to the Rebekah state assembly a past president in Mrs. Lovett and a marshal, who had carried honors to the local lodge, which was instituted in June 3, 1915.

This historical sketch of Odd Fellowship was given by District Deputy Fred L. Avery. The order is 107 years old, in this country, its establishment benig traced back to the 16th century in England where its early developments were highly interesting. The order has now reached a world-wide scope. Otwebetuck lodge was instituted in January 2, 1890 with five charter members: H. B. Remington, C. W. Dow, C. J. Fox, T. Frank Howie, and Dwight T. Cortis. The lodge now has a membership of 238.

George Reynolds, chief patriarch of Windham Encampment, was the next speaker and offered felicitations to Violet Rebekah lodge on its anniversary. Charles M. Thompson spoke on behalf of Canton Windham, which was organized here in July, 1920.

The development of the lodge was reviewed in an interesting manner by Mrs. Clara H. Beebe, past noble grand of Violet Rebekah. The past noble grands of the lodge are: Mrs. Lovett, Mrs. Beebe, Mrs. Florence Williams, Mrs. Annie Woodward, Mrs. Minnie Mathied, Miss Sadie E. Curley, Mrs. Olive Anthony, Mrs. Hattie Bowen, Mrs. Hattie Cohen (who suggested the name of Violet for the lodge), Mrs. Margaret Sears and Mrs. Amy Brown.

Charter members who were heard were Mrs. Williams, Mrs. Hattie Cohen, Mrs. Elsie Andrews, Elmer M. Young and Charles Andrews.

Miss Sabra Stoughton, vice grand, was chairman of the entertainment and social program which followed. Miss Sadie E. Curley was chairman of the dinner committee.

Valentine L. Murphy, of this city, member of the democratic state central committee, has issued a call for the twenty-ninth district senatorial convention to be held for the purpose of nominating a candidate for senator from the district, to be held at the town hall in Brooklyn, October 5th. The only name thus far suggested for candidacy is that of Town Clerk Frank P. Fenton of this city.

Miss Theresa Kelly, 31, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James J. Kelly of South Coventry died at Cranberry lake, N. Y., Wednesday. She was born in Coventry a daughter of James J. and Mary Shanahan Kelly. Besides her parents leaves two sisters, Mrs. Jacob Wytos of Stafford and Mrs. George Brown of South Coventry, and a brother, James A. Kelly, of South Coventry.

The funeral of Sophie Skut was held from her parents' home in Colchester Thursday morning, with a high mass of requiem at St. Andrew's church, at nine o'clock, sung by Rev. Philip J. Mooney, the pastor. Burial was in St. Andrew's cemetery, Colchester. Six schoolmates were bearers. Killourey Brothers had charge of the arrangements.

TERRORS OF HURRICANE TOLD BY MRS. A. J. RACICOT

WILLIMANTIC, Sept. 30—Mrs. Arthur J. Racicot, a former local resident, who with her husband and children, Regina and Arthur, Jr., are now in Little River, near Miami, Fla., writes to a local friend the following gripping story of the hurricane:

"The hurricane which we experienced is indescribable. Picture us huddled in a corner and bricks, houses and trees crashing to the ground all around us, the wind roaring like a cannon, amidst a torrential rain. The rain continued without any sign of a let-up for twelve hours. Regina was thrown clear across the room by a gust of wind. We fought to keep the trench doors shut, for if they had opened the house where we were living would have been destroyed.

"When dawn came we looked out. All the houses around us were completely destroyed. We often saw pictures and read about hurricanes, but never did we think that we would actually experience one. We were isolated from the world. Every pole, wire and radio aerial was gone.

"Miami is in ruins. There is not a house left that was not damaged. The beautiful hotels are standing, but every pane of glass in them is broken and their exterior side walls are gone. At the waterfront boats are in yards, some of them barges. We do not know yet whether our friends at Miami Beach are dead or alive. The authorities won't allow any visitors there and the residents of that section have only a food supply for two days.

"Thousands are without a roof, or even a bed on which to sleep, or a bite to eat. The paper for which Arthur is working is all gone, but the officials are trying to salvage enough to resume operations. Miami will be without electricity for months and electricity runs all the water wells.

"I must tell you about Art Bass' mother who is here with us. She lived in a cottage all alone. When she felt her house going, she broke a window and crawled out with the wind howling 150 miles an hour. She sprained her ankle in so doing, but she managed to get out of the way when the house crashed to the ground. That was at night. They found her in the morning soaked and black and blue. She is 65 years of age.

"We realize how fortunate we were to escape uninjured."

The Windham county superior court will be in session in both Putnam and this city next week. This is due to the fact that the Wetherbee murder case concluded Wednesday after taking up nearly two weeks time and delaying the civil term of court, as well as holding up the disposition of other criminal matters of the September term.

The criminal term is to resume here Tuesday, October 5, with Judge John R. Booth on the bench. The jury has been called for that date, as several cases listed to jury are to be taken up. The civil side of the court will convene in Putnam, Tuesday, October 5, with Judge Alfred C. Baldwin on the bench.

The assignments of patrolmen for October has been posted on the bulletin board at police headquarters by Chief Thomas F. Grady as follows: Officer William Hurley, Sodom; Officer Albert Montie, Jackson street; Officer F. Rudolph Laramee, Upper Main; Officer Roderick Lariviere, Center Main; Officer Grant Bombria, day patrol and Officer Arthur Hurley, night patrol.

HELP YOURSELF TO HEALTH

W. K. Kellogg

Worn and weary—but not from work

ONLY a few months ago he was feeling fine. A full desk meant nothing more than a full day—a challenge which he eagerly accepted. Life was worth living then. . . . But now . . . now he seemed eternally tired, lifeless, exhausted. His head was dull and ach: . Work was a frightful bore. Life was barren of interest. Where would it all end? . . .

In the work-a-day world there are thousands of men and women who suffer from constipation. They try this and that, forever seeking relief and seldom finding it. Yet there is sure, permanent relief from this disease—Kellogg's ALL-BRAN.

As Kellogg's ALL-BRAN journeys through the system its fiber remains unchanged. It remains a bulk food, as doctors call it. Because of its bulk it sweeps, cleans and purifies the intestine. It stimulates the flow of digestive juices. It absorbs and carries moisture into the intestine and prompts it to natural, healthy action.

If eaten regularly, Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to bring permanent relief, or your grocer will refund the purchase price. Eat two tablespoonfuls daily—in chronic cases, with every meal. Its delightful nutty flavor makes it good as a cereal. Serve with milk or cream alone or with fresh or preserved fruit; with other cereals; use in soups, cook in hot cereals, or in the recipes given on every package.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is the original ALL-BRAN—a 100% bran product. That is why doctors recommend it. Your grocer sells it. Get a package today. Also served in all hotels and restaurants.

From A "somewhat Unusual HOUSEWIFE"

"I HAVE just heard from Mr. B____", a magazine editor writes us, "that Mrs. B____, who is a somewhat unusual housewife, said that if it were possible for her to get this bread all the time she would never make any more bread. When I tell you that her family is especially fond of home-made bread you will see that her recommendation is very much worth while."

FROM women everywhere they are coming—enthusiastic comments on White Rose Bread! From "unusual housewives" who still bake in their own kitchens—from discriminating home-keepers who select every food they serve with intelligent care.

It is not surprising that these women should find this new loaf different—more nearly like the finest home-made bread in every way.

For White Rose Bread was perfected with the help of some of the leading food authorities in the country. Authorities who have made a life-long study of home-cooking and nutrition—who are constantly advising thousands of other women on these subjects.

These experts had one desire—to give to women a loaf as nearly perfect as it is possible to make it.

Try White Rose Bread today. Notice the difference yourself. Notice the firm, even grain—its texture, almost like cake texture—its delicious bread flavor. See whether you, too, do not prefer this loaf to any you have ever served.

White Rose Bread is baked not once but twice a day, and rushed to your grocer to be always fresh for you.

MRS. SIMEON DANIELSON DIES IN CALIFORNIA

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Sept. 30—A surprise to the many who know her here was an announcement of the death on Wednesday at Leland Stanford university, California, of Mrs. Mary C. Danielson, widow of Simeon Danielson, who went west only a short time ago to spend the winter with her daughter, Mrs. Joseph S. Davis, at the university. Thursday of last week Mrs. Danielson received a fine fall from a horse and sustained a fracture. She appeared to be resting comfortably after the accident was reported but the serious shock caused death. She leaves two daughters, Mrs. Davis and Mrs. Arch A. Danielson, a member of the family of Kennedy Bros. whose funeral services were held today and the body is expected to arrive in Danielson Monday next.

HUNTERS ASKED TO AID RUFFED GROUSE COMMITTEE

DANIELSON, Sept. 30—Each hunter in eastern Connecticut is being asked in a request to withdraw from the New England ruffed grouse investigation committee to contribute at least one partridge to the committee some time during the open season beginning Friday, Oct. 8. These partridges are desired for purposes of scientific investigation to determine the causes of an epidemic that has spelt toll of these game birds during the past year and to find a means of combating it.

Each hunter is asked to save the entire digestive tract of each and every partridge killed. Wing dressing bags, in which hunters carry their contents should be saved as well as the entire intestinal tract including internal organs such as the liver, spleen and lungs—in short, all the cardeal parts. Crops and gizzards found by hunters are wanted. An appeal is made to each sportsman to help in this matter.

Such specimens as are obtained in this territory will be shipped to Dr. Alfred O. Gross, Bowdoin college, Brunswick, Maine. Specimens may be sent by parcel post or express and the package may be addressed to them marked "Food Habits." Connecticut game wardens are cooperating in this work and will be working with interested sportsmen personally addressed to Dr. Gross for specimens. The name and address of the sender should appear on the package, also the name of the town, county and state where the bird was shot and the date when taken.

In making examination of ruffed grouse the specimen should be liberally sprinkled with salt and not alcohol applied to internal parts put forward. Shipments may be packed in a box, not airtight, with excelsior or crumpled newspaper packing.

External parasites found on partridges are also wanted by Dr. Gross, as they are of great value in the investigation that is underway. These parasites may be preserved in alcohol and will be examined by specialists in the Bureau of Entomology at Washington. Should be mailed to Dr. Gross.

Sportsmen over New England will cooperate in this movement they feel they have a hand in helping to solve one of the most serious problems that has confronted the sportsman will result very good for which are assured.

Information relative to the movement will be broadcast from radio stations in New England during the next few weeks. Funds for the investigation are being obtained by voluntary subscription and $1,100 has come in in small amounts, recently. Unless the disease that is attacking the partridges is understood and stamped out it is regarded as possible that partridges will become a thing of the past in New England.

ELBERT L. DARBIE CHOICE OF REPUBLICAN CONVENTION

PUTNAM, Sept. 30—Elbert L. Darbie of Danielson, was nominated for senator from this, the 26th, senatorial district, at the republican convention held here today. There were no other candidates and the nomination was made by acclamation.

The district comprises the towns of Killingly, Putnam, Thompson, Woodstock, Eastford and Ashford. William P. Warren, of Putnam, was chairman of the convention, and John F. Reardon Jr., of North Grosvenordale was secretary. Major Darbie's name was presented by N. Lorne Greig of Dayville, and was seconded by a delegate from every town in the district. After the convention, which was held in the Municipal building, the delegates were the guests of the nominee for luncheon at the Putnam Inn. Every delegate but one was present.

Mr. Darbie, who is an able and successful attorney, was speaker of the house of representatives at the last general assembly. Under the rotation law it was understood that Thompson was entitled to the nominee for senator this year and Representative Ryan has been mentioned as a possible candidate, but because of ill health he declared himself out of the running, and Mr. Darbie's announcement that he would accept the nomination met the approval of the leaders of the party in all of the towns.

MARRIED LAST APRIL, HAVE JUST MADE IT KNOWN

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Sept. 30—The announcement has just been made of the marriage of Miss Genevieve Letters, daughter of Mrs. Genevieve Letters of Grand View and Theodore Delisle of this city. The marriage took place April 12 of this year. Both young people are well known having lived in Putnam all of their lives and the announcement comes as a surprise to their friends. Mr. and Mrs. Delisle will make their home at 24 Wilkinson street after the first of November.

ELKS USE AIRPLANE MAIL TO SEND FLORIDA MONEY

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Sept. 30—Tuesday night Putnam Lodge of Elks voted $100 for the relief of the Florida sufferers and the money was on its way by airplane mail on Wednesday morning. It was probably the first lodge in the state and probably the first organization to take this action.

Putnam Evening school is to open in the high school building on Monday evening, October 4th at 7:30. Courses are offered in commercial branches with all instructions free. The teachers will be about the same as last year, with Lewis Battey as principal.

Mrs. Dennis R. Donovan of Woodstock avenue is a patient at St. Vincent's hospital in Worcester. She underwent a serious operation the first of the week and is doing as well as can be expected.

Funeral services were held Thursday morning at St. Mary's church for Matilda Pepin Farland, formerly of Putnam, who died Tuesday afternoon at the home of her daughter Mrs. Hector Messier at Grafton, Mass., after a long illness.

Mrs. Farland was the widow of Ulric Farland. She was born in Lawrenceville, P. of Q., the daughter of Isadore and Margaret Dinand Pepin. She came here when a child and was a member of St. Mary's church of this city. She is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Hector Messier of Grafton, Mass. Mrs. Hector Carroll, Woonsocket, R. I., and Mrs. John J. Mooney of Boston, and by three sons, Louis Lefebre of Thompson, Nelson Lefebre, Woodstock and Napoleon Lefebre of Webster, Mass. Two sisters, also survive, Mrs. George Starr, P. Q., Mrs. Alexander Foster of Worcester and two brothers, Isadore Pepin of New Bedford, Mass., and Pierre Pepin of Montreal. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

Saturday, October 2, marks the 125 anniversary of the institution of the Masonic lodge at Woodstock. A special committee has been appointed to arrange a celebration of the event.

Reginald Pike of Lynn, Mass., who has been spending a few days at the home of his parents, Dr. and Mrs. E. T. Pike of Woodstock had a peculiar experience while on his visit. He borrowed a car which had been put together from two old ones, to take a party of little boys for a joy ride. After reaching Southbridge safely the body of one was became disconnected from the engine and stilled the boys [illegible] to stop the engine. [illegible] one was caught between the [illegible] and brought all but the car home safely and that was left in a repair shop.

The S-A Amusement Corp. is to comply with the request of Governor Trumbull and in co-operation with the motion pictures owners of Connecticut will give a special performance Saturday afternoon, the entire proceeds of which will go to the benefit of the sufferers in the Florida hurricane. The films will be furnished without charge. It is expected that all employes will donate their services and the owners of theatres which include the S-A Amusement Corp. in Putnam will make no charge for the use of their theatres or any other expenses. Every cent taken in will go to the Red Cross. This will be the first opportunity that the citizens of Putnam have had to contribute to the relief of those who suffered from one of the greatest disasters that has ever occurred in this country. There is also satisfaction in knowing that the entire receipts will go directly to the ones who need it.

Several old houses in North Woodstock which are in the way of the proposed state road, are being torn down. Mr. Black has bought them and will build a home on the farm which he owns.

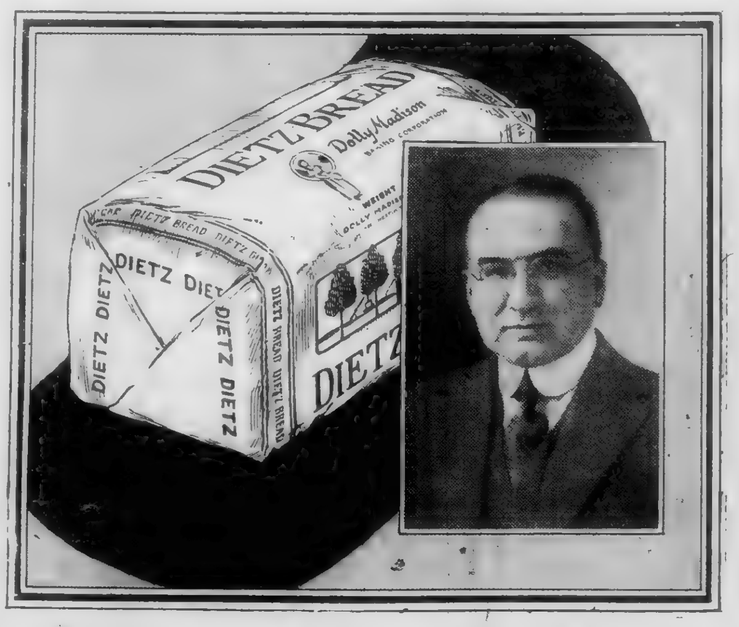
Dietz skill in a still more perfect loaf of bread



THROUGH the purchase of the Dolly Madison bakery, Mr. Walter Dietz is again rendering Springfield and neighboring towns the splendid baking service so long associated with the Dietz name.

More—in this new bakery he has perfected a new and still better loaf of bread.

Mr. Dietz used to think that in his old loaf he had realized his ideal of baking perfection. For it was as perfect as years of experience, the finest ingredients, and a wonderful recipe could make it.

But new experience has brought him even further skill—taught him the secret of new improvements which his purchase of this new bakery has given him an opportunity to carry out.

Among other things, he has installed the very latest type of oven—a marvel of baking science. It insures a new uniformity and dependability in baking which gives added tenderness to the firm loaves—greater crispness to the evenly browned crust. And it makes possible two bakings a day, so that the delicious loaves reach your grocer twice a day, fresher than ever before!

GET DIETZ BREAD from your grocer today. Its red and green wrapper with the homey farmhouse and New England maples is an invitation to enjoy Mr. Walter Dietz's marvelous baking skill in the best bread he has ever made. Dolly Madison Baking Corporation, Springfield, Mass.

NEW YORK'S REFERENDUM

STUNTS AND HEROISM

All kinds of stunts are done for the purpose of entertaining or thrilling the public. There's the loop the loop, high dive, slide for life, parachute drop and many others, and in late years there have been many daredevil tricks in the flying machine.

Occasionally there are times when something goes wrong and the crowd gets a bigger and different thrill than it expected, either by having some of the number involved in a fatal accident or by witnessing the performer drop to his death.

Something of that character was threatened in a midwest city the other day when a performer, who was doing stunts on a trapeze suspended from an airplane while it was soaring over the crowd assembled at a benefit for the Florida sufferers, became entangled in the rope and because of the cold could not extricate himself. His position was certainly an unenviable one. It was a terrible predicament in which the pilot of the plane found himself. Fortunately, maybe, as it was an air circus other planes were on the ground and another aviator was called with his plane to the assistance of the fellow hanging in midair.

No entertainment stunt could have been carried out with finer precision. The second aviator brought his machine under the first and then found it necessary to extricate and pull into his plane the half unconscious trapeze performer while he was at the same time guiding, or taking a big chance on neglecting to guide, his own plane. But he went about it quite as deliberately and calmly as anyone could who was engaged in a real life saving act, and succeeded.

That was a stunt which was not on the programme. It was a thrilling accident. It could be considered, the biggest rope and thickest taxing that might have meant two of their deaths. How many times it could be done safely any one would undertake to guess. The very fact that it might produce a fatality and it goes to show what chances are taken in dangerous stunt flying and how little value there is to the so-called stunt flier. The second aviator never even stood in the position of a real hero.

BEWARE WET LEAVES

MAKING MATTERS WORSE

The plank in the Massachusetts democratic platform declaring that the duties of the police should not be applied to the enforcement of the prohibition laws has brought forth Governor Fuller in the role of corporation defender. He says that corporations must be safeguarded against unlawful searches and seizures. This is quite true, but the Springfield Republican, which points out that this would mean the throwing of every decision of the commission and every ordinance of rate making into peril, says:

The idea is apparently to have a cop, as the commissioner, but such a thing would involve tremendous amount of work, special advisers to study the propositions and inform the governor of their merits and demerits and of course many consultations for such a commissioner to be rendered without being tainted with politics.

Under the utility commission plan it is expected that such bodies will act without regard to politics, quite the same as a court would decide a case. Such matters are not those which should be referred to the governor as a court of last resort because the commission is supposed to eliminate political element as far as it is possible, and probably does in most instances.

The fact that the plank has been incorporated in the democratic platform in Massachusetts does not mean that it is likely to have a chance to be put into operation, but it certainly indicates a tendency in the wrong direction and an attempt to correct a situation which may or may not need correcting, by making matters worse.

BORROWING BRIDE

"I've seen the bride from the apartment across the hall," announced the small 12-year-old person from the first floor, breezing into the kitchen of the second story lady, "I've heard her talk, too.

"You have? How fine! You didn't by any time calling on her, did you?" A smile curled the lips of the second-story lady as she glanced up from her cakemaking. "Was it a morning call—like this one?"

"I haven't called on her yet," answered the small person. "She called on us this morning—at our back door, too. She's so pretty.' You see, hitching her chair closer to the table to allow a better view of the cake bowl, "it was this way:

"My mother and me, Aunt Jane were talking about her. I mean Aunt Jane was. Aunt Jane said if my mother made as easy a mark of herself, (well she did, too) over this bride as she did over the old way I had of borrowing before, she'd die. Her or somethin like that. And ma mother told Aunt Jane that she bought less and 'scept that as she had paid up the mind that this bride could learn a few things on her own hook.

"My Aunt Jane said 'I will, right And you gotta see her, too, cuddins. I'm crazy to get her advice. You have. Let's have a party and invite her.' And ma mother said 'Sure.' Because you have to have to be out of sight, cheap things to say and better.

FLAG DRAPED CASKET AT CONSUL ZABRISKIE'S BURIAL

His casket draped with the American flag, the body of U. S. Consul Luther Kimball Zabriskie was laid to rest Thursday morning in the Boynton family plot in Comstock cemetery, Uncasville.

Consul Zabriskie, a native of Preston, died Jan. 17, 1921 while in service at the city of Aguascalientes, in the province of the same name, Mexico. He was then completing his fourth year as consul at that post, after valuable consular service for the government in Peru, in Russia and at St. Thomas in the Virgin Islands. Not only had he made a success as vice consul and then in full consular office, but he had also won wide attention by reason of his writing on themes of national interest.

His wife, who was Miss Helen E. Boynton, of Norwich was with him at his Mexican post when a malady of the country caused his sudden death. The Mexican laws prohibited the removal of the body at that time, so Mrs Zabriskie returned to the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence D. Boynton, 49 Cliff street, Norwich.

A telegram from U. S. Senator Hiram Bingham last Friday gave Mrs. Zabriskie the first notification that her husband's body was being forwarded to Connecticut, by way of St. Louis. It had been accompanied as far as the border by an official representative, and arrived by express Wednesday.

The funeral services at the cemetery Thursday morning were conducted by Rev. Alexander H. Abbott, pastor of the United Congregational church, relatives and a few intimate friends being present. From those who knew of the services there came beautiful flowers.

It was a great consolation to Consul Zabriskie's widow and other relatives and friends to realize that his final resting place is in the soil of his native state, which he served so faithfully, so ably and with such signal success during his brief but brilliant career. He deserved well in honors from Connecticut, as almost his first public service was as representative in the general assembly from his home town, Preston, when he was a member of the important committee on education.

Consul Zabriskie was an alumnus of Worcester, Mass., Academy and of Yale university.

SECOND ARREST FOR DRIVING UNDER SUSPENSION

Alertness on the part of Officer John O'Neil landed Tony Rodriques of Quarry street in the clutches of the law late Thursday afternoon. Tony lost his license to drive a machine on Sept. 8 and recently was fined in the city court at New London on a charge of transporting liquor. Thursday afternoon Tony was seen driving a Ford roadster at Thames square by Officer John O'Neil. Having been notified that Tony's driving license was suspended on Sept. 8, Officer O'Neil held him up and after preliminary questioning escorted him to police headquarters where he was booked on a charge of violation of the motor vehicle law.

Later he was released in bonds of $100 for his appearance in the city court this (Friday) morning. It is understood that this is Tony's second appearance in court on a charge of driving while his license was suspended. With Rodriques at the time of his arrest was Louis Plotsky of Preston. Mr. Plotsky took charge of the machine following Tony's arrest.

SEPTEMBER LIGHT MONTH FOR FIRE DEPARTMENT

The month of September was an extremely light one for the fire department. Throughout the month there were only six calls all telephone summons and the entire loss for the month was in the neighborhood of $30.

FUNERALS

Walter Linwood Conrad

The funeral of Walter Linwood Conrad, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Otis L. Conrad of Hallville, was held at the parlors of Church and Allen on Tuesday afternoon, with burial in the Avery cemetery. Rev. Thomas H. M. Ockford, rector of Saint James' church, Poquetanuck, officiated. Many relatives and friends were present, and there were numerous floral tributes.

Mrs. Julian Kowalewski

The funeral of Mrs. Julian Kowalewski was held from her home, No. 204 Central avenue at 8:15 o'clock Thursday morning, followed by a requem mass at 9 o'clock in the Polish National church. Rev. T. A. Czarkowski was celebrant of the mass and was assisted by Rev. K. E. Powlowski. There was a large attendance of relatives and friends and there were numerous beautiful floral tributes. Stanislaw Juzwiak presided at the organ and at the offertory rendered Pie Jesu.

The bearers were A. Piotrowski, F. Symanski, E. Piotrowski, J. Jorczyk, G. Brozozowski and K. Lefkewis and burial took place in the family lot in Divine Providence cemetery where committal service was conducted by Rev. Father Czarkowski and Rev. Father Powlowski.

The death of Mrs. Martha Ann Bogue Chapman, 76, wife of Merwin Chapman of Montville, occurred Wednesday night at her home there. Death followed a lingering illness. She had been a resident of Montville nearly all her life.

Mrs. William Buckley

Following a long illness, Mary Flynn, wife of William Buckley, died Thursday about noon at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Alfred Richards, No. 15 Warren street. Mrs. Buckley was born in Preston and was the daughter of the late John and Alice Powers Flynn. Practically all of her life had been spent in Norwich. She was a devoted member of St. Patrick's parish and was a woman of high ideals.

In Millbury, Mass., in 1886 she was united in marriage with William Buckley by Rev. J. Dolan. Surviving are her husband, one daughter, Mrs. Alfred Richards, one son, William T. Buckley of Buffalo, three grandchildren, five sisters, three brothers and several nephews and nieces.

It might be possible for a man to write a sensible love letter, but he seldom does.

STARTS INJUNCTION SUIT TO KEEP HIGHWAY OPEN AT PLEASURE BEACH

Putting a large sawhorse across a 24-foot road at Pleasure Beach, Waterford, and depositing large blocks of granite in the highway, which it is claimed has been in use for 40 years has resulted in an injunction suit being brought in the superior court by John Salvatore, a Waterford property owner, against William and James Booth of Waterford, Booth Bros. and Hurricane Island Granite Co., of New York. The highway in dispute is known as South street, and leads down to the dock where the Booths load granite onto boats after carting it from quarries farther back in the country.

Salvatore asks for $500 damages and for an injunction to compel the defendants to remove the obstructions they have placed in the street and to prevent them from hereafter interfering with the claimed rights of the public to use the street.

It is claimed that the defendants and their predecessors had for upwards of 40 years laid out and dedicated South street to public use, but on Nov. 15, 1925 the defendants sought to renunciate such dedication and obstruct the highway by placing across it a large sawhorse and on the highway large blocks of granite.

Salvatore claims that for 15 years he has been using this highway as a means of getting to his property, but that the granite blocks were placed in front of his driveway so that he has been unable to use his garage or to rent his house since the blocks were placed there.

INJUNCTION ISSUED AGAINST PICKETING IN COLCHESTER

Upon the application of the Levine & Levine company, Inc., a Colchester garment manufacturing concern, which was brought before Judge C. L. Avery of the superior court, a temporary injunction has been issued against Bessie King, alias Bessie Koenig, Philip Uretsky, H. Morrison, Jacob Halpin and Sidney Scrinski, all of Colchester, and the International Ladies' Garment Workers union of New York.

The defendants named are enjoined, under penalty of $2,000, from interfering with the business of the Colchester company by patrolling the streets or highway in front of or near the factory for the purpose of preventing those who may now be employed or who are desirous of entering the employment from entering or leaving the premises; also from intimidating such persons by threats and from forming any schemes or conspiracy for the purpose of annoying, hindering, interfering with or preventing any employes from continuing in the employment of the company or transacting business with it.

All these things, it is claimed in the petition for the injunction, the defendants having been doing for at least eight weeks past, intercepting and threatening the employes of the company with bodily harm.

Damages of $5000 are asked in the suit. The injunction is to remain in effect until the first Tuesday in October or until further order of court.

Two of those named in the injunction have been arrested following encounters between sympathizers and workers of the Levine company. Mrs. King has been arrested twice in New London in the past two months following disorders at the ladies' cloak shop in Bank street, there. The charges against Mrs. King were continued in the city court and the accused ordered to refrain from further interference with local workers. At Colchester Morrison and Mrs. King were arrested a few weeks ago following a brutal attack on five workers of the factory by six armed men, five of whom have been identified by the workers as included in the nine under arrest at Bridgeport. Mrs. King was released within a few hours, but Morrison was held for nearly a month under heavy bonds. It was believed here he knew the identity of the gangsters who perpetrated the attack at orders of state police to implicate him failed and he was released.

Following the attack at Colchester no clues could be found of the gangsters who left the scene of the attack in an automobile bearing New York registration.

Recently a garment worker at New Haven was stabbed by an armed gang of men and remained in a critical condition for several days. A few days later Henry and Ulric Pezzula, garment workers at Bridgeport, were attacked just prior to going to work and beaten with sawed off pool cues and lead pipes, the same type of implements used to beat the five Colchester workers.

After a spectacular chase by two policemen of Stamford the gangsters were apprehended at the point of a gun. A bench warrant brought them back to Bridgeport. They gave their names as follows: Jack Lipman, Henry Teitelbaum, Charles Kaya, James Cavus, Louis Harris, Harry Bloom, James Corti and Max Bierbaum.

FINES OF $4,290 IN U. S. DISTRICT COURT

Fines totaling $4,290 were meted out to violators of the national prohibition, narcotic and postal acts by Judge Edwin S. Thomas in the United States district court at New Haven Tuesday to 14 offenders who pleaded guilty to the charges. Three who pleaded not guilty were granted continuances until a later date.

Those fined for violation of the dry acts were Max Bassom, $200; Vittorio Frederucci, $500 on two counts, as well as a ten-day jail sentence; Frank E. Pegan, $400; Christopher Reid, $300; Charles P. Grabowsky, $200; Tony Karalowich, $200; Reginald Miller, $500 on two counts; Antonio Santigate, $450 and Harry Lawson, $500 on two counts.

Two were fined for violating the postal laws, George O'Connell, given a $90 fine and placed on probation for a year and William Kirschner, fined $100 and also placed on a year's probation.

Three others, including two Chinese, pleaded guilty to violating the narcotic laws. Lee Dick was fined $500, while a fine of $50 was meted out to Lee Sarck. Dr. Martin Small was also heavily penalized, receiving a fine of $500.

Not guilty pleas were entered by Mrs. Katherine Hogan, Frank Benedetto and Nicola Lmbardi, all charged with liquor law violation and their cases were continued until October 11.

CRASHED INTO POLE WHEN FORCED OFF ROAD

Forced off the road by another automobile in a heavy fog about midnight Thursday, an Oakland sport touring car, owned and driven by William M. Thomas of Versailles, crashed into a telegraph pole in the curve near the plant of the Norwich Bag Manufacturing company. The impact broke the pole off at the base and left it hanging in the air, suspended by the wires. The front of the automobile was badly damaged. Mr. Thomas could not get the registration of the machine that forced him off the road, owing to the fog. He was heading north and the other machine was headed in the opposite direction and did not stop. No one was injured.

FIRST NORWICH LETTER CARRIERS 42 YEARS AGO

Letter carriers have for so long been a part of the regular routine of city life in Norwich that many of the present day residents cannot recall a time when no letters were delivered at the city residences or business houses, but everybody went to the post office to get mail either in a private box or from the general delivery window.

Yet 42 years ago today, Oct. 1, the first letter carriers in Norwich went into action. There were six in that original group, only one of whom May William A. Wells, now assistant postmaster, is still in the mail service.

The first letter carrier service in this city was begun Oct. 1, 1884, when E. George Bidwell was postmaster, William Cauthers assistant postmaster, and the post office was in the building on Main street where the mens' store of the Porteous & Mitchell company now is. Daniel F. McNeil was mail clerk then. William Wetzer was money order clerk, and Major Wells, who had gone into the postal service in 1876, was designated as head carrier, with Joseph O Lathrop, John A. Caryl, Herman S. Case, Fred Fuller and William P. Allen designated as auxiliary carriers, working a year before they became regular carriers. There were also a Republican and a Democratic man who carried the mail between the post office and the depot, constituting the entire postal force in the city.

When the carriers first began their routes all were on foot, but after a few months trial it was found that the routes were too long and on the first of January, 1885, Thomas Linton was appointed to the carrier force and Major Wells took what was called the mounted route, using a two-wheel cart to cover the outskirts of the city.

The morning route covered by Major Wells went to Thamesville, over to West Side, to East Great Plain, out Asylum street past the poor farm and to Norwich Town. Returning to the post office, he loaded up again and went up Rockwell street, over Lafayette hill, North street, Peat street, Lovell avenue to Greeneville, over the bridge to Smith avenue, along Hamilton avenue and Cunning road back to the post office.

Mr. Lathrop had the West Side route, going as far as the top of the Thamesville hill, all over the West Side streets and up Fores street as far as the "wash pond."

Mr. Caryl covered the Franklin street route with the side streets as far as the Grove street and Broad street neighborhood.

Mr. Case had the Washington street route, all around the Falls and over Jail Hill, which he covered for 20 years before he transferred to another route.

Mr. Fuller had Greeneville and also covered the Preston side at first until Major Wells took the mounted route.

Mr. Allen had the Broadway route as far as the Soldiers' monument and part of Jail Hill.

Of the post office force of 1884 only Major Wells, Mr. Case who is now retired on a pension, and Mr. Fuller, who resides in New York state, are still living.

The present post office staff under Postmaster Casper K. Bailey numbers 80. On the carrier side there are 24 regulars, five substitutes and nine R. F. D. men, while there are 32 in the clerks and three substitutes.

RECOGNITION FOR HONOR CLASSES ON RALLY DAY

The annual fall rally social of the Central Baptist church and Sunday school will be held this (Friday) evening in Bushnell chapel. Swahn's orchestra will furnish the music. Stunts will be put on by a number of the S. S. classes, and Miss Dorothy Stewart will give violin solos. A feature of the evening will be the recognition of those who were present on Sunday (Rally day) and were in the honor classes. Those who reached one hundred percent or more of their Rally day quota were: Capt. Tarbox's class 162 1-2 percent, Class 32 170 percent, Mr. Andrew's class 125 percent, Mrs. Gildersleeve's 120 percent, Grannex 117 percent, Beginners Dept. 113 percent, Mrs. Tarbox's 112 1-2 percent, Mrs. Bailey's 108 1-2 percent, Primary Dept. 108 percent, Mrs. Hazlehurst's 100 percent, Mr. Burr's 100 percent, Miss Ellis' 100 percent, Mrs. Wickwire's 100 percent.

FINDS CHESTNUT TREE WITH CLUSTER OF BURRS

Chestnuts are evidently coming back for John H. Wilson of this city brought to The Bulletin office Thursday night a branch from a young chestnut tree containing chestnuts in the burr. Mr. Wilson picked the branch from a tree at Fort Ned, Canterbury. Evidence that chestnut trees are surviving the blight of several years ago is apparent in this section of Connecticut, at least, as during the past week or two people in several sections of New London and Windham counties have found chestnuts in the burr on young trees on their land. At the North Stonington fair a week ago there was an exhibition a large branch taken from a tree in that town and containing nuts in the burr.

BINGHAM NAMES BAKER FOR POLITICAL AGENT

United States Senator Hiram Bingham of New Haven, who is a candidate for re-election, has named Senate Clerk J. Frederick Baker, of New Haven, as his political agent for the campaign. Mr. Baker was political agent for Senator Bingham during his successful campaigns for the lieutenant governorship in 1922 and the governorship and senatorship in 1924. After Senator Bingham had resigned as governor Mr. Baker administered the senatorial oath of allegiance to him.

J. Edwin Brainard, candidate to succeed himself as lieutenant governor, has named Representative Ernest L. Averill of Branford as his political agent and Congressman John Q. Tilson has named Mayor John B. Tower of New Haven to act in that capacity for him.

Norwich Produce Market

(Furnished by the Connecticut Commissioner of Agriculture.)

Market was quiet Thursday morning with comparatively small stocks offered. Native Bartlett pears are practically off of the market but a few are available from New York state. Peaches are offered in decreasing amounts showing the approach of the end of the season. On the other hand apples are more liberal and in greater variety.

String beans and limas are in moderate supply only and sell readily while cauliflower is limited and varies considerably in size and price. The supplies of sweet corn are adequate for the demand and prices remain steady. Turnips are offered in a limited way and a few winter squashes have appeared on the market.

Eggs and butter continue firm with dressed meats and grains steady.

FINDS FEW TUBERCULOSIS CASES FROM CONTAGION

That only two out of 200 cases of adult tuberculosis were probably caused by contagion, was the statement made at Washington Thursday in an address at the fifth conference of the International Union Against Tuberculosis, by Dr. Stephen J. Maher, chairman of the Connecticut state tuberculosis commission. He was one of the speakers in the first discussion of the conference. The subject was the control of the role of contagion in adult tuberculosis. It had been led off by Professor Gaetano Ronzoni of Italy. Dr. Maher told of his study of the histories of 200 cases of adult tuberculosis now under treatment in Connecticut sanatoria. Thirteen of the 200 cases were due probably to the drinking of tuberculous milk. Among the other possible causes of the disease suggested by the histories of these 200 cases were non-tuberculous lung, skin and abdominal trouble and dust.

"Perhaps the most startling revelation of the histories of these 200 tuberculous patients by the speaker explained, is the finding that 130 had been engaged during long periods in occupations or occupations in which they inhaled dust of one kind or another all day for long periods of time. Of course, the number of patients studied is too small to permit of dogmatic generalization on the relation of these various kinds of dust to the question of tuberculosis."

"The question whether the long continued inhalation of cotton dust in certain cotton mills, even a comparatively cause of adult pulmonary tuberculosis is probably an open one. It does not pretend to close it. Stone and metal dusts of various kinds have long been under indictment in many parts of the world as causes of consumption. It was to be expected that in a prosperous manufacturing state like Connecticut, evidence in support of this indictment would easily be found. But it was not to be expected that in a group of 200 consumptives at present under treatment, one of them would prove to have been employed for long periods in dusty occupations. And even less was it to be expected that 27 of these 200 would prove to have been workers in cotton dust.

REV. ARTHUR T. RANDALL NATIVE OF POQUETANUCK

A despatch in Thursday's Bulletin announced the resignation of Rev. Arthur Truman Randall, 72, as rector of St. Andrew's Episcopal church, Meriden, to take effect Jan. 1 next. Rev. Mr. Randall who has served a long and successful term as rector in Meriden, is a native of Poquetanuck. He is the son of Henry C. Randall and Mary Louisa Davis, his mother and the mother of former State Treasurer Henry H. Gallup, of Norwich were sisters.

The elder Randall was a physician, then studying for the ministry and was ordained deacon at St. James' church, Poquetanuck. He served as rector of Christ church, Pomfret, leaving in 1862 for Homer, Mich., and afterwards was rector in Arcadia, N. Y., coming from there to Essex church where he died.

His son has been a very successful and popular clergyman in Meriden.

RICHARDS DESERTS AMATEUR RANKS TO BECOME TENNIS PROFESSIONAL

NEW YORK, Sept. 30—(AP)—Vincent Richards, Olympic champion and third ranking tennis player in the United States, has joined the ranks of professionalism under the wing of C. C. Pyle. The announcement was made by Pyle tonight at a dinner in honor of Suzanne Lenglen aboard the steamship Paris of the French line here tonight.

The first to congratulate Richards were Mlle Lenglen, Mary K. Browne and Mrs. Richards who came into the gathering following the announcement. Richards advent completes the array of tennis stars secured by Pyle for a professional tour of this country and Canada which starts Oct. 9 at Madison Square Garden. With Richards will be Mlle Lenglen, Miss Browne and Paul Feret, the fourth ranking player in France.

Richard's departure from the amateur fold came as a surprise to tennis followers in view of his declarations several weeks ago that he would not join the professional field.

His professional standing jolted the hopes of the United States as regards to a nucleus for its Davis cup teams next year along with the probability that Richards might have been selected as the ranking No. 1 player of America.

Richards was the only American to survive to the semi-finals in the recent national championships, finally being overcome by Jean Borotra of France.

Likelihood for the passing of the national doubles championships now held by Richards and Richard N. Williams passing from the country also loomed.

William H. (Big Bill) Edwards, president of the American league of professional football devised by Pyle, made the introductory remarks at the gathering which included celebrities of all lines of the sports world.

Richards, previously known as the "Boy Wonder" is 23 years old. He came into prominence in 1917 when at the age of 14 he won the national boys' championship of America. He held the title of national junior champion in 1919-21 and the indoor junior championship in 1918-20.

He defeated William Tilden for the national indoor singles championship in the final in 1919. His phenomenal rise in the tennis world carried him to joint posession of the national doubles title with Tilden at the age of [illegible]. That was in 1918 and in 1921 he regained the doubles crown with Tilden again.

Richards has vanquished some of the best talent in the United States. He is a veteran player on America's Davis cup team and has held the national doubles championship jointly with Richard N. Williams for the past two years.

TORONTO MAKES IT THREE STRAIGHT FROM LOUISVILLE

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 30—(AP)—The Toronto Internationals made it three straight over Louisville, American Association champions today by taking today's "Little World's Series" game in ten innings, 2 to 1, before a crowd of 4,000.

Hits by Mullen, Layne and Miller produced the winning run after two were out in the extra inning. Miller's single scoring Mullen from second base. Mullen, Toronto, third sacker, was injured sliding to the plate.

Today's game was another pitchers' duel with Victor Sorell, college recruit, getting the better of Ralph Dawson of the Colonels.

LOCAL FANS PICK YANKS TO WIN THE SERIES

Although the sympathy of the majority of local baseballdom is with the St. Louis Cardinals it seems that the head rules the heart and they are picking the Yankees to win the series. It is practically the same situation as the Dempsey-Tunney bout, and although most everyone hoped Tunney would win they bet their money on Dempsey.

The majority base their opinion on the hitting power of the Yanks, claiming that the Yanks have a team of greater hitters than the Cards. The last published averages, however show that New York leads St. Louis by two points in team average, New York having an average of .289 and St. Louis .287. This includes all players, but taking only the regulars St. Louis apparently has a slight edge. In the eight players on the club not counting pitchers St. Louis has five men batting over the .300 mark while New York has but four. The averages of the regulars are as follows: St. Louis: Catcher, O'Farrell, .292; 1b, Bottomley, .297; 2b, Hornsby, .317; 3b, L. Bell, .329; ss, Thevenow, .255; outfielders, Southworth, .319; Douthit, .309; Blades, .307. New York: Catcher, Collins, .292; 1b, Gehrig, .311; Lazzeri, .272; 3b, Dugan, .284; ss, Koenig, .263; outfielders, Ruth, .368; Muesel, .318; Coombs, .301. This would give the Cards a team average of .303.1 and the Yanks .301.7. This would make the teams about even as far as hitting strength is concerned.

The pitching staffs are about even. The records of the pitchers are as follows: St. Louis: Rhem, won 20 and lost 7; Haines, won 13 and lost 4; Reinhart, won 10 and lost 5; Sherdel won 15 and lost 12; Keen, won 10 and lost 8; Alexander, won 12 and lost 10; H. Bell won 5 and lost 5; Sothoron, won 3 and lost 3.

New York: Pennock, won 21 and lost 11; Ruether, won 14 and lost 8; Schocker, won 19 and lost 11, Shawkey, won 8 and lost 5; Hoyt, won 15 and lost 13; Jones, won 19 and lost 8; Thomas, won 5 and lost 3; Beall, won 3 and lost 4.

In fielding the Cards had a team average of .968 while the Yanks had an average of .965. In all departments it looks like almost even money but there is this psychology stuff to consider and it is because of this that St. Louis looks good to us.

For five weeks the Cards played what was almost a world's series tension while the Yanks were sailing along under a comfortable lead. The Cards have been keyed up to world's series ball for a long time and at the close of the season were at their top form. The Yanks ended the season in more or less of a slump. The Cards are a baseball machine while the Yanks are made up largely of individual stars. However it is certain neither team will have a walk away.

FRANKIE BUSCH BADLY BEATEN BY STRIBLING

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Sept. 30—(AP)—W. L. (Young) Stribling, Atlanta light heavyweight, defeated Frankie Busch, of Norwich, Conn., here tonight, gaining a technical knockout in the sixth round of a scheduled 8-round bout.

ACADEMY TEAM READY TO MEET NEW BRITAIN

The Academy football team wound up its practice Thursday afternoon in preparation for the opening game on Saturday at New Britain with the New Britain High team. There was only light work and signal drill and this will be the order of the day for Friday. Coach Whitney would make no comment on his team other than that the players were in fine shape physically and he expected much of them.

He said it was too early to make any predictions as to the outcome of the season but he was far from being downcast over the prospects. He said that the team looked good to him as it now stands but that Saturday's game at New Britain would show just how much football his squad had absorbed during the past three weeks of drilling. What the lineup will be for Saturday is as yet undetermined but the entire squad will make the trip.

The team will go by auto-bus leaving the school at 10:45 o'clock Saturday morning. It is expected that there will be a large undergraduate band of rooters accompany the team to the game.

FINAL GAME OF RIVERVIEW AND MARTIN SERIES SATURDAY

The final game of the Riverview-J. B. Martin series will be played at the State hospital diamond on Saturday afternoon. This game will have an important bearing on the state title for which Riverview is a leading contender. Both teams have won a game from the other and this game decides the series.

Taftville has disposed of the Velvetmen in a series that closed last Sunday and now stands tied with the Riverview club in another series. Should the Velvetmen take the series from Riverview and then Riverview beat the Taftville team on Sunday it would result in a tie for the honors. It can be seen that Riverview needs this game on Saturday, to make its position secure.

Manager Zemke is planning to throw a strong team into the field on Saturday and a stronger one on Sunday. For Sunday Andy Rush, formerly with the Dodgers and later with Waterbury is to pitch in Sunday's game.

N. Y. COMMISSION DECLINES TO HOLD ELIMINATION BOUTS

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—(AP)—The New York state athletic commission today again declined to sanction a featherweight elimination tournament following a request by Phil Glassman, manager of Benny Bass, Philadelphia boxer, to find a successor to the title vacated recently by Louis (Kid) Kaplan, of Meriden, Conn.

While the commission recommended that some matchmaker arrange a set of such bouts, it refused to take the initiative as it did when Johnny Dundee turned in his featherweight crown.

The challenge of Young Montreal of Providence for a bout with Charley (Phil) Rosenberg for the bantamweight crown was rejected. The boxing body maintained that Bushy Graham of Utica, N. Y., continues as the logical contender for the bantam honors despite the fact that Graham was defeated by Montreal in Providence last week.

DEMPSEY RECOVERING FROM A SKIN IRRITATION

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Jack Dempsey was up and about his hotel room tonight after spending a portion of the day in bed to give a skin irritation a chance to heal. The former champion laughed over reports that his condition was serious. He was not knocked out, he said, and was confident that he would get a decision in a few rounds over the annoying, but not serious, ailment.

The skin disease was contracted during his training period from a sparring partner who fell a victim during a bout. Dempsey's hurts suffered in the title changing bout with Gene Tunney were practically healed last night.

HARRISON TO BE OFFICIAL SCORER OF THE SERIES

NEW YORK, Sept. 30—(AP)—James R. Harrison, of the New York Times, today was elected official scorer for the world's series by the New York chapter of the Baseball Writers' association.

Harrison will serve with two St. Louis men, James M Gould of the Star, the chief scorer, and Herman Keeks of the Post Dispatch.

YOUTHFUL CHICAGO GIRL DASHES GOLF CROWN FROM BROW OF GLENNA COLLETT

HAVERFORD, Pa., Sept. 30—(AP)—Glenna Collett today entered the valhalla of conquered champions in her third round defense of the women's national golf crown.

Under skies that continued to drip a relentless rain, over flooded links that resisted her game, the defender went gamely down to defeat, 3 and 1, before Virginia Wilson, 20-year-old Chicago girl.

Fate completed the turn on the scales with the downfall of Edith Cummings, 1923 champion, before Mrs G. H. Stetson of Philadelphia, 6 and 5, to insure a new champion as the outcome of the tournament.

Instead of Miss Collett and Miss Cummings facing each other in the semi- finals tomorrow, as they did a year ago, Miss Wilson will meet Mrs. Stetson, in a semi-final round that is new to both of them. Mrs. Wright D. Goss, Jr., of Short Hills, N. J., who today defeated Mrs. Norman Toerge of Glen Cove, N. Y., 3 up, will meet Mrs. Cortland Smith of Glen Ridge, N. J., victor over Mrs. J. L. Anderson of Garden City, N. Y., 3 and 1, to determine which of them will be the other finalist.

Outdriven on nearly every hole by her more experienced opponent, Miss Wilson won her match by the sureness of her irons and the steadiness of her piter. The steady drizzle and the sodden links seemed decidedly in her favor, for Miss Collett, who plays a game of greater power, could not prevent her dripping clubs from turning in her hands. One down on the long second hole, the Chicago girl hung on, halving every hole to the ninth, which she won, to square the match.

The irons which had served her so well on the first nine holes did not fall on the later holes that were the turning points of the match. While Glenna was digging herself out of a trap with two costly shots on the fifteenth, Virginia was straight all the way to get down in a winning five.

On the sixteenth, the famous Merion Waurry hole, both sliced their seconds into the pit. Miss Wilson got out "easily," while Glenna failed to recover on her first stroke, losing the hole to become two down, and never come up.

Glenna was as unsteady in her putting as Virginia was secure with her irons. Of the eight greens on which the champion undertook putts of approximately five or six feet for wins, she succeeded on only one.

Coming to the seventeenth two down, she was already defeated before she dried her hands and the handle of the putter with which she would have had to sink a five foot putt to halve, the hole and carry the match to the eighteenth green.

The ball that trembled on its way to the cup, and stopped just short of the rim, told in inches the story of the fall of another champion.

"I deserved to be beaten," said Glenna as she shook hands with her conquerer, who may be the new champion.

"Accidents will happen," said the smiling Virginia.

Behind their match, Miss Cummings was meeting overwhelming defeat at the hands of Mrs. Stetson. In trouble on nearly every hole, her drives and irons alternately slicing and hooking out of bonds, the Chicago golfer had little chance before the almost mechanically steady game played by Mrs. Stetson, who recently won the eastern championship.

Mrs. Stetson's card for the heavy going today showed a par 42 for the outgoing nine, and one over par for the first four of the incoming nine.

When Mrs. Stetson faces Virginia Wilson in the semi-finals tomorrow, she will be competing against a girl about the age of the eldest of her two daughters. The daughters, Mrs. Stetson explained, have been the principal cause of the infrequency of her appearances in tournament competition.

CLARK MAKES DENIAL OF CHARGES OF PLAYERS

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 30—(AP)—A sweeping denial of statements attributed to the players who were said to have led a movement to oust him from the bench, was made here today by Fred Clarke, vice-president of the Pittsburgh National league baseball club and assistant manager during the past season.

The controversy, which resulted in Max Carey, Carson Bigbee and Babe Adams being shunted from the team, was revived when Clarke said he felt he must "defend" himself against the charges made by the dismissed trio.

Clarke was emphatic in the statement that he would not be on the bench next season, because such a role would be "impossible."

He denied that he had in any way interfered with Bill McKechnie's management of the team by reversing McKechnie's signals on the field, or that he had interfered with any player. His only action toward players was to "Pat them on the back when they were in a slump or the fans were "on" them."

Going into specific charges attributed to Adams, Carey and Bigbee, Clark said that Eddie Moore, recently released by the Pirates, "Never said to me 'Get off the bench.' I deny and dare anyone to prove that I ever took any player to task. I have been charged with telling players to act differently from the signals given by Mc Kechnie. I never did it once with anyone. I was just as eager to win a pennant as any man on the club. I was in the position of getting little credit if the plan worked and getting considerable blame if it failed."

When he first heard of the movement to oust him, Clarke said, he did not leave the bench and thereby "be accused of running away under fire."

He said that he had counted Carey, Bigbee and Adams as among his best friends with the Pirates. Regarding their summary release from the team he said, "I believe the only penalty possible was inflicted. I am in accord with it, although I did not suggest it as my critics say I did."

YANKS MORE EXPERIENCED IN WORLD'S SERIES PLAY

NEW YORK, Sept. 30—(AP)—On the basis of world series experience the New York Yankees have an overwhelming advantage over their rivals, the St. Louis Cardinals, in the approaching baseball championship.

Rogers Hornsby, pilot of the Cardinals and himself innocent of world series participation, can offer only three regulars and a non-combatant who have been under the critical fire of a world championship series.

The Yankees, however, leading off with Babe Ruth, who has six supreme tests under his belt, boasts ten regulars seasoned in championship fire and an eleventh who may play if no one else volunteers.

Alexander, Southworth and O'Farrell, are the Cards who have made the baseball roll of honor, each with one series. William Killefer, assistant manager, has played in two but is not on the active list now.

The Yankees' series veterans are Ruth, Meusel, Dugan, Ward. Hoyt, Jones. Pennock, Shawkey, Ruether, Severeid and Merkle, the later named a coach, who can still play if an emergency arises.

Ruth, setting a new record by appearing in his seventh series, leads all the rest. He played with Boston in 1915, 1916 and 1918 and was in a New York uniform in 1921, 1922 and 1923.

Merkle has played in five series with three clubs. He was with the Giants in 1911, 1912 and 1918, with Brooklyn in 1916 and the Cubs in 1918.

Hoyt, Meusel, Shawkey and Ward were with the Yankees in 1921, 1922 and 1923. Dugan played in 1922 and 1923 and Pennock in 1923.

Jones was with Boston in 1918 and the Yankees in 1922 and 1923. Severeid won his world series letter with Washington last year and Ruether got a "numeral" at the same time by appearing only as a pitch-hitter.

The star Cardinal's catcher, Bob O'Farrell, caught some games for the Chicago Cubs in the 1918 series and Alexander pitched for the Phillies in 1915. Southworth was a part of the Giant crew in 1924. Killefer was in the lineup of the Cubs in 1918, after catching for the Phillies in 1915.

Umpires—George Hildebrand and Bill Dineen, for American league; Bill Klem and Hank O'Day, for National league.

ACADEMY TO HAVE CROSS COUNTRY TEAM

For the first time in many years the Academy will put a cross country team into interscholastic competition this year. Much interest is being shown in this branch of sport and many are trying out for the team. John Spotten has been elected manager of the harriers with A. Krohn as the captain. Those who are out for the team are H. Disco, A. Krohn, McCarthy, Meo, J. Sadinsky, F. Sullivan, J. Dion, Baynes, R. Carpenter, Robertson, and Armstrong. Courtland Whitney, football coach is devoting some of his time to the team and is assisted by Assistant Coach Mathew Sheriden.

TWO REGULARS WILL NOT START ON SATURDAY

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 30—(AP)—Two regulars will be missing when Yale faces Boston university, Saturday, for the opening game of the Eli football season. Noble, regular halfback last year, and Webster, a regular guard, are suffering from ankle injuries.

Should the Eli team start Saturday as it lined up for today's signal drill and dummy scrimmage, there will be but one man on the eleven who has not earned his letter. Neither Harvey, present selection for center, or his rival, Phillips, hold a varsity letter.

BASEBALL GOSSIP

Speaking of tight baseball races, the Richmond Colts won the Virginia league pennant by the narrow margin of half a game.

In the season of 1907 more than one-third of the games played in the American association were won by one run.

The excitement among St. Louis fans is pardonable, for a world series in the Mound city will indeed be a novelty.

Jack Dunn's Baltimore Orioles failed to win their eighth straight international league pennant, but they made a gallant fight for it.

Manager Collins of the White Sox appears to have made a good find in McCurdy, the recruit catcher, whose batting has been one of the bright features of the closing days of the season.

One of the wonders of the National league season has been the problem of how a team like the Boston Braves can clean up the three leading teams of the league with perfect ease and yet has never been able to get above seventh place all season.

SPORTING NOTES

Boston has a negro golf and country club.

The gloves worn by Dempsey and Tunney cost $14.60 a pair.

More than 2000 football games will be played on American college gridirons this season.

Whippets are a cross between the Italian greyhound, the greyhound and the bull terrier, but have existed in their present form for many years.

When Ohio State eleven meets Columbia at the Polo grounds on Oct. 16 it will have the distinction of being the first Big Ten conference football team that ever has displayed its wares in New York city.

"Please, butcher," give me a daily brush up and restrict my diet, "as I wish to be modern and slim. I have beaten every dog in the Old country, and am all out to do likewise across the herring pond." Such was the message written on a label attached to a prize-winning English sheepdog which arrived in New York the other day in care of the ship's butcher on a liner from Liverpool.

M. Charles Lenglen, father of the great Suzanne, recently told how he taught his daughter the game that made her the world's champion tennis player. When Suzanne was still a child, he said, he coached her in the net style used by men players. As a result, Mlle. Lenglen learned the latest technique employed by men, and thus obtained a big advantage over her women opponents

CARDINALS AND YANKEES CONFIDENT AS FIRST GAME OF SERIES APPROACHES

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—(AP)—With another day's practice the Yankees and Cardinals believe themselves primed for the battle of the world's baseball championship that starts Saturday in the Yankee Stadium.

Experts who watched the rival teams put in brisk workouts at the American League park this afternoon, as well as the advance guard of fandom's host, gathering from ll corners of the country, are confident that the series will be equally as hotly contested as those of 1924 and 1925, each of which went the limit of seven games.

The closely matched playing strength of the two teams, as well as the ability of each to rally under reverses, strengthens the prospect of a keenly fought battle.

Although Wall street betting commissioners have established the Yankees as slight favorites, many wagers being placed at odds of 6 to 5, a tendency toward even money was indicated today as Yankee supporters encountered the rush of incoming Cardinal rooters, eager to snap up any available odds.

Those who favor the Cardinals—and the National Leaguers' backing isn't all from St. Louis—believe that Rogers Hornsby and his men will ride to triumph on the same "wave of destiny" that propelled Washington in its first world's series in 1924. Indomitable fighting spirit carried the Cardinals to their first National League pennant. Observers believe this spirit, backed by tremendous home-town enthusiasm, will fire the St. Louis outfit to championship accomplishment.

The spirit of a conquering clan was evident in today's batting and field drill of the Cardinals. Rogers Hornsby was visibly affected by the death of his mother in Texas, but he directed the workout and courageously put as much zest as possible into his own efforts. The manager's ordeal has strengthened the admiration and affection held for him by his men and his decision to play through the series apparently has fired them to renewed determination.

Neither Hornsby nor Miller Huggins, Yankee pilot, shed further light on their pitching selections. Hornsby said he would not make any choice before tomorrow night but the Cardinal camp seems certain it will be either Willie Sherdel or Grover Cleveland Alexander. The annoying effects of a slow ball on the energy of the Yankees' attack may sway Hornsby's selection to Sherdel, who possesses a tantalizing toss of this variety. The Yankee twirling choice is understood to rest between Herb Pennock and Urban Shocker with the chances favoring Pennock.

If the rush on Saturday morning for the turnstiles to the unreserved area of the Yankee Stadium is anything like expectations the big ball park will bulge with a record series crowd. The previous high mark, 62,817 in 1923, may be exceeded by 5,000 if all available room is filled.

Weather prospects are none too bright for the opening game Saturday, with a week-end of rain predicted. The schedule calls for the first two games here Saturday and Sunday with a jump to St. Louis for a renewal of the battle there Tuesday but in the event of a New York postponement, the teams will remain here until two games are completed. The same rule holds good for the three contests scheduled in St. Louis. Providing the series isn't settled in five games, New York will be the scene of the deciding conflicts.

Hagen and Quimet Even

WAYLAND, Mass., Sept. 30—(AP)—Walter Hagen, national professional golf champion, and Francis Ouimet, former open and amateur champion, were all even today at the end of the first 18 holes of their scheduled 36-hole match at the Sandy Burr Country club. Both players shot par golf throughout, negotiating each half of the course in 36s for totals of 72.

BALTIC INDEPENDENTS HAVE ORGANIZED FOR THE SEASON

The Baltic Independents a basketball team, has organized for the coming season with Harry Collins as manager and "Butch" LaCroix as captain. The first practice for the team was held on Monday evening of this week and those reporting for tryouts were LaCroix, Ridgeway, Rondeau, Wilcox, Robitaille, Provencher, Andrews Fournier, Lavigne and Douville. Practice will be held every Monday evening and a schedule is being arranged by Manager Collins.

Cubs-Sox Game Postponed

CHICAGO, Sept. 30—(AP)—The second game of the city series between the White Sox and Cubs was postponed today because of rain. The game will be played next Tuesday.

DALLAS WINS SOUTHERN TITLE IN BASEBALL

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Dallas won the baseball championship of the south here today, chiefly because of stellar batting by "Hack" Miller, Dallas' right fielder, who drove in enough runs to enable the Texans to win a 3 to 2 decision over the New Orleans Pelicans in the sixth decision of the Dixie series.

The Pelicans won the first two games of the series. The Steers then took four in a row with the exception of a tie contest played in Dallas.

WORLD'S SERIES RETURNS AT BULLETIN CO. OFFICE

As has been customary for many years the play by play returns of the World's Series games a New York and St. Louis will be announced at the Bulletin office by megaphone. The Associated Press service direct from the Yankee Stadium and the National league park at St. Louis will be more complete this year than ever before.

The games are scheduled to start at 1:30 p. m. daily and the play by play account will cover every ball pitched and every playing incident and will be supplemented by a description of the high spots during the game.

CRIMINAL CASES TRIED IN SUPERIOR COURT THURSDAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, Sept. 30—The September term of superior court continued session at the county court house, West Kingston, this morning, with consideration of the alleged criminal assault case, state, Thomas E. Brown, chief of police of Westerly complainant vs. Tony Ruso, which assault was claimed to have occurred at Watch Hill. Jurors impaneled were Walter Davitt, Fred A. Macomber, Harold J. Mitchell and NicholasR. Gould of South Kingstown; David B. Adams and George H. Sherman of North Kingstown, Thomas Chadburn and John H. Farnsworth of Westerly, Irvine W. Melbourne of Hopkinton, Frank E. Dutemple of Exeter, Lewis G. Tucker of Charlestown and Edgar Sweet of Narragansett. When jurors were sworn, the spare jurymen were excused to report this Thursday morning at the county court house at 10:45 o'clock. From the court room were excluded all persons not connected with or interested in the case.

Joseph Brady, previously arraigned on the complaint of driving off an automobile, the property of another, changed his plea of not guilty to one of nolo, Aug. 1st. last. Brady in the town of South Kingstown drove off the automobile of Thomas A. Wilson and returned with it the next day at 5 a. m. During the time he was out on bail he repeated his previous performance. On Attorney General Jackvony's recommendation of sentence, Judge Arthur P. Sumner, imposed a jail term of seven months.

PAWCATUCK MAN CHAIRMAN OF STONINGTON COMMITTEE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, 30—Henry A. Stahle of Pawcatuck, who introduced the resolution relative to the erection of a new town building for Stonington at Monday's annual Stonington financial town meeting, last night was elected at that time to prepare suitable plans with approximate costs, which will be reported back to a special Stonington town meeting. Town clerk also elected Town Clerk Elmer E. Hinckley secretary of the building committee. Other members of the committee are three Stonington selectmen, John Fribance, of Mystic, Arthur F. Babcock of Pawcatuck, and Joseph Vargas of Stonington borough, Frank F. Dodge of Stonington borough, John Rossi of Mystic, Seth Williams of the Road District and Sydney Siswick, of Old Mystic.

By vote of the town meeting the site for the proposed structure is on the land of highest elevation in the vicinity on a Connecticut state road, being that offered by Mrs. Eugene Atwood. it is on the west side of Elm street, and south of the residence of Edward E. Bradley, has a 365-foot frontage and the depth of 600 feet.

It is the intention of the building committee to proceed as quickly as possible with the preliminary work and the committee is to hold the second meeting the first of next week.

Candidate Howard E. Thorp of Potter Hill, who states that he intends to keep his campaign free from mud-slinging wishes to go clean to the Rhode Island legislature, or not at all. That there may be no misunderstanding about his candidacy he has written a personal letter to the fourteen members of the Westerly republican town committee, making public his intention to make an active canvas for the republican nomination. President John D. Nichols of the Westerly town council, residing on the Potter Hill road, with a summer business at Watch Hill, in his public announcement of his candidacy, has sought a personal interview with the seven members of the First Westerly Voting District Republican committee.

It is understood that the fight October 13th in the Rhode Island state republican convention in Providence will be over the election of a state central committeeman to succed the present incumbent from Westerly, George B. Utter. It is understood that Samuel H. Davis of Westerly, nominee for governor at the convention in Providence two years ago, is an active candidate for the Westerly membership of the Rhode Island state central committee and that he has been assured of a very substantial support from the parties who presented the opposition slate at last Monday's Westerly republican caucus. The news of Mr. Davis' favor-Idacy has been received very favorably, it is reported, in all parts of Rhode Island.

John D. Nichols, candidate for representative from the First Westerly Voting District was the man first named on the opposition slate for delegate to the republican convention in Providence and has the same backing as the Thorp forces.

In the Second Voting district of Westerly, rumors are heard that the announced candidacy of Representative Clifford W. Campbell, present incumbent, to the Rhode Island legislature, may not go uncontested, for there has been heard rumors from several sources that Mrs. Elisha C. Burdick, former regent of Westerly chapter Daughters of the American Revolution, may have her name presented to the caucus for consideration. In criticism of Mr. Campbell's legislative career at the last session is the statement from an interested party that he was "A. W. O. L." from Westerly constituents when legislative matters concerning highways and other Westerly issues came up.

The auto-truck of Herbert Wilcox caught fire Thursday afternoon, about 1:30, when returning light from a trip to Rehoboth, Mass. Near the Austin farm, about half a mile east of Westerly backfire set fire to the automobile and although extinguishers and dirt was thrown on the burning truck it was entirely consumed.

The Immaculate Conception parish women held a whist, the first of the fall season Thursday night in the assembly hall of the new parochial school, High and Dixon street. Mrs. James A. Welch was chairman of the committee arranging for the successful event.

Funeral services for Miss Ida May Dickenson were held Wednesday afternoon at local funeral parlors, Rev. B. U. Hatfield, pastor of the First Baptist church, was the officiating clergyman. Burial was in River Bend Cemetery, where the committal service was conducted by Rev. Mr. Hatfield.

Mrs. Ernestine S. Tuch, Miss Helen M. Tuch and Theodora Samuels were motor visitors in Providence Thursday.

Mrs. Isaac G. Smith returned Wednesday evening after accompanying Dr. and Mrs. A. A. Holiday of Toronto, Canada, on a motor trip to Providence during the day.

Arthur McClenan Weeden, assistant custodian of Westerly Memorial and Public Library will leave Westerly Tuesday next for several days' visit at the sesqui-centennial exhibition in Philadelphia.

Stanley S. Trotman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur E. Trotman, of Westerly, returns this week to resume his studies at the Choate school, Wallingford, Conn.

George E. Phillips, summer visitor at Pleasant View left Thursday morning for Providence and in the evening assisted in the installation of officers of Washington Commandery, No. 4, Knights Templars at Newport when Rhode Island jury commissioner Arthur A. Sherman was installed as commander.

Mrs. S. J. Doty returned to Westerly Thursday evening after visiting several weeks with friends in Providence.

Charles LaPietra has purchased and will occupy the house of Wayland W. Saunders at 14 Dixon street, formerly owned and occupied by George A. Golden.

Mr. and Mrs. Dana R. Curry of Groton were guests Wednesday evening of Mrs. Curry's mother, Mrs. Jessie C. McLaren.

The iron work for the new Nardone block, corner of Canal and High street has arrived in Westerly and is being delivered. Iron girders for floor supports were being placed in position on the cement foundations Thursday.

L. E Peck has been having a vacation the past week from his duties at the Kenyon store.

Dr. and Mrs. W. C. Thompson Elihu H. Chesbro and wife and Willard Hall and Walter Hill have returned from a motor trip to Washington, D. C., and south as far as Virginia. They visited Mt. Vernon, Arlington and other cities by way of the Berkshires, Bear mountain and the National and Lincoln highways, stopping at the Sesqui-centennial, Philadelphia on the return trip. They covered some 1,500 miles without mishap during a wonderful trip of ten days.

NOANK

Capt. Elmer Hewitt of the boat Ethel H., while at the fishing ground, near Watch Hill, while pulling his net had some job to bring the net out of water for in it was a blue shark, 450 pound weight and it almost over-turned the boat. It took nearly three hours to land the monster in the boat. It is the largest shark brought into the dock this summer. Captain Hewitt said that the shark cost him a new net, for the net was torn. The shark is on exhibition at Noank packing house dock.

A letter was received from Howard Brown in Miami Fla., to Neil Morrison, the first report to come from him. He is the last person from Noank to hear from. He and came out of the storm safely the Western Union Co. where he works has many poles to replace and is working night and day. Mr. Brown claims he tried twice to get a telegram to Noank, but could not.

Rollin Rathbun while over at Palmer Cove smelting put away his fish poles and on his way back to the village saw something coming toward the row boat and it was a 11-foot sand shark and he picked up the oars and started to the shore. The shark was right on his trail and Mr. Rathbun pulls a strong oar and he beat his rival, the fish, to the shore.

Miss Helen Clark, after being ill at her home is able to be out.

The boat Baby was hauled out at Rogers' yard Wednesday to receive a coat of paint and have the engine reconditioned.

Mackerel have struck on in the harbor. It is the first time in 19 years that the fish have been so close to shore. Neil Robertson at the town dock caught 12 good sized ones, while 15 young men were fishing from different docks trying their luck.

Jack Lawler of Springfield is in the village for a few days.

William Lackers has gone to New York on a business trip.

Mrs. Ralph Wheeler of Stonington was a recent caller on her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Tourjee.

The house of Myron Chester, occupied by Alex MacDougal is receiving repairs.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Fox of Spicer avenue entertained relatives from New London recently.

William Tourjee of Willimantic is home on a visit.

Launch George W. Curtis has arrived at the shipyard where it will receive a general overhauling, including repairs to the rudder.

Boat Ensign has been towed to the shipyard where the stern which was damaged in a collision will be repaired.

Fred Phillips is employed at the Haley farm as gardener.

The members of the merchants, their wives and young women friends and the Daughters of America held a social in D. of A. hall. The woman who had the most comical rig on received a prize and the man who wore the oddest rig also got a prize.

WALTER FIELD RESIGNS AS FIRE CO. FOREMAN

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Sept. 30.—At a meeting of the A. A. Young, Jr., Hose and Ladder Co., No. 1, this evening, Walter Field resigned as foreman and the first assistant, Edward Walsh, was elected to fill the vacancy. Dennis Griffin was elected first assistant

STEWART-BENJAMIN ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED

(Special to the Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Sept. 30.—Mr. and Mrs. John T. Stewart entertained a number of the girl friends associated with their daughter, Miss Irene Stewart in Aspinook Co. office last evening. The affair was in celebration of her birthday and also an announcement of her engagement to Walter Benjamin, of this place. It was an entire surprise to Miss Stewart, who found the girls waiting for her on her arrival at her home. The dining room was very decorated with streamers of pink from the electric dome, which was covered in pink to the corners of the room. At each girl's place was a doll dressed in pink, a pink basket of candy, pink snap bonbons, and droll fancy caps. Pink dahlias carried out the color scheme. A birthday cake made by Mrs. H. E. Paul, with pink candles in rose holders made great fun, as it contained numerous fortunes. Pink ribbons falling from the top of the dome were given to each girl, and on pulling them down, were found to be attached to cards announcing the engagement. A dinner was served, the menu including:

Chicken Soup
Celery Olives
Chicken Fricassee
Cranberry Sauce
Mashed Potato Mashed Turnip
Parker House Rolls
Cake Ice Cream Coffee

At the close of the dinner, the birthday cake with lighted candles was brought to the table with great ceremony, and was cut by the hostess. Miss Stewart found the ring. Miss Sharkey the engagement ring, Miss Jodoin a doll, Miss Leyden and Miss Fox thimbles, Miss Adams a cent and Miss Cathcart a button. The office girls gave Miss Stewart a clock and she received other gifts. Music, games and stunts of various kinds filled the remainder of the evening. Mrs. Stewart was assisted by Mrs. C. I Benjamin, Mrs. Grace Engler, of Norwich, and Mrs. E. H. Hiscox. The guests were Doris Myott, Verna Tarbox, Agnes Brickley, Estelle Jodoin, Annie Gorman Bessie and Sadie Thompson, Beatrice Cathcart, Margery Leyden, Edna Sharkey, Margaret Fox, Yvonne Bryant and Stella Gaska from Aspinook office, and Clara Adams from Glasgo Finishing Co. office.

The long distance telephone rates of toll charges from Jewett City to Norwich went into effect at midnight. The new rate is 10 cents instead of 5 cents.

Mrs. Isaac Perry was pleasantly surprised at her new home on Tracy avenue, Wednesday evening by a visit from a number of friends, who came to give her a handsome silk bed spread. Games were played and Louise Maynard gave a recitation. Alexina Pepin sang, accompanied by Miss Yvonne Gilbert. Chicken salad, sandwiches, cake, cookies, coffee and ice cream were served. The hostess was assisted by Marie Salole, Eva Raill and Natalie Harpin.

MAROONED IN ATTIC DURING FLORIDA STORM

(Special to the Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Sept. 30.—Letters have been received from Mrs. William Dealtry, from Miami, telling of the terrible experiences during the hurricane. Their house was of stucco and was not badly damaged, but the water rose so much in the house, that they attempted to cross to a hotel opposite Dealtry was swept off his feet and had great difficulty in swimming back to the house. She said "We all finally went into the attic, and stood in one dry place, ten of us, and Billie whistled to keep up our courage. I made them pray—even little Billie folded his hands. And God answered our prayers, for a hero from the hotel swam across with a rope and we got across. We were all hungry, when a box with cans of salmon, peas, and other eatables floated down the street and we rescued it."

She said she would not have missed it for a million dollars and she would not go through it again for a million dollars. They are in good health and not in need.

Mrs. Benjamin Wilcox of Voluntown has a rose bush which is covered in blossoms. She also has a marigold blossom which fills a quart bowl.

R. F. Chency has had as guests his sister-in-law, Mrs. Carl Smith, of Wells, Vt., and her son, Dewitt, of Rutland, Vt.

Finn theatre is to show a Sunday afternoon picture in accordance with the plan of other theatres in the state, for the benefit of the Florida relief. This benefit has the sanction of the governor of the state and in Jewett City, the warden of the borough. The picture is sent free for exhibition. All the attaches of the theatre give their services, and the admission fees are to be sent for relief work.

Word has been received from Miss Eva Duff in Providence that her mother, Mrs. Joseph Duff, is in St. Joseph's hospital recovering from a surgical operation.

Mrs. Felix Guillet and Miss Anne Cruson attended the funeral of Sister Rita in Putnam, Wednesday.

An exhibit is in Finn Bros.' window of the bags and their contents which are to be sent to Uncle Sam's boys in foreign waters for Christmas remembrances from the Red Cross. Cards acknowledging those sent last year are with the exhibit, coming from the Canal Zone. Different organizations and individuals in town, through the efforts of Mrs. J. H. Tracy, secretary of the local chapter, have contributed the money necessary for these remembrances of Christmas cheer. Mrs. F. I. Ray, Mrs. Alice Anthony, Mrs. Tracy and Miss M. A. Burdick made and filled the bags and arranged the window.

FARMING DEPENDS LARGELY ON THE FARMERS

(Written Specially for The Bulletin)

I have a sort of inherited interest in everything pertaining to the old town of Lebanon. You see, the almost exclusively farming town of New Lebanon, N. Y., in which I passed my first childhood and am now entering my second, got its name from an early emigrant from Lebanon, Conn., who strove in this way to perpetuate the memory of his loyalty to his birth place. Naturally anything about the old mother town attracts the attention of a dweller in the new one. He feels himself in a sort of son-in-law or perhaps step-son relation, not close enough to be burdensome, but ample to explain a kind of filial affection.

Consequently, when I found in my mail the other day, a copy of the Storrs Bulletin on Soil Type as a Factor in Farm Economy in the town of Lebanon, I had to give it "the once over," not only as a token of respect but also because I actually found it more interesting than the details of how Tunney mauled one Dempsey into bloody rags. Indeed I am inclined to regard the farmer as more interesting than the ring—ugly anywhere. Especially on any town called Lebanon.

I confess that the numerous tables and diagrams and charts require rather more study to clarify all their impressions than any some what muddled old head found it easy to give. In fact, I own up that I rather slurred some. But I did manage to get a sort of grip on several things about the work and the farms and the farmers of the ancient town.

To begin with, I learned that the two kinds of soil which are most common on it are those known to the soil experts as "Charlton" and "Gloucester." These varieties of dirt seem to have been given their names from the two towns in Massachusetts in which they were first analysed and described. As nearly as I can make out we common farmers would call the "Charlton" a good brown loam, underlaid by a yellowish sub-soil, growing harder down to 40 inches, at least. We should say the "Gloucester" a sandy or gravelly loam easily enough worked for the top six inches, but below that inclined to be stony,—pretty well filled with stones big enough to be called boulders. The geologist notes that the "Gloucesters" seem to have been made up from disintegrated schist; while the "Gloucester" soils were from similarly disintegrated granite. And granite has always been reputed a better adapted for building stone than for making garden soil.

Naturally the productiveness of the "Charlton" soils is greater than that of the "less fertile." In crop yields the "Charlton" areas do about 4 per cent better than the "Gloucester"; in milk production on the dairy farms from 20 to 37 per cent better.

All of this is interesting and suggestive. But I confess that a couple of tables on pages 87 and 88 of the bulletin kept my attention longer than any others. There tables set forth the "actual income" of Lebanon farmers by soil type and nationality in the year 1922-1923.

The tabulators call special attention to the fact "that both prices and yields were lower than normal for this year." Consequently, the tabulated results may indicate a slightly worse state of affairs than there might have done in a year of big production and high prices. — By the way, did any farmer reader of this ever happen to live during a year when production was high and prices high, also? So far as my experience goes, a year of big production practically always means a year of glutted markets and low prices. Similarly, a year of high prices means one when production has been insufficient to supply the market's demands. As one old neighbor recently put it: "I could always get big money for potatoes and eggs when I didn't have either to spare, but I never could get a decent price for 'em when I had 'em to burn." The combination of low yields and low prices in this year referred to consequently strikes me as extremely unusual and not to be considered in a view of the general situation.

But to come back to our table of farmers' incomes. I can't reproduce it here for it doesn't fit a newspaper column, so you'll have to take my summarization of it, if you haven't a copy of the Storrs Bulletin at hand.

The table,—which of course gives no names,—divides about 160 Lebanon farmers into four groups. The first consists of native born farmers on the "Charlton" loam; the second of native-born farmers on the stony "Gloucester"; the third of foreign farmers on the loam; the fourth of foreign farmers on the stony land.

The illuminating fact shown by this table is that the average labor income of the 58 native-born farmers working the good loam land was a trifle over $300, while the 99 farmers included in the three other groups failed of any labor income at all, by from $190 to $560. That is, these latter worked for nothing and paid from $190 to $560 for the privilege. It is any wonder that such farmers are discontented?

But averages are notoriously unsatisfactory. They are cold-blooded and sort of unhuman creatures. Let's get down a little closer to individual farmers. In out table there are 58 in the first group of native-born farmers, farming good loam, and winning an "average" labor income of $300. This means, or course, that some get more than that, and that some get less. The table shows that 32 of the 58 are earning something, while 26 of the same breed on the same soil are earning less than nothing. The proportion changes in the other three groups. Of the 18 native-born farmers working the stony land seven are getting an income from it and 11 are not. Of the 40 foreign-born farmers on the loam 11 are getting some income and 29 are not. Of the 41 foreign-born farmers on the stony land 14 are getting an income and 27 are not.

Such figures show that the character of the soil has a certain but by no means a controlling influence on its income-producing character. But they show a much more important fact. They make it absolutely clear that, whether native-born or foreign-born, some farmers are making good on both sorts of soil investigated. Even in the very worst case, that of the 41 foreign-born farmers working the poorest soil, 14 of them are making a little something. They are earning from $100 to $1,100 a year. If I read the table rightly, per contra, in the very best case of the four, that of the 58 skilled native-born farmers on the best "Charlton" loam, 26 are not making any labor income. The same distinction holds with every group. Some in each group are earning an income; some in each group are failing to earn one.

You can't lay it all to the sort of land; nor can you ascribe it all to the accident of birth. One farmer, native-born and working mellow, fertile loam, makes $800 a year. Another native-born farmer on similar soil lacks $800 a year of making anything. One foreign-born farmer on the poorer land makes $1,100 a year; another foreigner on similar land falls $1,200 a year below nothing.

After you've allowed all that is possible to the character of the soil and to the inherited knowledge in native-born farmers of how best to manage it, the biggest half of the profit problem remains unsolved.

There seems nowhere else to look for the answer in the farmers themselves,—their ability, their strength, their shrewdness. It takes a good farmer to make anything off a poor farm. And yet the table shows that there are farmers who get nothing but loss off good farms.

In other words, this survey seems to suggest very forcibly that there are good farmers and poor farmers, almost everywhere. There are farmers who would make good if planted in a corner of Sahara, and there are farmers who would fail to make good if quartered in the Garden of Eden.

Of course, I'm not undertaking to draw any hard and fast line between those Lebanon farmers who earned incomes in 1922-1923 and those who didn't, and assert that those who did were all good farmers and those who didn't were all poor farmers. There are such things as accidents in farming as in all other occupations. No one knows to exactly what his failure may have been due in the case of any individual. Without knowing all the facts about every separate case, it would be rash if not actually unjust to ascribe any one failure to its victim's fault.

Yet there is manifestly a line of demarcation running somewhere between those who succeed and those who fail. It is the line of character and capacity. It may be bent somewhat to one side or the other by such factors as those of soil-content or of seasonal freakishness or of accident. But, in the main, that line follows the aptitude or the non-aptitude of the man himself for farming.

Some of us were born "farm-minded." And some were not. Some of us are industrious, and some are plain lazy. Some are thrifty and some are contemptuous of the small things. Some would rather work 15 hours a day than neglect their job, and some wouldn't work over eight hours to save the mother-in-law from starvation. Some can see around a corner a mile away and some can't see beyond the ends of their own noses. Some are willing to let go a partridge in the hand, anytime, in the hope of grabbing a pheasant in the bush. Some men want to stand on their own legs and are irritated if an outsider volunteers undesired assistance, while others are willing to lean on somebody or something all the time, and whimper pitifully if you don't run to steady them every time they stub their toes.

Shakespeare uttered a tremendously important truth when he put into Cassius' mouth the famous words:—

"The fault, dear Brutus, is not in our stars
But in ourselves, that we are underlings."

The world is too full of misfits;—of round pegs trying to fill square holes. There are poor mechanics who would have made good farmers. There are poor farmers who might have been good tailors. And then, of course, there's the residuum of predestined good-for-naughts who will never amount to anything, because they lack driving power and steering gumption.

If there weren't any misfits or good-for-naughts on the farms the so-called "farm problem" would lose a good deal of its vociferousness,—in Connecticut as well as in Iowa.

YOUR WORK.

"And, if you put a little lovin' into all the work you do,
And a little bit of gladness, and a little bit of you;
And a little bit of sweetness, and a little bit of song,
Not a day will seem too toilsome, not a day will seem too long.

"And your work will seem attractive, and the world will stop and look.
And the world will sense a sweetness like the singing of a brook
In the finished job; and then the world will stop to look at you,
With the world's appreciation of the work you've found to do.

"Just a little bit of lovin' and a little bit of song,
And some pride to sort of make straight and true and clear and strong;
And the work that you're a-doin'—pretty near before you know,
Will set the world a-talkin' and the little winds that blow will bring echoes of it to you.

"And then you'll know that you have done more than you
Had hoped or dreamed of when the task was first begun,
And the little bit of lovin' you have put into the same
Will come back to you in lovin', will come back to you in fame."

Danny Has an Adventure

The careless always have to pay;
They find there is no other way.
—Danny Meadow Mouse.

It is a fact. If the careless do not pay in one way they pay in another. Danny Meadow Mouse knows what he is talking about. He ought to, for he has had experience enough. Danny is one of those people who cannot afford to be careless, even for a minute. Some people can afford to be careless, but little people like Danny never can. Danny had turned his back on the ocean. He had left the sand dunes and started up along the edge of the [illegible] where the [illegible] Meadows. He was [illegible] people of the Green Forest and the Green Meadows, Danny had something inside him that turned his nose in the right direction. People have a word for that something inside. Perhaps I should say, they have two words. These are "homing instinct." They mean that inside is something which knows in which direction home lies. So it was that Danny, without knowing it, where the Green Meadows were, pointed his funny little nose in the right direction when he started out.

Now Danny had to eat, so he couldn't spend all his time traveling. Perhaps you remember that there was a creek, which really was a branch of the big river, that came flowing down from way up by the Green Meadows.

He turned and darted under the overhanging grass

Danny headed toward this creek. Somehow he felt safer over there and there was more chance to get something to eat. There were always plenty of things to be found over on that salt marsh that could be eaten. So Danny began to follow up along the back of the creek.

The first day nothing happened. Danny found plenty to eat, and when he grew tired he found hiding places in which he could curl up for a nap. Of course, those short legs of Danny's got tired quite easily, so he didn't travel very far that first day. He didn't travel far enough to feel at all easy in his mind about Reddy Fox; so when he took a nap he didn't sleep as well as he might have. At night he kept on his way. He found it a lot harder traveling than he thought it would be. You see, he had no nice paths cut through the grass. When the tide was out he found that he could run along the edge of the mudflats; but when the tide was in he had to get back on high land.

It was just after daylight the second day that Danny had his first real adventure. He had by this time become so used to things that he had grown a little bit careless. In other words, he didn't look as sharply as he should to see just where he was going. So it was that he ran out from under some overhanging grass on the edge of the mudflat to discover Black-crown the Night Heron standing motionless, watching for some minnows to come within reach. Danny almost ran over one of Black-crown's toes before he saw Black-crown at all.

You should have seen Danny turn! Certainly, he never turned more quickly in his life. He turned and darted under the overhanging grass, and as he did so Black-crown saw him from the corner of his eye. Like a flash Black-crown turned and drove that long bill of his into that grass. He just missed Danny. If Danny hadn't happened to turn just as Black-crown that bill wouldn't have missed him. Danny squealed with fright and darted along under the grass. Black-crown followed, driving that long bill of his into the grass every time he saw it move. Why he didn't catch Danny, Danny doesn't know to this day. At last Danny found an old hole of a Muskrat in the bank. Danny darted in. How he did hope that there was nobody at home. He went only far enough to get out of sight of Black-crown the Night Heron. Then he sat down to get his breath. "My!" exclaimed Danny, "that was a close call. But it served me right for not using my eyes better."

HUMOR OF THE DAY

Mrs. Hook—Of course your husband has made his will?

Mrs. Peck (significantly)—He has signed it.—Stray Stories.

Jo Blank is making lots of money.

Must be; he's going to his old home town for a visit.—Detroit News.

New office boy—I've added those figures up 10 times, sir.

Employer—Good boy.

Boy—And here's the 10 answers, sir!—Passing Show, London.

Gertie—I wish you to know that I don't stand on trifles.

Helen (glancing at Gertie's feet)—Dear dear! I see you don't.—Vancouver Province.

Excavation contractor (to applicant)—I don't think you're fit for really hard labor.

Hard Case—Well, sir, some of the best judges have thought so.—Detroit Free Press.

What conclusion do you draw from the discovery of such vast personal wealth in that ancient Egyptian tomb?

That King Tut was a good politician but a rather shabby statesman.—Washington Star.

Mrs. Warden—I don't like the looks of No. 47. He's been pacin' up and down his cell all night, and looks dangerous.

Second Warden—Well, can you wonder? His sentence for bigamy expires today and both his wives will be waitin' outside.—Passing Show, London.

Judge, I'm drawn on the August jury.

Well?

But I had just made arrangements to go away with my wife.

Ain't you in luck?—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Waste oil taken from the crankcases of automobiles is to be used by the Florida board of health in combatting mosquitoes. Garages in all cities are being asked to save this oil. It will be used to saturate sacks of mixed sawdust and sand, which will be planted in bodies of water where mosquitoes propagate.

Woman may be the "softer sex," but Sir Herbert Nield, member of the British parliament and recorder for York, does not think they have demonstrated it in their service as members of juries. "I venture to think that a man is safer in the hands of the bench than he would be in the hands of a present-day jury. One finds the fair sex far more severe than the old-fashioned jury," Sir Herbert said recently.

The chief construction at the port of Bombay since the war has been the raw cotton depot, occupying 127 acres at Mazagon, which cost 15,000,000 rupees ($5,400,000) and is said to be the largest depot of its type in existence. It provides covered storage accommodation for 1,000,000 bales and open storage for a similiar quantity. In the period from November, 1925, to March, 1926, 2,890,000 bales of cotton were handled at this depot.

"Lose seven seconds and you may gain 50 years," is a new byword of the safety first campaigners who are battling to lower the annual toll of motorists killed on grade crossings in 1925 totaled 1,784. A fast railroad train usually takes seven seconds to pass a crossing, R. J. Clancy, assistant to the general manager of the Southern Pacific company, has computed. Yet 1,784 persons were killed last year in attempts to save these seven-second periods, he pointed out.

MEN INJURED BY BLAST AT BEST VIEW RUSHED TO NEW LONDON HOSPITAL

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 30.—David Baum, 35, Mallory Hill, Waterford, and Alturo Pacci, 37, of 46 Goshen street, both employed in a construction gang of the Connecticut Power company, were seriously injured this afternoon when they received the full force of a blast at Best View, Waterford. Baum sustained multiple lacerations and abrasions of the face, neck, both hands, both arms, right shoulder and left leg. His face was badly lacerated. Pacci received lacerations and abrasions of the right hand and his face and suffered a deep laceration of the right side.

Both men are patients at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, where it is stated that the outcome of their injuries cannot be foretold.

Baum and Pacci were two members of the gang in making a deep excavation. After several feet of earth had been removed the workers encountered a boulder and to remove it blasting was resorted to. A heavy charge of dynamite had been inserted in the rock and exploded. Baum and Pacci then went to the excavation and were about to start removing the timbers that had been placed over the rock to prevent fragments flying. While bending over the timbers a second blast occurred, the timbers being hurled against the heads and bodies of Baum and Pacci. A hurry call was sent for the ambulance and the men were rushed to the institution.

What caused the second blast is not known, but it is believed that all of the dynamite was not exploded with the first blast and the remainder of the dynamite was exploded from the heat of the first explosion.

ELKS' LODGE TO DECIDE ABOUT SECURING NEW HOME

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 30.—Tomorrow night the members of New London lodge of Elks will decide whether they are so prosperous as a lodge that they can buy or build a new home and lodge room. The lodge has grown in membership, surely, but whether they are in a position to spend as much money as a new building will cost is not so certain. It is not known that any rubber sides have been necessary on the present structure to accommodate all the Elks who desire to browse on the New London reservation, and to build a new structure, the sale of the building now occupied is necessary.

Purchasers for a property that is valued at $30,000 or more are not to be found every day. There has been some wild talk which is declared to have emanated from a real estate speculator about the disposition of the present possession of the Elks and that led to talk of another purchase. Tomorrow evening that matter will be settled, it is expected, or be put in the way of settlement.

John Lynch, who claims to be a weaver, was in the police court, this morning for intoxication. He admitted that he was drunk when arrested. He said he wanted to get to Jewett City, where he was certain of work and to which place he would go as soon as he was at liberty so to do. There is no desire to keep drunks in this city so Judge Prince deemed the promise of Lynch a good one to take advantage of so set him loose.

William Glossenger, who appears in court quite frequently, was there for intoxication. He was found down and out. William said his condition was a mistake because he had employment as a dishwasher in a restaurant and was earning pretty well. He didn't want to go to jail, so Judge Prince decided to ascertain whether the accused had told the truth and made his penalty contingent upon that fact. The result was that Glossenger was given further employment at the lunch room, so he will feed instead of being fed.

James Connors has been on a spree in New London since last week. On Monday he forfeited a bond of $50 to the court because he did not appear to answer for indulging in a fight while he was drunk. Last night he was arrested again for intoxication. He admitted that his condition was such that warranted his arrest, but he pleaded to be allowed to straighten up. Judge Prince sentenced him to jail for ten days but conditioned the penalty upon whether Connors left town or remained here. The accused man said he would get away as soon as he could do that.

John McKenna doesn't recognize a kindness when he experiences such. He was in court a couple of days ago and then, on his representation that money was due to him at Fishers Island, Probation Officer Mansfield paid his fine. Today he was fined $10 and went to jail to work for the county till he has earned the amount of his fine and costs of trial.

Joseph A. St. Germain has sold a building lot on Thames street to Jacob Rosen.

The funeral of Jacob E. Beckwith was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at Niantic Baptist church and was attended by a large assemblage of mourners, including members of Bay View lodge of Masons, of Niantic. The services were conducted by Rev. Charles F. Eldridge and Rev. Mr. Gilbert. Members of Bay View lodge acted as bearers. Burial was in Jordan cemetery.

The funeral of Florence E. Wood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Wood, was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the residence of her parents, 28 Jefferson avenue, the services being conducted by Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth, pastor of the First Church of Christ. Six boy acquaintances of the girl acted as bearers. Burial was in Jordan cemetery.

Mrs. Catherine Tiffany Veltman died last night at the residence of her sister, Mrs. Edward N. Crocker, 408 Ocean avenue. Mrs. Veltman was born in New London, but resided in New York many years. She returned to New London several years ago and had since resided with her sister.

John Lambrick was arrested this afternoon by Sergeant John Cavanaugh charged with breach of the peace. Lambrick was arrested on orders of Acting Prosecuting Attorney Perry J. Hollandersky after complaint had been made to him by parents of boys, who declared that Lambrick had beaten the boys. He will be presented in the police court tomorrow morning.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel today ordered the driver's license of Daniel Sullivan, 48 Huntington street, returned to the owner. Commissioner Stoeckel also approved of the right to operate of Charles Facas, 127 Main street.

It is said that a man named Jackson, who formerly managed a store on Bank street and who went from here to Albany, is to return and reopen business here.

The fruit store at the corner of Lane A and Bank street has been closed by attachment.

Smelt fishermen were out in large number today, but the catches they made did not compensate them for the time and energy they spent.

Another haberdashery store is to be established on Bank street, according to report.

MASHER TOO ARDENT, ARRESTED AND LOCKED UP

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 30—Miss Catherine Fox, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Fox, 326 Crystal avenue, was annoyed to such an extent on her way to her home this evening that she caused the arrest of her annoyer, Thomas Hamilton, who says he is employed by the Connecticut Power company. Hamilton, who was locked up at police headquarters in default of a surety on his bond of $50, will be presented in the police court tomorrow morning charged with breach of the peace.

Miss Fox who is employed in a State street store, started for home about 6 o'clock. As she passed through Main street, near Hallam street, she was accosted by Hamilton, whose remarks were such as to be offensive to the young lady and instead of remonstrating with him, she walked rapidly away. Hamilton followed Miss Fox through Main street to Crystal avenue and to her home, a distance of nearly a mile. Miss Fox hurried into the house and through a window saw Hamilton pacing up and down in front of the house. The police were notified and Patrolmen Edwards, Riordan and Lawrence Furdy were dispatched to the Fox home and finding Hamilton in front of the house arrested him.

DESPONDENT THROUGH DRINK, JOHN E. GARVEY SUICIDES

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 30—John E. Garvey, about 46, employed by the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad as section foreman, committed suicide this afternoon at his rooming house, 46 Washington street. His lifeless body was found about two hours after he had swallowed carbolic acid. He is survived by two or three daughters one of whom is understood to reside in Norwich.

That Garvey intended to end his life there is not the slightest doubt for the quantity of carbolic acid that he swallowed was too ounces and another vial containing a like quantity was found in his room.

A piece of paper was found on a dresser which bore but one word, "heart broken."

Garvey had been drinking considerably of late and yesterday when he paid his room rent he was intoxicated. This morning Garvey did not rise as was his custom, so the landlady, Mrs. Laura W. Reeb, wife of George E. Reeb, U. S. N. did not attempt to arouse him. Shortly before 5 o'clock this afternoon Mrs. Reeb went to Garvey's room and attempted to gain admission by repeated knocking. Not hearing any indication of Garvey responding, Mrs. Reeb used a pass key and unlocking the door found Garvey occupying the bed, but fully clothed. Inspection revealed that he was dead. The police were notified and took charge of his body until Medical Examiner Charles Kaufman had viewed after which it was removed to an undertaking establishment.

Garvey was well known to railroad employes, having been a road worker many years. He was a member of the Order of Railroad Veterans and Order of Railroad Section Foremen.

Edward Flynn, of Mystic, was arrested by Traffic Officer John Courtney this afternoon charged with [illegible] of the city's parking ordinance and violation of the state motor vehicle laws. He will be presented in the police court tomorow morning. Flynn parked his car on Bank street longer than 30 minutes and he did not possess a driver's license.

As was anticipated, George Madon 43 Jay street, employed by the Bloom Silk company, Garfield avenue, suffered the loss of his right eye this morning, it being removed at Lawrence hospital. Madon was struck by a piece of wood that became dislodged from a spinning device Tuesday, the missle striking Madon on the eye and rupturing the eye ball.

Romeo Gauache, of Norwich; Mrs Richard Roberts, Groton, Roger De-Wolf, Bozrah; Hallie Mae Robert Parker and infant daughter, Waterford; and Harry Reynolds, United States Coast Guard [illegible] at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital were discharged today.

Mrs. Emily J. DeBehrens, a former resident of New London, died at her home, 612 Prairie street, Providence, R. I., the 21st inst. She was the widow of William P. DeBehrens, G.A.R. veteran.

Inspector Philip Revnew of the state motor vehicle department, conducted hearings at Chesters on the motor vehicle law above [illegible] court house [illegible] afternoon.

Edward H. W[illegible] of Laurel Hill avenue, Norwich, [illegible] having received [illegible] of operators, chauffeurs, Peter Sabatino, Norwich; [illegible] operator's license restored; [illegible] A. Hedges, Oakdale, restored [illegible] to appear [illegible] William H. [illegible] to Pleasant street, [illegible] license restored; Walter E. [illegible] 40 Goshen street, reckless driving case restored; Walter Mayo, [illegible] Yantic street, Norwich, [illegible] operator's license restored; Henry F. Hanrahan, 95 Fourth street, Norwich driving under influence, license restored; Edward F. Bourgo, R. F. D., No. 1, Groton, driving under influence, license restored.

Ten voting machines, which the city purchased [illegible] New [illegible] and [illegible] Hillside home. The machines were [illegible] used for the first time at the state election to take place in November.

John J. Anderson, 250 Colman street, carpenter in the employ of the Oliver Wo[illegible] company, [illegible] tured knee Wednesday when he fell from a staging he was at work upon at the plant of the Connecticut Power company, Water street. He is a patient at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital.

Coroner J. J. Desmond, Norwich, has conducted an investigation of the accidental death of Felix Melanson, 37, of 59 Trumbo street, killed last Saturday when the boom of a derrick on a lighter owned by Howard Davis [illegible] and struck Melanson [illegible] fall. Coroner Desmond has not rendered his findings, but he has made it known that there was no [illegible] licence. A U bolt broke and allowed the boom to fall. Coroner Desmond has taken possession of the bolt for it is possible that it was defective when put in by a blacksmith.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Breed Theatre

"Mare Nostrum" (Our Sea), which will have its first showing at the Breed theatre Sunday, is the second Blasco Ibanez story Rex Ingram has produced for Metro-Goldwyn. The first was "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse," which swept Ingram to fame along with Alice Terry and Rudolph Valentino, who enacted the leading parts. Miss Terry and Antonio Moreno are featured in "Mare Nostrum," which was filmed in Europe.

The reviews below by some of New York's most critical reviewers indicate why the success of the picture has been so remarkable:

Quinn Martin in the New York World says:

"Mr. Ingram knows where to set his machine and at what time of day to shoot. In Naples, in Marseilles, in the valley before Vesuvius he came away with ripping views.

"Episodes of mythology, the execution, the torpedoing of steamships provided thrills sufficient to introduce a hushed and terrified moment now and again over the first night assemblage."

Mordaunt Hall in the New York Times: "'Mare Nostrum' has its full quota of thrills. . . . The first sequence dealing with the sinking of a British vessel by a submarine is graphically filmed. . . . There is an emphatically exciting scene where one of the German submarine officers is chased through the narrow streets of a town. Mr Ingram spares no feelings to bring out Ibanez's points. . . . Effective in photography in Spain, Italy and France and the dramatic sequences concerned with the submarine's deadly work and the shooting of a woman spy."

New York Sun:

"From a production and acting standpoint, nothing that has been produced can surpass it, even Mr. Ingram's own immortal 'Four Horsemen,' with which the picture must inevitably be compared. A carefully selected cast, gives characterizations that stand out like cameos."

Mare Nostrum comes to the Breed theatre Sunday at seven thirty and will be shown twice daily thereafter at 2:15 and 7:30.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theater

Tonight the Palace will present on the stage for the first time and for one night only semi-professional vaudeville a new and novel form of entertainment by future stars of the stage. Not only is this new idea great entertainment, but it's all kinds of fun besides, and is becoming popular all over the country. The public should remember that many of the headline acts of vaudeville received their first opportunity on try out night and New York booking agents knowing this fact are present to look over the future stars. It will be great fun for the Norwich playgoers and a packed house will be on hand to see it and in addition to the stage performance the screen will show Constance Talmage in her latest success, The Duchess of Buffalo that scored such a hit with Thursday's audiences. Chester Conklin helps Connie in the fun making and her new leading man Tullio Carminati is a handsome and romatic lover. The girls are all raving about him and he promises to become the new idol of the screen. The Duchess of Buffalo is a riotous comedy drama with laughs aplenty and withal a charming love romance in fact it has everything that goes into the making of a fine and finished screen entertainment. The added attractions include champion Gene Tunney in the fourth exciting chapter of his great adventure serial The Fighting Marine, a new Aesops Fable. The Little Parade and the Topical Events with the latest news of the world including views of the Nathan Hale celebration at South Coventry, Conn. Walter Lang and his concert orchestra will provide a high class musical setting for this most excellent program one of the best from the standpoint of quality and quantity seen here this season.

Broadway Theater

An opportunity is extended to all ladies, by the Broadway theater management for today only, to receive an autographed memorial photograph of the late beloved Rudolph Valentino. These photos are an exact likeness and very suitable for framing. These are to be given away free of charge, one to each lady attending any performance today.

The regular program is splendid entertainment. Valentino's The Son of the Sheik is still the big attraction.

The five acts of Keith-Albee vaudeville name in our splendid notice.

Dugan and Dixon, two eccentric steppers followed.

The Buggy Ride is a feast of comedy song and dance featuring Dora Roberts, Faye White and Olga Elsie.

Charles Weber and Al Murray the wise men of the east are a scream.

Irma, Milo and company in a study in art are artistically splendid.

Slater Hall Concert

Notices will soon be mailed to music lovers of Norwich, describing a concert to be given in Slater Memorial hall on Wednesday evening, October 20th, by the Russian Symphonic choir under the leadership of Mr. Basile Kibalchich.

This choir is composed of a score or more of male and female voices so trained that their ensemble is orchestral in quality and performance. To assist in this orchestral effect, the choir appear in costume, which is not only pleasing to the eye but suppressing individualism, enhances the solidarity of the ensemble—centering attention upon the performance instead of the performer.

It appears in the notice now being mailed to those probably interested, that opportunity will be offered to subscribers for selection of reserved seats in advance of the general public.

The committee in charge of this concert fully realize that in spite of earnest efforts to make the mailing list complete, many omissions will have been made. The committee sincerely regret their inability to think of every one likely to be interested in this concert.

However, to secure the privilege of prior selection of seats offered to advance subscribers is a simple matter, and every one desiring to hear this splendid concert is invited to come in as an advance subscriber by mailing written notice—postcard or letter—to Mr. H. A. Tirrell principal stating the number of tickets desired, or, by entering name and address upon the subscription list now in Cranston's store. Tickets, including reserved seats, will be $2.00 each.

THE PEERLESS 8 RETURNS TO THE AL-PIERRE TABARIN

The Peerless eight orchestra, one of the most powerful amusement magnets in this locality for some years, will play for the dancing at the Al-Pierre Tabarin in Willimantic, this Saturday night. The dance is the second since the opening of the season and in engaging The Peerless the management of the Tabarin feel that a right step is being taken toward maintaining the high calibre of music that has served to keep old friends and make many new ones for the "Tab." In addition to the dancing a little novelty to diversify the evening will be introduced in the form of an exhibition of Argentine Tango and Charleston by Ovide Bachand, a young man who bids fair to enter the professional fancy dancing class. There will be the usual catering service.

STONINGTON

A new cement sidewalk is being laid in front of the Wilkinson property on Church street.

The annual meeting of Calvary Fellowship was held in the chapel Wednesday evening, with Miss Margaret Anderson in charge. The following officers were elected: President, Miss Elizabeth Carrington; vice president, Emily Robinson; secretary, Harriet Patterson; treasurer, Florence Buck. The remainder of the evening was spent in making scrapbooks.

William C. Robinson, borough tax collector, commenced the 1926 tenmill tax collection Wednesday.

George Wertz of Providence was a business caller here Thursday.

The old mailhouse now owned by the Stonington Historical society is being wired for electric lights.

Miss Wilhelmina and Carolyn Derleks have been entertaining Miss Helen Crumbe and Hazel Martin of Westerly.

Mr. and Mrs. John E. Wayland have arrived in the borough to spend a few weeks at their residence on Main street.

Mrs. Manuel Fretard who is in a private hospital in New London has improved slightly.

The following officers recently elected by Nina council, No. 43, E. of C., will be installed by District Deputy Grand Knight Timothy J. Sullivan, of New London at their rooms on Main street Sunday at 11 o'clock: Grand knight, Dr. O. J. Dennehey; deputy grand knight, John P. Lopes; secretary, John A. Amoral; treasurer, Matthew T. Leahy; financial secretary, John W. Chamblain; warden, Joseph A. DeBlagga; inside guard, Charles Farnum; outside guard, Antone Santos; trustees, J. B. Gallant, Charles B McCoart, Frank V. Matthews.

Seneca L. Lake, 63, for the past 17 years telegrapher for the Associated Press in Binghamton, N. Y., assigned to the Binghamton Sun, died following an operation at the City hospital.

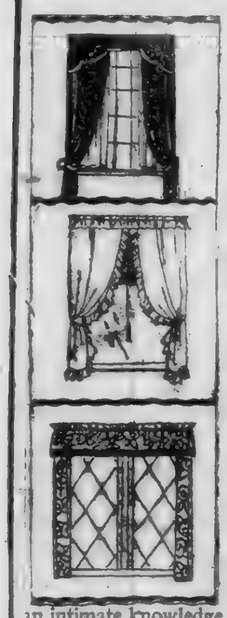
New Window Draperies

Give Fresh Interest to Your Home



The clever housewife knows that the best way to give a definite atmosphere to her rooms is through her window hangings. Do not rich brocade draperies always suggest a dignified room to you, colorful cretonnes a cheerful, cozy room, and quaint patterned chintzes one of colonial charm? These are the months of indoor pleasures when renewed interest in the home makes us think first of our windows —bring your drapery problems to us

FOR ODD SHAPED WINDOWS

For the window that cannot be readily fitted with a made curtain, we have appropriate nets by the yard in patterns to match our made curtains. Our workrooms are equipped to make them into curtains for you — as well as to make all your overdrapes.

LET US HELP YOU CHOOSE

Our salespeople are specialists with an intimate knowledge of the merchandise they sell. They can help you choose patterns and colors to advantage and assist you in obtaining the best use from the things you buy.

NEW CRETONNES
Distinctive Designs

More than 40 beautiful new designs and distinctive color combinations for overdrapes, door drapes, cushion covers, etc. They invite you to dress your home in attractive new fabrics. Rich warm colors that reflect the mellow, ripe tones of Autumn; bright gay notes to keep winter away: these will lure your fancy. You will be delighted with their beauty and modest price—at 39c to $1.25 a yard.

NEW RAYON
NET CURTAINS

Fashion now demands dressier curtains and a greater use of design. These new Rayon Curtains possess an attractive lustre that bring out the pattern sharply. They hang gracefully and are as pleasing from the room as from the street. And they give you seasons of satisfactory wear. In a deep ecru color in several designs, and the price range is broad—$3.75 to $7.50 a pair

MARKET WAS STRONG

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Speculators for the advance regained control of the price movement in today's stock market after bear traders had failed to unsettle the general list by selling stocks on the marking up of the call money rate to 6 per cent. The highest figure of the year. Operators for the rise felt convinced that the high rate on day to day loans was only temporary, due largely to the shifting of funds incidental to the payment of $500,000,000 in third quarter dividend and interest pements, and that there was nothing to justify an increase in the New York Federal Reserve rediscount rate. Which was announced as unchanged at 4 per cent after the market closed.

The sinking spell which followed the posting of the higher carrying charge on call loans was only temporary. Within half an hour, vigorous bullish demonstrations were underway in half a dozen issues, culminating in a broad buying movement just before the close when the best prices of the day were recorded in many issues. Final quotations disclosed a long list of net gains ranging from 1 to 8 1-2 points. Interspersed with a small number of 1 to 3 points declines.

While buying by professional traders furnished the main impetus for th advance, the strength of the market in the face of the uncertainty over credit conditions, attracted increased public interest, as evident from the small buying orders which came pouring over brokerage wires during the late afternoon. In banking circles, the coming month is expected to furnish definite indications of the next major price trend of the market, which occupies the keen intrugue for control between opposing speculative forces.

Most of the standard industrials showed substantial gains on the day. U. S. Steel common closed nearly 2 points hicher at 150 on total sales of nearly 200,000 shares. General Motors recorded a similar gain at 161 1-4. Baldwin crossed 125 for a net gain of 1 1-8.

One of the outstanding individual features of the session was the heavy buying of Famous Players, which advanced two points to 120 on report that the company was negotiating for Warner Bros. Pictures. The A shares of which showed a net gain of 2 1-2 points. Commercial Solvents B continued its sensational advance by soaring nearly 9 points to a new record high at 202 3-4. Other outstanding industrial strong spots were American Express, Austin Nichols preferred, Evenproducts Coke, Coca Coleshing, Coca Cola, Dupont, Savage Arms and U S Cast Iron Pipe, all up 3 to 6 points.

Coppers had a temporary sinking spell in response to another drop in silver prices. Weakness also cropped out in some of the railroad equipment shares. General Railway Signal breaking 4 1-2 points to 79 1-4 and then recovering half its loss.

Establishment of the lowest price in over 15 years by Union Pacific at 164 1-4 was one of the few features of the railroad list, which closed generally higher. A better demand was noted for New York Central, "Nickel Plate" and Southern Pacific. Baltimore & Ohio apparently had discounted the increase from $5 to $6 in the annual dividend, closing fractionally lower at 105 7-8.

Call money renewed at 5 1-2 per cent and then advanced to 6, banks calling about $20,000,000 in loans during the day. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Commodity prices moved irregularly lower. September wheat dropped over a cent a bushel but the other options held steady. Cotton rallied at the opening on reports of better inquiries from English spinners but sold off again in the afternoon, closing 20 to 31 points net lower. Sugar prices held firm. Coffee rallied 15 to 23 points.

Foreign exchanges rates held steady, except for the Chinese silver currencies which continued to yield in sympathy with the further drop in bar silver. Demand sterling was well supported around $4.84 3-4 despite rather large offerings of cotton bills. French francs held firm above 2.80 cents although note circulation of the bank of France showed a substantial increase last week

The petition has been brought to the superior court and a hearing on the matter has been set for Oct. 8, 1926 [illegible] a. m.

Isaacs, the petitioner, has brought foreclosure proceedings on the mortgage, which was given for $8,000, and on which a balance of $3,000 is due, with interest from July, 1923. It is claimed that the mortgagor is in default.

The Truth About Eczema and Piles

Thousands and thousands of people are learning every week that one 35-cent box of Peterson's Ointment will abolish eczema and banish piles.

"I had eczema for many years on my head and could not get anything to stop the agony. I saw your ad and got one box and I owe you many thanks for the good it has done me. There isn't a blotch on my head now and I couldn't help but thank Peterson, for the cure is great." Miss Mary Hill, 129 Third avenue, Pittsburg, Pa.

"I have had itching piles for 15 years and Peterson's is the only ointment that relieved me, besides the piles seems to have gone." A. B. Ruger, 1127 Washington Avenue, Racine, Wis.

Use Peterson's Ointment for old [illegible] bums, bruises, chafing and all [illegible] diseases. Druggists recommend it.

MANY MILITARY ORGANIZATIONS FOR ARMISTICE DAY PARADE PROMISED

Norwich will not only celebrate Armistice day on November 11th, but also the 150th anniversary year of the signing of the Declaration of Independence. Fletcher Post, No. 4 American Legion, and a number of prominent citizens of the city are hard at work on the plans for the dual celebration on which will without doubt be the largest demonstration of the kind ever held in this city. Arthur E. Story well known Norwich bank man who is generously giving his services as chairman of the parade committee, stated Thursday night that there is every expectation that this year's celebration will be larger than any Armistice day observance held in Norwich in previous years. Mr. Story said that more military units have been promised for the parade than have taken part in Armistice day parades of past years.

Thursday the committee sent out handsomely engraved invitations to 82 fraternal organizations to take part in the parade. We have tried to reach every fraternal organization in Norwich and if any organization does not receive an invitation, it is purely an oversight, said Mr. Story. If any organization does not receive an invitation, continued Mr. Story, the committee will consider it a favor if the organization will notify them. We want every fraternal organization to take part in the celebration, he said.

The various committees in charge of the arrangements for the day are very enthusiastic and are everywhere meeting with whole hearted support and co-operation. A number of local organizations have already announced their co-operation in the plans. The New London Chamber of Commerce is backing the Norwich men in the celebration arrangements and indications are that New London will be well represented.

NORTH STONINGTON HAS REDUCED TOWN DEBT

North Stonington's grand list is $646,413, according to the report of the town's accounts for the year ending August 31, 1925) the town's indebtedness [illegible] rious town accounts, the town school committee, Alice R. Gray, secretary, and S. Hussey Reed, supervising agent of the schools in North Stonington have been printed in booklet form for general distribution to the residents of the town.

The financial report shows that August 31, 1926, the indebtedness of the town was $14,667.35. A year ago (August 31, 1925) the town's indebtedness was $18,417.70. August 31, 1926 the balance in the town treasury was $2,035.07. Uncollected taxes on that date amounted to $9,160.09.

Following is the report of the town school committee, Alice R. Gray, secretary:

Although the work the past year was new to all three members of your school committee we have worked as best we could for the interest of the town and feel that the schools have had a successful year.

The [illegible] repairs have been made. Two schoolhouses have been painted—Stanton and Wheeler—a new floor laid at Clark's Falls and a new chimney built at Pendleton Hill to replace the old one which came very near falling to the ground and was very unsatisfactory. While several schools need wood-sheds it would be impossible with the limited means at our disposal to provide them all in one year. As new toilets were required at Beach Bridge it was thought advisable to build a wood-shed in connection with them, and this has been done. Increased attendance in the town necessitated the purchase of more desks and the committee decided to put all the new desks in one school which was Hewitts, where the most new ones were needed, and use the ones in good condition in other schools to fill out in other schools. Other minor repairs have been made in the various districts.

The largest class of graduates ever sent out from North Stonington Schools and the large attendance at the graduation go to show the interest manifested in our schools by parents and children. The exhibit of art and handwork was also very commendable.

Seven of last year's teachers have been retained and with one exception all the new teachers have had considerable experience.

With Mr. Leister, our newly appointed supervisor, who comes to us highly recommended by the state, and his assistant, Miss O'Neil, to work with us we hope for much progress the coming year.

Below is given the annual report of S. Hussey Reed, supervising agent of the town schools:

All schools have been in session 38 weeks in compliance with statutory law. The work has progressed well and much has been accomplished. This year we have followed as practically possible the "project method" in all work. The several school activities have progressed well. Miss Kingsberger has been a most helpful adjunct to the regular work of the teacher and has done her work in a most painstaking and efficient manner. I heartily commend her faithfulness. The thrift movement has continued to grow in interest and usefulness in conveying its lessons of saving. The clubs in the several schools have been active since 1922 when the movement was first inaugurated in conjunction with the Chelsea Savings bank of Norwich. During these four years the children in our schools have saved $1,051.16.

GUEST-RIDER SUES FOR INJURIES IN ACCIDENT

In a suit brought in the superior court against the Norwich American Steam Laundry, Inc., by David Feister of this city damages of $5,000 are sought on account of an automobile accident on Feb. 2, 1926.

It is claimed that Feister accepted an invitation to ride in the laundry automobile from Henry Hyde, who was driving it on Main street in New London. On the way to Norwich the machine skidded and collided with a tree, Feister being thrown out. His right arm was broken, his hand and arm permanently injured, it is claimed, and his face scarred. He spent several weeks in a hospital and lost eight weeks from his business as a drygoods salesman and several hundred dollars through depreciation in his stock of dry goods.

These injuries, it is claimed, were caused by negligent operation of the automobile by Hyde, who was an agent and servant of the laundry company.

APPEAL FORM PROBATE OF LYDIA LAWRENCE'S WILL

Olga McKenna, a sister and heir at law of the late Lydia Lawrence of New London, has brought an appeal to the superior court from the probate of the will of her sister, which was admitted to probate, with codicils, on Aug. 25, 1926.

SUES TO COLLECT BILL FOR SAND AND GRAVEL

In order to collect a claim for $2,680 for sand and gravel sold this year to Henry and Exilda Thebeault of Groton by Peter Ashe of Waterford, the latter has brought suit in the superior court claiming $4,000 damages.

The suit is returnable in October.

RETURNED AFTER SPENDING HONEYMOON IN BALTIC

Mr. and Mrs. Butters of Nahnasset, Mass., have returned to their home, having spent the past week on their honeymoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Woods of Baltic. Mrs. Butters was formerly Miss Mary A. Donnelly of Baltic and is also postmaster at Nahnasset.

OTIS LIBRARY CIRCULATION WAS 108,428 IN YEAR

The annual report of the librarian of the Otis Library shows that during the year ending Aug. 31, 1926, 108,428 volumes were circulated by the library. The total issue of books by the library since the beginning of town appropriations in 1893 is 3,492,378 volumes. The daily average issue for the past year was 357. The library was open 303 days, the reading room was open 342 days and 1,361 new books were added, 102 by gift and 1,259 by purchase. The number of visitors in the reading room on Sundays from October 1, 1925 to June 30, 1926 was 3,452. The circulation of books by classes for the year was as follows:

Fiction, 79,073 volumes; biography, 1,677; travel, 1,475; history, 984; literature, 189; fine arts, 502; useful arts, 655; science, 492; philology, 24; geology, 621; religion, 384; philosophy, 280; magazines, 1,820; miscellany, 76; juvenile fiction, 12,243; juvenile non-fiction, 4,666; foreign, 757; total circulation 108,428 volumes.

The financial report of the treasurer, Frederic H. Chesebro, shows that during the year the receipts totaled $41,-[illegible]3.11. The disbursements were $41,-[illegible]8.11, $50 was added to deposits [illegible] interest, paid for miscellaneous [illegible] paid on bonds purchased and paid on interest on temporary [illegible] paid, leaving cash on hand in the Thames National bank, Aug. 31, 1926 of $765.84.

WANTS MORE DAMAGES FOR LAND STATE TOOK

Robert C. Burchard of Montville, owner of a tract of land in that town which has been taken for highway purposes and upon which the state highway commissioner has put a valuation of $[illegible] to be allowed to Mr. Burchard as damages, has taken an appeal from this valuation and has asked the superior court to appoint a state referee to make a reassessment of the damages.

A hearing on the matter has been set down to be held in the superior court on Oct. 8. The land taken consists of [illegible]00 of an acre, upon which E. C. Wager, deputy highway commissioner, assessed the damages at $[illegible] and costs at nothing. The assessment was made May 22, 1926.

FORECLOSURE SUIT ON NEW LONDON PROPERTY

Foreclosure of a mortgage on which it is claimed there is a balance of $2,000 due with interest from Oct. 14, 1924, is sought in a suit brought in the superior court by Fannie R. Yoder of Brooklyn, N. Y., against James H. Pelton of Brooklyn and others. The property is on Linden street, New London.

Lucy A. Maynard and Andrew J. Maynard of New London who have a life use in the property are named as party defendants as well as the Mariners Savings bank and Andrew Olson mortgagee prior to the plaintiffs mortgage. The suit is returnable in October.

SEEKS DIVORCE AFTER 23 YEARS MARRIED LIFE

Christopher P. Chapman of New London has brought suit for divorce from Mary Belody Chapman of New Rochelle, N. Y., whom he married Jan. 3, 1893. He alleges unfaithfulness between May 28, 1905 and Sept. 1, 1926 on the part of the defendant at Fishers Island, Wallingford and New Rochelle. The suit is returnable in October.

A. C. HILL'S LAUNDRY AT HIALEAH COMPLETE WRECK

Mrs. Petrone of 56 School street received a letter from her daughter, Mrs. Andrew C. Hill of Hialeah, Florida, which reads, in part as follows:

"Dear Mother: Just a few lines to let you know we are all right, but what a time we had! You never saw such a sight in your life.

The laundry has all gone to pieces, the boiler is sunk in the canal; you'd never know where it was except for the pieces of broken machinery scattered around. Our house is a wreck, the door and windows blown out. We haven't a thing left. We are going to work until we can get money enough to get home with.

"I am sitting on a part of Mrs. Bruette's house in my bathing suit writing. They lost two cottages and the roof off their two story house which they hadn't as yet lived in. They are going to fix it up and stay here for the winter.

"We have to walk in water up to our knees to get anywhere. We are very thankful to be alive. There are so many dead and injured here! There are very few houses left standing.

"Seventeen of us stayed in one house the first night. John Burns (of Jewett City) came over to see if we were all right. Frank Busch stayed with us last night. All Norwich people are safe. Will be so glad and thankful to see you all again. We hope to be home in two weeks."

MANSFIELD FAIR HAD BIG CROWD FROM STORRS

Anthony; fruit, Byron Hopkins; vegetables and field crops, George Durham; flowers, W. P. Wildes Jr.; bees and honey Mrs. Alice A. Swanson; homemaking Mrs. Theron Swift; junior department, A. J. Brundage; barn yard golf, Raymond Peck; junior dept. for girls, Elsie Noble; school, Levi T. Garrison.

DARTMOUTH PRESIDENT WAS NATIVE OF GRISWOLD

William Jewett Tucker, president emeritus of Dartmouth college, who died Wednesday in Hanover, N. H., at the age of 87, was a native of Griswold, this state.

He was the son of Henry and Sarah Lester Tucker of Griswold, who moved to New Hampshire when he was quite young. He was descended from Robert Tucker, who crossed from England to Weymouth, Mass., in 1635.

Pile Sufferers

Can You Answer These Questions?

Do you know why ointments do not give you quick and lasting relief?

Why cutting and operations fail?

Do you know the cause of piles is internal?

That there is a stagnation of blood in the lower bowel?

Do you know that there is a harmless internal remedy discovered by Dr. Leonhardt and known as HEM-ROID, now sold by Lee & Osgood Co. and druggists everywhere, that is guaranteed?

HEM-ROID banishes piles by removing the cause, by freeing blood circulation in the lower bowel. This simple home treatment has an almost unbelievable record for sure, safe and lasting relief to thousands of pile sufferers, and saves the needless pain and expense of an operation. Don't delay. NORWICH TOWN

Following an illness of a week, Marvin Watt Sterry, died Thursday morning at 6:45 o'clock, at his home, 40 Otrabando avenue, Norwich Town. Although he had not been in the best of health for a number of months, Mr. Sterry's final illness became critical only a few hours before he passed away, he having seemed apparently improved Wednesday and he was up and around the house the greater part of the day.

Born in Norwich Town, October 2nd, 1868, he was the son of Charles and Annie Logan Sterry. In early life after finishing his schooling Mr. Sterry learned the trade of a blacksmith, for the late Ralph Filmore, being considered among the best in that line of work. He conducted business in Lebanon for several years, also was in the blacksmith business in Norwich Town for several years prior to the building where his business was located, being torn down. At that time it stood at the base of Meeting House Rocks, near the First Congregational church.

For more than twenty-six years, Mr. Sterry was sexton of this church, having begun his duties in February 1900. He rang the bell for the morning worship as recently as last Sunday. Mr. Sterry succeeded his father who was sexton for twenty years, until his death, in September 1880.

The younger Mr. Sterry for the past fifteen or more years, has made his home with his brother, Charley and family, in the Sterry homestead, where he has lived since November 1874.

Mr. Sterry for the past two years was employed as gardener at the Bacheler homestead on Eves Town street. He has been a member of the First Congregational church for many years, being a faithful attendant at services until health failed. He is survived by two brothers, Charles C., with whom he made his home and Jabez W., of Scotland road. He leaves the following nephews, Chief Signalman Robert Wells Sterry, of Norwich, Howard Brewster, and Charles Theodore, of Norwich Town and Edward Logan Sterry, of New London. His nieces are Misses Ruth and Louise Sterry of Norwich Town. He was cousin of Frank C. Sterry, of Willimantic and Martin Davis, of Jewett City. Mr. Sterry was named for Lieut. Marvin Watt, a hero, of the Civil war and the first commisioned officer from Norwich to be killed in battle.

Mr. Sterry was an upright and industrious citizen, generous and loyal. His loss will be most keenly felt in the home where he could always be found when not busy with his duties.

During his illness he was tenderly cared for by his sister-in-law, Mrs. Charles C. Sterry, who has been unfaithful in caring for his interests during the years that he lived in his brother's household.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Rangus of Tanner street, Norwich Town, have received announcement of the marriage of their son, Julian C. Rangus to Ruth N. Smith, at Valparaiso, Indiana Monday, September 20th. Mr. Rangus a former Norwich Town boy located in the west about five years ago, the first three years being a student at the University of Valparaiso.

STRENGTH OF U. S. ARMY TO BE CUT 8,000 ENLISTED MEN

Action Taken to Avoid a Deficit Under Current Appropriations—Orders Have Bene Issued to Stop Recruiting—Announcement Was Accompanied by Assurances From President Coolidge That There Would be No Material Reduction in National Defense Appropriations for the Next Fiscal Year.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—(AP)—Assurances from President Coolidge that there would be no material reduction in national defense appropriations for the next fiscal year synchronized today with a disclosure that the war department already has taken steps to drop nearly 8,000 enlisted men off the regular army this year to avoid a deficit under current appropriations.

The white house statement was volunteered with the added explanation that definite signs had been detected of a movement to seek larger appropriations for the army and navy next year. It was given that the announcement was given that the announcement was on the treasury in connection with national defense appropriations at the next session of congress would not be sanctioned by the president. The nature of white house information as to such a raid was not disclosed.

At the war department, however, it was admitted under repeated inquiries that stop orders on recruiting had been issued Sept. 13, to remain in effect until the end of the present fiscal year unless they are designed, it was said to increase the enlisted strength of the army to an average of 110,900 men for the remainder of the present fiscal year as compared with an average strength of 118,850 for which current appropriations were expected to provide. The action was taken as the only means by which serious deficits could be avoided.

Army officials are under a complete ban as to all questions involving the preparation of the budget for the next fiscal year, The budget law itself restricts them and this has been amplified this year by Secretary Davis of the war department in specific "muzzle" orders.

In view of the fact that the present total available for military purposes of $265,000,000 has not been sufficient to maintain the 118,000 men strength even for half of the current fiscal year however, the construction put on the white house statement in some quarters was that it foreshadowed a continued reduction in strength, although no reduction in appropriations might be contemplated.

In explanation of the stop-order on recruiting, the war department made a formal statement declaring that the cut in strength was temporary and does not mean the permanent reduction of the army. Inflexibility of appropriations and unexpected expenditures required under the last appropriation act, but not anticipated when the estimates were prepared, were assigned as the reasons necessitating a reduction in average strength to avoid a deficit.

It also was made clear at the white house that the president feels that the national defense provisions are adequate and it was stated that he is neither prepared to authorize an increase nor a reduction in this branch of the government. The statement was prompted, it was added, by stories that the army budget was to be smashed materially for next year.

The necessity for economy in the appropriations next year by congress was stressed at the white house where it was pointed out that among other appropriations, $50,000,000 would be required for rivers and harbors, the largest sum needed for this purpose since the war.

SENATOR GOFF TESTIFIES IN ALIEN CONSPIRACY CASE

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—(AP)—Although not accepted on the stand today responsibility for allowing the $7,000,000 American Metal company claim in full, United States Senator Guy D. Goff was pictured by the government as a marionette moved about on the financial stage by subordinates at the direction of Harry M. Daugherty.

Senator Goff, now a representative of West Virginia in the senate, took the witness stand as the second defense witness in the trial of Daugherty and Thomas W. Miller for conspiring to defraud the government of their best services in allowing the metal company claim for assets impounded during the war. Daugherty at that time was attorney general and Miller was alien property custodian. Goff was assistant to the attorney general in charge of A. P. C. matters in Daugherty's department.

Goff denied that up to the time he signed the papers releasing to Richard Metronz, German metal magnate, the impounded property, he had never discussed the claim with Daugherty, Miller, Jesse W. Smith or John T. King. The government charges that King as bribes part of the $441,000 he got from him by Bertom to obtain approval of the claim. King had persuaded Daugherty and Miller to give their approval, "reaching" them through Smith, Daugherty's political handyman.

"You signed these papers because you had come to the independent conclusion that the claim was valid?" Stoner asked.

"I did."

United States Attorney Buckner then took the witness and elicited from him that much of his knowledge came to him Merton claim came to him through Admiral R. Johnson, special assistant attorney general, appointed by Daugherty.

IDENTIFIED AS ROBBERS OF PAWTUCKET POSTOFFICE

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 1.—(AP)—Two employes of the Pawtucket, R. I., post office tonight identified three suspects held in Troy as participants in a $(illegible) stamp robbery in Pawtucket on Feb. 1 last.

The three men, said to be members of a "Polka Dot" gang which has taken a loot of $1,000,000 from the mails in various parts of the country, were pointed out by Peter H. Rafferty, night watchman, and George D. Sullivan, night clerk, of the Pawtucket office, as two suspects were lined up with other prisoners in the Rensselaer county jail.

Rafferty and Sullivan failed to identify George Garibaldi who was arrested near here, and is believed to be the leader of the gang. Garibaldi is held for removal to California for trial in a $1,200,000 mail robbery.

The men identified tonight are described as Frank Dolan, Charles Dean or Mead, and Charles Moffett.

SIGNED CERTIFICATE FOR DEPORTATION OF CIMMINO

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 1.—(AP)—Judge Edwin S. Thomas of the United States court, today signed the certificate of hearings which has twice held up proceedings in the case of Francisco Cimmino, held in the New Haven county jail for the past year, in connection with his deportation to Italy to face a charge of murder.

Whether or not the certificate was signed in time to have Cimmino deported will not be decided until October 5 when the secretary of state or his representative has been summoned to appear before Judge Francis A. Winslow, of New York, to show cause why Cimmino should not be released immediately.

SLAYER COMMITTED SUICIDE IMMEDIATELY AFTER CRIME

CLINTON, Ky., Oct. 1.—(AP)—Nathan Ursell, slayer of Miss Maribelle Kimmel, 23, was found hanging from a rope in a grainary on the O. D. Holder farm today. Condition of the body indicated that the slayer committed suicide immediately after he killed Miss Kimmell and wounder her aunt, Mrs. Holder. Kentucky and Illinois officers had been searching for him for more than a week.

$46,673 DAYLIGHT PAYROLL ROBBERY IN BALTIMORE

BALTIMORE, Md., Oct. 1.—(AP)—Unmasked robbers today thrust a battery of firearms into the faces of four Henry Sonnebron and Company payroll messengers and took $46,673 in cash in Baltimore's boldest daylight holdup of recent years.

They fled with their loot, snatched from the floor of the payroll crow's taxicab as it drove to the curb at the company's clothing manufacturing plant in Trust and Penn streets but left one their number dead for a laundry branch manager to identify as "John W. Darko." Further identification awaited examination by Bertillon experts.

Walter Eggers, Howard Gugel, Irving T. Howard and Irving Webster employes of the Sonneborn company were unarmed as they escorted the payroll, amounting to more than $47,000 from the Citizens National bany to the plant in the taxicab.

Eggers said two men, approaching in a crouching position, snatched open the tax. door, thrust guns in their faces and took the money bags, while a third remained at the wheel of the bandit car nearby.

Several shots fired by the robbers, apparently for the purpose of cowing the messengers, struck the taxicab, but injured no one. Eggers said he advised his companions not to resist because the money was insured and he was convinced that they would be killed.

The robbery was over within two minutes. The few passersby who witnessed it were too astounded to sound an alarm until the bandit car had plunged recklessly through traffic to disappear, after dropping a bag containing $500 in silver.

A few minutes later, on another street, police found the car, with Danko dead with a bullet wound in his head, crumpled over a repeating rifle, a sawed-off shotgun and an automatic pistol. The floor of the car was littered with cartridges and bloodspattered.

No shots were fired at the robbers so far as police could learn. They believed Danko to have been the victim of his own or his companion's carelessness with firearms, or to have been slain deliberately by the other gunman.

Miss Elizabeth Hunter, manager of a branch laundry, remembered a laundry mark "D-SEB" found on the mans underwear, as having been assigned last July to a man of foreign appearance who gave the name of John W. Danko. She viewed the body and identified it as that of Danko.

PLEADED NOT GUILTY TO CHARGES OF EMBEZZLEMENT

ALFRED, Me., Oct. 1.—(AP)—Twelve men, seven of them former city officials of Biddeford, pleaded not guilty today to charges of embezzlement conspiracy, laceny and obtaining money under false pretenses under secret indictments returned in an investigation of the democratic administration of the city for the past five years. The supreme court, before which they appeared, after clearing up routine will adjourn until their trial begins here on November 16.

Each of the defendants gave $500 bail on each count against him. Thirteen secret indictments of 22 counts had been returned in the sweeping investigation which included a special audit of the city books by state officials. County Attorney Perley H. Ford tonight declared the case would not end where it now stands but that the inquiry would be pushed in all departments of the city's business.

Edward H. Drapeau, former mayor of Biddeford, this afternoon pleaded to an indictments charging conspiracy to steal two barrels of lime and four lengths of stove pipe.

MESSENGER BOY CRUSHED IN FREIGHT ELEVATOR

BOSTON, Oct. 1.—(AP)—William Parsons, 15 years old, a messenger boy, was crushed to death in a freight elevator in the Hathaway building here today. The boy's body was found on the third floor, where he was to have delivered a message, while the elevator was at the fourth floor. He apparently had been alone in the elevator.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

PARIS, Oct. 1.—(AP)—[illegible] Carole of Rumania in a message [illegible] local officials of the United States lines assured them she would sail for the United States Oct. 12 on the Leviathan, as scheduled.

PARIS, Oct. 1.—(AP)—Representatives of the French steel industries today said that they were well satisfied with the conditions under which the Western European Steel consortium, signed yesterday, was formed.

GENEVA, Oct. 1.—(AP)—Claiming to speak for 3,000,000 former soldiers, the International Association of War Wounded and ex-Service Men, at a meeting went on record as condemning war. It was the second conference of the organization, which has virtually the same objects as the Inter-Allied Veterans association, although American veterans are not represented.

OFFICERS AND GANGSTERS INDICTED IN CICERO

CHICAGO, Oct. 1.—(AP)—The federal government took a hand today in the affairs of Cicero," turbulent suburb, and indicted 78 village officials, gangsters, saloon keepers and hoodlums on charges of conspiracy to violate the prohibition law.

The writs returned by a federal grand jury named Joseph E. Klenha, mayor; Theodore Svoboda, chief of police; "Scarface Al" Capone, gangster overlord of the suburb; Miles and "Klondike" O'Donnell, chiefs of an opposing gang; and Harry Madigan, in front of whose saloon Assistant County Prosecutor W. E. McSwiggin was shot to death by machine gun fire last spring.

In the community where for many months beer runners, bootleggers and gangsters operating in Chicago have been reputed to have their base of operations, the federal government charges existence of a collusive plan whereby officials obtained money for permitting broad violations of the prohibition laws.

The 70 defendants are charged specifically with conspiring to possess, transport, deliver and sell 10,000 gallons of uncolored spirits, 50,000 gallons of personal beverages and 10,000 gallons of wine.

Among 63 overt acts charged to the defendants, nine allege payments of $5,000 to $20,000 by gangsters to city officials of Cicero, aggregating more than $100,000.

Pat Roche, federal agent engaged in the inquiry which preceded the indictments, said that the syndicate had been in operation since 1922 and that it had done a weekly business of $100,000.

Roche declared that "our investigation discloses the worst situation in the history of the federal government, wherein collusion between officials and beer runners was worked out and carried on with immunity."

Among the three score men indicted was a committeeman of the Crown-Barrett republican division of Cook county of which Robert E. Crowe, state's attorney, is a leader. Many of those indicted are known as saloon keepers and gamblers, and others are called "ingenious in the beer and liquor trade.

Federal warrants were issued for all the men named. Bond for the principal defendants was set at $10,000 each.

Cicero has been the seat of gang warfare and the scene of many murders in recent years, and Chicago police have named it repeatedly as the seat of the biggest traffic in liquor in Cook county.

LARGE STILL FOUND IN OUTSKIRTS OF MIDDLETOWN

MIDDLETOWN, Oct. 1.—(AP)—One of the largest stills ever found in the Middletown section was unearthed on the outskirts of this city today when Middletown and state police raided a farm in the Westfield district, a mile and a half from the center.

Six arrests were made and a huge still and a large quantity of alcohol were seized.

The property was occupied by Paul Salomonia a farmer, who was arrested charged with manufacturing. His bonds were placed at $1,000. Salomonia claimed that he had rented the place to John Saloni, of New York at a rental of $30 a month. Saloni was not at the place today.

The still was not in operation when the officers raided the place but five men were at work there and they were arrested. They gave their names as Pietro Perone of 844 Kossuth street, Bridgeport; James Greco, same address; Pauline Goloudo, 40 Ferry street, Middletown; John Salladino, same address; Frank Guzzino, 29 Elm street, Middletown.

All were charged with manufacturing and their bonds were placed at $1,000.

The plant was of 1,000 gallon capacity and its value was placed by the police at $3,000. The police found 600 gallons of distilled alcohol in a copper boiler, 500 gallons of denaturel alcohol in a large vat and 200 gallons of denatured alcohol hidden at the rear of the place.

BUS DRIVER WAS ROBBED OF $43 IN NEW HAVEN

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 1.—(AP)—Held up and assaulted by a masked bandit who sprang from a clump of bushes at Cold Springs and Orange streets tonight, Jack Crilin, of 58 Orchard street, a driver for the Orange Street Bus Line corporation, was robbed of $40 of his own money and about $3 taken from the cash box of the bus.

It was at the end of the Orange street bus line, in a lonely section, that the hold-up man selected for the robbery. The driver was about to turn his machine around when the assailant sprang out of the bushes and ordered Crilin to step down. As the driver got down from his machine, the hold-up man struck him across the chest with his revolver.

After getting the money the bandit disappeared in East Rock park.

Florida Boosters Hinder Relief Fund

Red Cross Chairman Deprecates Attempts to Belittle Reports of Damage and Suffering.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—(AP)—Whisperings of discord which have accompanied the effort to raise a $5,000,000 relief fund for Florida storm sufferers culminated today in a flat charge by John Barton Payne, chairman of the American Red Cross, that Florida officials and real estate men had "practically destroyed" the campaign by repeated attempts to belittle reports of damage and suffering.

Despite these efforts which were attributed to Governor John W. Martin, Mayor E. O. Romth, of Miami and others, Chairman Payne said he felt duty-bound to carry on the drive for funds and appealed to the country to continue to help. A little more than $3,000,000 has been collected.

In the face of the efforts to minimize the storm losses Mr. Payne asserted that Red Cross officials in the Ha had reported unopposed need for relief since the San Francisco earthquake and fire, listing 5,000 homes as totally destroyed and 18,000 partially destroyed.

When Red Cross estimates views were given in an interview of telegrams which Mr. Payne, chairman of the Richmond, Va., Red Cross chapter, and in telegrams and correspondence between himself and Mayor Romth.

In addition, James L. Fieser, vice chairman of the Red Cross, in a report to headquarters, declared that relief work had been greatly retarded by "persistent reports that the need as set forth by the Red Cross does not exist."

Wilbur Chairman Pinckney, Mr. Payne asserted that the "poor people who suffered are regarded as of less consequence than the hotel and tourist business in Florida. The message was in reply to one which said that Mayor Bright of Richmond, was considering the recall of a $10,000 check sent to Miami by Richmond donors on the strength of a circular letter signed by Mayor Romth declaring he was convinced a "very exaggerated idea" of real conditions had been created.

Delivery of this check was held up today by Mayor Bright pending word from Red Cross officials. Mr. Bright declared in Richmond today that in view of conflicting statements as to relief needs, he felt an investigation should be made to learn "who is right, the boosters or the relief workers."

Chairman Payne told Mayor Romth in another message that he had been compelled to "combat" telegrams from Gov. Martin and others in his drive for funds and asserted, "If you and your associates have the courage to deal with the situation adequately, call in these (Miami) newspapers and give them an honest statement without attempting to advertise Florida."

Statements given out in Washington by the Red Cross, the chairman added, were contradicted by statements from Florida.

PRESIDENT AT MARRIAGE OF STANLEY R. HARRIS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2.—(AP)—Stanley R. "Bucky" Harris, manager of the Washington American league baseball team, and Miss Elizabeth Sutherland, daughter of Howard Sutherland, allen property custodian, were married here late today.

President and Mrs. Coolidge and others high in the official life were present at the wedding ceremony which was performed by Dr. Frederick H Barron, of Elkins, W. Va.

The bride and bridegroom left immediately for New York where they will attend two world series games before sailing for Europe.

The ceremony began immediately after the President and Mrs. Coolidge arrived at the Sutherland home. The bride entered with her father and the bridegroom was accompanied by his best man, Dr. George Marshall Lyon, of Huntington, W. Va., brother-in-law of the bride. Miss Margaret Sutherland was he. sister's only attendant.

At conclusion of the ceremony, the couple was congratulated by Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge, who then left for the White House. Other guests, including members of the Washington baseball team, Secretaries Kellogg, Jardine and Davis, of the war department, remained for the reception.

The wedding trip of the couple will take them to England, France and Rome, after which they will make their home here.

Passing of Claflin's Department Store

Liquidation of Mammoth New York Concern Recommended by Its Board of Directors.

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—(AP)—Liquidation of Claflin's, Inc., one of the largest dry goods jobbing houses in the world, was recommended today by the board of directors, who called a special meeting of stockholders for Oct. 15 to take action on the proposal. Inability of the concern to compete with specialists in the trade is given as the reason for the action.

Among the directors of Claflin's $6,000,000 corporation, are some of the heads of leading dry goods mill agencies in the country.

Several years ago, the company then known as H. B. Claflin company, doing an annual business of about $30,000,000 went into receivership but subsequently was reorganized.

Harry P. Bonties, president, who has conducted the company's affairs the past 15 years said the trade had been in general shrinkage in its business and a careful survey of the situation made during the last three years had convinced him that Claflin's, Inc., as it was constituted today, could not compete in the New York market with concerns which specialized in the various lines of the trade.

ENFIELD TAX COLLECTOR EMBEZZLED $59,628.97

THOMPSONVILLE, Oct. 1.—(AP)—Town funds amounting to $59,628.97 were embezzled by Frank L. Hamilton, former tax collector of the town of Enfield, during his thirteen years of office. This was shown in a final report submitted tonight to the board of selectmen by certified public accountants who had been engaged for several weeks in auditing Hamilton's books.

Hamilton pleaded guilty to embezzlement of public money in excess of $20,000, in superior court in Hartford last week and was sentenced to serve from one to three years in state prison.

In the tax year of 1913 Hamilton's first year in office, he misappointed $2,932.55 while the largest amount taken in one year was in the tax year of 1921 when $7,905.25 was embezzled. In five other years amounts in excess of $5,000 were taken.

Hamilton was bonded to the amount of $10,000 during each year that he held office and according to Attorney Philip J. Sullivan, Jr., counsel for the town of Enfield. Formal application will be made to the bonding company for payment of the full amount of the shortage with the exception of the amount embezzled during the first year that Hamilton held office.

WOULD RESTRICT THE SALE OF COSMETICS AND DRUGS

CONCORD, N. H., Oct. 1.—(AP)—Laws regulating and restricting the sale of cosmetics, drugs and patent medicines were advocated at today's session of the New England health council here by Dr. E. Monroe Bailey of the Connecticut Experimental station. Dr. Bailey said laws were needed "to curb the wild and exaggerated claims for patent medicines which cannot be substantiated."

To prove that such laws would be effective, Dr. Bailey pointed out that after 30 years of drug control in New England the pooportion of products which conform to standards of quality and strength has increased consistently and is higher today than ever before.

160TH ANNIVERSARY EDITION OF NEW HAVEN JOURNAL-COURIER

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 1.—(AP)—The New Haven Journal-Courier today celebrated its 160th anniversary and in honor of the event, issued a special anniversary edition of 128 pages.

The edition goes back 160 years historically, showing the birth and growth of the city of New Haven and its many institutions and devotes several columns to New Haven's principal institution of learning, Yale university.

The principal industries of the city are covered and the paper contains a resume of the great events of the last century and a half.

OFFICERS EXONERATED FOR KILLING RUDOLPH ADAMS

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Oct. 1.—(AP)—A coroner's jury today exonerated two state officers for slaying Rudolph Adams last night while they latter was "shooting up" the town of Kayford on Cabin Creek.

Harley M. Vincent, a state policeman, and J. B. Downey, a state prohibition agent, pursued Adams out of town after he had driven up and down the street several times in an automobile firing a pistol. Several shots were exchanged in which Adams was killed and Downey wounded slightly.

EVANGELIST M'PHERSON WAS DISCONCERTED BY WITNESS

Accused Woman Seemed Scarcely to Breathe and Color Mounted to Her Cheeks as She Sat Looking Straight at Maid Who Testified That She Saw a Man Enter Mrs. McPherson's Room in the Ambassador Hotel, Los Angeles—Positively Identified Kenneth G. Ormiston, Evangelist's Former Radio Operator, as the Man.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 1.—(AP)—Aimee Semple McPherson, evangelist, was visited at a room in the Ambassador hotel here by Kenneth G Ormiston, her former radio operator, on two occasions last year prior to her trip to Palestine it was testified today in her preliminary hearing on charges of conspiracy.

Miss Agnes Callahan, chambermaid at the hotel, placed on the stand by the state, declared she saw a man whom she positively identified as Ormiston, enter the evangelist's room. The identification was made when the witness was shown a photograph of Ormiston.

Mrs. McPherson sometimes used an at the hotel at least six times during last summer and fall, Miss Callahan was seen on the same floor of the hotel at least six times, Miss Callahan testified.

On the two of the visits the maid said she saw Ormiston go into the evangelist's room. The fourth time she called Asst the witness to look at Ormiston lingering in the hallway. The last time she saw Ormiston was in the hotel at the same time Mrs. McPherson was there. Ormiston frequently entered her suite, it was testified.

Mrs. McPherson is not from the lips of one who was known as a member of the cast. Immediately after the testimony today that she was at a hotel in Los Angeles on the date of her disappearance at the same time and place a witness yesterday equally positively stated he had seen Ormiston.

The witness today, Thomas Scott Melville, hotel doorman, declared he saw Mrs. McPherson at the hotel clerk's desk at 10 o'clock on May 18, five and a half before her secretary reported her missing at Ocean park.

Mrs. McPherson previously had stated that she was attending to business affairs in another section of the city at that time.

The state charges in the complaint against the evangelist that she left here in conspiracy with Ormiston, Mrs. McPherson, her mother and five others are accused of criminal conspiracy in connection with efforts to substantiate the kidnapping story.

Melville's testimony was nothing short of a bombshell in the crowded court room. He talked in a monotone but at times almost pathetic one. The doorman declared he saw the evangelist first at about 10 o'clock on the morning of May 18 and again 20 or 25 minutes later when she left the hotel. She went directly to the elevator, he said, going upward beyond the mezzanine floor. When she emerged he noticed that she carried a portfolio on which her name was written in full. She looked at him, he said, a second that he turned away in embarrassment.

Keyes asked Mrs. Kennedy how much expense money Mrs. McPherson was given per week. The bookkeeper answered that her brother-in-law gave her $100 per week. The witness was excused and her brother was one of Keyes' first witnesses.

Mrs. Kennedy said she had received numerous letters, telegrams etc., purporting to give information concerning the evangelist's whereabouts, all of which had proved false. Keyes asked Mrs. Kennedy how much expense money Mrs. McPherson was given per week. The bookkeeper answered that her brother-in-law gave her $100 per week. The witness was excused and her brother was one of Keyes' first witnesses.

"Daughter O. K. don't worry—communication proven. Getting in touch with J. A. Who I think O. K."

Mrs. Kennedy said she had received numerous letters, telegrams etc., purporting to give information concerning the evangelist's whereabouts, all of which had proved false. She identified a telegram which she positively identified as Ormiston, enter the evangelist's room. The identification was made when the witness was shown a photograph of Ormiston.

Mrs. McPherson sometimes used an at the hotel at least six times during last summer and fall, Miss Callahan was seen on the same floor of the hotel at least six times, Miss Callahan testified.

On the two of the visits the maid said she saw Ormiston go into the evangelist's room. The fourth time she called Asst the witness to look at Ormiston lingering in the hallway. The last time she saw Ormiston was in the hotel at the same time Mrs. McPherson was there. Ormiston frequently entered her suite, it was testified.

Testimony of the maid was corroborated only after a bitter fight by Albert, defense counsel, to exclude it.

A glow of color mounted to Mrs. McPherson's cheeks as Miss Callahan gave her testimony. The evangelist seemed scarcely breathing as she sat looking straight at the witness.

Gilbert took charge of Ormiston and visits separately and asked Miss Callahan if she recalled any other person on that floor of the hotel on each particular day. She said she did not.

Albert L. Denman assistant manager of the Ambassador hotel, testified he had seen Mrs. McPherson at the hotel many times and that she used a preference for room 370. He shown a photograph of Ormiston he said it resembled very much a man he had seen on the third floor of the hotel during Christmas week last year.

The man had a decided limp, Denman said. He visited Mrs. McPherson's room on one occasion during the week about 11 o'clock in the morning.

Then began the reading of the transcript of the testimony of the evangelist's motor, Mrs. Myrtle Kennedy, before the grand jury.

Questioned, she said that Mrs. McPherson was apparently in good health just prior to her disappearance and never had any mental trouble. She said she knew Ormiston, who telephoned her shortly after the evangelist failed to return from the beach May 18.

A telegram signed "The Mizpah" and addressed to "Mother McPherson" on May 22, 1926, from Oakland, California was read by Keyes to Mrs. Kennedy, it follows:

WOMAN AND MAN BOUND OVER FOR UNNATURAL CRIME

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Oct. 1—Judge Frank H. Foss of the city court, found probable cause today, in the cases of Mrs. Annie Upton and Joseph Colderado, both charged with the crime of sodomy, after a four hour and forty minute session of court. Colderado pleaded not guilty and was defended by Attorneys Arthur T. Kelly of this city and Victor DeNezzo of Hartford. Upon the conclusion of the evidence and the arguments of the defense attorneys and Prosecuting Attorney Harry S. Gaucher, Judge Foss bound both defendants over to the next criminal term of the Windham county superior court in December and placed the bonds at $5,000. The amount of the bonds was argued to some extent, the prosecution pointing out the severity of the sentence that could be imposed for the crime, and that the maximum state's prison sentence was thirty years.

The defendants were arrested in Mrs. Upton's tenement in a basement at 25 Maple avenue about 1:30 o'clock last Sunday morning by Officers Laramee and Marrotte who had received complaints about the place. Mrs. Upton made full admission to the charge of sodomy and testified that the young man had come there for that purpose. Colderado denied the charge and pointed out that upon hints received from acquaintances he had gone to the Upton home to purchase liquor. He drove to the place and stood inside of the door trying to get the woman to sell him the booze. He was there about five minutes, he testified.

Officers Laramee and Marrotte testified that from the time they had first rapped at the door until it was opened fully ten or fifteen minutes elapsed.

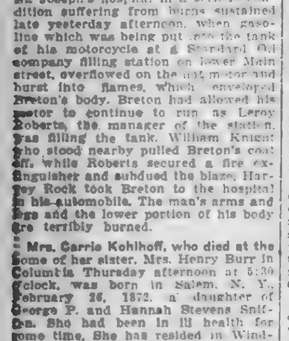
WILLIMANTIC, Oct. 1—Edgar Breton of 283 Main street, is a patient at St. Joseph's hospital in a serious condition suffering from burns sustained late yesterday afternoon, when gasoline which was being put into the tank of his motorcycle at a Standard Oil company filling station on lower Main street, overflowed on the hot motor and burst into flames, which enveloped Breton's body. Breton had allowed his motor to continue to run as Leroy Roberts, the manager of the station, was filling the tank. William Knight who stood nearby pulled Breton's coat off, while Roberts secured a fire extinguisher and subdued the blaze. Harvey Rock took Breton to the hospital in his automobile. The man's arms and legs and the lower portion of his body are terribly burned.

Mrs. Carrie Kohlhoff, who died at the home of her sister, Mrs. Henry Burr in Columbia Thursday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock, was born in Salem, N. Y., February 26, 1872, a daughter of George P. and Hannah Stevens Sniffen. She had been in ill health for some time. She has resided in Windham for the past five years. She leaves her husband, Louis Kohlhoff and her sister, Mrs. Burr.

Some thirty officials and employes of the Southern New England Telephone company from this city and Stafford Springs, gathered at the Nathan Hale hotel for a banquet and social Thursday evening in honor of Miss Adelaide Harvey, chief operator of the Stafford Exchange who received the coveted twenty-year service pin. The presentation was made by W. T. Norris of New Haven, general secretary of the Telephone Employes' association. Manager John C. Frazier of the local exchange was toast-master. Assisting in the arrangements was Miss Helen Jones, president of the local council of the association.

The Tubridy-Weldon Co. ushered in the fall season Thursday night with a fashion show and live model promenade that was attended by about fifteen hundred. The many styles for tall and short, full figures and flapper types were demonstrated with telling effect by a group of models from New York.

Mrs. Albert J. Piche of the sales force of the company, delivered the opening address with words of welcome to the style devotees and descriptions of the various gowns and coats as displayed by the models. Mrs. Piche also sang several solos. The models, who are at the store for the remainder of the week are Mrs. Anna Murphy and Misses Jane Glaser, Edna Malone and Hannah Sellinger. Music was furnished during the matinee showing by Clinton C. Helmold, violin and banjo-mandolin and Mrs. Arthur J. Dubreuil, piano. In the evening Mr. Helmold and George W. Hickey, piano, provided the music. Mrs. M. J. Tubridy con-



All I do is "soak and rinse" on washday

I NEVER used a soap that rinses out so quickly, and so completely, as Rinso does.

Best of all, the dirt and stains float off in the rinsing. I don't need to do the least bit of hard rubbing—or even boil the clothes, because Rinso not only whitens, but sterilizes, too!

My clothes last much longer this easy "soak and rinse" way because now I never have to scrub them threadbare over a washboard. Yet they are whiter, brighter than ever!

Rinso is all I need on washday. No bar soaps, chips or powders. It makes the water so soft and sudsy. Just ask your grocer for

LEON G. YOUNG DIES— SAW SERVICE OVERSEAS

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Oct. 1.—Leon G Young, 33, died this afternoon at Uncas-on-Thames where he had been for a short time, after an illness of many months at his home in Griswold. Mr. Young was born in Voluntown June 15, 1893, the son of Stafford G. and Mattie Burdick Young. He married Ellen Campbell of Griswold, Nov. 15, 1923. He was a World war veteran, serving with the 56th engineers overseas at the largest American supply base at Nevers, France. Mr. Young was a member of Orville LaFlamme post, A. L., Reliance lodge No. 29, I. O. O. F., Undaunted lodge, No. 34, K. of P., Pachaug grange and the Community club. He is survived by his wife and a son Arthur, who is six months old, also by his father and brother Frank, of Voluntown, and a sister, Miss Idella Young, teacher in the Glasgo schools.

ADVANCED TELEPHONE RATE DISCUSSED PRO AND CON

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Oct. 1.—Jewett City people are not inclined to look with much favor on the new $00 per cent raise the telephone toll to Norwich. But as one man said, and even as the one time notorious Boss Tweed once said, when convicted of murder, "What you goin' to do about it?" On the other hand, there are those to whom the new rate that became effective Oct. 1 does not seem exorbitant.

This exchange connects up for Norwich calls an average of close to 200 times every 24 hours. The observant citizen said that considering how urgent was the need of talking with that man in Norwich, a dime isn't to be looked at twice.

Pachaug grange is preparing to entertain the Connecticut State grange, Wednesday, Oct. 6 when the Pomona and State degree will be conferred on those entitled to receive it. At the meeting Thursday evening M. H. Bartlett gave a report of the lecturer's conference at Orono, Maine. The grange will confer the first and second degrees on a class of candidates Thursday evening, Oct. 7. The members went to visit Ekonk grange Friday evening where they were invited to enjoy a neighbors' night meeting.

There were visitors in the borough Friday from Voluntown, looking over the probability of solving the housing problem in Jewett City, and of being able, possibly, to have opportunity offered in some way, whereby they may live where their work is. The present shortage of tenements in Jewett City makes it necessary for a considerable number living in Voluntown, who are employed here, to make the seven-mile trip, morning and evening. As things look today, never again will be heard the hum of industry in the Voluntown mills. An industry that stood at the head of its class for more than half a century, in its many departments of high grade textile manufacture, has taken the count.

George R. Edmond, for some years a highly valued member of the Briggs office force, predicts that with the winter approaching, there will be no general exodus from Voluntown, nor does he believe there ever will be, yet with the coming of spring, there will inevitably be some mill workers who must move on. Mr. Edmonds contemplates a business office in Jewett City

Last year, on the night of Sept. 23, a breeze hit this section. The mercury dropped as low as 30. On the morning following there was evidence everywhere of the devastation that had been wrought. Ice was reported as having formed in several places and every growing thing was laid low. The main real damage and money loss was to uncut ensilage. The Pilgrim and Old Cluey Watson dahlia gardens, both in the height of bloom were ruined.

Sunday morning in the churches, collections will be received to be sent by the Red Cross for Florida relief. Notices were given last Sunday so that church attendants would be prepared. Jewett City chapter has over 300 members of the Red Cross, and many have friends and orders have members in the stricken area. The local chapter sent $25 immediately after the first call for help came. Miss Rosanna Desjardins, chapter treasurer, has already received contributions. The letters being received now all picture a terrible state of affairs. Every gift of money, small or large, can be made a thank offering that friends are safe, and that one lives where such disasters are not likely to happen.

Mrs. George Moeller with her sister, Mrs. A. M. Hamilton and niece, Mrs. George H. Benjamin of Springfield, will attend the wedding of Miss Helen G. Kahn and Donald Bullard in Franklin today (Saturday). Miss Kahn is niece of Mrs. Moeller and Mrs. Hamilton.

Two more Jewett City young men have left town to continue their education. Joseph Barry has entered the University of Maryland at Baltimore, and Lloyd Wechsler the Chicago university. Both young men plan to study medicine.

Miss Eva LaFlamme will spend the week end in New Bedford as the guest of Mrs. Walter Ellis.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Newton of New Haven have been guests at F. E. Robinson's.

Mrs. J. H. Tracy, secretary of the Red Cross chapter is delegate to the national convention in Washington. She leaves Sunday and will be accompanied by Miss Margaret Driscoll, a member of the executive board.

A number of fans left Friday night to attend the world series game in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. George Frink of Woodstock were the guests Friday of Mr. and Mrs. Harold F. Geer at their home in Pachaug. Mr. Frink is Mrs. E. A. Geer's sister and the visitors enjoyed the day with her.

Rev. H. S. Sprinkle of New Haven is to preach at the First Congregational church in Pachaug Oct. 3.

Wednesday evening a house-warming was held in the newly furnished home of Mr and Mrs. Oscar Lafavre on Brown avenue. Radio music, games, dancing, an exhibition of the Charleston given by Alice Koziowski and Irene Cyr gave much pleasure. Sandwiches, cake, fruit, candy and coffee were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Fred Bryant. Others present were Mrs. James Moore, Mrs. Henry Cadieux, Mrs. Regina Messier, Mrs. Rose Cyr, Mrs. Hector Lafavre, Mrs. Alphonse Fontaine, Misses Irene and Delina Lafavre, Rena Bachand, Yvonne Bryant, and Bert Coblentz.

REP. UTTER ENDORSED FOR SENATE NOMINATION

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, Oct. 1—The republican town committee of Westerly, meeting in the town hall this evening endrsed Rep. George B. Utter for the nomination for state senator by an unanimous vote. Meeting as separate units committeemen from district 1 endorsed the candidacy of John D. Nichols for representative and the group of district 2 endorsed Clifford W. Campbell for renomination as to representative from the second district.

Howard B. Thorp of Westerly is an aspirant for the senator seat and is reported as having the support of an insurgent group of Westerly republicans.

The meeting was held under the chairmanship of Everett E. Kingsley following the resignation of Chairman Wells R. Fowler. Members of the committee of District E, present were Mrs. J. F. Nichols, Mrs. William C. Clark, Dr. John M. O'Connell, Charles Ruisi, Everett A. Kingsley, and Charles D. Maxson. Those from district 2 were: Mrs. Isabel C. Chapman, Mrs. C. P. Stanton, Arthur Farquelli, and Wells R. Fowler. Those absent were Elisha C. Burdick, Walter F. Price and Clarence A. Vars.

Dr. John M. O'Connell was named chairman of the district group and Wells R. Fowler of the district 2 group. The republican caucus is to be held next Tuesday evening.

BUILDING CODE HEARING DISCUSSED AT LENGTH

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, Oct. 1—The open hearing on the building code recently prepared by the committee from the Westerly town council held in the town hall this evening, closed after considerable discussion, had resulted in questions as to the provision and establishment of the code. The sentiment of the meeting was that the townspeople should be given further opportunity to inspect the proposed building regulations.

The chairman Roger E. Trainor reported that a supply of the copies of the code would be left at the town clerk's office, for general inspection. Considerable discussion was aroused over provision in the code calling for a regulation requiring incombustible roofing not later than the first day of Oct. 1933 in district 1 and not later than Oct. 1, 1937 in the second district. Asked if the town council could legally adopt the code without the consent of the citizens as a whole, Mr. Trainor said it could do so, but would not against the wishes of the majority of the townspeople.

THIS WOMAN'S BATTLE

Wins Against Ill Health

"At times I was hardly able to do my housework," writes Mrs. Margaret Wallace, of 1547 Safford Ave., Columbus, Ohio. How many women found themselves in this same condition! How many women have fought bravely on, day after day, cooking, washing, ironing, doing the dishes, and keeping the house clean, when they were in a weakened condition and had not sufficient strength to perform these duties.

A friend advised her to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and she gave it a fair trial. "I just can't give enough thanks to it," she writes. "Now I can eat anything at all and I am feeling better than I have for years. I shall never be without your medicine again."

A woman who is fighting for her health and her family's happiness is a valiant soldier. She wages her battle in her own kitchen. She has no thrilling bugles to cheer her on, no waving banners.

Many other women tell us, as Mrs. Wallace did that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has restored their health.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

Danny's Long Swim

Who seeks a goal will keep his nerve,
And from his purpose never swerve.
—Old Mother Nature.

Danny Meadow Mouse wasn't kept a prisoner very long in the Muskrat hole in which he had sought shelter. Blackcrown the Night Heron expressed his disappointment over his failure to catch Danny and went back to his minnow fishing. Danny waited only long enough to be sure that the way was clear; then he started on.

After a time Danny came to a branch of the creek. He couldn't go in the direction he wanted to go, without getting on the other side of that creek.

"That's Slippery Slim the Eel," replied Peter

Now, to you or to me that creek wouldn't have seemed very wide, but to such a little fellow as Danny Meadow Mouse it seemed very wide indeed. It was discouraging. The tide was in and that creek was full of water. There was no way of going on without swimming, and that looked like a dreadful swim to Danny. Now Danny can swim. Most of the little people who wear fur can swim when they have to. But there were two reasons why Danny didn't like the idea of swimming across. One was that he was afraid he would get tired before he got there. The other was that if any enemy should discover him in the water he would be helpless.

Danny sat hidden by some grass on the edge of the creek and tried to make up his mind what to do. "What's the use of going on? You never can make it," said one voice down inside him.

"Yes, you can, if you keep on trying," said the second voice.

"You don't know where home is, and you may be going in the wrong direction all the time," said the first voice.

"Don't you listen to that," said the second voice. "You are headed in the right direction and you know it. Just grit your teeth and swim across. What's a little water?"

Danny gritted his teeth, took a long breath, and prepared to plunge in. Just as he did so he looked down in the water. The water was clear and he could see right to the bottom. What he saw gave him such a creepy feeling that he nearly fell in. "A snake!" gasped Danny. "There's a snake down there on the bottom."

Now it happened that Peep the Least Sandpiper came along just then and alighted right close by Danny. "What's that you said?" inquired Peep.

"I said there's a snake down there," gasped Danny.

Peep looked down in the water. "Oh," said he, "that's no snake. That's Slippery Slim the Eel."

"That's what?" gasped Danny.

"Thats Slippery Slim the Eel," replied Peep.

"But it's a snake just the same, a water snake," declared Danny positively.

"No, sir," contragicted Peep. "Slippery Slim isn't a snake at all. Didn't I just tell you that he is an eel?"

"Well, isn't an eel a snake? He certainly looks like one," declared Danny.

"Never judge folks wholly by their looks," retorted Peep. "Slippery Slim is an eel, and an eel is a fish; and he isn't even hundredth cousin to a snake. And there you are!"

"Thanks," replied Danny. And plunging in, he swam as fast as his little legs could move. In spite of what Peep had said, he didn't feel easy about Slippery Slim until that long swim was ended and he crawled out on the other bank.

PUTNAM

MISSIONARY TEAM COMING TO CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Oct. 1.—A missionary team will be touring the county from October 8 to 13 and will speak in most of the Congregational churches. The commission on missions of that denomination has placed teams in different sections of the country to inform the people of the churches regarding the different kinds of extension work that is being done. These men come direct from their fields of service on the frontiers of church work and give accounts of first hand experiences with people of other civilizations and religions. The team that will be in this county will consist of Revs. Wilbur S. Deming and John J. Banniga of India, and Rev. J. Edwin Elder of Cope, Colorada.

Their schedule of appointments arranged for by the missionary committee of the Windham Association of Congregational Churches and Ministers composed of Rev. James F. English of this city, Rev. D. P. Hatch of Woodstock and Rev. H. W. Gaylord of Danielson is as follows:

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Breed Theater

Mare Nostrum (Our Sea), Ingram's newest prodution for Metro-Goldwyn which will have its first showing at the Breed theater Sunday, is an exceptional picture.

Ingram has taken the famous Blasco story and with Alice Terry and Antonio Moreno enacting the leading parts, and the original European locations as his background, has made a powerful drama that merits all the praise and attention given it.

The story is of the Mediterranean sea during the early periods of the war. The romance of the beautiful spy and the Spanish sea captain is the central attraction of the picture, with submarine warfare, secret service systems of European powers, marvelous characterizations by the foreign artists and the pictorial and historical locations of the continent all giving added interest.

With the exception of Miss Terry, Moreno and Huhie Mack, who has a prominent comedy role, the entire cast is made up of leading European actors and actresses who make their American debut in the picture.

It is a treat to see new faces and to have them give such creditable performances as the entire cast of Mare Nostrum gives. The German characters are especially fine.

The pictorial beauty of Mare Nostrum is beyond description. Ingram has carefully blended his locations into his story in a way that makes them a part of it.

Norwich Music Association

The Flomondel Trio which will open the 12th season of the Norwich Music association on Tuesday evening, October 5th, at Slater hall is a trio of young women appearing in costume for a program of songs and duets.

The trio consists of Miss Florence Hale, lyric soprano, and Miss Claramond Thompson with Miss Elsie Lepker at the piano. It is believed that this concert will prove much to the liking of the members of the association.

Membership in the association is open to all who wish the privilege of listening to recitals of a high order. The procedure is quite simple—mail the membership fee of $4.00 to Mr. William H. Collins, 63 McKinley avenue, and the membership card will be prepared and ready for you at the door on Tuesday evening, the night of the first concert.

Address on The Bible

An unusual circumstance attended the delivery by Mr. Ellsworth of his address on the English Bible at a Michigan college last winter, the students, led by the president, broke out into an enthusiastic hand-clapping contrary to Sunday custom. If Norwich boys and girls can be induced to attend the delivery of this address at the Central Baptist church on Sunday evening they will get a new idea of the Bible from a literary point of view. The headmaster of a large private school at Scarborough-on-the-Hudson, wrote this to Mr. Ellsworth, after the address had been heard at his school:

"I am trying to make our youngsters become both reverent and reasonably intelligent concerning the Bible and to give them the point of view that they are entitled to the privilege of thinking about the Bible and their religion. Your lecture fitted beautifully into this plan and I am very glad to recommend it to all who are looking for a thoughtful, conservative and yet modern presentation of the developments of the Bible."

Mr. and Mrs. William Kitchen have moved to Westerly.

No service being held in the Second Baptist church last Sunday, a large delegation from that congregation worshiped with the Third Baptist church.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Lyceum Theater, New London

Many people are afraid or "a great play." For some unaccountable reason they take the word "great" to mean "high-brow." The fact, of course, is that all great plays begin to be great by being entertaining. Channing Pollock's The Enemy, which will appear at the Lyceum theater Saturday night, October 9th, has been called "a great play" but audiences at the Times Square theater, New York, where it ran a full season, were greatly amused and deeply moved by it. First and foremost, the author of The Fool seems to have fashioned a tender love story, full of smiles and tears and moments of almost unbearable thrill. While hundreds of professors and clergymen have testified that the performance gave them food for thought; not necessarily a painful process—an even larger number of every-day citizens have testified that they found the piece "a thoroughly good show." The only difference between "a great play" and the other kind is that the former has not passed out of your mind when you sit down to breakfast the next morning. George Galge seems to be right in calling The Enemy one play you can't afford to miss. Mr. Galge is sending it here with the same company that appeared at the Times Square and that includes Florence Rittenhouse, Russ Whytal, Charles Dalton, J. Hammond Dalley, Leslie Barrie, Frank Sylvester, Olive May and Donald Hughes.

Broadway Theater

The Speed Limit, the latest Gotham production which comes to the Broadway theater Sunday only, main feature of a double program typifies the spirit of the minute. Youth, reckless, full of life and with speed in everything as its motto.

Raymond McKee, one of the screen-dom's most rapidly rising younger personalities, is cast in the leading role of the young garage mechanic who has developed a process of making tires last longer. He has no capital, so he and his two buddies, Herman Begger, a Jewish boy and "Eight Ball" Jackson, a colored boy, pool their wages so he can make his experiments.

Ray gets an opportunity to give his new tires a great try-out in a 100-mile track race. But difficulties are put in his way. A crook tries to steal his process and also prevent him winning the race but when youth and ambition combine no ordinary circumstances can stop them.

The entire picture is handled in a light comedy vein and the laughs in the picture are interrupted only by thrills.

The big thrill comes in the great auto race in which the world's fastest drivers are seen burning up the track at phenomenal speeds. There are several hair-raising smash-ups before Ray comes out ahead.

In order to get a realistic aeroplane wreck George Walsh and his leading lady, Cecille Evans, were compelled to imperil their lives. The wreck was required as one of the most important thrills in Blue Blood the latest George Walsh feature for the Chadwick pictures corporation, which contains enough action and hair raising stunts to supply several ordinary feature length productions and is the second feature on the great program. A new Kinograms completes this bill.

A new show starts Monday, vaudeville and pictures.

Palace theater

Connie Talmadge will be seen for the last times today in The Duchess of Buffalo, the picture that has been delighting Norwich fans and filling the Palace with joyous laughter. It is without doubt her finest work and the charming star is supported by Chester Conklin and her new leading man Pedro Carmanati who has set all the girls raving over him and become at one bound the new idol of the screen. The picture has everything that makes for success, plenty of good comedy, a highly romantic and thrilling love story and lavish settings and gorgeous gowns. Don't miss this last chance to see it. Then there is Gene Tunney in the fourth chapter of his great adventure story, The Fighting Marine that grows more exciting with each episode, a new Aesops Fable, a Rough and Ready Romeo, the Topical Events, showing among other interesting world news the Nathan Hale celebration at South Coventry, Conn. The World Series baseball game today will be received direct from the grounds by radio at the matinee so patrons may get the results in comfort. Tomorrow, Sunday evening the Palace starts its new policy of double features at every change of bill with no advance in prices. The Sunday program will include Pola Negri in her latest success, Good and Naughty, in which she is supported by Tom Moore and Ford Sterling and Marie Prevost in Seven Sinners supported by Clive Brook and John Patrick. The management calls special attention to the fact that the evening performance is an entirely different one from that to be presented in the afternoon for the benefit of the Florida sufferers. Hereafter the Palace will change program every Sunday, Tuesday, and Thursday all double feature bills showing two outstanding productions for the price of one a policy that for quality and quantity has never been approached in this city.

Next Week at United Congregational

The executive committee of the missions department of The Guild will meet at the home of its chairman, Miss Nancy E. Lucas, 94 Sachem street, at three o'clock on Tuesday afternoon, October 5th.

All women of the parish are invited to the quarterly meeting of the eastern Connecticut branch, W. B. M., to be held with the Mohegan church, on Thursday, October 7th, with sessions at 11 a. m. and 1:30 p. m. The New London trolley leaving Franklin square at 10:45 a. m. will get people there in time for the opening session. Mrs. Charles M. Ransom, of Africa, will be the speaker, and there will be a basket luncheon at noon, as usual.

Members of the Pequot Camp-Fire will meet at the home of its guardian, Miss Dorothy Holden, Pine street, at 7:15 p. m. Friday evening, while those in the Okiza Camp Fire will convene with their guardian, Miss Beatrice Freeman, 17 Ripley place, at the same time. All girls of the parish who wish to join these Camp-Fire groups are asked to notify one of these guardians.

Christ Episcopal Church

On Sunday, Oct. 3, at Christ Episcopal church the Rally Sunday spirit will be carried out in all services. At the eight o'clock morning eucharist there will be special intercessions. The junior church at 9:15 with exhibition. The full choral eucharist and sermon at 10:30. Special numbers by Mr. Pierce on the organ before the processional by Prof. J. B. Dykes. The Kyrie by B. Tours and J. Barmby, the beautiful sequence hymn for Saint Anne by W. Croft, Gloria Tibi and Gratias Tibi by C. Gounod, sermon hymn, "Rejoice," by the full choir with special music by H. Barmby, offertory by S. B. Whitney "All Things Come," canticles by Francis W. Snow, Sursum corda and Sanctus by Prof. Caraidge, benediction by T. Morley, Adeste Fideles by Dr. J. Reading, Agnus Dei by W. B. Gilbert, Gloria in Excelsis by C. Zeuner—Nunc dimittis by J. Turle. Recessional hymn "Trumpet Call" by A. Gelbel. Next Sunday, Oct. 10th is "Family Sunday."

GET OUT AND VOTE

Because Norwich elects its town officials biennially, and this is the off year, there will be no election here on Monday, but in most of the towns of the state the electors will have a chance to determine who shall direct town affairs for the ensuing year.

That is of course the time for the voters to take an interest in what directly concerns them. It is a time for getting out the vote and getting the expression of the people quite the same as at the town meeting when appropriations are made and taxes decided upon. Election day has its responsibilities for the voters in the small towns as well as in the cities and those who fail to respond are remiss in their duty to themselves and their neighbors.

In all probability the large majority of the town elections will result favorably to the republicans. That has been true for so long in the past that it can be depended upon but the aim of every town must be to get the best possible administration of its business affairs, in that endeavor it is frequently the case that those who have been tried and found true and efficient are nominated on both tickets.

Good government is the desire, or should be, of every town. It is best assured through the participation of the largest possible number of the voters. Other than a few. Lack of interest and the inclination to leave such matters as the choice of town officials to others have been responsible for much of the undesirable kind. It would be even better if it were so at every election that there was the same participation that there is in the presidential contest. There is enough importance attached to every one of them if the voters would only recognize it and insist upon exercising their franchise when they have the chance.

Another matter that calls for attention at this particular time concerns those who are entitled to be made voters. Applications must be in the hands of the registrars of voters on Tuesday October 5. That would naturally permit no vote on Monday but it is a formality which is necessary if there is to be participation in the state election next month. Unless this preliminary is complied with there can be no chance to be made a voter this fall.

If you are a voter and there is an election in your town Monday, by all means go to the polls and vote. Do your part for the best town government. Don't be a slacker.

If you are entitled to become a voter see that your application is in by Tuesday and then follow that up by being made a voter and join the procession to the polls in November.

TOO MANY DROWNINGS

According to the report of the New York department of health there were 221 persons drowned in that city between June 5 and August 28. It may be pointed out, as is done in connection with automobile fatalities, that the proportion in drownings to the population of that city is not large. But it is actual number that call for attention and when it is realized that there were 221 persons who lost their lives by drowning within less than three months in New York city it is too large, regardless of the population. It represents more than half the fatalities in the recent Florida disaster and yet little or nothing is thought about it because the drownings were distributed over a number of weeks instead of occurring in one day.

With the same ratio of drownings throughout the country there would be a loss in a period of 12 weeks of 4200 persons, and a large proportion of them young people. What is the remedy?

The New York commissioner of health makes the recommendation that all school children be taught to swim. There is no getting away from the fact that it is a desirable thing for everyone to know how to take care of himself in the water, but knowing how to swim doesn't necessarily mean the prevention of drownings. By all means let everyone who is able know how to swim, but even then there is a call for exercising care and a reasonable amount of judgment when in the water. Being able to keep afloat doesn't justify the idea that the individual should swim the English channel, Long Island sound or the nearest river. Being able to swim doesn't warrant stunts, diving in shallow water or overtaxing the strength. Too many of the drownings are due to inviting dangerous conditions through taking big chances.

It is an excellent thing that the many drownings are being held up as an example of what should be avoided both by swimmers and non-swimmers. Recklessness in and about the water invites quite as serious a penalty as it does on land. Being able to swim might prevent some drownings but it can also widen the opportunity for the reckless spirit. A much greater recognition of safety first principles could not fail to have its good results.

MINE DISASTERS

Mine disasters like other cases of misfortune never fail to arouse widespread public interest. There is the immediate concern about the rescue of the persons who are trapped and there is the concentration of expert minds upon the situation for the purpose of determining the cause of the disaster, the responsibility and the necessary steps for prevention in the future in case they are not already known.

The situation at the iron mine in Ironwood, Mich., differed greatly from what it would have been had it been a coal mine. There was no fire and no gas to obstruct the efforts of those who went to the rescue. There was a lack of food and a frightful tangle of rocks and equipment to crawl over once the rescuers had reached the imprisoned men, but when shown the way those who had been shut off from the usual way out were able to follow the leader and reach the surface half a mile above their five days' prison.

Had it been a coal mine in which they were blocked gas and lack of air would probably have ended their existence before they were reached. Their rescue was spectacular in a distressed community but nationwide sympathy and interest was also manifested.

There is little appreciation by those outside the mining regions of what underground work means, the responsibilities involved or the dangers encountered. The study of mine disasters has resulted in decided improvements and greater safety but there is still room for improvement through equipment and observance of safety requirements, as mine disasters clearly show.

CHAMPIONS COME, CHAMPIONS GO.

This year has been a hard one on champions. Those who have held national and international distinction because they established records or displayed greater proficiency in respective lines have encountered others who were a little bit better, who could outplay them when the test was made.

Bobby Jones and Walter Hagen went across gathering in a lot of British honors and the former had the distinction of being the American amateur golf champion but he wasn't able to hold the title long.

Helen Wills is no longer the woman's national tennis champion and the American tennis championship which Bill Tilden held for a half dozen years has been wrested from him, not by an American, but a Frenchman, and this after he had played such a masterly game in winning the Davis cup for the United States.

Gertrude Ederle gathered big honors to herself when she swam the English channel, the first time a woman had done it and in faster time than any other had made. But it was a short lived honor for others have since crossed in the water, both male and female and the record has been lowered by hours.

Jack Dempsey turned over the world's heavyweight championship to Gene Tunney after ten rounds, that was all Tunney's and now Glenna Collett has had the woman's national golf championship wrested from her.

Championships belong to those who can outplay the other fellow. It is well that they do not remain with one person too long. For the good of the respective sports it is desirable that there be changes but 1926 has contributed more than the average year and the end may not as yet be reached.

CANNOT HIDE OPPOSITION

Desperate are the efforts which are being made by the Filipinos who are working in behalf or independence to make a demonstration during the visit of the president's special investigation Carmi Thompson, to create the impression that the Filipinos are a unit in demanding severence from this country. Thus far their efforts have had to encounter demonstrations to the contrary, have in fact inspired opposite manifestations on the part of those who do not favor independence, and perhaps there are none of greater significance than those put forth by the Moros and by Emilio Aguinaldo.

The Moros have resented the efforts to misrepresent them and have thrown an interesting light upon the claims of the Manila politicians. But Aguinaldo, who fought American control of the islands has undergone such a change of mind that openly opposes the fight for independence and maintains that the islands have not only profited greatly from American control but are still greatly in need of its continuance. In addition he has been profuse in his acknowledgment of the excellent work that General Wood has done in the islands as governor general and thousands have cheered his words to that effect.

Strive as they will through their methods the politicians who are working for independence cannot overcome the fact that independence is strongly opposed among the islanders.

THE MAN WHO TALKS

It is probably safe to say that to a majority of people wealth is only material, visible property. And to them rich men are only those who own such. It does not occur to them that there is or may be other forms of wealth. Now this estimation is only partially correct. The trouble with it is that it is too narrow. Of course we must admit that a rich man is he who is possessed of land and buildings, of stocks and bonds, of silver and gold, and other things that have a money value. But even these things have no direct value. Money cannot feed us, clothe us or shelter us. These necessary things we get in exchange for money. If a man was shipwrecked on a desert island with nothing but a bundle of stocks and bonds, or a bunch of bank bills he would soon die of starvation and exposure.

But there is a larger and more intelligent conception of wealth which the Bible teaches, and which comes to our notice, without in the least underrating the importance of material treasure. That form of socialism which slurs money and berates rich men is nothing but rank hypocrisy. It is only the envious cry of those who have made a flat failure in acquiring property. The Bible nowhere does anything of the sort. There is not a word from Genesis to Revelation in protest to money as a thing in itself, and no epithets whatever hurled against rich men simply because they are rich. But the Bible does hold up the danger signal; it does warn, in no uncertain tones, against the misuse of money, and what that misuse may mean to the individual. Let it be clearly understood that the Bible says nothing against the individual possession of property.

Let us then keep very clearly in mind that the word "wealth" admits of a much larger application than to material property. It is neither the highest nor the most important form of human possession. The Word of God makes nothing clearer than this. Whatever tends to deepen and broaden the human personality is wealth. Anything we have of value whether it can be measured in terms of dollars and cents or not comes under the head of wealth. If looked at from this viewpoint earthly riches grow small before that larger enrichment of which a man's mind and soul are capable. When the human faculties are studied as a whole we find that mental and spiritual riches have the brighter lustre, I speak of this at length to disabuse our minds of that popular fallacy that wealth for the most part consists of material treasure. That we fall into this error is not to be wondered at because we hear it in the spoken address and see it in the printed page.

What then are true riches? First of course we must include material treasure. This cannot be disputed provided it has been honestly gotten, and is wisely used. Without it the whole economic world would be shattered. Honest wealth means that which responds to honest toil, whether in the gilded office or the greasy workshop. It means that which comes to us by inheritance. This has been the law of nations, written or unwritten, from time immemorial. Second, there are mental riches; minds strong by nature and enlarged by culture. Strength of mind may come by birth, but usually it is inheritance plus personal exertion. This kind of wealth overshadows the material. Lately two men died; one of them of brilliant mind and lofty purpose. He changed the American college in to the university. The other made people laugh. In the judgment of the world which was the richer, Eliot or Valentino?

The man who has a strong, clear and tender conscience has an asset that will stand by him in the stress and storms of life. It is a species of wealth because it will save him from moral bankruptcy. It has the same value to him in times of moral strain, that money does in seasons of financial strain, therefore it has a great moral value. In a world like ours that is so varied in its temptations how much we need men and women, both young and old, with enough moral stamina to say "no" when "no" needs to be said, and also "yes" when conscience says that "yes" is the only word that ought to be said. Conscience which is the product of high ideals is the basis of character, and nothing stands higher in the estimation of all good people than character. And an individual with character is recognized as valuable to the world. William Penn put conscience into his dealings with the Indians, and the savages recognized and reciprocated.

How do we get true riches? By faith. This is what the apostle James tells us. No argument is needed to show that this is true throughout the material world. The world's business is transacted largely on faith. In the dictionary of business the word credit is substituted for faith. We invest money in all sorts of enterprises. Why? Because we believe that they will continue to make good. They promise to pay a certain percentage on the money they borrow. We certainly would not lend it to them if we had no faith in the enterprise. We invest on faith not on knowledge. Why does a boy go to Yale or Harvard? Because he believes they can instruct him. How do we get our religion? Is it based on our knowledge of the hereafter? Or is it faith? "The just shall live by faith." We invest in religion because we believe in it.

How can this wealth be kept and increased? Worldly treasure cannot always be kept and increased. But if it is kept and increased it is by putting it to work. Faith and works always go together. Our economic strength comes from making a dollar earn a dollar. Working capital is money in activity, otherwise it is practically useless. A miser is practically a poor man because he hoards up his money, which does nobody else any good, and himself very little. The same applies to all wealth. Suppose a young man graduates from college as an expert in Latin, and if he does not use that Latin for true years how much will he know? But if he teaches it to others he fixes it all the more firmly in his own mind. He must put Latin or any other branch of learning to work if he keeps it or increases it. We must also put religion to work if "the glory of the Lord fills the whole earth as the waters cover the sea."

The greatest investment we can make is to put ourselves into religion. No other investment is absolutely safe. We may be so anxious to make money that they blast their reputations in the process. If it is the main objective in life it is apt to become a craze in which they go down. No worldly investment can be called absolutely safe. Adverse conditions sometimes arise that the shrewdest men cannot control. That is the reason why money is said to "have wings and fly away." But there is an investment that no adverse conditions can assail, provided the investors do their duty. This is property "that neither moth nor rust doth corrupt and where thieves do not break through and steal." That is the reason why we are encouraged to "lay up for ourselves treasures in heaven". It is the wise man who builds his house on "a rock."

Fortune is said to knock once at every man's door, but it is hard to make some men believe it.

DEBT REDUCTION OR LOWER TAXES—WHICH?

Another debt row is brewing, but over our own obligations rather than those of foreign powers. Critics of the administration are insisting that the government is paying off its debt too rapidly, declaring that if the treasury continues to make retirements in the future as it has since the World war ended, the entire indebtedness will be wiped out in less than 20 years, writes Theodore G. Joslin in the Boston Transcript. With the rest of the world trying to make both ends meet and, inveighing against the United States as too insistent a creditor, the argument is being made that part of our debt should be passed along to future generations, and thus permit another tax reduction at the coming session. It is being said that if European taxpayers are to have sixty-two years in which to pay their debts to America, then American taxpayers should be extended the same courtesy in discharging the debts of their government. The movement gives promise of developing into a real issue, notwithstanding that Secretary Mellon and other high treasury officials insist that any change would be unwise, detrimental alike to the taxpayers and the nation.

The controversy is causing students of national affairs to review the financial activities of the government in recent years. These reviews have convinced most of the observers that no great reduction in taxes can be made at this time, that the claims advanced by certain democratic leaders are not well founded. For instance, Senator Simmons of North Carolina, the ranking minority member of the committee on finance, recently declared that taxes can be reduced by another $500,000,000 before this congress completes its activities. Apparently he has overstated the case by several hundred million dollars. Nevertheless, it is recognized that a further cut can be made without jeopardising the treasury's position, possibly to the extent of $200,000,000. Some of the republican leaders are agreed that such a reduction is possible, among them Congressman Martin B. Madden of Illinois, chairman of the committee on appropriations, and the recognised financial authority of the house.

Without Parallel in History.

Be that as it may, Secretary Mellon can advance a number of reasons why the present policy of getting rid of the debts is good business. Sensing the coming strife over the question, Mr. Mellon may be expected to make an appeal to the country to sustain his policy in an address he will deliver next month before the American Bankers' association at the annual convention to be held in California. He will speak on "The Public Debt." At that time the wisdom of the present debt retirement plan will be placed before the country in an impressive way.

The manner in which the United States has whittled down its public debt is without a parallel in history. Its success has been the envy of all the governments of the world. In the eight years since the Armistice was signed, it has cut its debt by $5,850,-753,414, and it promises a further decrease of $800,000,000 during the coming year. On three different occasions, federal taxes have been reduced. This has been made possible, of course, by prosperous times and by the increase in the wealth of the country.

The United States owed less than $1,000,000 when it entered the World war. By 1919, the borrowings had amounted to $25,234,496,274 including approximately $10,000,000,000 raised by Liberty bond drives and loaned abroad. This was the equivalent of a charge of $240 against every man, woman and child in the United States. With the conclusion of hostilities, enormous retirements were possible, due to liquidation of war supplies and reduction in the treasury balance. Carrying on the war was a huge business, and the treasury needed more than $1,000,000,-000 of floating capital—money on hand

Each year, as the war transactions have been liquidated, this balance has been reduced until now the government does business on a daily balance of about $200,000,000 Retirement of the debt from whittling down the cash balance of the treasury has accounted for $1,000,000,000 in the debt reduction, while liquidation of war supplies has accounted for a few hundred million more. But the bulk of the reduction has resulted through taxation, the sinking fund and devoting the treasury surplus of receipts over expenditures each year to retiring bonds. Considerable sums have been received from foreign governments, especially Great Britain, in the last three years. These also have been applied to the public debt. Thus, by June 30, last, the end of the fiscal year, the public debt had dwindled to $19,385,770,860.

Although the sinking fund requires annual retirements of only between $300,000,000 and $400,000,000 the treasury has actually reduced the debt by an average of $837,000,000 each year since the war ended. With war liquidations practically completed and no more receipts in sight from that source, future requirements must come from taxation and foreign debt payments. Treasury officials contend that the safe and sane policy to pursue is to go along as in the past, wiping out the debt as expeditiously as possible. Taken as a whole, the country is prosperous today, due in part to the fact that taxes no longer are strangling business So it is argued; the payments should be continued without taking chances on business depression or other troubles in the future, for, as the debt is reduced by $1,000,000,000 the charge on the treasury is reduced by $35,500,000 annually, the taxpayer getting the benefit.

Administration is Playing Safe.

Secretary Mellon is insistent that it would be most dangerous to cut taxes so there would be no possible surplus over and above the necessary sinking fund. Financial experts of the government argue, moreover, that a year or two of hard times would reduce the revenues of the government to such an extent that increases in taxes would be necessary. In consequence, the administration policy is to play safe, always keeping the revenues above expenditures, thus providing a margin to apply to debt retirement and something "to go on" in the event of "a lean year." There is still another argument, namely, that large debt retirements benefit the public through lower money rates, for as hundreds of millions of dollars of bonds are taken each year that much capital is released for general business purposes. That the argument is sound is evidenced by the fact that the government is averaging less than 4 per cent for its money now.

The treasury is especially insistent that all payments made by foreign governments on their war debts shall be used to retire the American indebtedness.

With all the agitation abroad for cancellation of debts and the ever-present possibility of a default from Europe, the treasury insists that it is not safe to cut taxes to make up for foreign debt payments. So Secretary Mellon applies the debt payments from abroad to bond retirements above the sinking fund and the treasury surplus each year That is how the more than $800,000,000 of debt retirements every twelve months has been accomplished in recent years—approximately twice the normal rate demanded by law. The fight that will be made in congress next winter will be over the question whether these large retirements shall continue year after year.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Basil M. Manly, who has called upon President Coolidge to clean up the moral conditions in Alaska, is an economist of note whose services and advice have often been enlisted by federal and state governments. Mr. Manly is 45 years of age and a native of Greenville, S. C. After studying for a time at the University of Missouri he entered Washington and Lee university and at the age of 20 received his A. B. from that institution. Four years from 1906 to 1912, he was employed as an expert by the U. S. bureau of labor statistics. Subsequently he served as director of investigation and research for the U. S. commission on industrial relations. He was a special assistant to Francis J. Henry when the latter was employed by the federal trade commission in the prosecution of anti-trust cases. During the war Mr. Manly served as a joint chairman of the national war labor board.

Make the Most of Books

By James Hosmer Penniman, Litt. D.

Classify and Arrange Ideas

In the Fable for Critics, Lowell thus describes the unorderly worker among books:

"Twould be endless to tell you the thing that he knew,
All so ar'ate facts, undeniably true,
But with him or each other they'd nothing to do.
No power of combining, arranging, discerning,
Digested the masses he learned into learning."

Try to see clearly the important divisions of a subject, to be fair minded, to draw your own conclusions, to distinguish between the probable and the improbable, to recognise the good points in each side of conflicting theories. Especially learn to classify and arrange the ideas you get from books and to unite them to what you already know.

YOUR HEALTH

WHEN DELAY MEANS DEATH

Reginald H. Jackson, M. D., Madison, Wisc.
Member of Gorgas Memorial Institute

That life or death often depends upon the speed or lack of speed with which we do the right thing is almost a daily observation of the average man who drives an automobile. What one of us has not said, "Well, I did that just in the nick of time."

Thousands of lives are unnecessarily lost each year from disease through the utter failure of the individuals concerned to appreciate the fact that the lapse of even a few hours' time in the application of the proper medical or surgical measure may deprive them of a decent fighting chance for life.

To say that a patient has acute appendicitis means little. It is the degree of inflammation which is present in the appendix that is of vital importance, and in severe cases the amount of inflammation bears a direct relation to the length of time that has passed since the beginning of the attack.

In the majority of cases inflammation is confined to the appendix during the first 24 hours of the attack, and may be removed with the appendix by operation. After this 24 hour period, and occasionally before, the appendix may burst and scatter its foul load of germs upon the surrounding coils of intestine, giving rise to poisoning and infection of the delicate membrane which surrounds the abdominal organs.

This is called septic peritonitis and is the most frequently fatal complication of appendicitis. The same operation, which, if made before the appendix bursts, would rid the body entirely of this peril of spreading inflammation, now fails to do so. In other words, the addition of a few hour's delay, which unfortunately can never be recalled, may mean the difference between life and death.

In severe cases of acute intestinal obstruction, such as occurs in a strangulated rupture, relief measures should be started immediately. If they are not given within 12 hours, the chances of recovery diminish about 5 per cent with each hour's delay, no matter how skilfully the operation is carried out.

In many acute diseases the onset is so savage and the passage from a moderate to a critical stage of illness so rapid in which control of the time factor is possible is extremely limited. Time can only be taken advantage of when there is an intelligent understanding between the family physician and the patient, or his relatives.

IN DAY'S NEWS

HOW THE TREE CANS SUNSHINE

Theories discussed before the British association for the Advancement of Science about the lifelike qualities of plants is a reminder that the tree, from data we already have, is a mechanism that in many ways transcends human ingenuity, says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic society.

"Man is apt to consider the tree according to its uses to him," the bulletin continues. "The home owner thinks of it in terms of lumber, the sportsman looks to it for fishing poles or golf clubs, the panter is concerned with the varnish it yields, the musician considers its qualities for rosin or the making of violins, the publisher watches its yield of pulpwood, the summer picnicker asks only its shade.

"And so the list might be multiplied, for trees donate literally thousands of commodities to mankind's use. But what of the tree from its own point of view?

"A tree pumps a water supply to its crown, even though that crown be 300 feet or more in the sky. Then it completes the cycle of circulation by sending the water back down as sap, loaded with food to build up the living part of the trunk, the sheath of new bark. It also fortifies its bark overcoat with a new layer every year.

"Moreover, the tree is a self-operating chemical laboratory possessing 'trade' secrets yet unknown to the best human chemists. With water, mineral matter and carbonic gas from the air it manufactures its food, part of which is stored away as wood. If you would know how much of this product is made out of air and water and how much is mineral matter sluiced through root and cell canals from the ground, cut a block of wood, weigh it, burn it, and then weigh the ashes. The difference is what a tree manufactures out of insubstantial air and water. The warmth from the fire is literally canned sunshine released by combustion.

"The tree's chemical laboratory requires, in place of gas and electric power, light and heat from the sun. So it spreads a net of marvelous mesh to catch the sunlight and heat. Man calls the net leaves.

"In the temperate zone, at least, a tree is a more stalwart individual than all the members of the animal kingdom and most fellow members of the plant region. What animal, for example, can go from a New England summer to a New England winter without putting on heavier clothing? Most plants curl up and die. The tree turns off the water system to keep it from freezing, hauls in its sunlight net (winter sun is not so much, anyway) and faces the music of the bitterest northwest winds.

"Man has taken the olive branch as the emblem of peace but there is little peace in the whole aboreal family. As trees not only fends for itself; it fights for itself. If trees did not fight for themselves man would have little use for them. A tree is a bush on stilts. In the tree world the upper dog wins, so it is usually the tree which battles its neighbor for light and because it is armed with a better and longer stilt it lives and thrives.

"While it is easy to visualize the capture of sun heat by a tree and its release on one's shins from a fireplace, it is more difficult to appreciate the heat we get from prehistoric trees. Fossil forms in coal show that trees were important and perhaps the chief dwellers of the rank jungles that laid down their lives in the carboniferous age to be fuel for 1936. The tree forms of that era were different from those we know; many of them gigantic ferns and palmlike trees. But the pines, which control half of the world's forests today, are close relatives of prominent prehistoric tree families.

"One of the densest jungles on earth, today lies along the Motagu river in Guatemala. Should nature, by the process of the Coal age, transform that jungle into a coal seam, it would be only a few inches thick. What a forest of tree life it must have been to produce the seams of coal which we mine today! One of the thickest on record is 46 feet.

"While nature was storing away the sun heat captured by the prehistoric jungles, nature also put away the color of that tropic world. Within the last 50 years chemists have discovered vats of every imaginable color concealed in dummy black coal tar. Modern styles for women's clothing quickly took possession of these color 'mines' so our avenues are brilliant with the hues of luxuriant herbage which we may imagine beautified our earth millions and millions of years ago.

"The total value of products of contemporary and prehistoric trees produced and imported annually in the United States is more than 11 billions of dollars. This figure is necessarily approximate and decidedly conservative. Major products that roll up this total are: paper, lumber, coal, rubber, coke even by-products, chocolate and cacao, canned fruits, rayon, dried fruits, fresh fruits, turpentine and rosin, coal tar products and nuts."

Mrs. Ella A. Boole, of Brooklyn, was reelected president of the National Women's Christian temperance Union by the convention of that organization at Los Angeles.

CHILD TRAINING

LEARNING TOGETHER

Mary S. Stover

It was on a train running from the city into the beautiful, fresh, green country. Ahead of me sat a family group of a her, mother, eager small boy and wee baby sister. O, the number of questions that passed from one to another, and the interest each one took in everything!

One remarkable circumstance was that the little boy didn't ask all the questions. Indeed, he was generally the one to be questioned, and how anxious that made him to reply well! The parents were an immigrant couple of brilliant peasant stock. Their son had been a "fresh air vacationist" last summer. Now all were off for a blissful country day together and Joe felt his responsibilities as conductor of the travel party.

This family was made up of wise people. All were willing to ask questions and to learn from one another. That was as it always should be with parents and children. It is especially important when the older ones have not had as good a chance as the children to learn about this country and how people live here.

Much is said and written about Americanization. The very best plan is for the members of each family to learn together about the new land, to learn from the best of their neighbors and in turn to inform their neighbors, so that all may understand and live according to right rules of life here.

No one need worry about the outcome in a home where children have a fair chance to attend kindergarten and day school and Sunday school. If they are not repulsed in their natural desire to share the good things learned.

Some parents find it a delight to let their children play teacher. For others this is very difficult. All need much good-will and open-mindedness. They need to remember that the greatest men and women were always learning. Such persons gladly stoop to learn from children and to learn as little children do. One who was very wise indeed said about children: "Of such is the kingdom of heaven."

Children are not ashamed to wonder about things and to ask many questions. Wise older people do the same. Most of us fail to learn as we might because of our foolishness in not wanting others to see how ignorant we are. All of us can learn many things with the children and from them.

Parents, if you would keep abreast of your children learn from them. Do not be too proud nor yet too humble. You know many things which these boys and girls do not know yet and which they ought to learn from you. Tell them so in a kind, firm way. Show them that it is because of your love and hard work and ambition that they are having a better chance than you had at their age.

Let the children understand that all can share knowledge together, just as all share the daily food at table. Little children are very glad to have their mothers visit the kindergarten and see the many interesting things they have told them about. The teachers wish parents to come to school. A grown person may learn much from just a little while in a school or at a museum or in a picture gallery.

Go with the children. Take them with you to places where all will learn. Teachers and attendants will be glad to help all of you to learn together. Thus you will be like a party climbing some great mountain side, joined together by cords which help all to climb as one.

"BREAKFAST" in BAKER'S BREAKFAST COCOA Means Something

The United States Food Standards define "Breakfast" cocoa as cocoa containing not less than 22% of cocoa fat. Many cheap cocoas (which cannot be labelled "Breakfast cocoa") contain not more than 14% or 15% of fat.
Baker's Breakfast Cocoa contains not less than 26% of cocoa fat, almost one-fifth more than Government requirement. The plump Baker's Breakfast Cocoa means a pure, delicious cocoa of high quality and possessing a considerable amount of nourishment.

IRRITATION ON ARMS AND NECK

Pimples Broke Out. Cuticura Healed.

"I was bothered with an irritation on my arms and neck. Later pimples broke out that were hard, large and red, and some of them festered. The breaking out caused disfigurement, and I could not sleep on account of the irritation. The trouble lasted about three months.

"I tried a few other remedies but they did no good. A friend recommended Cuticura Soap and Ointment so I purchased some. After using them about two weeks I noticed a change, and in one month I was completely healed." (Signed) Mr. M. O. Brawn, Pleasant St., Lincoln, Me.

THAMES VALLEY LOCATIONS FAVORABLE FOR FACTORIES

With President William A. Anderson in the chair and with the usual large attendance the weekly luncheon meeting of the Norwich Lions club was held at Wauregan hotel Thursday noon. J. B. Caron was the song leader and Nicholas J. Spellman presided at the piano. Following the singing of America, Rev. E. C. Dunbar said grace. During the meeting two pleasing vocal solos were given by Tyler Stanton and there were the usual group and club song numbers. The preliminary plans of the special committee for the Armistice day celebration were outlined by President Anderson. Ma. Hanover, Louis Crandall and Joseph French were named a committee from the Lions club to cooperate with the general celebration committee.

The speaker of the day, H. E. Hasty, general manager of the Robert-Gair company, was introduced by Abner Schwartz, chairman of the entertainment committee. Mr. Gair spoke on the subject, The Relation of Industry to the Community. He stressed the fact that the Robert-Gair company and other manufacturing establishments are not located in our vicinity as a matter of accident. He said that they were located here owing to sound business foresight as there are several elements in this part of the country that make it most desirable and profitable for manufacturing establishments to locate here. The first of these elements, Mr. Hasty said, was the natural and suitable climate of our part of the state whereas in other parts of the country manufacturers are upset with snowstorms entailing a great effort and cost of digging themselves out several times during the season. We in this section are fortunately exempt of these storms. A very important element, Mr. Hasty said, was transportation facilities which are the best.

He praised highly the Central Vermont railroad for efficient service at the least possible cost and he also was convinced that the N. Y. N. H. and Hartford railroad is becoming more and more efficient every day. Mr. Hasty also said that a manufacturer in our locality has no trouble to place goods on the customers' shelf in New York the day following the shipment of the goods from the factory.

One of the most desirable factors for establishing industries in our community, Mr. Hasty said, was the caliber of the people that is, their character of rendering a fair day's labor for the wages they receive. On this score a manufacturer located in the Thames valley has a fair chance of manufacturing goods in competition with any concern in the country, as his outlay for labor always receives an honest return.

The question of state tax is an item to be considered by a manufacturer locating in a state. Among all the states in the country, Connecticut is one having the lowest rate of state taxes and the simplest and most unburdensome forms of tax returns. This, Mr. Hasty said, saves the Connecticut manufacturer a great deal of cost and trouble in comparison with what manufacturers have to put up in other parts of the country.

Then another great factor advantageous to our localities is our proximity to two of the greatest marketing centers in the country—New York and Boston. This places the local manufacturers in a position of not having to look very far for a market for their product.

For the manufacturing establishment which is in the market for power to run his plant, the Thames valley holds forth every inducement and advantage. All these advantages are very tangible assets to a successful manufacturing center.

Mr. Hasty placed great emphasis upon the necessity of placing these true facts before as many outsiders as possible for if those interested in suitable manufacturing localities would know these facts they would surely locate in our vicinity.

A point of interest brought out by Mr. Hasty was that whereas the merchants, both retail business, send out a lot of local cash to parts of the country for the merchandise they purchase elsewhere, the manufacturers located in our neighborhood bring in a considerable amount of cash for the products they sell all over the country, and even abroad, and that this cash is put in circulation locally in the form of wages paid. Also many products entering into process of manufacturing are purchased locally.

Mr. Hasty was given a vote of thanks for his interesting talk. President Anderson announced the following as the entertainment committee for the month of October: Louis Crandall, Fred Bielefield and William Frisbie. The meeting closed with the singing of the Star Spangled Banner.

GAVE FAREWELL PARTY WITH CLOCK AS GIFT

A few friends and business associates of Albert M. Van Wagnen, Jr., gave him a farewell party and supper Friday evening in the Dutch room at the Wauregan hotel, wishing him success as he goes to Hartford, where he is to be connected with the Case, Lockwood & Brainard Co. During the evening J. Warren Kane presented Mr Van Wagnen a handsome mahogany mantelpiece clock for which the recipient made a very fitting response. James Eaton of New London, Clinton Atterbury, Bernard Enright and others spoke, and a vote of thanks was given DeWitt Parsons for his successful conduct of the farewell party.

SHOWS RECORD OF CONNECTICUT CITIES' ARRESTS FOR DRUNKENNESS

The three years of 1916, 1917 and 1918 were peak periods for arrests for drunkenness in Connecticut cities, according to figures collected from police records by the Moderation League, Inc., of New York city, and published in a pamphlet entitled "A National Survey of Conditions Under Prohibition". These included the war boom years.

Near the end of 1919 the Volstead act went into effect and in that year and the two following there was an astonishing drop in the number of arrests. In 1923 the tide began to rise again, continued to rise in 1923, dropped off in 1924, and resumed its rise in 1925.

The high year in Norwich was 1918 with 953 arrests, which dropped to 325 in 1921, and since then has shown increasing figures.

The statistics for the Connecticut cities are given herewith:

GREAT CELEBRATION PLANNED FOR ARMISTICE DAY

Fletcher Post No. 4, American Legion, at its semi-monthly business meeting Friday evening in the Legion rooms on Shetucket street, discussed at some length the plans for the Armistice day celebration. The plans are yet in their infancy but indications are that this year's celebration will eclipse any celebration of previous years. The meeting which was largely attended was presided over by Commander E. C. Dunbar. Secretary Joseph Bellefleur read the minutes of the previous meeting and they were accepted as read. The report of the treasurer was also accepted as given.

Meredith Lee, chairman of the play committee made a report of progress. Mr. Lee announced that the cast has been chosen and that rehearsals will start next week. According to present arrangements it is planned to stage the show the evening of Armistice day, and the two following nights at the Strand theatre.

Following the discussion of the Armistice day parade routine business was transacted and the meeting adjourned about 9:30 o'clock. Rev. S. A. Ickle, pastor of St. Joseph's church and chairman of the publicity committee, issued the following statement Friday evening:

The local post of the American Legion is making preparations for a large patriotic manifestation on the 11th of November, the eighth anniversary of armistice in the World war. This year it is not only to be an armistice anniversary, but likewise a sesquicentennial celebration of our struggle for independence.

Such being the case, it seems proper that all civic, patriotic and national organizations should take part in this celebration. Some people boast of their patriotism and great civic virtues, but when it comes to arranging a suitable celebration of some of our great national feast days, like Memorial day, Independence day, Armistice, etc., they are usually out of town at the sea shore. Some people don't even know enough to take off their hats when they see the American flag go by, and they are not foreigners either.

We understand that the city officials, the chamber of commerce and other organizations are cooperating with the American Legion in making this year's Armistice day celebration the biggest ever. The committee in charge of the arrangements is in communication not only with the local civic organizations, but also with those in the surrounding towns and cities. It is expected that many of them will be here on that day.

It might be well, if suitable floats, commemorating our struggle for independence, as well as the heroic deeds of other wars and the last World war, would be prepared for that day. Such a historical pageant would go far toward inspiring, not only the children, but the grown ups toward greater love and admiration for this country. If each of the various organizations would take upon themselves to prepare one float, depicting some particular historical event, we could arrange a parade and a celebration second to none and it would go far toward putting the city of Norwich on the map. Let's all get our shoulder to the wheel and put it over big. Fellers let's go!

EVENING OF CARDS WAS LARGELY ATTENDED

Shea, Grace Christian.

The judges were John J. O'Rourke and Joseph Crawford. James Casey and Raymond Cote assisted Mrs. M. Flynn was in the coat room and courtesies were extended by the Knights of Columbus and the Catholic Women's club.

Theatre Party

A very delightful theatre party was enjoyed at the Palace theatre Friday evening. It was arranged by Miss Anna Konicki, the party including the Misses Celia Coit, Gladys Periatti, Hazel Mara, Agnes Gomond, Olga Walker, Anne Shultz, Diana Rutchick, Lillian Blinderman, Gertrude Brynan and Anna Konicki. After the performance the party took lunch at the Terminal.

COUNTY W. C. T. U. HELD ITS ANNUAL CONVENTION

The annual county convention of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union was held Wednesday morning and afternoon at the Y. W. C. A. building, in New London. Mrs. Lillian Slocum, county president, of New London, presided over the convention which opened at 10:30 o'clock with a devotional period conducted by Mrs. Minnie Saunders of New London. The New London president, Mrs. Rosebelle A. Cramer, made the address of welcome and the response was by Mrs. Herbert Lamb of Mystic.

The annual reports of the county secretary, Mrs. Rosalie D. Rogers, of New London, and of the county treasurer, Miss Harriet G. Cross of Norwich, were heard and accepted. Mrs. Slocum, the county president, called on Mrs. Lamb of Mystic to tell of some of the important work done there the past year, covering the flower mission, relief work and the institute that was held.

Miss Nellie Starr of Uncasville gave a very interesting report of work done by her unit, with a very bright outlook for effective work to be done at the Palmertown school in the L. T. L. department, as the principal and five of the assistant teachers had joined the union.

A memorial service for the five members who had died during the last 12 months was led by Mrs. Newbury of Mystic. During the service David Carr rendered two solos, Beautiful Isle of Somewhere and He Knows the Way. Mrs. Newbury gave a very impressive Bible reading which was followed by the united singing of This Is My Father's World, after which the noontide prayer, led by Mrs. A. E. Cutler, of Mystic, was said.

Mrs. Cramer submitted her report of the scientific temperance work among the schools in which she was assisted by the hearty co-operation of nurses and school teachers which made the work the most effective ever in New London.

Mrs. Cramer and the W. C. T. U. workers have kept the child welfare cupboard so well replenished during the past year that needy parents' new born children were well taken care of where infant's clothing was needed. The nurses of the New London department working with Mrs. Cramer are Mrs. Whiteside and Miss Murphy.

Posters made by children, she reported, were exhibited in New London and several sent to Hartford, one New London girl winning first prize and another second.

Mrs. Sarah E. Munger, president of the Niantic union, gave an interesting report of work done there. Miss Harriet G. Cross reported for the Norwich union.

Mrs. Lida Getchell of New London, flower mission and relief worker of the county reported distribution of fruit, vegetables, clothing, shoes for the needy. At the close of her report the county president called upon the State President Hattie Newton of Durham, who made a few congratulatory remarks after which the meeting adjourned for lunch.

At 1:30 o'clock the afternoon session was called to order and opened with the singing of America, the Beautiful. Prayer was offered by Mrs. Calvert of New London. Mrs. Minnie Saunders, evangelistic director, then gave a report of her work in the county urging each union to have a director in this department which she considered the foundation of the union's work. Reports on medal contests were made by Mrs. Cutler, on publicity by Mrs. Wallace Phillips and on Christian Citizenship by Mrs. Annie C. S. Fenner of New London. The Sunday school report of Miss Nellie Starr showed better work than usual and that every Sunday school in the country had been reached with literature three times during the year.

Following these reports Miss Dorothy Day, a gold medal winner, was heard in a recitation entitled Looking for the New World, after which the state president was heard in an address on Things Are Not What They Seem, a very interesting and impressive talk which commanded undivided attention. Mrs. Greenbacker of Middletown on Victory or Defeat, was also received with great enthusiasm. Mrs. J. J. Fields of Norwich, exhibit and fair director, concluded with her report which showed that 1200 drinking cups were used and 2200 pieces of literature, 300 national papers and 200 children's papers were distributed at the New London county fair.

The election of officers resulted as follows:

President, Mrs. Lillian Slocum of New London; secretary, Mrs. Rosalie D. Rogers of New London; treasurer, Miss Harriet G. Cross of Norwich. The election brought the session to a close during the late afternoon.

AUTOMOBILE STALLED; WAS HIT BY TROLLEY CAR

About 9:30 o'clock Friday night a Ford coupe driven by Arthur A. Mott of R. F. D. No. 3, Willimantic, and a Niantic trolley car came together on Franklin street near Meyers alley. Mr. Mott was driving his coupe out of the alley into Franklin street, intending to turn into Bath street when he noticed the trolley car coming down Franklin street, bound for Franklin square. The engine of the coupe stalled and the trolley car hit the right front mudguard of the coupe, causing the bumper of the trolley to ride up over the wheel of the automobile. The trolley was backed away from the automobile and about the only damage sustained by the machine was a damaged right front mudguard and right running board. One tire on the machine blew up and a tube in the other front tire went flat. No one was injured in the crash.

GRANTED FIVE DIVORCES ON UNCONTESTED LIST

Friday morning in the superior court short calendar session at New London, Judge Newell Jennings, who presided, granted five divorces which were on the uncontested list.

Marion Scoville Basil, of New London, was awarded a decree of divorce from Christopher Basil, on the grounds of desertion, alleged since Nov. 23, 1920. They were married Oct. 27, 1915. The petitioner was granted a change of name to Marion Scoville. Attorney George Curtis Morgan represented the petitioner.

Rose Beckwith Dunmire was given a decree of divorce from Arthur E. Dunmire, both of New London, on the grounds of habitual intemperance. They were married in June, 1919, and the plaintiff was given the custody of three minor children, one of which is an adopted child. The defendant is at present serving a sentence in the New London jail as a result of a fatal automobile accident in which it was alleged Dunmire had been operating his automobile while under the influence of liquor. Attorney John McGarry appeared for Mrs. Dunmire.

Beatrice E. Peterson of this city, was given a divorce from Attorney Harry L. Peterson, also of Norwich, on the grounds of desertion, alleged since March 25, 1923. They were married June 10, 1922. The plaintiff was allowed to change her name to Beatrice E. Eastwood. Attorney Arthur M. Brown was counsel for the plaintiff.

On the grounds of desertion, alleged since May 11, 1923, Bertha A. Saunders of this city, was granted a divorce from Frank K. Saunders, an osteopathic physician. They were married Aug. 15, 1917 and the petitioner was given the custody of four minor children. The defendant's address was given as the Bahama Islands. Attorney John H. Barnes appeared for Mrs. Saunders.

Henry A. Ogwald of South Norwalk and Annapolis, was given a divorce from Florence Johnson Oswald on the grounds of desertion. They were married in 1919 and the defendant is alleged to have deserted the plaintiff on May 23, 1922. Attorney George Curtis Morgan was counsel for the petitioner.

STUNTS MAKE PROGRAMME AT RALLY SOCIAL

A most successful rally social, with an attendance between 350 and 400, was held Friday evening by the Central Baptist Church school. After selections by Swahn's orchestra and words of welcome from Superintendent Emory B. Davis, the following programme was carried out to the great entertainment of the audience: Orchestra; stunt, "The Vanishing Ghost", Sunshine club; stunt, "Indian Dance", Reginald Laubin; violin solo, Dorothy Stewart; stunt, Pantomime Movie, Mrs. Kromer's class; stunt, Look For the Silver Lining, Ledlie Pitt; song by the audience; stunt, "As Others See Us", "Miss Ellis' class; stunt, Tumbling Act, Pioneer club; orchestra; stunt, "A Bachelor's Dream", G. The committee in charge included: Harold S. Burt, Miss Edith Ellis, Miss Chrystal Whitney and Mrs. Harry Kromer.

Encouraged By Friends' Messages

Friends of Charles J. Dyer of 39 Sachem street will be gratified to learn that he has been resting comfortably for the past few days. He has been greatly cheered and encouraged by letters and telegrams which he has received during his severe illness.

Made Gifts to Hospital Patient.

Employes at the Dollar Store surprised Mrs. Thomas Carberry at the Backus hospital where she is a patient, presenting her a "sunshine basket" containing layette gifts for her infant son. There were also gifts of candy for Mrs. Carberry.

UNION

Beginning Sunday Oct. 3, the morning services will open at 10:30, instead of 10 o'clock as during the past summer.

At Southbridge, Mass., Monday morning, Sept. 27, Rev. Henry A. Coolidge assisted in the wedding ceremony of Miss Abbie Howlett and James Roberts. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Howlett of Holland, Mass. The groom has also lived in Holland, and they will make their home in that town.

Mrs. Minnie Horton and her son, George Horton, of Worcester were guests Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Raiza Horton, also of Mr. and Mrs. George Thayer.

Week end guests of Rev. and Mrs. H. A. Coolidge at the parsonage were the following friends from a former parish, Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Decker of Westfield, Mass., and Mr. and Mrs. George Aldrich of West Granville, Mass.

Miss Annie Sedlak who has been a student nurse in St. Agnes' hospital, Hartford, and Miss Anna Sedlak of New Jersey are at their home here, this week.

Last Sunday afternoon a young cat, that had evidently been killed by an automobile, was picked up on the state road between Union Center and Mashapaug. The carcas was still warm.

Near the Kostur house, late Sunday afternoon, a car containing five men and going at great speed smashed into the railing, knocking out five or six posts, then overturned down the bank. It was evident that some of the men were intoxicated. Some of them were painfully hurt. The state police were called and arrests were made.

Rev. H. A. Coolidge was in Pittsfield, Mass., Tuesday on a business trip.

Judge and Mrs. Chester W. Barrows, Mr. Arthur C. Barrows and Miss Lois Barrows of Providence were guests of relatives here, last Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Holcomb R. Howard, Major John Buckley and Mrs. E. C. Barrows attended the republican probate convention at Stafford Springs Saturday afternoon, Sept. 25, as delegates. Judge M. D. O'Connell was unanimously renominated.

The supper, entertainment and social held by the L. B. A. at the town hall Thursday evening, Sept. 23 proved a very pleasant combination. One-hundred ten people enjoyed the supper and a few others came later for the entertainment and social. The president of the L. B. A., Mrs. H. A. Coolidge, took charge of the Nathan Hale program, which was carried out by the schools of the town. This was a very interesting and instructive program, coming, as it did, immediately following the celebration at South Coventry.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

THREE GAMES HOLD INTEREST OF FANS IN EASTERN CONN. OVER WEEK END

Competing with the world's series games at New York for local interest over the week end will be a number of baseball games in which fans can expect plenty of action. Three games which stand out prominently as baseball attractions are on the slate for today and tomorrow are the final game of the series between Riverview and the J. B. Martin team for today, the Moosup-Faber's All-Star game at Moosup, Sunday, and the deciding game of the Taftville A. A. and Riverview series at the State Hospital on Sunday afternoon.

At all of these games the management has made arrangements to receive the play by play returns of the world's series game at New York by radio. The radio returns will start at 1:30 p. m. while the game will begin later in the afternoon.

Moosup-All-Stars Game.

When Joe Faber, leading short-stop of the New York-Pennsylvania league, leads his All-Star aggregation against the Moosup team fans who attend the game will see some of the best ball tossers that have appeared on the diamonds of Eastern Connecticut this season. There is more or less rivalry between Faber and Henry Loughran and the game is bound to be one for blood.

Loughran has taken no chances and has secured the best available pitching talent and will have Chet Nichols, Fenney and Spiller for the mound work, while Faber will use Johnny Tillman, one of the leading pitchers of the New York-Pennsylvania league. Tillman has pitched twice this year on local diamonds and has won both his contests. Nichols is no stranger to fans of Eastern Connecticut who have followed his career in the Eastern league and also under the big tent.

Joe Faber himself is no mean attraction and is one of the most popular ball players that ever went up to the minors from this locality. It is rumored that Joe will land in the majors next year and it is known that the Brooklyn Dodgers are negotiating for him now and if he is not sold outright he will be taken in the draft. Playing with Faber is Wojack a former leaguer who it will be remembered made a trip tour of Europe with the Chicago White Sox. The lineups:

All-Stars—Krauss lf, Coulliard 1b, Liberty rf, Faber ss, Wojack 3b, Burns 2b, Jacois cf, Corranzo c, Tillman p.

J. B. Martin-Riverview Game.

Those of the local fans who have followed the destinies of the Riverview club and the J. B. Martin series will witness the crucial game of the series today at the State Hospital diamond. The Velvetmen and Riverview have always been the most bitter of rivals and the rivalry between them is at fever pitch. Today's game means much to both clubs, especially the Riverview club which is in line for state championship honors. Nothing would please the Velvetmen more than to stop the game and mar Riverview's chances. In an effort to do this Manager Faibeck will use Lanning against the Riverview club with Bill Liberty on the receiving end. The remainder of the lineup will be: E. Murphy 1b, F. Murphy 2b, Krauss ss, Donald Smith lf, Lemieux cf, Pepin, Joubert and Murphy utility.

Manager Zemke is taking no chances on this game either and has secured the services of Parks, a pitcher in the New York-Pennsylvania league who starred part of the season with the New York Yankees, world's series champions. Once the opposing clubs did not share in the apportionment of players for whom prices ranging from $2,500 to $1,000 will be paid.

The drafted group is conspicuous in numbering men of previous major experience, including "Hick" Bridges, former pitching mainstay of Babe Ruth, Bernie Neis, former Brooklyn and Boston outfielder; Mike Cvengros, ex-White Sox southpaw; Ike Boone, former Red Sox outfielder; Joe J. Cronin, Robertson, Right-handed pitcher who leaped to "No-hit" fame while with the White Sox.

The complete list of drafted players together with their positions and clubs obtained from follows:

National League

Philadelphia—Herbert Pruett, pitcher, from Oakland, Calif.

Boston—Charles Robertson pitcher, Milwaukee.

Brooklyn—Oscar Roettger pitcher, St. Paul.

New York—E. J. Jeanes, outfielder, Birmingham, Ala.

Chicago—Wilson, pitcher Minneapolis; Bellheart, pitcher, Memphis; Grampp, pitcher, New Orleans.

Pittsburgh—Mike Cvengros pitcher, New Orleans.

Cincinnati—Peter Jablonowski, pitcher, Waterbury, Conn.

Harry Schwab, Seattle; Wilp pitcher, Salt Lake City.

American League

Boston—Rollings, Mobile; Welson, pitcher, Columbia, S. C.; Grover Hartley, catcher, Indianapolis.

YALE OPENS GRID SEASON AGAINST BOSTON UNIV. TODAY

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 1.—(AP)—The return of football was ushered in tonight at Yale by a monster rally which followed a torchlight procession, headed by the Yale band. More than 2,000 students were crowded in the hall when Captain Paul Bomeisler of the Eli varsity, arose to address the men. He called for support for the team in tomorrow's game with Boston university.

The Yale team completed its practice for the first game today by holding a light drill in the bowl, the first time the big saucer has been used this year.

CONDITION OF INJURED PLAYER REMAINS SAME

AMHERST, Mass., Oct. 1.—(AP)—The condition of Alfred B. Pimm, Jr., of West Hartford, Conn., whose spine was fractured in practice with the Amherst college football squad on Wednesday, was still critical tonight with no change from a state of partial paralysis all day.

A blow on the head in the final scrimmage of Wednesday it was found later, had fractured the first vertebra. At operation was performed that night but its outcome was termed "still conjecture." Pimm was a second string half back on the squad.

HORNSBY WAS BOUGHT FOR $750 IN 1915

SHERMAN, Texas, Oct. 1.—(AP)—Back in 1915 $750 was considered a fair price for Rogers Hornsby.

That was the sum paid by the management of the St. Louis Nationals for the man who will lead the Cardinals into a World's Series fray tomorrow.

Hornsby was purchased from the Denison club of the Texas-Oklahoma league toward the end of the 1915 season. Bob Connery, president of the St. Paul American Association club, then a Cardinal scout, was responsible for the deal.

H. M. Finley, county attorney here and former secretary of the Denison team, who is credited with having discovered Hornsby, told of the transaction today.

Hornsby started playing baseball at 17 with the Dallas club of the Texas league but was released after spring training in 1914. Finley said. He went to the Hugo, Okla., club but that team disbanded in July, 1914, and Finley took him to Denison and with him won the Texas-Oklahoma pennant in 1915.

"Manager Peebles of the Denison club and I," Finley said, "realized that Hornsby's best opportunity to break into the major leagues as a regular was with the Cardinals, then without a shortstop. Thus we sacrificed a probable larger price for some other club so the boy might have his chance."

After Hornsby and his first wife were divorced, Finley married Mrs. Hornsby early this summer. Rogers Hornsby, Jr., now five years old, lives with his mother at the Finley home in Denison, ten miles north of Sherman.

Finley is teaching the youngster to handle balls and hopes to have him follow in his father's footsteps.

WHITE SOX EVEN UP SERIES WITH THE CUBS

CHICAGO, Oct. 1.—(AP)—The White Sox evened the city series with their Cub rivals today by pounding three Bruin pitchers hard for a 10 to 5 victory.

Four home runs punctuated the attack, each club hitting two. The Cubs had a man on base each time while the White Sox connected for one without a man on base and again with two on. Bib Falk led the attack for the sox with three hits, including a homer and a triple. His triple off Kaufmann, Cub pitcher, won the ball.

TWO EASTERN LEAGUE PLAYERS ARE DRAFTED

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—(AP)—Major league clubs tonight drafted 25 minor league stars for 1927 at the close of the annual selection meeting conducted by Baseball Commissioner Landis.

The Boston Red Sox, Chicago Cubs, Cincinnati Reds and Washington Senators led the list, each obtaining three men. The St. Louis Cardinals and the New York Yankees, world's series contenders, were the only clubs which did not share in the apportionment of players for whom prices ranging from $2,500 to $1,000 will be paid.

The drafted group is conspicuous in numbering men of previous major experience, including "Hick" Bridges, former pitching mainstay of Babe Ruth, Bernie Neis, former Brooklyn and Boston outfielder; Mike Cvengros, ex-White Sox southpaw; Ike Boone, former Red Sox outfielder; Joe J. WORLD'S SERIES RETURNS AT BULLETIN CO. OFFICE

As has been customary for many years the play by play returns of the World's Series games at New York and St. Louis will be announced at the Bulletin office by megaphone. The Associated Press service direct from the Yankee Stadium and the National league park at St. Louis will be more complete this year than ever before.

The games are scheduled to start at 1:30 p. m. daily and the play by play account will cover every ball pitched and every playing incident and will be supplemented by a description of the high spots during the game.

TWO MOTHERS TO BATTLE FOR NATIONAL GOLF TITLE

HAVERFORD, Pa., Oct. 1.—(AP)—Two mothers won their way to the final round of the national women's golf championship at Merion today for the second time in the 32 years history of the event.

The victories were Mrs. G. Henry Stetson of Philadelphia, who went 19 holes in a sensational finish to defeat 20 year old Virginia Wilson of Chicago, conqueror of Glenna Collett yesterday, and Mrs. Wright D. Goss, Jr., of Short Hills, N. J., who triumphed over the champion of her home state, Mrs. Courtland Smith, 3 and 2.

In the only other final round struggle between matrons, 11 years ago at the Onwentsia club of Lake Forest, Ill., Mrs. C. H. Vanderbeck of Philadelphia defeated Mrs. W. A. Gavin of Elgin, 3 and 2. Four previous championships have been won by married women, the titleholders having been Mrs. C. S. Brown of New York in 1905, Mrs. H. Arnold Jackson of New York in 1914, Mrs. Vanderbeck and Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd of Philadelphia in 1924.

The interest of the gallery today was in the youthful conqueror of Miss Collett and under its penetrating focus the lanky Virginia of yesterday became the serious candidate for a vacant throne.

BOXES FOR ARMY-NAVY GAME BRING HIGH PRICES

CHICAGO, Oct. 1.—(AP)—Hundreds of Chicagoans demonstrated their enthusiasm over football a day early today by bidding up box seat prices for the Army-Navy game, November 27, to $2,500 in a three hour auction session in a downtown hotel which added more than $275,000 to the city's fund for financing the great service classic.

G. Frank Crossant, a real estate operator, got the first box, immediately behind the president's section on the army side of the field for $2,500 and two hours later read new dispatches from Washington advising that the chief executive could not attend the game because of the prospective pressure of official business.

The first box on the navy side went to Roy Tennes, another real estate operator, for $2,300. The second enclosure on the West Point reservation was sold to F. F. Arnold, a Chicago meat packer for $1,250, and the remainder of the 500 choice seats sold down in sharp breaks to about $200. A large number sold between $400 and $500.

The first seat sold on the Middies side was that immediately behind the space reserved for secretary of the Navy Wilbur and Vice-President Dawes.

Virtually the entire bloc of boxes went to Chicagoans.

AGGIES OPEN SEASON AT WESLEYAN TODAY

(Special to the Bulletin)

STORRS, Oct. 1—A long sesion of signal practice was held in the camp of the Connecticut Aggies here this afternoon in the final workout before the opening game of the season with Wesleyan at Middletown tomorrow. Coach Sumner Dole would make no predictions on the outcome of the game, enough he did say Connecticut expected a hard battle from the Red and Black.

Two full teams will make the trip to Middletown tomorrow, which will enable Dole to substitute more freely than a year ago, when his entire squad at times was not large enough to round off two elevens. The team that will start against Wesleyan is Kennedy and Schaldgren, ends; Longo and Sayers, tackles; Zollin and Lorentzen, guards, Captain Daly, center; Schofield, quarterback; Eddy and Noonan, halfbacks; Williams, fullback. Men in this group who played against Wesleyan last year include Captain Daly, Longo, Lorentzen, Zollin, Schofield and Eddy.

BOTH MANAGERS EXPECT A HARD FOUGHT SERIES

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—(AP)—Rival managers of the world's series contenders Miller Huggins of the Yankees and Rogers Hornsby of the Cardinals, paved tonight in predicting a hard-fought battle for the championship.

Hornsby said:

"I am very optimistic. We have a well balanced club, more so, in my opinion, than the Yankees. Without taking anything away from the strength of our opposition, I felt we have an edge when all departments of play are taken into consideration. We're going in there to fight every step of the way. We'll need to be because the Yankees are powerful and I expect a close battle."

Huggins's statement:

"My team is in good shape. I'm not picking the winner but if the Yankees play as they did in piling up their big lead last spring, I won't have any complaints. If it doesn't, why that's another story. I look for a hard-fought series."

AMATEURS NOT ALLOWED IN "OPEN" TOURNAMENTS

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—(AP)—The United States Lawn Tennis association, amateur governing body, will not sanction the participation of amateur players in an "open championship" such as that planned by C. C. Pyle as a side-line for the transcontinental tour of his group of professional stars headed by Suzanne Lenglen.

This statement came today from Joseph W. Mersereaux, president of the U. S. L. T. A., after Pyle had coupled the announcement of his open tournament plans last night with the addition of Vincent Richards, third ranking American star, to the professional cast.

"Under the present attitude of the association," Mr. Mersereaux said, "a contestant in any tournament open to professionals would immediately forfeit his amateur status."

Nutmegs to Finish Practice Saturday

The Nutmeg A. A. will hold its last practice session Saturday at 2 o'clock on Sachem field in preparation for its contest Sunday with the fast Jewett City team. The following players are expected to report at the grounds: Murphy, Brush, Grover, Hummex, Kramer, Pallocha, Boldreghue, Ludlow, Fidell, Lupinacci, McGraths, and Steinmans.

Ouimet Beats Hagen

WAYLAND, Mass., Oct. 1—(AP)—Francis Ouimet, playing phenomenal golf which equalled the Sandy Burr course record, today defeated Walter Hagen 7 and 5 in the final eighteen of a 36-hole match. Ouimet had 32-37—69, as against Hagen's 40-36—76

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—(AP)—The New York Yankees and St. Louis Cardinals, victors in two of the most desperately fought campaigns in major league history, come to grips tomorrow in the opening conflict of their battle for baseball's world's championship.

Seldom have two more brilliant or closely-matched contenders faced each other in the season's climax and few, if any, have had a setting as spectacular as that in prospect for this struggle of intersectional rivals.

With fair weather promised, the Yankee stadium, baseball's greatest amphitheater, is expected to hold a record-shattering crowd of close to 65,000 fans for the first act of the 1926 diamond drama. All reserved seat tickets for the opening game as well as for the second contest on Sunday, were sold out two days ago and an unprecedented rush is anticipated early tomorrow morning for the gates leading to the unreserved sections of the stand that accommodate some 38,000 spectators.

With the pre-battle spirit aroused by an unusual influx of fans from all parts of the country, ticket speculators reaped a rich harvest with the supplies they were able to obtain. Prices were quoted as high as $25 for single opening game seats and from $50 to $100 for three-game strips covering the first, second and sixth contests scheduled here.

The Yankees, starting the series on familiar grounds and before a home-town crowd are slight favorites, with odds of 6 to 5 figuring in most of the wagers reported tonight, but among critical observers the outcome is regarded as a toss-up close to $1,000,000. It was estimated, already has been wagered on the series with neither contender lacking for support.

The two southpaw stars of the rival contenders, Herb Pennock of the Yankees and Willie Sherdel of the Cardinals, are slated for the opening game's test of pitching skill. Miller Huggins, diminutive bench pilot of the Yankees, made known his choice definitely after a final workout at the stadium today. Rogers Hornsby, brilliant young playing manager of the National leaguers, did not commit himself finally but virtually conceded that Sherdel would draw the initial assignment.

Both teams have come to the decive barrier after campaigns that found them alternately mediocre and brilliantly but always possessing the winning punch at critical moments both boast fine twirling corps and attacks that have frequently reached terrific proportions, stimulated on the one hand by Babe Ruth's mighty mauling and on the other by a clouting cast headed by Hornsby and Jim Bottomley. Defensively the Cardinals have displayed more consistency but, to offset this the Yankees have the benefit of greater experience in the fire of world's series conflict.

Behind the bat, the National leaguers have an advantage, however, that may prove a vital factor. Their burden is placed upon the shoulders of one man, Bob O'Farrell, but his work throughout the pennant campaign stamped him a star of such magnitude that his manager singled him out as the team's most valuable performer.

The Yankees are handicapped by the loss of their leading backstop, Benny Bengough, who suffered a broken arm in one of the season's closing games. His absence has put the chief burden upon Hank Severeid, veteran of many years, who will take the opening game assignment and share the rest of the catching responsibility with Pat Collins.

Hornsby and Huggins both have a capable corps of hurlers to back up the expected opening sharpshooting of their southpaw stars. Provided Sherdel and Pennock go the route in the first game, the next engagement is expected to find Urban Shocker, spitball ace of the Yankees, opposed to the veteran Grover Cleveland Alexander in a tussle of right-handers.

Dutch Ruether, veteran portsider, and Waite Hoyt, crack right-hander, are the Yankees' other chief pitching assets while Jesse Haines and Flint Rhem, both right-handers, are relied on by the Cardinals for front-line duty.

In Hornsby and Ruth, dynamic and outstanding personalities of the rival teams, the series will bring together two of the greatest performers the game has ever known. Ruth has had one of his best all-round years and if he is able to strike his stride, Yankee chances will be boosted accordingly.

Back in old American association, from 1885 to 1888, St. Louis captured four straight pennants under the leadership of Charley Comiskey, now president of the Chicago White Sox. It is a coincidence that tomorrow's battle renews a 38-year-old rivalry, for in 1888, the St. Louis American association club battled the New York Metropolitias. National league pennant winners who captured six out of ten games played in that ancient series.

Tomorrow's opening game starts at 1:30 p. m. Eastern standard time, while the second contest on Sunday is scheduled for 2 o'clock. Postponement of either will compel the teams to remain here to complete two games before starting west to resume the battle at St. Louis where the schedule now calls for three games on Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday. The sixth and seventh games if necessary, are slated for New York next Saturday and Sunday.

Nutmegs vs. Speedboys

The Nutmegs of this city and the Jewett City Speedboys are scheduled to battle it out at Sachem Field on Sunday afternoon in what should be an interesting contest from beginning to end. Both teams are reported as having put in considerable practice for the game and should be in tip-top condition by Sunday.

The game is slated to start at 2:30 p. m. sharp and a large crowd is expected.

Challenge

The "Aces" of New London, one of the fastest junior elevens of that city last year is to form again this season under the same banner.

The team has an all-star lineup including several high school stars, and should give any team, around their weight, a good game.

The management has several Sunday dates open and would like to hear from teams in or around Norwich. Average weight is 138 lbs.

Address all communications to Dick Lynch, 33 Williams St., New London.

SPRINGFIELD BOY PITCHES 21 SCORELESS INNINGS

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 1.—(AP)—William Tracey, of the Springfield, Mass., team pitched 21 innings in the national amateur and industrial baseball tournament today without allowing a run. His performance gave the Springfield team a double victory and sent it into the semi-finals of the Industrial Division.

Tracey turned back Cleveland 1 to 0 in 12 innigs and then after only a brief rest held Scranton scoreless over the regular nine inning route. Springfield defeated the Miners 6-0. Only six hits were gathered off Tracey in the 21 innings two by Cleveland and four by Scranton.

Other teams that entered the semi-finals were Indianapolis and Detroit, in the Industrial Division, and Cincinnati, Scranton, Detroit and Philadelphia in the Amateur Division.

TIGER FLOWERS HAS THREE BOUTS IN PROSPECT

NEW YORK, Oct. 1—(AP)—Tiger Flowers, world's middleweight champion, has three bouts in prospect, his manager, Walter Miller, announced tonight, with the title to be at stake in two of them.

The Georgia negro has signed today for a bout with Maxey Rosenbloom of New York at catchweights in Boston, October 12. Negotiations also are expected to be closed shortly for him to meet the welterweight champion, Pete Latzo, in a 12 round no-decision match at Newark, N. J., Oct. 21, under the auspices of the National Sportsman's club. Flowers' title would be at stake in this bout but he could lose it only by a foul or by a knockout.

The third match, also pending, is for a title contest between Flowers and K. O. Phil Kaplan of New York at Madison Square Garden, November 19.

Westerly Beats Central Falls

Westerly high school football eleven won its second game of the season on the Westerly Athletic field on Friday afternoon by defeating the eleven of Central Falls, R. I. high school by the score of 20 to 0.

Because of marked increase in its membership in the central and western part of the United States, the American Association for Recognition of the Irish Republic announced that its national headquarters would be moved from this city to Chicago.

IN NORWICH FIFTY YEARS AGO

Fifty years ago this week the republicans of the town of Norwich nominated Charles J. Winters, S. W. Case and Charles W. Hopkins for the office of selectmen. On the democratic side the candidates for selectmen were A. P. Willoughby, Henry Williams and P. J. O'Connor. Interesting extracts taken from the files of The Bulletin of September, 1876, are as follows:

Monday, Sept. 25, 1876—Benjamin F. Fisher, a painter by trade, committed suicide at his home in Preston, opposite Greeneville. He was very jealous of his wife and addicted to liquor. Justice Bates held an inquest Saturday morning and returned a verdict in accordance with the facts. Fisher was a good painter and formerly did fine work at the Potter Press works. His funeral took place Saturday.

The trustees of the Otis library have granted the librarian a week's absence from her duties in order to attend the centennial. This brief vacation has been well earned by the librarian who has been at her post without intermission through the long torrid summer.

The Rev. Joseph Cook delivered a very able essay on the atonement in the Broadway church yesterday morning. He also delivered a very interesting lecture upon Ultimate America to a large congregation at the same church last evening.

Tuesday, Sept. 26, 1876—At the annual meeting of the board of education of the central district last evening Rev. O. S. Seymour was elected chairman; Mr. Costello Lippitt, secretary; Messers Horace Whitaker, E. H. Learned and J. M. Thayer, committee on buildings and supplies; Messers Seymour, Cassidy and Davies committee on visiting and examining; and Messers B. P. Learned, Dillaby and Lippitt committee on finance and auditing.

The city company, Boys in Blue, will meet this evening in Ropley's hall to fill vacancies caused by the promotion of the captain and first lieutenant. All members who have not received their uniforms will find them at headquarters.

The Baptists of Greeneville, gave one of their best Sunday school concerts (which is saying a good deal) Sunday evening last. The subject was The Footprints of Jesus.

The funeral of Mrs. Charles H. Beebe took place at Christ church yesterday.

Wednesday, Sept. 27, 1876—The few who braved yesterday's rain to hear Mr. Kies' organ recital were amply repaid for their venture. The music was most happily selected. It was all bright and attractive and was productive of genuine pleasure.

The attendance at the meeting of the Auxiliary Prisoners' Friend society, last night, was small, but evident interest was manifested. Interesting remarks were made by Rev. A. H. Mead, the Hon. Benjamin H. Stark and Mr. J. E. Goddard. At the conclusion, all who subscribed in aid of the society, were presented with a miniature pocket knife made by two exprisoners of Wethersfield.

Constitutional amendments—The following amendments are to be voted on in this state the first Monday in October:

No. 1—New towns of less than 2,500 inhabitants to be attached to parent town for representation in the house of representatives.

No. 2—Providing for canvassing votes for state officers in November.

No. 3—Common pleas judges to be appointed for four years and city judges for two years.

No. 5—Compensation of members of general assembly limited to $300 and mileage.

No. 6—Erasing the word "white" from electoral qualifications.

Thursday, Sept. 28, 1876—Mr. Stevens of Boston was here yesterday and introduced a new electrical method of lighting gas at the city hall. It seems a desirable process to be used in illuminating the city hall clock.

Mr. Avery Hoxie, of the firm of Hoxie & Davis of Westerly, on his way home from Norwich fair Friday night, attempted to drive by a team, about two miles from New London, and drove off into a culver, turning both carriage and horse over and throwing the occupants out, dislocating Hoxie's shoulder and badly bruising his right thigh and back.

The trouble with the fire alarm appears to have been that the gong at police headquarters was wound up too tight. The alarm was given all right last night.

Friday, Sept. 29, 1876—The democratic caucus to nominate town officers was largely attended last evening. The Hon. William H. Shields was chosen chairman and Mr. Daniel Lee secretary. The following ticket was nominated; Assessors, O. P. Watties; John M. Brewer, J. W. Hooker.

Board of Relief, J. S. Ely, F. W. Corey, Albertus Peckham.

Selectmen, A. P. Willoughby, Henry Williams, P. J. O'Connor.

Town, treasurer and treasurer town deposit fund, Othniel Gager.

Town registrar, James Duggan.

First constable and collector, Patrick T. Creen.

Registrars of voters, 1st dist., Elias Cottrell; 2nd dist., Thomas Brock; 3rd dist., James Conklin; 4th dist., Edmund W. Dean; 5th dist., Edward Hunter.

A large and eloquent party gathered in Park church Wednesday, to attend the marriage of Mr. Edward Keney, of West Hartford and Miss Mary Emmons, daughter of Mr. A. H. Emmons, the well known artist of this city. The ceremony was impressively performed by the Rev. Mr. Dana, pastor of the church. The ushers were Mr. Edward and I. Brand. Mr. and Mrs. Keney left for a short tour accompanied by the best wishes of numerous friends.

Saturday, Sept. 30, 1876—A very large republican caucus to nominate town officers was held in the city hall last evening. The following were nominated by passing around the chair:

Assessors, O. P. Watties, John M. Brewster, J. W. Hooker.

Board of relief, J. S. Ely, F. W. Carey, Albertus Peckham.

Selectmen, Charles J. Winters, S. W. Case, Charles W. Hopkins.

Town clerk, treasurer and treasurer of town deposit fund, Othniel Gager.

Town registrar, David Young.

Registrars, 1st dist., J. B. Rogers; 2d dist., W. W. Bishop; 3rd dist., A. C Green; 4th dist., W. R. Austin; 5th dist., W. C. Tucker.

An evening session of the city court was held last night. Judge Shields presiding. Full papers were admitted to the following persons who were admitted by the court to citizenship:

John Ryan, born in Ireland, age 25.

Timothy Terry, born in Ireland, age 28.

James Dee, Patrick Twomey, and Timothy Coughlin declared their intentions to become citizens and received their first papers.

There will be a flag raising at Taftville, tonight and Mr. John C. Kellogg will speak. The First Continentals of Greeneville will meet at their hall at 6 o'clock and march to Taftville to assist in the ceremony.

SOCIAL CORNER POETRY

Flight

The song birds? are they flown away?
The song birds of the summer time.
That sank their souls into the day,
And set the laughing days to rhyme?
No catbird scatters through the bush
The sparkling crystals of its song:
Within the woods no hermit thrush
Trails an enchanted flute along
A sweet assertion of the hush.

All day the crows fly cawing past,
The acorns drop; the forests scowl;
At night I hear the bitter blast
Hoot with the hooting of the owl.
The wild creeks freeze; the ways are strewn.
With leaves that rot; beneath the trees
The bird, that set its toil to tune,
And made a home for melody,
Lies dead beneath the death white moon.

The Old Kitchen Clock

It used to tick away the year upon the parlor shelf,
When we first went to keeping house, Belinda and myself,
An' there for more than twenty year, it seemed to be content,
To serve the hours in proper time, an' be an ornament.
And you'er thought 'twas almost made to regulate the sun.

So stiddy, 'round and 'round each day, the wheels an pinters run.
But when the girls growed up, they had some strange ideas.
They didn't consult us much 'mout things, nor drop an "if you please,"
But went a hustling things around an changin' every room
And nothin' had the same old place, 'less 'twas the kitchen broom.
I didn't mind much the goin's on, but shan't forget the shock
It give me, when they ousted out the good ol' faithful clock.

An' then a little bronze concern was got to fill its place
With dragons crawlin' up its sides and just above its face
A gal the kind "Tropicope" is set-tin' in a chair
And plastic on a harp, altho' I never heard the air.
An' when it strikes the half hours, you'd think a fairy sighed
Or that a little mouse had gin a faint squeak 'fore he died
Then it sort o' stirs my conscience when the old clock strikes the time,
With a kind of singin' music in its dear, old honest chim.
It seems to be a sayin'in its solemn sort o' way,
It's just the way of all the world "We flourish for a day."
An' once I went right out thar, an' says I "Old clock, see here, You're wuth a dozen fancy clocks with complicated gear."
Though taken as an ornament (as things go nowadays)
Mebbe that tother one deserves a passin' word of praise.
But when it gits a balky turn, determined not to go,
I think it's bout like folks I seen, a sort o' hollow show;
An' strikes me when a clock, or friend, is faithful out and out,
'Taint best to change for suthin' that you don't know nothin' 'bout.

GREETINGS FROM WHIRLWIND

Dear Editor and Cornerites: It has been quite some time since I contributed anything to our page. Don't you think it high time I started to get busy? Well, here goes.

First, haven't we had some wonderful picnics and wonderful times at said picnics. Foxglove and I have attended the ones held at Allyns Point, Atlantic beach and Auntie No. 1, and we expect to go to Too Late's.

I do not believe I have ever attended such a picnic as was held at Auntie No. 1, and I have attended a great many picnics in my short career. There must have been 150 present if there was one, and every one was bountifully supplied with good things to eat.

I was very pleasantly surprised to meet Balsam Fir. Had begun to think I never would have that pleasure.

Foxglove and I expect to attend the meeting at the Buckingham the 6th. I believe it is Grand Army day, also the one in Willimantic the 13th, where we hope to meet the younger and newer as well as the old standbys.

California Girl: Do not know your address, that's the reason you did not get your birthday card.

White Clover: Has some one stolen you? Do not see any thing from your pen. You are as bad as myself.

Joan: Glad to see you at the picnics. Don't you like to go to them and meet so many nice people? I do.

Catnip: Also glad you are able to get about and attend the gatherings. What fun we do have and how we can talk, what?

Balsam Fir: What a pleasure to meet you. Wish I could have had a longer chat with you but I lost you in the crowd. I knew you were in Connecticut but did not think I would ever get the chance to meet you. Hope to see you again.

Milky Way: Didn't we have a dandy time at Auntie No. 1's picnics? I looked for you but you had gone. Don't forget you promised to make me a visit in the near future.

Dom Pedro: More than pleased to know you are able to get out in the sun shine. Foxglove and I did not have to go to New London this summer.

E. M. R. C. P.: Don't forget you owe me a letter or two. Have been looking for so long a time for a letter that my eyes were tired. Will have to get new glasses if its does not arrive soon. Trust you and yours are well. Just hope the terrible hurricane and flood did not reach you. Isn't it terrible! I guess New England is good enough for yours truly.

WHIRLWIND, (Oct. 17.)

VACATION TRIP AND BEDQUILTS

Dear Social Corner Friends: I am a slacker, but I'll never be capable of writing a real interesting letter, so I leave the space for better writers.

I had a vacation of a week this summer in East Providence, went to Roger Williams park one evening to hear a band concert, but it rained a little in the afternoon and the musicians must have taken a scare and the concert didn't come off.

But we had a nice long car ride. Later on I had an auto ride to Narragansett Pier and stayed over night and came home Labor day. The hydrangea's on the lawns at the pier were beautiful.

We drove to Point Judith before coming home and the view of the water was grand. I have another visit of a few days planned and then will settle down for the winter, with my nice visits to think over.

I have been making bedquilts this summer, have tied three and have another one ready to put on the frames.

I have also quilted one, but won't quilt any more.

I don't see how our great-grandmothers made the tiny stitches they did, for I can't do it.

We have a quilt in the family over 10 years old and the quilting is simply wonderful.

Colleen M: Try this way for a one crust apple pie. Put your apple and other things in your pan, just as you would for a two crust pie, then lay a crust over the top and bake. Turn it over on a plate and you have the crust on the bottom. Good with butter spread over the top and eaten warm, or let it get cold, and spread with flavored whipped cream or egg-white.

Cretia: Do you know if all the Currier and Ives prints have a commercial value? I have two of them, View from Fort Putnam and An American Railroad Scene, Snowbound.

Ormandine: Have you broken another pen?

With best wishes from SILENT PARTNER.

LIKES DOGS BUT NOT CATS

Dear Social Corner Members: If not too late I want to tell Aunty No. 1 how glad I was to attend her picnic. We sure had a good time as the recent letters testify.

B Natural: No the beans were not mine. Why weren't you at the missionary conference last week? I did not get down until late but enjoyed hearing the two speakers very much. A fine dinner was served.

Y. Y. had charge of that so "enough said."

I am interested in the soap recipes. I had never thought of making any and I have loads of grease, too. I have always given it to my friends who did not have much and have eaten good doughnuts that were fried in it and cake and ginger bread shortened with it. The week the recipes came out I had just given away 15 pounds so now am going to keep my next and try some soap.

Sumac: Glad you did it. You had me guessing.

Naomi: What a nice trip you must have had.

Dorothy Bradford: You have been flying around, too.

What a lot of friends Pussy has! Personally I don't dare for cats and wouldn't have any if I lived alone. As it is we have five but only one that comes into the kitchen and for all I don't like him he does know enough to crawl up in the chip basket every morning when I begin to wash the floor. I have a friend and whenever we say anything that is at all "scratchy" we say kitty, kitty, and if we are out in a crowd and hear some one else we exchange a look that says, "kitty, kitty."

Now dogs I just love. Any old dog is a dear, so others have a right to like cats as well as I have to like dogs. Dogs are very lovable, aren't they Ruthina?

Savilla: Hope you got home safe from the fair with the blanket. It won't come amiss tonight.

Dorinda: Have you got the license yet? Hope you can drive down to our October meeting and bring a load with you. Here is something I have just read that I will pass on.

If you have a bit of news
Send it in
Or a joke that will amuse
Send it in
A story that is new
Or an incident that is true
Send it in,
Never mind about your style
It is surely worth the while Send it in.

E. L. B.

DOESN'T UNDERSTAND WHY MORE DO NOT WRITE

Dear Social Corner Members: I should think with all the members of the Corner we would have a full page. We sure did have a fine day at Aunty No. 1's picnic and thought sure some of Club No. 2 would have written before this. May be they are like myself. Some can write so much better than I can that I let them do the writing.

I would like to say my little say about cats. I have one that is 12 years old but looks old all right. But I don't want a cat or dog on my bed or in the best chair. I think there is a place for the cats and dogs. I have been to places in my life and been asked to sit down and when I got home have had some job to get the cat's hair off from my clothing. I don't want to see anything of the kind hurt, but don't think they should have the same place in the home, or have pie or cake to eat, or the best of meat. I don't think it right.

Grape Conserve: 4 cups of grapes, stems removed, cook a few minutes and rub through a strainer. To remove the seeds, two oranges, cut them in food chopper; 1 cup of seeded raisins, 3 cups of sugar. Cook the mixture until thick. One cup nut meats, cook five minutes pour in hot sterilized jars and seal.

Hope to see you all soon.

WILD FLOWER.

WHAT DOES FRIENDSHIP MEAN TO YOU?

Dear Corner Friends: Have you ever thought what the word friendship means?

Is your conception of a friend one who gives you a good time, spends money upon you freely and who enjoys the same sort of pleasures and company? Those who are congenial in tastes, those who you meet in social gatherings and those with whom you are most closely associated do you count as your friends?

But there is more to a real friendship than that. A real friend is true under fire and a true friend does not believe tales about you without proof from you.

A real friend gives you an opportunity to vindicate yourself if you are attacked by enemies.

Friends are staunch. Friends "stand by" when others are against you.

A friend cannot go back on you because a person who plays false or is influenced against you never was a friend and does not understand friendship.

Be glad to find out those who are untrue to you, for while it may be a disappointment, you must know it sooner or later and the sooner the better for you.

So if you are going to be a friend at all why not be true at all times.

I hope the Corner sisters will write and tell me what they call friendship.

Lemon Sponge Pie: 2 tablespoons flour, 1 tablespoon butter, 1 cup sugar, 2 egg yolks and whites beaten separate 1 cup milk, rind and juice of one lemon.

Beat flour, butter, sugar, eggs, yolk, and lemon together, add milk and stir well. Fold in the egg whites beaten to a stiff froth. Pour into deep pie plate lined with crust and bake until a knife inserted will come out clean.

This is a wonderful pie.

EGGLESS ORANGE CAKE

Dear Corner Sisters: A short time ago I heard a sermon, the text of which was, "I was going to—but."

Now that sermon certainly hit me, fore and aft, and in the middle. So many things I am always "going to" do and most of them never get done, but at last I am writing my letter to the Corner, and am also sending my recipe for an eggless cake, which "himself" says is all to the good, (with a chocolate frosting.)

If this letter escapes the waste basket, I am "going to" write another one sometime and tell you more ways of saving, for I've not only had to sometimes make two pennies grow where one grew before, but have had to make them do that, little stunt just by saving, which you know is much harder than the earning, a great many times.

It went on a "bat" with Skipper, Lauber day and we certainly had the time of our young lives at a family reunion.

But I must not write any more this time or I will be shown the door before I even get in.

Eggless Orange Cake: 1 cup sugar, 2 tablespoons melted butter and lard, half and half, cream together and add 2 teaspoons cornstarch, stir in and add half-cup sweet milk and half cup orange juice, mixed 1-2 teaspoon soda sifted with 2 cups flour, grate in a very little of the orange peel and after mixing all together thoroughly, stir in 2 level teaspoons baking powder and bake as "card cake" about one half hour.

Best wishes to all.

AUNT LEIZ.

GRAPE NUT BREAD

Dear Social Corner Sisters: I hope Milky Way will pardon me for not sooner complying with request for grape nut bread but with fairs, company and canning I have been very busy and had almost forgotten to do it.

Last week one sister sent in a recipe for pepper hash containing onions and peppers. That we should cook until brittle. As fuel is some item will she please give us some idea how long that that would be?

I have been quite interested of late in reading of the educated cats of our different sisters. I am a lover of cats also (in their place.) There is one here however I would like to pass around among those who are so successful in their training.

I would like to add a word to what has already been said about the picnic at Aunty No. 1's. Through the kindness of Milky Way we were privileged to attend and we certainly had a most delightful time. Everything was lovely and we hope all may be spared to meet with Aunty another year.

I saw Savilla at North Stonington fair, but did not have time to greet her. I also saw quite a large number of other sisters from the different clubs and would have been glad to have spoken with them all.

Interested Reader: We hope to see you when some of the rush is over and we will have another good chat and compare notes.

Grape Nut Bread: 1 cup of grape nuts, 1 cup sugar, 2 cups sour milk with 1 teaspoon soda, 4 teaspoons baking powder, salt, 4 cups of flour.

Put in two small bread pans, let rise 3-4 hour, then bake about same length of time.

DOROTHY BRADFORD.

CLUB NO. 1 MEETS OCTOBER 13

Dear Social Corner Pals: It has been a great pleasure to read the letters from the few faithful writers about your vacations trips, care of pets, flowers, etc., and while all the other members have intended to do their part, we have the bad habit of putting things off until tomorrow. It is with deep regret we learned of Sis Hopkins' illness and trust the members will send her tokens or cards to show appreciation for the generous support she has always given the Corner. We miss her when unable to attend our meetings and extend best wishes for a speedy recovery and that she will meet with us again soon. Sis Hopkins address is Mrs. A. M. Gilman, South Coventry, Conn.

To others ill or in sorrow we extend kind thoughts and sympathy.

Club No. 1, will meet in chamber of commerce room Main street, Willimantic on Wednesday, Oct. 13. Look for yellow bow.

To members of other clubs we extend welcome. Bring dishes and food as usual.

ONE OF THE COMMITTEE.

RIPE CUCUMBER SWEET PICKLE

Dear Editor and Social Corner Friends: I am still looking for the poem entitled Goody Blake and Harry Gill.

Ripe Cucumber Sweet Pickle: 8 pounds cucumbers, 4 pounds brown sugar, 8 sweet peppers, 1 quart vinegar. Cut the cukes in strips three inches long and boil in water until soft, then drain. Put sugar and vinegar. Cut the cukes in strips three When done put in the cukes, then add the chopped peppers. Let all boil a few minutes. Put into jars and seal.

ANN TENNA.

EXTRA GOOD CATSUP

Dear Sisters of the Social Corner: As this is the season for pickling will send a recipe for catsup, that has been used in my family for years and pronounced extra good.

Tomato Catsup: Slice ripe tomatoes and put a layer of salt and let them stand over night. Then scald 20 minutes and sift through a colander. To one gallon of juice add 1 quart of vinegar then boil as thick as molasses. When scalding hot put in cloves, allspice, cinnamon, ginger, mustard and black pepper, one large spoon of each, 1-2 teaspoon cayenne, pint bowl of sugar. Stir well and seal while hot.

Drop Cakes: 1 1-2 cups brown sugar, or white will do, 1-2 cup milk, 1-2 cup lard, 1 egg, 2 cups flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder. Vanilla. This is much easier and quicker than to make cookies.

ORIOLE (Club No. 6).

WIDOWS

Dear Editor and Social Corner Friends: So much has been said in the Corner on every conceivable subject that it has become a hard matter to find something to talk about that has not been discussed. So tonight I shall talk awhile about widows.

Not long ago I was asked why were there so many fine widows in this world. I thought for a moment and then answered by saying that there were only two reasons I could account for it. One was the first husband was so good and kind they were afraid to get a second that he might not measure up to the first. The other reason that the first was so disagreable they were afraid to tackle a second he might be like the first.

I was told there are three kinds of widows: Sod, grass and alfalfa. The explanation was, those of the sod were where the husbands had been called by death, the grass were the ones separated or divorced and the alfalfa were on who had two husbands separated or divorced from both. Immediately put forth my theory that there is only one kind and that the first mentioned the others are merely women separated from their husbands.

A laughable conversation took place this summer with a truly widow. A woman of means, good looks and in every way a fine catch for some good man. I said, I could not understand why she had not married again. Could she have been "stung" in the first and I knew she had had several suitors. She confidently told me that she had seen them eat and not one ate to suit her. Amused! Well I guess! Then she began to enumerate a few. Accidentally she saw one eat with his knife. Another toy with the silver and napkin ring. In one instance when he talking short it across the table and another when he folded the napkin to return to the ring he held it so high as though he was hanging clothes on a line. Holding the fork improperly, and other things that did not meet her approbation. Finally she said he grandmother told her when a child never marry a man until you see him eat.

I have thought of her many times and concluded how lax some parents are about teaching their children how to eat? The proper way to use the spoon in eating soup, how to butter the bread by resting it on the side of the plate, how to break it and not bite from the whole slice and many other things. If all these things were looked into no person would appear awkward when out. This widow realized there would be friction if she married and tried to make her husband over. So she concluded that single blessedness was better for her.

Beg: Glad to have a word to me from you, Sister Ready and others. Have not been able to attend any meetings. Each time had guests. Those kind that "pay as you enter." Wanted to get to the one in Mystic the worst way.

My! Be Natural you must have had "the world and his wife" there. Am anxiously awaiting to hear of the time and place for October as I shall soon be getting away for the winter.

Susanna: Have been looking in Byron for the quotation you gave me but have not found it as yet. Best wishes to all who have spoken to me.

BILLIE.

CORNER MEMBERS HELPED BIRTHDAY

Dear Solal Corner Sisters: It has been a long time since I have written the Corner. I certainly read it every Saturday and like to see our page so full. I suppose the sisters are all busy with their canning.

I want to tell you what a nice birthday I had, all my friends were so good to remember me with cards and presents. I had a lot of nice gifts. Moonlie and I had a pleasant auto ride through the country, which I enjoyed greatly. The Social Corner is rightly named for I have made a lot of friends. It is nice to have friends and I shall always try and be a friend to you all.

I wish to thank all the sisters who so kindly sent me cards on my birthday. I enjoyed them all and such beautiful verses on each one. To Skipper, Moonlie, E. L. M., Riba, Ruthina, Silent Stranger, and Black Eye Susie, I also extend my thanks.

Black Eye Susie: Your gift received and many thanks again.

With best wishes to all.

TATTING.

FILLING FOR LEMON PIE

Dear Social Corner Friends: First I wish to thank Biddy for the words to the old song. Expected to meet her at the reunion the 13th of Sept. I missed her for she has always been there when I was.

Ann Tenna: I see in the rll call the name of Ann Temmer and am wondering if it's for you?

Nema: You ask for filling to lemon pie with two crusts. The grated rind and juice of one lemon, one cup of sugar, one egg, one cup of water, one tablespoon of corn starch, a little piece of butter. Cook until it is thick as you wish. Have never used the minute tapioca for this but have often thought of trying it. I have used the minute tapioca for rhubarb, peach, apple, raisin, cherry, and berry pies. We love pie; am seldom without it. Wishing you good luck.

JOAN.

HEMSTITCHING BY MACHINE

Dear Social Corner Sisters: To hemstitch on your sewing machine without attachments just take number 10 for the bobbin and loosen the top tension on machine. The looser the tension the wider will be hemstitching. Cut your cloth and lay two pieces together and sew. Now take the pieces and lay flat and turn back the cloth and sew. This is nice for sheets and pillowcases. If you want colored hemstitching use colored thread for top.

Morning Prayer

My voice shalt thou hear this morning
For the day is almost unknown
And I am afraid without thine aid
To travel its house alone.
Give me thy light to lead me
Give me thy Hand to guide
Give me thy living Presence
To journey side by side.

Success to the Corner,

I. J. B.

JOINS THE CORNER

Editor Social Corner: As I have attended one of your meetings, would like to become a member of Shore Line Clu, No. 6. Have chosen for my name.

VISIT TO DEVIL'S HOPYARD

Social Corner Friends: Have been wanting to write to our Corner page for a long time but could not get around to it until today. Even though I have not written I have been interested in your letters and have enjoyed reading about your good times. It seems to me Crimson Rambler has not written many letters lately, but I suppost the summer has been a busy time for her as it has for most of us. I have only two in my family but can always find something to do. I have done some canning—both fruit and vegetables, made piccalilli also jam and jelly. Have nearly 100 can, glasses, etc. I always save all the small glass containers that peanut butter, salad dressing, etc. come in and use these for chopper pickle. There's enough in these for three or four meals for a small family and if a large jar was opened the pickle would dry out or spoil before we could eat it. I like those small glasses for jelly too. I have been working on quilts this summer; tied five, and have three more to do later. I have not been away from home many times this summer. I went to Providence once and to call on an aunt who lives near New London another time. Then I had short rides a number of times and two weeks ago I had the best trip of all, when I went to the Devil's hopyard, also to Gardner lake. My son had visited the hopyard before, but did not tell me anything about the beauty of the spot as he wanted it to be a surprise to me. (as it was). I'm afraid I am not clever enough to describe the beauty and grandeur of the scenery. It's something which one can't realize, until seen. The road wends its way through a wilderness. On one side through the trees and brush one can glimpse a stream not very wide but it looks deep, the water almost black. On the other side of the road are tall trees and masses of rock, which seem to reach the sky. At one place for some distance the tree tops meet which makes that part of the road very dark, even at midday, and as one nears the end of that stretch of road it's like going from a dark room into daylight. We saw the most beautiful ferns but very few flowers. The road leads "up and up" and as one nears the top there's the sound of falling water. Then comes the sight, which makes the trip worth taking — Chapman's falls. Well probably all of you have seen some sort of waterfall and I can't do justice to it anyway so shant try to describe Chapman's falls, its beautiful and grand and well, you go there an see it then describe it for me. There were at least 50 cars parked around there and numbers of people viewing the beauties of the spot and hidden among the trees an artist had set up an easel and canvass and was busily at work. How I wished I could steal up behind him and see what he had painted! I have been told that there are hopvines around there but never a hop did we see and neither did we see "his satanic majesty." I picked some golden rod and a short distance from there I could see a small pond with water lilies in bloom. I wished I was able to walk around as others were doing. Think I would have wanted to go right down near the falls as I saw so many other people doing but my days of scrambling over rocks are past. Am thankful I have the chance to ride to places even if I can't walk around much after I get there. I presume there are other places here in Connecticut which are as beautiful and wild as the Devil's hopyard, but I have not seen them.

I love the country and have no desire to live in the city. I like to live where I can look out of my windows and see trees, fields, stone walls and the dear old hills. Now I will stop.

My best wishes to all.

JACK'S WIFE.

THE LATCHSTRING HANGING OUT

Dear Sisters of the Social Corner: We are all familiar with certain expressions and what they really mean, but have not seen or realized their originality.

Numerous are the phrases that relate to ancient customs, long since removed for modern improvement, still carrying out the significance of the idea.

One of the types, which has recently been of special interest to me, I will speak of. Many times during the years of my remembrance, I have heard people say, "Come and make us a visit. You will find the latch string hanging out." This invitation always seemed to be accompanied with a smile, which would indicate the assurance of a hearty welcome. But what had the latch string to do with it? Needless to explain we know the latch, was the convienence for opening and closing the door. I remember when I was a child of hearing a detailed explanation concerning "the latch string hanging out," but I never saw the actual display of it, until a few days ago. In the olden times before the use of locks and keys, on the doors for security against intrusion, there was attached to the inside of the outer doors a home made latch of wood varying in length but, probably 10 or 12 inches. The longer part of it was held in place by a loose fitting screw, fastened to the door itself, while a small portion extended over on to the door casing and this was held in place by a so called "catch," or support. Thus the door was held firm on the inside and could not be opened from outside. There were not door knobs in those days. Here was the necessity of the latch string. A few inches above the latch on the inside was inserted a hole through the door, near the edge. The string. A few inches above the latch of leather, or small cord of rope, about 12 inches long. One end was tied to the latch, while the other end was put through the hole and hung on the outside. By this method a person on the outside door step by giving the latch string a pull lifted the latch and the door was opened readily. We are told that it was the usual custom to have the latch string out during the daytime and neighbors or travelers regarded that as a sign of welcome although they might not have availed themselves of the privilege. At night the latch string was drawn inside to secure the door and safety of the house. Thus we learn that our ancestors, when inviting friends to call assured them of a welcome by declaring they would find "the latch string hanging out."

It was my pleasure and opportunity on Sept. 24th to visit the Thomas Lee house at East Lyme, on the shore road, which was built in 1660. Too numerous to mention were the many old relics. I saw within the four walls, furniture, pictures, dishes, clothing, rugs and a hand loom for weaving carpets, with a breadth in the harness. All so interesting in these modern days, but last and not least, as I came out the back door (and an up-to-date key was used to lock the door) my attention was attracted to a small much worn old piece of rope hanging through a hole, and I recognize at once, the first time in my life, to actually see it, "the latch string hanging out."

CLUB NO. 5 MEETS OCTOBER 6

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: We are to have our Social Corner meeting of Club No. 5 at the Buckingham on Oct. 6. All come who can and please all bring something good to eat. You all know how essential it is that we should all provide for the table for if we do not we shall not have anything to serve.

We all had such a fine time at Aunty Nr. 1. Shall hope to see as many as can come to the meeting. All welcome.

Cady: Hope you will come as long as you are back with us again. We shall be glad to see you.

Much success and best wishes for the Social Corner.

ALTA.

OTHER DAYS AT AUNTY NO. 1'S

Social Corner Sisters: Hello, I have been informed of the grand good time the many Cornerites had at Aunty No. 1's. My mind goes back to many years ago, when my sister Minnie McCollum, Mrs. Botham and myself had the privilege of having just as fine time at Aunty No. 1's. At that time too I remember she lived where there were lovely flowers and arbors. I think with vines and flowers twining over. It certainly was a lovely place. But since then many changes have taken place. Death has come to some and others ill health. Some as now aged. I am so glad I did enjoy the gatherings for many years. But now I am far away and can only live them over in memory.

Mrs. Botham left us suddenly and she was so jolly she will be missed.

I recall the time we left Aunty No. 1 as we were to take the train home. Aunty said we must put the signal up for the trains did not always stop unless signaled. Mrs. Botham thought she could pull the signal. But it did not come down easily and we laughed so much to see her try to find out how to get it fixed so the train would stop. Such a time! Minnie will remember it, too, I am sure. We all had lots of fun over it. Yes such good times in days gone by.

Huldy could not go to Aunty No. 1's as she too was not able and so we can only say we regret we could not have enjoyed being there. Accept the love of both of us Aunty. Best wishes for all the Cornerites.

NUT CAKE AND ICING

Dear Social Corner: I think this is the recipe Constant Reader referred to. I will also send you the recipe for my

First Prize Nut Cake: 1 cup sugar, 1 cup flour, 1-2 cup butter, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon cinnamon, 2-3 cup chopped nut meats, 2 eggs beaten separately, 1-2 cup milk.

Sift flour sugar, salt, baking powder and cinnamon 3 times, work in butter with tips of fingers, work in yolks of eggs then in stiffly beaten whites.

Frost with cream icing (requested) 4 tablespoons sweet cream, 1 1-2 cups of XXXX sugar, 1 scant tablespoon butter.

Roll and sift the sugar, add this gradually to the cream until all blended. Set the vessel in which these have been mixed over boiling water, add the butter and stir until you have a creamy icing with all the ingredients thoroughly blended. Flavor before taking from the stove, vanilla, orange or lemon.

Ann Tenna: Take your extra pin back to the next meeting and give it to Sassy.

I was glad you were so good to cats. I have a great many stories to tell concerning Egypts sacred animal but must defer them until some other date.

To the sister who spoke about the parafin shrinking from the side of the glass, add 1 tablespoon melted beeswax to a pound package of parafin.

THOSE WHO GOSSIP

Dear Social Corner Members: I want to thank all of you who sent in recipes for making soap. Will tell you what success I have.

As to rooting cuttings from rose bushes have just been reading that June is the time to start them so will try my luck then.

Iola: Your letter on gossips was very true but as you say so many times they are people one can't help liking, good hearted and always willing to help one in trouble. I really don't think many of them mean any harm and don't realize what mischief they sometimes do. One of them in a small village can create a lot of trouble though. The trouble is they don't have business enough of their own to attend to so try to mind their neighbors'.

Tafta: Thank you for the package it as O. K. Sorry you met with a loss Hope you have no more trouble.

Will send a recipe for something we like.

Peach Marmalade: Peel and slice 4 quarts of peaches, add an equal amount of sugar, the juice of two oranges and the peel of one that has been through the food chopper. Cook slowly until thick then pour in glasses. Good for sandwiches. I have made it in the winter from dried peaches.

BEE.

READY FOR CLUB 2'S MEETING OCT. 6TH

Dear Editor and Social Corner Friends: I think Calla Lily has told in her letter of Sept. 11th that Club No. 2 begins their fall and winter activities in Odd Fellows hall Oct. 6th 1926 and I hope to see all there. Don't forget to bring your dishes and something for the dinner, also something for the entertainment. If any have company bring them along too.

Bumble Bee: I tried to find you to tell you where you could get that good cup of tea, but you were gone. Hope you have got rested by this time. I was pleased to meet Balsam Fir and several others that I had not had the pleasure of meeting before.

Aunty No. 1: I hope you were not tired out after the picnic. It was an ideal day and all seemed to enjoy themselves.

Mayfair: Don't forget the table cloths.

Chickolate: I think you offered your assistance but if you are moving away you will not be able too.

Nela: Have you got home? I will be pleased to have your help and any others who can. Please come early enough to help set the tables and if any have forgotten what they are solicited for just all Calla Lily. She has the list. Don't forget knife, fork, spoon, cup and the place and date. Best wishes for the prosperity of the Social Corner.

SCOTTIE.

FEEDING AND CARING FOR CHILDREN

Dear Members and Editor: Am sending in a few suggestions on feeding children. Regular feeding every three hours in all but exceptional cases, and nothing but the formula for six months, except orange or tomato juice. This should be started at two months, by giving small quantities, diluted with an equal amount of water and increased in amount and strength gradually. This should be given half way between feedings. At six months well cooked cereal should be given in small amounts, sifted and mixed with some of the formula, given before the bottle feeding. A teaspoon at first and gradually increased. The water that carrots, spinach and potatoes are cooked in can be given at the noon feed time with a piece of zwieback well dried out toast or a milk cracker. Small quantities of the vegetables, sifted, may be added to the water as the child grows older. No potatoes should be given until after nine months and then baked. Other greens may be given gradually. My baby at 7 months has the water cabbage is cooked in and at nine months has the cabbage cooked by the ten minute method. Of course, there is no meat cooked with the cabbage The child needs the mineral element in these vegetables to make sound teeth and good bones.

Should a child show any signs of not feeling well, a dose of castor oil should be given at once. I know this sounds awful, but many times this will prevent a serious illness. Two small doses 12 hours apart are better than one large dose. I sprinkle some sugar on a spoon, pour on the oil, sprinkle more sugar and follow with a drink of water. My kiddies take it without any trouble this way. A very small child may be given some hot water in a bottle following the dose. For older children, divide a small bottle of sassaparilla in two glasses, one-third in one the rest in the other. Add the oil to the smaller amount and drink. Follow with the clear. It completely kills the taste.

I am very fortunate to live near a town where there is a baby clinic. I hope all the mothers in the Corner attend one when they can. They help cure the ailing child but what is more essential they "help keep the well baby well." Those not living near a clinic can get valuable information through government and state bulletins which will be sent anyone on request. Another important part of body care is fresh air and sunshine. Sunshine that must be had in the great air because the ultra-violet rays, the healing element, are sifted out by window panes. They won't even go through the thinnest guage. Begin by five minute airings and make it longer each day and as soon as warm uncover a small part of the body and soon the whole body will be tanned. If done gradually there will be no sunburn. This is nature's medicine for children who are not strong and a preventive as well as a cure for that dreaded disease rickets.

I think this is enough for this time and I hope this will help some one.

VACATIONING AT MATUNUCK

Dear Social Corner Sisters: I realize what a slacker I have been, but can only offer the old excuse, busy. Have had a lot of company this summer and that with canning and other duties has left little time for letter writing. I have been interested in reading of the vacation trips taken by the various sisters and reading of the picnics. It has been so I could attend only one picnic that at Aunty No. 1's and what a good time we had.

It's no wonder Club No. 8 is growing with such a live worker to start it as E. L. M. We hope this fall Club No. 3 will wake up.

I have had several nice trips for the day this summer. Attended the farm bureau field day at Waterford, the Pomona grange picnic at North Stonington, one day at Charlestown and Atlantic beaches, and two trips to Matunuck beach, all of which I enjoyed but not much rest to hustle and get work done, put up lunch and go. This week I am having a real rest and change. One of our neighbors owns three cottages at Matunuck beach and he told my husband if he would putty and paint the sash in the cottage we could have the use of them. So a neighbor, husband and I came down, Sept. 22 and have been here six days now. It's a beautiful place and I am having a change and rest. Have been in bathing every day but one. Today is cold with a north east rain but we hope our other two days here will be sunshiny.

How many of the sisters have ever called on Lavender at her summer home on the Camp Ground, Willimantic? I attended campmeeting on Sunday and called to see her and she showed me over the house. Everything is beautiful, much of the furniture the work of her son who surely is an artist in burnt wood work. I could never describe the place but only wish you could all see it and am sure Lavender is such a charming hostess, she would be pleased to show you her home.

One subject has been of great interest to me and that has been the letters about cats, and I agree with Iola in every word she said. I love cats, have four grown cats and a kitten and they stay out doors or in the house just as they please. Nights they can go in and out of our bed room window. The kitten I now have has two cats to care for it. Both had kittens about the same time and only saved the one so both cats take equal care of it and lie in the box together happy as can be. My especial pet I brought to Matunuck with me, he is 10 months old and has never been out a night in his life and always sleeps on the bed with us, so knew he would be so lonesome. I wrapped him in a blanket, put him on the seat beside me in the auto and he rode the 50 miles without any fuss, was a little strange the first day or two but is contented now. The other cats a neighbor is caring for.

A friend told me this true story. She was visiting at a place where the man of the house would always kick a cat out of his way. One evening he went out. It was moonlight and he saw what he supposed was a black and white cat, but when he tried kicking it to get it out of his way he had to call to his wife to bring him out some clothes and he burned what he had on. I wish everyone who abuses a dumb animal would fare the same way.

Did any of you ever try marking your dishes that you take to a church or grange supper by putting a piece of adhesive tape on the dish and writing your name in ink? So many times at our suppers some one will have a hard time looking for a plate that some one has sent the food on because the owner is not there to get it and paper is so easily washed off. But the tape will last a long time.

Best wishes to all.

DORINDA.

BE KIND TO THE ANIMALS

Dear Corner Sisters: We all know what George Eliot says is true that animals are such agreeable friends, they ask no questions, they pass no criticisms."

No, not even when they are left on the porch of a summer cottage when its owner locks the door for the winter and goes to the city to a pleasant home, with plenty of warmth during the cold months. The little stray cat that bounded into your kitchen one day at the camp or your home signified his approval of you as a hostess when you threw him a bit of meat.

Cats are left around at the different houses and there are kittens quite often dropped at our home. Unless we take them in there is nothing for them to look forward to but acute suffering an final death by starvation.

Do people really do that? Can anyone to be so cruel? Call up the Animal Rescue league or humane agents and ask them for yourself if they ever have to rescue deserted cats and dogs. Why that is one of the busiest jobs. Every fall at the end of September, they go out to the beaches and summer resorts around different places and gather up dozens and dozens of half starved cats and dogs, mostly cats, some of them in such a weak suffering condition that they have to be put out of their misery then and there. And things are surely getting worse. I know of a party here in our city who was obliged to drown nine or 11 kittens in order to prevent The Porteous & Mitchell Co.

A Store-Wide Fall Opening

IT WILL BEGIN TODAY, SATURDAY, OCTOBER 2nd, AND CONTINUE FOR SEVEN WEEK DAYS, THROUGH SATURDAY, OCTOBER 9th.

A Most Complete Showing of Fall and Winter Merchandise

This is an announcement of our readiness for Fall in every department of the store. It calls attention to superb stocks of Fall and Winter Merchandise for Men, Women, Children and the home.

Varieties are so comprehensive and quantities are so liberal that there is hardly a need that cannot be supplied from our complete stocks, and in many instances at savings that are worthwhile.

In addition to a complete showing of Fall and Winter Merchandise there are many "Special Offerings" which have been secured for our Fall Opening. Every special item has been selected for its timeliness and ability to fill an immediate need — and will be prominently displayed on our counters during Fall Opening Week.

Wherever you go through the store you may choose from complete assortments of all that is new and attractive for Fall, whether in Fashions, Accessories or in Furnishings for the home.

Stocks of Fall Merchandise are at their best, and we are ready to serve you, not only with comprehensive assortments, but with values and sterling quality as well.

SOCIAL CORNER

them from being left from door to door.

I have found homes for several cats during the past year that had been deserted and left to starve by so-called "human beings."

Some folks may say, "Oh well, it's just an animal. Animals don't feel things as we do." Why don't they? They have much the same body and nerve construction that we have, and are probably a great deal more sensitive than human beings, especially human beings whose own feelings have become dulled by moroseness, lethargy and hard heartedness. Perhaps they think such a statement lends greater importance to themselves by inverse ratio. But surely anyone who loves animals and understands them can't be fooled.

I think a good plan if you can't look after a cat or dog is just be human, and in place of dropping cats around to the houses give them chloroform that will give them a painless and quick death. If you haven't the heart call up the human agent and he will take care of them. I know children love the animals but you could explain to them why you do it.

I think it teaches your children to be kind to animals when they see you are kind. Inasmuch as ye have done it unto the least of these, ye have done it unto me," said the Friend of all creatures.

I am aware that house cats don't always catch birds because they are hungry as a house cat is most always well fed, but we know cats love to kill if they are good for anything. They love to hunt mice, rats or anything of the sort, but with all this taken into consideration pussy can be taught not to steal food but I don't think you can teach them not to kill birds for I had a cat once, a great many years ago, and tried to teach her not to kill birds but it was an impossibility. At last she caught my pet canary. I could not write what Thornton Burgess said about cats as his piece is copyrighted but he said, "The most beloved pet he ever had was a cat."

I know kitty is a little stubborn and she will come when she gets good and ready but even so I do love cats.

ETHELYN.

THE MENU AND ITS PREPARATION

Dear Cornerites: Today I am going to give you a menu and tell how to prepare it.

English Spinach Soup: Cook 1-2 peck of Spinach, rub through a sieve, add 4 cups good stock, season with salt and pepper, sugar and lemon juice. Thicken with butter and flour, bring to the boil and serve immediately.

Meat Breast or Veal Nautise: Trim and gash 2 pounds of the breast of veal. Brown in a sauce pan with a slice or two of salt pork, add a sliced carrot and a chopped onion and 2 cups of water. Cover and cook for an hour basting frequently. Strain the cooking liquor, thicken with brown flour, pour over the meat and serve.

Potatoes a La Hanna: Peel, wash medium sized potatoes about six, drain them, cut in as thin slices as possible. Take a mold and butter it well, put in a layer of potatoes, then a very light layer of cheese, season with a very little salt and pepper. Cover with a layer of potatoes and season again as before. Dot with butter, place in a hot oven and cook 30 minutes. Run a knife around the edge, turn upside down on a hot dish, unmold and serve.

Stringbeans: String, cut into inch pieces. After boiling in salted water for an hour, (with a little sugar also) drain, and add a large piece of butter, salt and pepper. Cover and steam ten minutes over a slow fire.

Cottage Pudding with Strawberry Sauce: Sift together rice, 1 heaping cup of flour, 1 scant cup of sugar, 1 salt spoon of salt and 1 1-2 teaspoons making powder. Break 1 egg in a cup, fill cup up with milk, put into sifted mixture, beat well together add 2 tablespoons of melted butter and 1-2 teaspoons vanilla. Beat again, have pan liberally greased with butter to make a crisp edge around the cake. Bake in a quick oven about 15 minutes.

Strawberry Sauce: Either preserved strawberries or fresh ones about 1 cup. Put on to boil 3-4 cup of sugar, 1-2 cup of milk, when it drops in chunks from the spoon and has begun to puff in the boiling, take from the fire and put pan in cold water. When syrup is partly cooled add slowly to the mashed berries. Be sure and partly cool the syrup before adding to the berries. Do not allow sugar to get cold for it will harden and be lumpy.

Soup Bisque of Lobster: Put into a mortar 1 cup of boiled lobster, 1 cup of pulp add 1-2 cup of milk, season with salt and pepper or paprika. Put it through a sieve and heat but do not boil. Blend together a large spoon of butter and a spoon of flour, add slowly a pint of milk; when thoroughly cooked add to the lobster. If too thick add more milk. Serve with croutons.

Meat Veal Cutlets: Leave the cutlet whole, dredge with salt and pepper, dip in egg, cover with bread crumbs or flour (I sometimes use meal.) Saute in frying pan, after slices of salt pork have been tried out. Cook until well browned on both sides over moderate fire. Place on a hot dish, moisten with lemon juice. Make a gravy by adding a little flour to the grease in the pan, and diluting to the right consistency with water. Pour around the cutlets, but not on top.

GUESS WHO.

EIGHTY FIFTH BIRTHDAY NEXT MONTH

Dear Social Corner Editor and Sisters: It has been many months since I wrote you, but I assure you it is not from lack of interest, but from sheer inability to write.

But I have read with much interest all the letters, and kept in touch with the various pleasant gatherings you have had.

I have enjoyed the letters about the vacation trips which have been so vividly described. They certainly are very enjoyable to a shut-in. I am still wondering if I am the oldest member, as my 85th birthday will come on the 7th of October.

With kind regards to editor and sisters.

PALMLEAF.

ANOTHER CORNER MEMBER

Dear Social Corner Editor: Have enjoyed the Social Corner for some time and would like to become a member. May I have a pin?

Phuller Phun: Have met your brother and would like to meet you. Perhaps we could exchange seeds and possibly some slips.

Will take for a pen name,

EBEN SHIRLEY.

A Pertinent Question

In the locker room of the gym a doctor was leisurely dressing after a strenuous bit of exercise. First one and then another of his fellow members brought their minor ailments and injuries to his attention.

One fellow who had been dressing close to the doctor turned to him and asked, "Say, Doc, what are your locker hours?"

BOOZE MAKES FATHER OF FIVE TURN RUDE MASHER AT NEW LONDON

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 1—Thomas Hamilton, a married man of this city, may regard himself as fortunate that he is not in the county jail instead of at liberty and in the pursuit of happiness. He was on the Norwich turnpike in the vicinity of the Connecticut college last evening, when a young woman employed in the Bee Hive was a passenger on a Norwich line trolley car and alighted near her home. Hamilton was in the highway and the clerk was obliged to pass him. Then Hamilton tried to take liberties with the girl and talked to her about the cave man. She resented his familiarity and proceeded along her way. He called to her and told her he would yet get her. The girl was badly frightened, but she had the self control to notify the police and Hamilton was taken into custody. In court today he hid behind his family, five children and his wife, representing that one of the children was afflicted with infantile paralysis, and that he sought to drown his sorrow in booze. It is very doubtful whether that story would have kept him out of jail had the fact not existed that he has four other children dependent upon him. Judge Hamer fined him $25, but in sympathy with the family suspended execution of the judgment. He did warn Hamilton that if he was known to indulge in liquor during the coming six months he would go to jail.

A sentiment against such fellows as Hamilton is developing and will send them to jail or to the hospital. A few weeks ago a woman on the way to her home was proffered an auto ride by a man who pretended to know her. On the lower end of Ocean avenue he drove past the street where he was to have stopped to allow the woman to alight. She called to him to stop, but he kept going and the woman jumped from the auto to escape.

John Lambrick was charged with a breach of the peace in striking a boy, but the case did not get to a trial, being continued to the 29th of December.

Edward Flynn was charged with operating an auto without having a license. He drew a suspended judgment as he was a stranger in the city and had a license when he failed to have with him.

Charles Lubus, a sailor on the United States ship Argus, was prosecuted for intoxication. He was turned over to the commander of his ship for discipline.

COAST GUARDSMAN HELD UP AND $20 TAKEN FROM BLOUSE

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 1—Rudolph Kloeppel, United States Coast Guard, stationed at Fort Trumbull, made complaint to Patrolman Michael Dorsey last night that he had been held up at the point of a revolver on Hamilton street and robbed of $20. Kloeppell said that he was walking on the highway between Howard street and the overhead bridge of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad, when he was confronted by the hold-up man and ordered to throw up his hands. This he did and then the money was taken from Kloeppell's blouse. Officer Dorsey and Kloeppell made a tour of the section where the robbery occurred, but no one answering the description of the hold-up man was found.

Yesterday was pay day with both the sailors stationed at the submarine base and the United States Coast Guard and in view of that fact there were many bluejackets about the streets last night. No trouble of consequence took place, but during the night two or three of the sailors indulged in the ringing of door bells of residences on Main street. The practice was continued to such an extent that complaint was made to the police. Several officers were dispatched in the police speed wagon to where the bell ringing had been practiced, but the sailors had dispersed before the police arrived.

A force of city laborers has been engaged the past two days removing refuse, principally dirt from the several catch-basins on the business streets throughout the city, particularly, State, Bank and Main streets. Great quantities of dirt and miscellaneous refuse was taken from each basin, requiring many teams to convey it to the city's dumping grounds. The cleaning of the basins should insure the carrying off of waste water caused by storms during the winter.

F. J. Lutin, of Hartford, a summer resident at his cottage, 65 Park street, Ocean Beach, communicated by telephone last night with the police, stating that he had been advised that his cottage had been broken into and that it was frequented almost every night by sailors. Patrolman Dennis Murphy, on duty at the beach, was instructed to conduct an investigation. He discovered that the cottage had been entered by means of a window that had been left unlocked. He also found the cellar entrance open, but did not find any evidence of the new furnishings in the house having been disturbed. The officer secured the window and cellar entrance against further intrusion.

City workmen started the task today of making reports at the municipal wharf. Much of the heavy planking there has become decayed or damaged until there are numerous danger spots existing. The police have frequently reported the existence of the danger there, because of the defective planking, some of it damaged a few weeks ago when a fire occurred beneath the timbers.

John E. Garvey, former section foreman in the employe of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad, who ended his life yesterday afternoon in his rooming house, 43 Washington street, by swallowing two ounces of carbolic acid, is survived by four sons, two of whom are Dennis Garvey, 39 Twelfth street, this city, and John Garvey, of Norwich, four daughters, one of whom is Mrs. Anthony Sousa, Main street, this city and a brother, Dennis Garvey, of Norwich.

Sergeant Nelson Smith and Patrolmen Timothy Sullivan, Frank Philopena and Michael Corcoran resumed their duties today after their vacations. Lieut. James C. Sullivan and Patrolmen John Courtney and George Laboue started on their vacations of two weeks.

Abraham Gordon has sold to Michael Doyle a house and lot on North Bank street.

Eugene O'Neil, New York playwright, son of the late James O'Neil, nation-wide famous tragedian, today sold a dwelling and a garage, corner of Bank street and Jefferson avenue to Charles H. Williams and David N. Alter.

Archibald S. MacFarlane has sold a house and lot, corner of Jefferson avenue and Colman street to Roy Dixon Springs and Vera Lorene Springs, Groton.

The United States Housing corporation has sold two building lots off Jefferson avenue to James N. Doyle.

The funeral of Owen Murtha, was held this morning at 9 o'clock at St. Joseph's church and was attended by a large assemblage of mourners, among them delegations from St. John's Literary society and Knights of Columbus. A high mass of requiem was sung by Rev. William C. Fitzsimons. The bearers were John Kelley, John D. Burns, Thomas McEwen, James Burke, William D. Fox and James McEwen. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

The funeral of Mrs. Caroline M. Saunders, widow of Erastus Saunders, was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at her home on 19 Starr street. The services were conducted by Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth, pastor of the First Church of Christ. The bearers were James N. Sterry, Frederic C. Burrows, J. Frank Salter and Maurice E. Sherman. Burial was in Jordan cemetery.

PROBATE JUDGE CALKINS, DEM., ENDORSED BY REP. CAUCUS

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 1.—The republican probate convention was held at the county court house this morning at 11:30 o'clock, being attended by Frederic W. Mercer, P. LeRoy Harwood, Almeclin T. Hale, and Mrs. Mrs. Walter M. Slocum, local delegates and Mrs. Herbert H. Leland and Anthony Dixon, delegates from Waterford. The meeting was called to order by Mr. Mercer, chairman of the probate committee. P. LeRoy Harwood was elected chairman and Mr. Hale, secretary. Mr. Mercer stated that he had held the office of chairman of the probate committee nine years and he believed that this honor should be bestowed upon some one else. On motion of Mrs. Slocum, Mr. Harwood was elected permanent chairman. The convention endorsed the candidacy of the present judge of probate, Arthur B. Calkins, democrat, who has held the office, which covers the town of Waterford as well as New London, Mr. Calkins being nominated by Mrs. Leland, the vote endorsing Judge Calkins was unanimous.

DEMOCRATS NOMINATE A. T. MINER FOR SENATOR

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 1.—At the democratic district senatorial convention held at the county court house this afternoon, former Senator Alton T. Miner, of this city, state central committeeman from this district, which includes the town of Groton, was unanimously nominated, although there was a move to secure the endorsement of the republican nominee, Attorney Warren E. Burrows. The convention was called to order by Christian G. Marquardt, Groton, chairman of the district senatorial committee and he was named permanent chairman. Attorney Russell H. Corcoran was elected secretary. The name of Mr. Miner was presented by Carroll H. Bliven, Groton, who briefly told of Mr. Miner's political and business career. The nomination was seconded by Mrs. Conrad Kreuzer, Mystic, James P. Gilloigly, Groton, placed the motion of the convention endorsing Mr. Burrow's candidacy, to whom the maker of the motion referred to as a "democrat at heart." Mr. Gilloigly said he would prefer to give support to a republican more so than to a "democrat who is not consistant with the platform of the party." The motion of Mr. Gilloigly was not seconded. But nine of the 16 delegates from New London and Groton were present.

Another large batch of sailors was given shore liberty this evening and some of their number started to celebrate by partaking of strong drink. Two of their number were indiscreet to the extent of having drunk freely and then purchasing a bottle from which they drank. When on Bank street, one of them hurled the bottle into the street where it broke in many pieces. Traffic Officer William Corcoran and Patrolman Henry Sylvia were nearby and quickly corralled the two sailors, landing them in cells at the police station. One of them was extremely noisy and vile after being locked up. Both will be in the police court tomorrow morning.

Max Kolesta, of Montville, drove his automobile to New London today, but he failed to heed traffic laws, apparently driving his auto the same as he is in the habit of doing in Montville. He parked the auto a long time on State street and was observed by Patrolman Henry Hick, who ordered Kolesta into court.

Abraham Davidson, of Cottage street, was included among the fans that left New London tonight for New York.

Frederick Carroll, formerly of New London, died this morning at his home, Rumford, Me. He was the son of James and Mary Carroll and is survived by his wife, four children; a brother, Telden Carroll, of New York, formerly of New London. His three cousins are Mrs. George R. Morris, Charles D. Carroll, Mrs. John H. Lane and Palmer Carroll, all of this city.

Word has been received in Groton of the death last Saturday of Mrs. Pearl J. Darling Waterhouse, 28, wife of Charles R. Waterhouse, formerly of Groton, at her home in South Lyme. Besides her husband, Mrs. Waterhouse is survived by a daughter.

Frank B. Walker, manager of the Hotel Mohican, and Mrs. Walker are in Boston, where they will attend the funeral tomorrow of Mrs. Walker's mother.

An automobile driven by James Cleary, of Stamford, and with his wife as a passenger, overturned at Mossbroker's corner, Waterford, this afternoon, both Cleary and his wife sustaining injuries, which resulted in their being admitted to Lawrence hospital. Their injuries are not considered serious. Cleary's automobile had but reached the corner when a youth appeared on a bicycle and to avoid striking the boy, Cleary applied his brakes with such suddenness that the automobile skidded and turned over. A few minutes after the accident Dr. Charles Kaufman on his way to New London came upon the injured couple and had them conveyed to the hospital. At the institution it was stated that Cleary is suffering from shock and Mrs. Cleary from lacerations, but that the couple were resting as comfortably as could be expected.

Mrs. Arthur Leary and infant daughter, of Waterford, and Miss Mary O'Connor of 81 Ocean avenue, patients at Home Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

Rodney Carlisle, of 18 Amity street, and Miss Lillian Lamotte, 34 Blackhall street, patients at Lawrence hospital, were discharged today.

Alfred H. Totten, of Cushing, Ala., a steel structural foreman, and Miss Emma Poletti, were married yesterday afternoon by Justice of the Peace Perry J. McMandraky. The witnesses were Mr. and Mrs. Silvio Parraguffo.

ROAD CONDITIONS AND DETOURS IN STATE

Road conditions and detours where highway work is underway in the eastern part of the state are reported this week as follows by the state highway department;

REFUSES TO REDUCE BAIL ON GANGSTERS

An appeal made Friday before Judge John R. Banks of the superior court at Bridgeport for a reduction of bonds of $15,000 each in the case of the nine alleged New York gangsters, held there under charges of assault with intent to kill, was refused by Judge Banks on objection of State's Attorney W. H. Comley. The nine men were given a hearing Thursday and their trial set for October 19.

The men are believed by the authorities to have been connected with the brutal attacks on garment workers at Colchester, New Haven, Bridgeport and Stamford. They were apprehended last Friday following an attack at Bridgeport.

SUPPER GIVEN FOR BACHELOR CLUB MEMBERS

The Bachelors club recently held another of their famed dinners this one being served at the home of Howard J. Randall, No. 569 Main street, at the expense of James G. Coleman who slipped from the ranks last June. Mr. Coleman was presented a handsome radio set. Cards and music were enjoyed during the evening. Mrs. Howard Randall and Mrs. Virgil Wilson served a menu including chicken bouillon, chicken pie, mashed potatoes, rolls, celery, olives, pickles, ice cream, apple pie and coffee.

The members present were Andrew J. Boyens, Clifford Perene, Joseph Connell, Tyler Gilbert, G. H. Thomas, Robert C. Woodmansee, Kenneth Fox, Albert Friswell, James P. Jones, William Tannar, Howard J. Randall, Robert H. Gray, Virgil Wilson and James Gared Coleman.

GAVE SURPRISE SHOWER FOR MISS MAIDA WRIGHT

Tuesday evening a surprise miscellaneous shower was given to Miss Maida Wright, No. 9 Bentley avenue, in honor of her approaching marriage. There were 15 guests present who were her co-workers in the engraving department of the U. S. Finishing company. The evening was spent in games and music, and refreshments were served consisting of sandwiches, chocolate, cake, ice cream, salted nuts, fruit and candy. The bride-to-be received many useful and beautiful gifts.

IS FINED $150 FOR DRIVING UNDER SUSPENSION

At the city court session Friday morning Tony Rodriques, 26, of Quarry street, was fined $150 and costs and given a 30-day suspended jail sentence on a charge of driving an automobile while his license has been suspended. Rodriques' license was suspended Sept. 8 and he was arrested Thursday afternoon by Officer John O'Neil near Thames square. Rodriques claimed that he was giving a demonstration of the machine as he was about to sell it to Louis Plotsky who was riding with him when arrested. He claimed he believed that it was all right for him to drive even when his license to do so had been taken from him, as Plotsky is a licensed driver. Rodriques who has figured in police court trials several times the past month was told that it is about time he became acquainted with the law.

DISTRIBUTED TROUT IN BROOKS AROUND HERE

Forty-two cans of speckled trout, between 4 and 5 inches in length, sent to Norwich by the Connecticut state board of fisheries and game, were distributed Friday in brooks in this vicinity. The Taftville Fish and Game club, under the direction of Chip Dugas, distributed 21 cans of the trout in the Lisbon brook, seven cans in Beaver brook and three cans in Dragon brook.

Edmund Gladue of Occum distributed eight cans in that section of the town and W. W. Ives, secretary of the Norwich Fish and Games association, distributed five cans in the brooks at Trading Cove, and eight cans at Stony brook. The fish came from the Burlington hatchery.

FIELDING RATED STAR IN BATTLE FLEET'S ELEVEN

The Idaho Yarn, official ship's paper for the U. S. S. Idaho, based on San Pedro, Calif., contains an article on the football schedule of the battle fleet, in which Lemuel O. Fielding, chief boatswain's mate, U. S. navy, is prominently mentioned. Fielding is a local boy and while attached to the submarine base at New London, Conn., during 1921-22, was rated as an excellent half-back. His ground gaining ability, coupled with his ability to reverse the field, gained him a position on the all state team as picked by state experts.

Although no youngster, he is stepping out ahead of lots of youngsters and is regarded as the star half-back of the battle fleet.

LEGAL NOTICES

STATE OF CONNECTICUT, DISTRICT of Canterbury, ss. Probate Court, Sept. 29, 1926.

Estate of Annie E. Lawson, late of Canterbury, in said District, deceased.

Upon the application of E. W. Contessa, praying that an instrument in writing purporting to be the last will and testament of said Annie E. Lawson, deceased, may be proved, approved, allowed and admitted to probate as per application on file more fully appears, it is Ordered, That said application be heard and determined at the Probate Office, in Canterbury, in said District, on the 11th day of October, A. D. 1926, at two o'clock in the afternoon, and that public notice be given of the pendency of said application and the time and place of hearing thereon, by publishing a copy of this order in some newspaper having a circulation in said District, and by posting a copy thereof on the public sign post in the Town of Canterbury, and by mailing copies to hereinafter at least seven days before said day of hearing.

A. HALE BENNETT, Judge.

AT A COURT OF PROBATE HELD at Norwich, within and for the District of Norwich, on the 30th day of Sept., A. D. 1926.

Present, NELSON J. AYLING, Judge.

Estate of Albert G. Grise, late of Griswold, in said District, deceased.

Dora G. Greene of Griswold, Conn., appeared in Court and filed a petition praying, for reasons therein set forth, that the Executrix be authorized and directed to pay over to her such sum as the Court shall deem necessary for her maintenance and support, pending the settlement of said estate.

Whereupon, it is Ordered, That said petition be heard and determined at the Probate Court Room in the City of Norwich, in said District, on the 7th day of Oct., A. D. 1926, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, and that notice of the pendency of said petition, and of said hearing thereon, be given by the publication of this order one time in some newspaper having a circulation in said District at least three days prior to the date of said hearing and that return be made to this Court.

MARKET WAS IRREGULAR

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—(AP)—Speculators for the advance endeavored to rally today's stock market by bidding up U. S. Steel common and General Motors, which showed net gains of 3 1-4 and 3 points, respectively, but they were only partially successful. Large blocks of these industrial favorites were taken at rising prices and both closed at their top figures, steel at 153 1-4 and motors at 169 1-4, but weak spots cropped out in various sections of the list, with the result that final quotations disclosed some irregularity. Trading showed a marked expansion in volume, with indications of a reawakening of public interest in many issues.

Maintenance of the 4 per cent rediscount rate by the New York Federal Reserve bank, temporarily setting at rest fears of an immediate credit stringency, was believed to be the main factor behind the buying movement. Call money, which closed at the year's high level of 6 per cent yesterday, renewed at 5 1-2 per cent and held steady at that figure all day, despite the increase in rediscounts and the drop in the federal reserve ration shown in the weekly bank statement.

Establishment of a new record high figure in freight car loadings for the week ended Sept. 18, also had a bullish effect on sentiment. The weekly mercantile reviews reported some irregularity in business, due to unfavorable weather, but indicated there was as yet no evidence of a reversal of the upward trend. Bank clearings in the leading cities fell off this week, as compared with the same week last year, due to the fact that heavy bank settlements incidental to the first of the month were included in last year's return, whereas this year they will not show until in next week's compilation.

From the manner in which large blocks of General Motors and U. S. Steel were absorbed, Wall Street assumed that they were being bought by powerful financial interests, strength of General Motors, which touched a new high for the present stock, contrasted with the weakness of Mack Trucks, which broke nearly 5 points to 106 1-8 and then rallied feebly. Dupont soared 15 1-2 points to a new record top at 353. At its top price of the day, steel was selling more than 10 points above its recent low.

Revival of activity and strength in the copper shares, based on rumors that the regular dividend on Kennecott and American Smelting would be increased this month, was one of the day's features. Amusement shares displayed a temporary outburst of strength at the opening, but failed to follow up the advance, Warner Pictures losing over 3 points and Famous Players 1.

In the general list the strength of Case Threshing, Loose Wiles Biscuit, Remington Typewriter, Savage Arms, U. S. Cast Iron Pipe and Woolworth, all up 3 to 8 points, contrasted with the weakness of Commercial Solvents B, Continental Baking A and Union Tank Car.

Speculative interest in the rail group was confined to a few issues, notably Norfolk & Western, Nickel Plate, Chesapeake & Ohio and Delaware & Hudson, all up 2 to 4 1-2 points.

Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Renewed weakness of cotton futures, which sagged to the lowest levels in five years at net declines of 48 to 62 points, featured the mixed commodity markets, wheat futures rallied slightly. Raw sugar held firm and coffee prices advanced 16 to 25 points.

Demand sterling held firm around $4.84 3-4 but the other foreign exchange rates showed a tendency to sag. French francs were down to around 3.80 cents and Italian lire were quoted in the neighborhood of 3.75 cents.

TAFTVILLE

Rev. I. O. Belrose, pastor of the Sacred Heart church has returned from a short stay in Canada.

Mr. and Mrs. John R. Lee have left town for their home in Redlands, California, after spending the summer at the home of Mrs. Lee's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Jodoin and family of Boidoc lane.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Laurette and family of lower Norwich avenue have moved to Grosvenordale.

A large number of the 1927 applications for the registration of motor vehicles were received at the local postoffice Friday.

Miss Solfride Fregeau, R. N., Hartford, is the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Fregeau of Providence street.

Sunday, Oct. 3 will be observed as rally day at Taftville Congregational church, and church school. Dr. Hall of the Norwich Y. M. C. A. will be the speaker at the church school at noon.

Local fraternal and social organizations have received invitations to join the parade committee, to participate in the Armistice Day celebration in Norwich on November 11th.

Mr. and Mrs. Jean Ursek of Mohawk avenue, who were married this week and are spending their honeymoon in the province of Quebec, sendirs their friends cards from St. Gertrude Installation of the newly elected officers of Pequenuk council No. 14 Knights of Columbus, will be held Sunday evening. The installing committee in charge of arrangements include Arsand Fontaine, chairman, William Smith, James Hanlon, Peter Lafleur, James Wade and Wilfrid Dufour. District Deputy John F. Hennessy of Jewett City is to officiate at the installation, after which there is to be a supper and smoker.

NORWICH TOWN

The following letter has been in circulation this week: The selectmen have included in the warning for the town meeting to be held on Monday night, October 4th an item of $1,000 for care of the shade trees bordering the highway of the town of Norwich.

When the Rural association was first organized one of the principal purposes was beautifying the streets of the town. This action by the selectmen is strictly in accord with the ideals of this association, and all are urged to be present at the town meeting, Monday evening to support this item when it is presented.

This involves a tax at the rate of less than .0001 so that any one who is in the tax list for $1,000, his share of this expense would be less than $.10.

It would seem therefore that this does not bear heavily on any one and we hope that the above item will meet with cordial support. (Signed)

The Norwich Rural Association.

George F. Hyde, chairman of the Board of Ushers, at the First Congregational church, has made announcement that the ushers who will serve during October, will be Robert Stott and Kenneth Skinner.

Norwich friends are in receipt of post cards from Waterbury, from Mrs. Charles F. Geer of West Town street, who has been visiting relatives there for a week.

REAL ESTATE MEN TO BOOST THEIR TOWNS

Every city and important town in Connecticut will be represented at the second annual convention of the Connecticut Association of Real Estate Boards, to be held at Hartford on Oct. 27 and 28. The convention sessions will be open not only to members of the affiliated boards, but to all who are identified with the real estate business.

There will be an afternoon session on the 27th. and the banquet that evening. The real estate men are expected to be accompanied by their wives, who will be entertained by a ladies' reception committee. On the 28th there will be a morning session, after which the Hartford real estate board will entertain the visitors at luncheon. This will be followed by a contest for the best five-minute address, "The Best Town in Connecticut," in which representatives of the several boards will boost their home towns and cities. In the afternoon the visitors will be taken on an automobile tour of inspection of Hartford.

CAMP PARTY FOR GIRLS OF OPEKIZA CAMP

The members of the Okiza and Pequot Camp Fires who attended Opekiza camp this summer were given a very enjoyable camp party Thursday evening by the camp cooks, Mrs. Thomas Smith in Norwich Town. Camp costumes of middies and skirts or bloomers were worn. The girls met at Franklin square at 6:30 and hiked up to Mrs. Smith's home. Games were played and refreshments consisting of sandwiches, cake and punch were served. The girls left at 10:30, all declaring that they had a wonderful time.

COUNTY FAIR ORGANIZATION PLANS TO MEET ITS FINANCIAL SHORTAGE

Steps to raise money to pay outstanding bills of the New London Agricultural society, totaling approximately $9500 were taken Friday morning at a meeting held by the society at the court house building in this city. After the matter had been discussed a committee was named to present some plan of raising money.

Fifty-one people including three women were present at the meeting. Treasurer Albert J. Bailey stated that this year's fair increased the total debt to approximately $9,500. This year's deficit is $5,736.35. Some of the expense items, now due and unpaid, as read by Treasurer Bailey, include: $1,163.50 for labor and services; $530.57 for advertising; $101.92 for tickets; miscellaneous bills, $6,172.88, in addition to $256 for insurance.

Treasurer Bailey said that as far as known all the premiums have been paid. Included in the items to be paid are a note of about $700 to Healy and Washburn, local contractors, which fell due Friday. Last year six of the life members endorsed a note by which the society raised $3,500 to pay off the outstanding bills. These six members took a second mortgage.

The sentiment of those present was that the fair be held another year, but no definite action on this matter was taken. After a discussion of the financial difficulties, President Charles P. Bushnell was empowered to name a committee to consider ways and means of raising money. Albert Lillibridge and Thomas F. Burns of Norwich and James E. Lathrop of Montville were named as the committee.

George Dolbeare inquired how many of the bonds were unsold and was informed that $2,100 are unsold. Mr. Dolbeare suggested that a resolution should be adopted to collect money, or that every member donate $50 or $100 each.

Albert Lillibridge said that the fairgrounds is a valuable tract and that if the second mortgage is increased those taking the mortgage would be secured. An agreement was reached to renew the Healy and Washburn note. Treasurer Bailey stated that there is $486.54 in cash on hand and n bills collectible

MAYOR'S PROCLAMATION ON FLORIDA RELIEF

In accordance with the request of Governor Trumbull, that the citizens of the country raise at least $50,000, for the benefit of the sufferers in the great Florida disaster, many of the leading picture theatres are giving benefit performances, the entire receipts of which are donated to this fund.

Among them are the Breed, Broadway and Palace theaters of this city. This action receives my hearty approval and I trust that our citizens will be liberal in their patronage for the benefit of this good cause.

MILO R. WATERS,
Mayor of Norwich.
Norwich, Conn., Oct. 1, 1926.

863 ADMITTED IN YALE FRESHMEN CLASS

The board of admissions of Yale university has admitted 863 students to the freshman class. A large number qualified for entrance, failed of admission because of the limitation of the size of the class, as determined by the Yale corporation. Complete statistics are not yet available, but it is believed that the class of 1930, due to the fact that it was chosen from so large a group of candidates, has one of the highest scholastic averages of any previous group of Yale freshmen.

The 863 students admitted to Yale come from 42 states, and represent five foreign countries. The largest number come from Connecticut, which has a total of 193. New York has 182; Massachusetts, 66; Pennsylvania, 60; Ohio, 56; and New Jersey, 49.

DISTRICT SUPERINTENDENT AT BUZZARDS BAY CONFERENCE

District superintendents of the New England area of the Methodist Episcopal church, among whom will be Rev. Myron E. Genter of this city, will be at Buzzards Bay for Sunday, Monday and Tuesday in conference with Bishop W. F. Anderson. The time will be spent in worship, discussions of denominational enterprises and especially the World Service Programme of Methodism.

FRUIT OF THE LOOM EXHIBIT AT PORTEOUS & MITCHELL'S

In their large window, west of the main entrance The Porteous & Mitchell company is featuring an unique and instructive display of the "Fruit of the Loom" products. It is a replica of a model factory and is always in motion, showing step by step the various processes required to turn the soft, fluffy cotton into Fruit of the Loom cloth. Starting with a picture of the cotton growing in the southern fields the whole process of manufacture is portrayed right through the mills and until it is delivered to the retail store for sale to the consumer.

A miniature train is seen leaving the cotton fields and slowly entering the receiving room of a large mill. A section of the ground floor of the miniature mill opens and shows the cotton in the picking process, while directly above is an illuminated picture of the process itself and the machinery. In the same way the goods are traced through the carding, spinning, warping, weaving, inspecting and bleaching. Finally the finished product is seen being shipped to the retail stores and an illuminated display at the end balances the picture of the raw product in the field at the beginning of the display.

The "Fruit of the Loom" products are manufactured by B. B. & R. Knight, Inc., Providence, R. I. The company operates twelve mills and one bleachery in Rhode Island and Massachusetts with over 500,000 spindles and 12,000 looms. Over 75,000,000 yards of cloth are produced annually with a range of over 100 fabrics from drills to fine long cloths. The company was established in 1855.

The display which was opened for public inspection on Friday evening has already attracted a great deal of attention. It will remain on exhibition for one week. This miniature mill is being shown in many of the principal cities of the country and The Porteous & Mitchell company is to be commended for its enterprise in securing this exhibit for Norwich, thereby giving the people of the city and nearby territory an opportunity to see this interesting exhibit.

MIAMI BEACH HOME BADLY HIT BY HURRICANE

Letters received from Mrs. Abel Reggio, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Ives of Champlin street, state that her house at Miami Beach was badly hit during the hurricane. The roof was blown off, the ceilings of three upper bedrooms crushed in, trees and shrubbery ruined, and every pane of glass in the house blown out.

The substantial cement walls were left standing, as was the garage in which a Peerless car was stored. The caretaker writes that the water at her place was up to his armpits. An attempt was made to remove the furniture to the upper stories with but little success. Her property is located on West avenue, one of the most beautiful sections of the beach.

Mrs. Reggio was at Ocean Beach, Fire Island, at the time of the hurricane and her Miami Beach property was in charge of a caretaker.

ITALIAN RESIDENTS WILL CELEBRATE COLUMBUS DAY

The Italian residents of Norwich under the auspices of the Italian United society will celebrate Oct. 12 Columbus Day with a band concert and parade. The parade will commence at 7 o'clock and at 7:30 o'clock a band concert will be given at Union square. Other details, such as the line of march and the units participating will be announced later.

The committee, which making every effort to make this celebration eclipse those held in previous years, consists of Frank Ceccolini, chairman, Rocco Barbetta, Tony Longo, Frank Pasqualini, Tony Giovannini and Frank Ferri.

ARCHDEACONRY MEETING WITH PROMINENT SPEAKERS

A special meeting of the New London Archdeaconry is to be held at Trinity Episcopal church, Norwich, Tuesday next, by the diocesan committee of the nation-wide campaign.

The day's session will open with the celebration of the holy communion at 11 o'clock by the rector, Archdeacon J. Eldred Brown. Lunch will be served at noon. The members of the committee who will speak on the general theme are H. H. Heminway, of Watertown, Rev. Dr. Plumb, executive secretary, Hartford and J. H. Dosfer, of Watertown.

GALLUP DAHLIAS WIN AT BIG NEW YORK SHOW

Mrs. Freemon Vergason, of Norwich Town and Mrs. Ralph W. Gallup, of the Stonington Road have returned from New York, where they attended for two days the 12th annual dahlia show which closed Thursday night.

Mrs. Gallup won two prizes, a premium for best fifty dahlia blossoms of different varieties, also a prize on gladioli, in which display she featured the beautiful pink "Marshal Foch."

EXPECT 500 ASSESSORS AT HARTFORD MEETING

Authorities on various phases of assessment and taxation will address the assessors of Connecticut at their meeting in the capitol, at Hartford, Oct. 7, according to the program drawn up by Arthur F. Potter, deputy state tax commissioner.

The problem of local motor vehicle taxation, which has been studied by a special committee appointed by the assessors, will be one of the most important to be considered at the meeting. Members of the committees will speak on the subject, possibly making some recommendations regarding the solution of the problem, which is considered to be one of the major ones which assessors in the state are facing today. Robbins B. Stoeckel, commissioner of motor vehicles, will also speak on the subject.

State Tax Commissioner William H. Blodgett, will discuss the Tax Exemption Law of 1925. This law, which makes many changes in tax exemptions, especially to benevolent and educational institutions, went into effect October 1.

The progress of town revaluations in Connecticut will be the subject of a talk given by Arthur O. Lamb, tax appraiser of Rocky Hill. Tax Commissioner Henry F. Long of Massachusetts will speak on The Property Tax and Its Difficulties; Reinhold Hekeler, assistant secretary of the Texas company of New York, will speak on Taxation of Gasoline Stations, Pumps and Equipment, and Representative Ernest L. Averill of Branford will give concern matters of vital interest to the tax assessors.

A general discussion led by Louis A. Kornblut, chairman of the board of relief of Bridgeport, will follow Representative Averill's talk and Charles S. Darling, chairman of the board of assessors of Canton, will lead a general discussion after Mr. Hekeler's talk on the taxation of gasoline stations.

It is expected that 500 assessors from all parts of the state will be present at the meeting, including those who are elected assessors at the town elections October 5, two days previous to the call for the meeting.

The morning's program will start at 10:30 o'clock. There will be an intermission for lunch and the afternoon's program will begin at 1:30 o'clock.

Given Birthday Surprise

Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Zabriskie of Vergason avenue were pleasantly surprised at their home Friday evening when a few friends and relatives called in recognition of their birthdays.

A pleasing feature of the evening was when Mr. Zabriskie read a number of greetings that came through the mail. During the evening refreshments were served and vocal and instrumental music was rendered. Mr. and Mrs. Zabriskie received many useful and substantial presents.

PATRONS OF HUSBANDRY

In a letter from the lecturer of Groton grange to the lecturer of Norwich grange, No. 172, the information was given that Groton grange is to hold a Neighbors' Night with a Halloween party at its meeting on Friday night, Oct. 8, to which Norwich grange members are invited and at which Norwich grange is invited to put on two numbers. All attending are expected to come in Halloween costume, the penalty for not doing so to be a fine of 5 cents. Prizes are to be given for the prettiest and for the funniest costume.

It is expected that a number of the Norwich grangers will attend.

CATHOLIC LADIES OF COLUMBUS

Saturday, Oct. 9 the state convention of the Catholic Ladies of Columbus will be held at Shelton, which the officers of Mercier Assembly will attend.

Monday evening in the Ladies of Columbus' room there will be a meeting of the informal bridge, whist, pinochle and dance committee. Miss Mae Riley, general chairman. All are working to make this affair a big success.

JUNIOR AMERICAN MECHANICS

Joseph H. Wellington, a member of Buckingham council, No. 14, was elected to the highest office in the state convention of Junior Mechanics, which was held this week at New Britain. He is the youngest state councilor that Connecticut has ever had, being only 23 years old.

Mayor Gardner C. Weld, a member of Chamberlain council, gave the address of welcome to the 300 delegates attending the 33rd annual state convention, in part he said:

"Fraternalism of all kinds serves to cement the bonds of human friendship as no other instrumentality has ever done, excepting the home. Fraternities are a distinct addition to society. Serving the individual members as an incentive to emulation and friendly rivalry, they arouse us from the lethargy of business routine and give us new and kindly thoughts toward our fellow men.

"Your organization—our organization—founded as it is on principles of patriotism, Americanism and benevolence, is worthy of more than a passing thought by every American as its success and influence are far reaching.

"I hope that you will enjoy a very successful convention and that you will be pleased with our city which you have chosen to honor with your presence."

The session opened with the gavel in the hands of F. W. Pinkerton of New Britain, who is the retiring state councilor. Fred C. Prell, also of New Britain is state treasurer. H. C. Goodwin of New Britain is chairman of the state finance committee.

Guests of honor at the convention were Jacob Scheidler, E. E. Eno, John A. Dolan and H. C. Lyon of New Britain. All are past state councilors. Mr. Dolan is national representative.

Dinner was served at noon by members of the Daughters of America.

Joseph H. Wellington of Norwich was chosen state councilor.,

Other officers elected were: State vice-councilor, L. B. Clyne of Hartford; state secretary, Joseph W. Wellington of North Franklin, re-elected; state treasurer, F. C. Prell of this city, re-elected; state conductor, E. Sturdevent of Danbury; state warden, W. H. Wolverton of Noank; state inside sentinel, James Voight of Waterbury; state outside sentinel, A. G. Shires and state chaplain, D. Tomkins of Bridgeport.

The present membership in this state totals 2,327, showing a gain of 69 during the past year. There are 16 councils in this state. These facts were included in the report of the secretary, Joseph W. Wellington.

National Councilor E. W. Sturdevent of Vermont and National Secretary James, Wyneth of Philadelphia, together with State Organizer W. F. Parmlee, were the guests of honor during the day.

At the first roll call Chamberlain Council presented to the delegates and the state officers souvenirs of their visit to New Britain. The souvenirs consisted of belt buckles and watch fobs, furnished by the North & Judd Manufacturing Co., upon which appeared the insignia of the order.

A total of 13 past councilors were present to be made members of the state council, since only past councilors are eligible for membership.

About 300 members of the order from various parts of the state were present at a reception held at the hall on Glen street.

Walter Gould was master of ceremonies and introduced the retiring state councilor, F. W. Pinkerton of New Britain, who offered remarks. National Representative Dolan of New Britain also favored with a short address, as did the deputy national councilor, Mr. Sturdevent. Mr. Sturdevent was presented with a chest of silverware as a remembrance of his visit to New Britain.

On Wednesday at the regular meeting of Buckingham council, the delegates who attended the convention who included R. W. Chapman, F. B. Shappee and E. F. Lesemann gave their reports. Three new applications were received which shows that Buckingham council is starting to give their new state councilor a good start for the coming year. Brother Converse of Sag Harbor also gave an interesting address on his twenty-seven years experience as a member of the Junior Order. He is expecting to present a flag to Buckingham council in the very near future. The degree team is holding rehearsals and expects to hold a class initiation the end of the month. The contest for the silver loving cup is proving very interesting as each member is working hard to secure new members. So far in the contest Ralph Chapman is leading. On Monday evening a delegation of the brothers are going to New London.

ARE YOUR EYES "O. K."?

So much of your life's work and happiness depends upon the condition of your eyes-sight, that you cannot afford to overwork or abuse your eyes.

The moment you feel the slightest dizziness in your eyes, or notice a dimming of your vision, you are being warned that something is wrong and that your eyes are being overworked.

The remedy is so easily applied. The moment your eyes begin to bother you in any way — no matter how meagerly — you should go at once and have your eyes examined by

POETRY

Do You Vote?

You say that taxes are too high,
But do you vote?

About extravagance you sigh,
But do you vote?

The lights are bad, the street's a mess,
But do you vote?

Your indignation you express,
But—do you vote?

You say that bosses rule the show,
That graft is reaching high and low,

And, doubtless all you say is so,
But—do you vote?

You growl at rotten politics,
But—do you vote?

You howl at bosses and their tricks,
But—do you vote?

You say, O Decent Citizen
We've heard you, time and time again

"We want things run by business men"
But—DO YOU VOTE?

From the Window

The little house wherein you dwell
Has no age-old romance to tell.
It has no pride of stately towers,
No arbors, balconies, and bowers,
Simple and unadorned and new,
Its legends will begin with you.
A graciousness from that within
It looks upon a little street
Of houses like it, plain and neat,
Of little gardens, little gates,
With sounding names on little plates.
You sometimes wish its windows gave
Some soaring mountain solitude,
Green fields, a river shining by,
Or else a sea and windy sky,
And not this prospect cramped and Tame—
Another house so much the same!
Your little street runs south and north.
Some cloudless midnight, then look forth
And mark how true your windows are Towards the Pole, the Venturer's Star,
And how amongst the chimneys there
Sparkles the splendour of the Bear

33,600 FANS SAW THE CARDS TROUNCE THE YANKEES, 6-2

NEW YORK Oct. 3—(AP)—(By Alan [illegible])—Grover Cleveland Alexander, baseball's old masters, [illegible] the mighty power in his arm [illegible] to pitch the Cardinals to victory over the Yankees today in the opening game of the world's series [illegible] greatest crowd that ever saw baseball.

[illegible] Yankee stadium rocked [illegible] the cheers of a vast and record crowd of 33,600 fans as the seven [illegible] Cardinal staff checked [illegible] rush of the Yankees [illegible] touched Urban [illegible] Shocker Yankee pitcher ace, from the [illegible] and hurled their way to triumph [illegible] decisive margin of 6 to 2.

It was a rousing victory for the Cardinals that found them turning the tables on their rivals in convincing fashion and leaving the series deadlocked as the teams entrained early [illegible] for baseball mad St. Louis, where the battle will be resumed [illegible].

For [illegible] the grey-thatched, [illegible] Alexander—the man who was "through down the river" late in the season as a club discard—was given [illegible] battle by his veteran rival, Shocker, but in the seventh another [illegible] Ruth Southworth stepped [illegible] with a towering home [illegible] into the right field bleachers, a [illegible] with two men on base, [illegible] a 3-2 deadlock and clinched the game.

The Cardinals applied a finishing [illegible] to their victory in the ninth [illegible]. Tommy Thevenow got a free [illegible] on a high fly inside the [illegible] but Ruth "misjudged," but they didn't need it. One run would have been enough to settle the issue for Alexander, invincible after the third [illegible], holding the slugging Yankees [illegible] over the last six innings, permitting only four safe blows altogether, and striking out two men with [illegible] speed, amazing control and a [illegible] change of pace.

It was world's series drama of the most thrilling sort, a game of brilliant pitching, resounding hitting and [illegible] scoring moments that kept the great crowd keenly on edge or in boisterous excitement. The color and [illegible] it was a marked contrast to an [illegible] emotional opening game in which [illegible] Pennock's masterful pitching was the dominant note. Today, too, the [illegible] were bright and sunshine colored the scene that had been drab and [illegible] yesterday.

It was a fitting climax to such a game to have it watched by a crowd of unprecedented proportions, a jam [illegible] filled every nook and cranny of the [illegible] stadium while close to [illegible] more thousands swarmed in vain to gain admission.

[illegible] attendance of 65,000 not only eclipsed the former record gathered [illegible] of 55,317 set in the 1923 series between the Giants and Yankees, but [illegible] receipts today $201,828, also [illegible] a new record, exceeding the mark of $200,456 paid by the previous record crowd.

It was a Cardinal throng too, regardless of any hometown sympathy for the American League champions. These battling St. Louis players billing for the Missouri [illegible] first world's series glory have caught the fancy of New Yorks fickle fandom. Their leader, Rogers Hornsby, was cheered today even more vociferously than New York's own idol, Babe Ruth, and [illegible] with a winning home run provided an outburst that has had few equals in championship history.

[illegible] was Southworth's blow, however, Alexander was the hero of the crowd and of the day. Now in his 19th major league season, this veteran [illegible] appearing in his first world's series [illegible] 1911 when he twirled for the Phillies [illegible] an astonishing [illegible]. To [illegible] by his performance today the years have taken little or nothing from the cunning and [illegible] of his right arm.

The man who was known throughout the baseball of the land a dozen years ago as "Alexander the Great, as he [illegible] the pennant race season after season was Alex the Greater tonight.

The veteran Nebraskan was a bit [illegible] at the start, yielding three hits and two runs in the second inning while also contributing to one of the [illegible] with a wild throw. After that, however, he permitted only one safe blow, a single by Combs in the third inning. From the fourth inning on, Alexander was complete master of the situation. Not a single Yankee got safely to first and few of them even made a threatening gesture.

[illegible] after inning, six in a row, Alexander mowed down his foemen with machine-like regularity, in every inning but the seventh and ninth at least one was retired on strikes, while in the fourth, Gehrig, Lazzeri and Dugan swung in vain at the veteran's puzzling offerings. Ruth, like the rest was impotent. The Babe saw a third strike whistle by in the first inning and was retired on all his other attempts.

The Cardinals played like champions behind this flawless exhibition of twirling. There was a snap and dash to their work missing in yesterday's game. Thevenow, young shortstop, and down-country recruit that came his way also [illegible] a pretty double play in the first inning, after Combe had walked. Bell at third base, made a spectacular stop and throw-out on Dugan's smash in the seventh, while Hornsby robbed Ruth of a hit, with a great stab on the Babe in the ninth.

The Yankees fashioned their brace of runs in the second inning on hits by Meusel, Larreri and Dugan, mixed with Alexander's wild throw. Meusel tallied on Lazzeri's hit and Lazzeri, trapped at third on an attempted double steal with Dugan, raced across the plate as Alex threw wild in the run-down scramble.

The Cardinals were not long in making up this deficit, however, singles by Douthit and Southworth and a sacrifice by Hornsby paving the way for "Sunny Jim" Bottomley to bring in a pair of tallies with a booming single to Ruth's territory.

This was in the third inning and after that Shocker matched his spitball with Alexander's best until the seventh. Retired in order for three straight frames, the Cardinals opened their attack in the seventh on a double by O'Farrell, followed by Thevenow's single to left. The threat of Meusel's great throwing arm held O'Farrell at third and when Alex and Douthit popped out, the St. Louis attack seemed checked. Southworth, however, caught a curve and lifted it right into the right field bleacher crowd.

It was a fitting role for Southworth to provide this winning punch, for it was his home run, about a fortnight ago, that beat the Giants at the Polo grounds in a game which clinched the first National League pennant for St. Louis.

Shocker weathered this seventh inning to retire Hornsby for the third out, but he gave way to Bob Shawkey in the 8th, after Bottomley had opened the inning with a single. "Bob Gob" checked the Cards in this frame, but Sam Jones on the hill in the ninth had trouble escaping with only one run being scored against him. The first man to face him, Thevenow, hit a towering fly to right which fell through Ruth's hands. The Babe then lost sight of the ball for a few moments and before he recovered it Thevenow had galloped around the bases. Passes to Douthit and Hornsby, sandwiching a single by Southworth, filled the bases, but Jones retired the side without further damage.

The Yankees rushed in reserves in the eighth, Paschal batting for Severeid and Ruether for Shawkey, but they found Alexander invincible here, as well as in the ninth.

FLA. OFFICIALS REALIZE OUTSIDE AID IS NEEDED

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—(AP)—Florida officials no longer believe that their state can take care of its hurricane sufferers without outside aid, in the opinion of James L. Fieser, vice-chairman of the American Red Cross, who returned to headquarters today after spending two weeks in the storm swept area.

He attributed to local pride the early dissemination of statements that southern Florida was not so bad off as people had been led to believe, and thought a different view was now being taken by those in charge of the state's affairs.

Mr. Fieser said the "eyes of the Red Cross" were now on the 13,000 families left homeless by the storm. Emergency requirements have been met, he asserted, and the society is now turning to the work of rehabilitation.

TROPICAL DISTURBANCE IN THE CARIBBEAN SEA

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.— (AP) —A tropical disturbance, centered in the Caribbean sea about 400 miles south of Havana, was reported by the weather bureau in an advisory storm warning issued at 10:30 a. m. today. The movement of the disturbance was said to be to the northwestward. The warning issued by the bureau reads:

"Advisory 10:30 a. m. tropical disturbance central approximately 17 degrees north and 83 degrees west. Probably moving very slowly northwestward. Probably of slight intensity although the steamship Tolosa at 1 a. m. in latitude 18 longitude 82 1-2, reported wind of 42 miles an hour and in the next two hours a fall of 10 in barometer to 29.80."

ASSAULTED WITH AN AXE FOLLOWING A DICE GAME

NEW BRITAIN, Oct. 3—(AP)—During an argument following a dice game, here today, James McKinley, negro, was struck in the head with an axe. He suffered a scalp wound but his injury was not considered serious. Henry McGowen, his alleged assailant, was arrested charged with assault with a dangerous weapon. Four others who were engaged in the game also were placed under arrest.

CHARGED WITH ABANDONING YEAR AND HALF OLD BABY

NEW BRITAIN, Oct. 3—(AP)—Mrs. Mrs. Marie Cannon, of this city, were arrested in Springfield, Mass., today and brought back to this city charged with abandoning a year and a half old baby. The police say she left the baby in a carriage with children on Spring street yesterday and then disappeared.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

PARIS, Oct. 3.—(AP)—A divorce has been granted Mrs. Helen Adams Yates of New York against John Carrington Yates. Before her marriage was Helen Adams Schley.

PEKING, Oct. 3.—(AP)—Southern peace delegations are said to be arriving at General Sun Chuan-Fang's headquarters for the purpose of arranging an armistice.

PENSHURST, Kent, England, Oct. 3.—(AP)—Five passengers, the pilot and a mechanician were burned to death Saturday when a French passenger airplane, en route to the Croydon airdrome, London, crashed near here.

AMSTERDAM, Holland, Oct. 3.—(AP)—Padang, in Central Sumatra, is reported to have been shaken by a severe earthquake. Dispatches say the inhabitants fled from their houses, but no mention is made of casualties.

HANKOW, Oct. 3.—(AP)—Northern troops holding the besieged city of Wu Chang fled on vessels bearing Red Cross and other white flags which sailed from Hankow to rescue the women and children in Wu Chang.

PARIS, Oct. 3.—(AP)—For the first time in history, the French press and public took cognizance of the opening of a world series. This is due to the great strides made in France by the game since the visit here in 1924 of the White Sox and Giants.

FUNERAL OF PROFESSOR WILLIAM JEWETT TUCKER

HANOVER, N. H., Oct. 3—(AP)—William Jewett Tucker, eulogized by President Ernest Martin Hopkins as "Dartmouth's greatest president," was laid at rest in the college cemetery today. The tolling of the chapel bell by the same hands that rang in the inaugural of Dr. Tucker in 1893, precede the first of three funeral services.

In the ancient burying ground where many presidents of Dartmouth and men eminent in the history of the college had been buried the governor of New Hampshire, and leaders in the affairs of the college and the state joined with members of Dr. Tucker's family in mourning for the man who guided the affairs of Dartmouth during 18 consecutive years.

A brief private service for members of the immediate family was held at the Tucker home on Occom Ridge and was conducted by Rev. Frank P. Janeway, pastor of the Church of Christ at Dartmouth college. Immediately afterward a commemorative service was held in Rollins chapel, conducted by Dr. Roy B. Carmichael, director of the chapel, assisted by Dean Craven Laycock and the clergy of the Hanover churches. The eulogy was by Dean Laycock and intimate friend of Dr. Tucker for many years. Bishop John T. Dallas, of the Episcopal diocese of New Hampshire was in charge of the burial service.

Governor John G. Winant of New Hampshire headed a list of 16 honorary pall bearers representing the board of trustees and faculty of Dartmouth and the citizens of Hanover.

WOULD REFER DEBTS TO LEAGUE OF NATIONS

ALENOON, France, Oct. 3—(AP)—The entire problem of inter-allied debts should be referred to the League of Nations for settlement, Adrian Dariac, deputy president of the debt commission of the French chamber of deputies suggested today to political leaders of the department of Orne.

"The league," he declared, "has settled frontier questions and other disputes were national honors was at stake. We are asking ourselves why a problem of much less importance from a moral viewpoint—liquidation of the inter-allied debts—should not be referred in its entirety to a conference at Geneva or other international tribunal."

AIRPLANE WRECKED IN CRASH AT BRAINARD FIELD

HARTFORD, Oct. 3—(AP)—Charles Descomb, 26, of 66 Wyllis street, Hartford, and Roy Taylor, 25, 42 Graves avenue, Northampton, Mass., were injured, and the airplane in which they were flying, owned by Taylor, was wrecked at Brainard field this morning. Both flyers escaped serious injury, although Descomb is still at the Hartford hospital from which Taylor was discharged after he had been treated following the crash.

The accident, caused by motor failure, was the second at the field this year which resulted in a wrecked airplane. An army plane from Mitchel field, was smashed in landing at the field Saturday but neither of its occupants was injured.

OBREGON TO NEGOTIATE WITH YACQUI INDIANS

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 3—(AP)—Former President Obregon, authorized to act as special representative for President Calles in negotiations with the rebellious Yaqui Indian chiefs, has communicated with the government urging that men and supplies be rushed for the Yaqui campaign.

On September 27 General Obregon issued an ultimatum to the Yacqui chiefs giving them five days to deliver to the federal forces as a prisoner the Yaqui chieftain Matus, who is said to have been responsible for the recent uprising among the Indians.

WAS TO "BORROW" AUTO TO GET TO WORLD SERIES GAME

WORCESTER, Mass., Oct. 3.—(AP)—Worcester police believe they have captured the world's most ardent baseball fan, who, armed with eight revolvers and $14 in cash, attempted, they claim, to borrow an expensive, high powered automobile early today from a darkened automobile salesroom in order to reach the Yankee stadium in time for the second game of the world series. The young man who gave the name of Edmond Landry, 20, told the police he planned to pawn the revolvers when he reached New York.

AIR MAIL PLANE IN FOG CRASHED INTO TREE

NORTHUMBERLAND, Pa., Oct. 3.—(AP)—Losing his way in a dense fog, Pilot E. C. Ward, flying from New York to Cleveland with 750 pounds of world series baseball films in a new Grant air mail plane, crashed into a tree in attempting to land at the Island Park field here today.

The airplane was wrecked, but Ward, whose home is in Bellefonte, Pa., escaped with a slight cut on his right hand.

The films were in tin boxes and Ward managed to salvage all except twelve, taking them to Cleveland in another plane.

Favorable Outlook For Fall Business

Manufacturing Output is Moving Steadily Through Distributing Channels.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—(AP)—Business enters upon its final quarter of the year with a satisfactory outlook for a large volume of trade and ample profits. Developments last week were mainly favorable, although they revealed that the autumn expression in trade and industry was accompanied by scattered and occasionally disturbing irregularities.

The chief danger sign on the horizon at the moment is the threatened upset of the commodity price equilibrium due to rather sharp declines in the values of farm products. Wholesale prices of farm products in August, as measured by the department of labor's index, had fallen approximately 25 points below the level of August, 1925, compared with rather gradual declines in other groups. The average price of all commodities for example, was 11 points lower while the extreme loss in clothing materials amounted to 15 points. The decline from July prices also was proportionately greater for agricultural products than for other commodities.

Industrial prosperity, on the other hand, has suffered no serious setbacks. Production in the third quarter was fairly well stabilized at a level considerably above the average and promises to remain so until the end of the year. At the same time and the manufacturing output has continued to move steadily and smoothly through all distribution channels. The enormous volume of goods going into consumption has been attested by the gains in bank clearings, the large sales of department stores and mail order houses and the record breaking tariff being moved by the railroads.

Credit conditions have been given the greatest concern to the business world. Money rates last week reached the highest levels of the year and opinion was divided as to whether the peak of the demand had been reached or whether a more serious stringency was in sight. The situation a year ago was precisely the same, but the firmness of the money market in October failed to retard business in the last quarter of the year.

A warning that bank loans were expanding more rapidly than they normally should upon the basis of the present volume of trade and that credit inflation might result was sounded by one Wall street authority. Set against this view was the opinion of a leading banker that "so far as business is concerned the situation continues free from inflation, over-buying and other symptoms usually calling for corrective action."

PAN-EUROPEAN CONGRESS IN SESSION IN VIENNA

VIENNA, Oct. 3—(AP)—The Pan-European congress, in which twenty-six states are represented, met today with the idea of "proposing ways and means to bring all continental European states under one economic head." The main theme suggested is that the frontiers dividing European states shall, for economic purposes, be non-existent.

Paul Loebe, president of the German reichstag, the principal speaker of the day, declared:

"A wave of pessimism always accompanies the birth of great truth. M. Briand and Dr. Stresemann (the French and German foreign ministers, respectively) recently accomplished things the mere mention of which a few years ago would have been considered chimerical."

Dr. Loebe affirmed that the Pan-European movement was directed against no nation—the United States, England or Russia, or the League of Nations, whose tasks a united Europe can only facilitate.

"Thirty European nations divided against themselves by economic or military rivalries," he said, "would perish. Pan-Europe shall live."

Dr. Ignaz Seipel, former Austrian chancellor, declared: "It would be utopian to dream of a united Europe where the nations abandoned their culture or originality. But we can reach a European entente economically. Whether our mother tongue be German, French or English, when it comes to economic problems, let us talk European."

MOMAUGUIN WOMAN HELD AFTER FIRE IN HER HOME

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 3—(AP)—Mrs. Bridget Kennedy under arrest on idleness charges following a mysterious fire, which destroyed her cottage at Momauguin late last night, swept through the cottage of Mrs. Mary Rilance, on one side and did extensive damage to the home of Benjamin Bowden on the other side, was taken from the county jail to St. Raphael's hospital today in a hysterical condition.

Firemen from the Branford Manor Hose company, who were the first to reach the scene last night, claim that oil soaked rags were on the premises and that the odor of kerosene was detected in the burning structure.

The fire loss is estimated at $15,000. Mrs. Bridget Kennedy had been employed in New York as a maid and it is understood, she came to New Haven yesterday. She was arrested on a trolley car at Church and Chapel Sts. Her cottage had been unoccupied all summer.

SUED FOR DIVORCE FROM BRIDE OF SEVEN WEEKS

STRATFORD, Oct. 3—(AP)—Divorce proceedings instituted by Oliver Beardslee, 49, of Stratford, against his bride of seven weeks, Mrs. Gladys Foster Beardslee, 25, formerly of Hartford, are not expected to be pressed. Beardslee having returned to his home, where Mrs. Beardslee tonight disclaimed all knowledge of the divorce action.

"I am sure there will be no divorce," she said. "Mr. Beardslee is living here with me. I do not even know anything about the writ reported served on me. We are together and happy."

SLAYER OF PANCHO VILLA NO "SIDE SHOW FREAK"

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 3—(AP)—Congressman Juan Salas Barrasa, of the state of Durango, who confessed to killing Pancho Villa in 1923 according to a story published by Excelsior, has refused an offer of $50,000 for a two months' appearance in theatres in the United States as the slayer of the notorious bandit.

Barrasa refused with considerable indignation, asserting that he did intend to become a "side show freak."

Floods in Lowlands of the Central West

Thousand of Persons Flee From Their Homes, Unable to Stay Advance of Waters.

CHICAGO, Oct. 3.—(AP)—Level lowlands of the central west where torrential rains swept away many lives and millions in property a fortnight ago lay at the mercy of floods again tonight.

Thousands of persons fled their homes, unable to stay the advance of waters from swollen streams.

Along the Kansas-Oklahoma line and in lower Illinois, farmers abandoned their fields and fleets of small boats carried to higher ground families marooned in villages and towns, threatened with inundation.

The Missisippi river, which carried the record breaking September cloudbursts, was choked with the rains that ushered in October in western Illinois.

Utilities plants went out of commission with the intermittent downpours since Friday, rail transportation was halted in many sections and in northeastern Oklahoma more than a score of the tri-state lead region mines were flooded.

The Neosho, Verdigris and Caney rivers passed flood limits, a village of 2,000 in Chatauqua county, Kansas, was completely surrounded by water and in the Caney bottoms in Oklahoma people were rescued from trees.

In some areas it appeared that a doubling of damage to crops from the previous floods, running well into the millions of dollars was probable.

Today brought leaden skies and more rain and the forecast was for unsettled weather and occasional showers Monday over most of the mid west.

FLOODS MAKE ISLAND OF A CITY IN OKLAHOMA

BARTLESVILLE, Okla., Oct. 3 —(AP) —Flood waters of the Caney river, swollen by two days of torrential rain, today deluged the lowlands of Bartlesville, submerged scores of homes after approximately 1500 residents had fled to high ground and safety and made the city an island city without water or electricity.

Many inhabitants of the flood swept district took refuge in trees and were rescued in boats when the waters rapidly engulfed their flimsy abodes. Two persons were known to have lost their lives, and reports that several others had been drowned were not verified tonight.

Heavy rains fell in other parts of Oklahoma last night.

AUSTEN CHAMBERLAIN NOT CONVERTED TO FASCISM

LONDON, Oct. 3—(AP)—Sir Austen Chamberlain, British foreign secretary, has not been converted to fascism he told interviewers upon returning to London tonight from his Mediterranean pealsure trip, in the course of which he had an important conference with Premier Mussolini, at Leghorn.

Sir Austen does not consider fascism suited to Great Britain, He has the greatest regard and admiration for Mussolini, as a man "of great force, character, charm and shrewdness."

The foreign secretary emphatically disclaiming that his meeting with Mussolini was arranged to counter balance the conversations at Thoiry between Dr. Stresemann, German foreign secretary, and Foreign Minister Briand of France, said that he and the Italian premier talked about the Thoiry conference, "but only to take pleasure in continued amelioration of international relations."

He described his conversations with Mussolini as most cordial, saying they were able to discuss questions affecting Italy and Great Britain on which there had been some correspondence.

"Naturally," he added, "we discussed the larger issues of European politics, finding a great community of ideas between us. The policy of both countries is directed toward the preservation of peace and the development of trade, so necessarry to the economic rehabilitation of the world."

EVANGELIST M'PHERSON HAD LARGE CONGREGATION

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 3—(AP)—Thousands of members of Aimee Semple McPherson's flock gathered today at Angelus temple to witness "the march of the martyrs," a tableaux portraying famous biblical scenes and depicting the "history of persecution."

The spectacle, interpreted by her followers as drawing a parallel between the suffering of biblical characters and what the evangelist has termed her own "persecution" followed a communion service which had been heralded by Mrs. McPherson's announcement that it was to be the largest communion ever held.

The pastor selected "The Great Corpnation, Day" for the text of her sermon tonight, her last gesture from the pulpit before she appears in municipal court tomorrow morning for the second week of her hearing on a felony charge.

The seventh scene, in the tableau to portray events of the present day, showed a large bible placed on a chair Lying beside it was a pair of scissors and a pile of mud.

When the state continues presentation of evidence at the hearing tomorrow where Mrs. McPherson, Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, her mother and Mrs. Lorraine Wiseman-Sielaff, are charged with conspiring to obstruct justice and preparing false evidence, the scene of testimony is expected to shift again to Carmel-by-the-Sea, Calif., where the state alleges that the evangelist spent ten days with her former radio operator, Kenneth G. Ormiston.

Joseph Ryan, deputy district attorney who conducted the investigation at Carmel, was slated to be among the first witnesses called tomorrow. With his testimony the much discussed grocery slips found at the beach resort alleged to resemble the evangelist's handwriting probably will be injected into the trial.

SPANISH PREMIER AND ARMY OFFICERS AT ODDS

LONDON, Oct. 3—(AP)—The Biarritz correspondent of the Daily Mail says today he learns from the Spanish border that further trouble is brewing between General Primo de Rivera, the Spanish premier, and army officers, and that since yesterday all troops have been confined to barracks.

The correspondent has heard a report that the engineer officers will join the artillery officers in demanding the retirement of Primo de Rivera and that a state of war will again be proclaimed, but restricted to Madrid and Barcelona.

FIVE-DAY FORTY-HOUR WEEK GOAL OF ORGANIZED LABOR

Announcement Made by the Executive Council of the A. F. of L. on the Eve of the 46th Annual Convention Which Opens Today in Detroit—Claim is Made That the High Pressure Production and the Physical Demands of Modern Industry Are Such That Only With a Shorter Work Day "Can We Attain Notable Progress in Mechanical Production."

DETROIT, Oct. 3—(AP)—The five day week for all workers came to the fore as a definite goal of the American Federation of Labor program today in the final meeting of the executive council of the federation preliminary to the forty-sixth annual convention which opens tomorrow morning.

President William Green and his cabinet, composed of international officers of affiliated unions, agreed upon the five-day forty-hour week as the cardinal point in the advancement program of organized labor and determined to recommend the policy to all affiliated organizations as to basis of negotiation for contract renewals and employers.

"The forty-hour week is inevitable in American labor," Mr. Green said in a public statement after the meeting. "For the simple reason that it is economically sound and profitable. It is profitable for the worker and for the employer, and has been tremendously successful in the numerous crafts in which it is already partly effective.

"High pressure production, and the physical demands of modern industry are such that only with a shorter day can we attain notable progress in mechanical production. In the printing crafts, garment trades and public trades, where the five-day week is effective in some sections of the country, the results have increased production as much as 40 per cent. on certain operations with an actual decrease in the unit cost. Scientific study of fatigue charts in mechanical operations point to the shorter week as the most promising method of maintaining the prosperity of American industry, for it will reduce the labor turnover and increase production as well as the quality of work, create more leisure for the enjoyment of life and add to the general high standard of living for the American worker, the best paid worker in the world."

Under the constitution of the federation, the executive council may not go further in the advancement of such a policy than a mere blanket endorsement of the aims, for the actual working out of the program must rest always with the autonomous international organizations in the negotiation of contracts.

The council reaffirmed its determination to have no contract with soviet Russia or its sympathizers and agreed to recommend to the convention non-participation in a proposed commission to investigate conditions in Russia in behalf of American labor. The action reiterates the stand taken by the convention at Atlantic City last year, and follows the unanimous vote of the metal trades departmental convention last week to conditional affiliation with the International Metal Workers' federation upon the pledge that Russian metal unions would never be permitted to affiliate so long as they adhered to the principles of the third internationale.

Fraternal delegates from the Mexican federation of labor were received by representatives of the Pan-American federation of labor at the headquarters hotel or the American federation today and will take their seats tomorrow at the opening plenary session.

Delegates representing a majority of the convention vote reached an informal agreement today to accept without debate the recommendations of the executive council in the matter of relations with the Mexican federation during the coming year.

The annual report of the executive council will be read at the afternoon session tomorrow.

PROBLEM FOR DEFENSE IN DAUGHERTY-MILLER TRIAL

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—(AP)—The defense in the Daugherty-Miller trial is expected to face its most important problem on the trial in federal court this week.

The chief task will be an attempt to explain away the presence of allegedly incriminating liberty bonds which the government has traced to the accounts of the defendants, Harry M. Daugherty, attorney general under the Harding administration and Thomas W. Miller alien property custodian at the same time. They are alleged to have accepted these bonds as their share of the $441,000 which the government has proved was paid for the transfer to allegedly German owners of $7,000,000 realized from the sale of American Metal company stock seized as enemy property during the war.

The case is unusual in that the two former high public officials are not charged directly with accepting bribes, but that they conspired to defraud the government of their fair and unprejudiced services in the $7,000,000 transfer.

HALL-MILLS INVESTIGATORS AWAIT FORMER TROOPER

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Oct. 3.—(AP)—Investigators of the Hall-Mills mystery are awaiting the return from the Philippine Islands of a former New Jersey trooper named Spielman, it was learned from unofficial but authentic sources today.

It was reported Spielman worked for some time with Henry L. Dickman, former trooper who was alleged to have been bribed to leave the state after country authorities had dropped the inquiry.

Whether Spielman left at the time Dickman deserted the state police could not be learned, but it was known that they enlisted in the army together and were sent to the Philippine islands, where Dickman deserted.

Dickman was captured by military authorities and sentenced to a prison in California, where he was found by New Jersey investigators. It was believed Dickman mentioned Spielman's name in the statement made to Special Prosecutor Simpson at Governor's Island recently.

YALE MEN ATTEND CHAPEL OF THEIR OWN FREE WILL

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 3.—(AP)—For the first time in two and quarter centuries of history, Yale held its Sunday school chapel service today with no student present who did not attend of his own free will. Every seat in Battell chapel was filled for the matriculation sermon which was delivered by President James Rowland Angell.

Meeting what he characterized as "disturbed attitudes toward religion," and a "wave of acute attack upon it," President Angell said that religion in the large, true sense, in which it is to be distinguished from any particular set of dogmas and doctrines, meets as does nothing else one of the great enduring needs of humanity, and "until human nature changes, there seems small reason to look for the disappearance of religion from the world."

M. E. CHURCH HAS 672,436 MEMBERS IN FOREIGN LANDS

NEW YORK, Oct. 3—(AP)—The Methodist Episcopal church has 672,436 members in foreign fields and 197,126 baptized children under instruction preparatory to being received into membership, Dr. William B. Tower, recording secretary of the church's foreign missions, reported today. This is an increase of 16,607 over last year's figures.

Thirty-four countries in all parts of the world are the scenes of work by these church members. There are 1,125 missionaries in these countries. In Mexico there are 10,425 Mexicans actively connected with the church, Dr. Tower announced, and the church owns 71 church buildings, in that country.

MAY SHIFT THE HARTFORD-NEW YORK AIR MAIL ROUTE

HARTFORD, Oct. 3—(AP)—A new survey, which may result in shifting the air mail route from Hartford to New York north of its present course along the shore from Bridgeport to New Rochelle, N. Y., so the mail planes will pass over Waterbury and Danbury, will probably be made within the next few weeks, it was learned today, Captain Frank Burton, U. S. A. has completed a survey of the present route, which is part of the Atlantic coastal airway approved last summer by the Aeronautical section of the department of commerce. Installation of beacon lights along the route is being delayed by the preparation of a new form of lease by the lawyers of the department of commerce.

The present Boston-New York mail planes, operated by the Colonial Airtransport, Inc., on leaving Hartford fly a course so they hit the shore line in the vicinity of Bridgeport and then follow the shore until over the northern part of New Rochelle, where they shift their course to fly to their New York terminal at the Teterborough airport.

The more northerly route has been advocated as a part of the government airway by Captain Clarence M. Knox, of this city, chief deputy state aviation inspector, and secretary of the Hartford commission, because of the better visibility offered flyers away from the seashore and its fogs. The proposed route of Waterbury and Danbury, Captain Knox pointed out can probably be provided with as many emergency landing fields as the present route. Waterbury has a landing field on Mount Tobe under consideration and Danbury is working on what Captain Knox says can be made into a very good aviation field there.

AUTO CRASHED INTO PARK ARCH IN BRIDGEPORT

BRIDGEPORT, Oct. 3—(AP)—An automobile driven by an alleged intoxicated driver, crashed into the Perry Memorial stone arch at the entrance to Seaside park early this morning and was completely demolished. The driver escaped serious injury but a passenger in the car was badly injured. He is in St. Vincent's hospital in a serious condition.

Andrew Savage, 40, is the victim in the hospital while Antonio Ruzzis, 36 was the driver of the car, who was arrested and held in bonds of $200.

Patrolman Michael J. Herchik, several blocks away heard the crash and on arriving on the scene found Savage hurled free from the wreckage while the operator was pinned against the steering wheel and dash board. Savage was removed to the hospital while the driver was treated at the Emergency hospital and later taken to police headquarters where he was locked up.

NEVER DRINK, SMOKE OR TELL DIRTY STORIES

IOWA CITY, Iowa, Oct. 3—(AP)—"Never drink, smoke, or tell dirty stories," is the formula given today by the Right Rev. Arthur Foley Winnington-Ingram, lord bishop of London as the formula for an active old age. Appearing today at a fraternity house he talked informally with students of the University of Iowa before delivering a sermon as his last admonition to Iowans before entering Illinois tomorrow to continue his study of youthful Americans.

PRIMA DONNA TETRAZZINI TO WED PETRO VERNATI

FLORENCE, Italy, Oct. 3—(AP)—Mme. Tetrazzini, the opera singer, and Petro Vernati have decided to be married in Rome on October 15. Their marriage originally was set for October 1 at Florence, but difficulties arose because according to Italian law, a marriage ceremony must take place in a city or town where either the bride or groom reside. Both Mme. Tetrazzini and Signor Vernati are domiciled in Rome.

The singer was born in Florence and had expressed a desire to marry there.

TOWN ELECTION TODAY MAY DEVELOP SOME CONTESTS

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Oct. 3—Monday is election day for the town of Windham but the interest taken therein is now expected to prove second to that taken in the world's baseball series, except in circles where there is a definite axe to grind. However, it is known that some of the candidates have been doing considerable quiet-approaching around town, and there may be surprises which will refute predictions of a light vote.

The field as it now stands consists of a democratic board of assessors, republican board of selectmen, democratic control of the school board and a democrat for tax collector. The recent resignation of John R. Pickett, democratic chairman of the board of assessors, leaves a choice open for two assessors at this election. For this office the candidates are: Republican, Chauncey E. MacFarlane and George E. Gifford; democrats: Lawrence S. Casey and Michael L. Falvey. Lewye G. Gerry enters the political arena this year, as candidate for board of relief, with Alexis Caisse as his opponent. For selectmen, the republican standard bearers are the present incumbents, Ernest P. Chesbro and Charles Larrabee. These experienced selectmen are pitted against Robert O. Snow and Jeremiah Healy. George H. Spencer, republican and Charles M. Holbrook democrat, are candidates for agent of the town deposit fund. The non-competitive candidates for auditors are Charles L. Boss, republican and Conrad Dubeau, democrat.

There is indication of a tussle for the tax collectorship. Bert F. More, democrat and present incumbent, seeks re-election while Lester H. Elish, republican personal tax collector, is also out for the office. The non-competitive candidates for registrars of voters are A. Linn Weatherhead, republican, [illegible] omas A. Shea, democrats. Of the following-named three school [illegible] ill be elected: Ray- and Whitney R. King, [illegible] m A. Buck and Wil- [illegible], democrats. Candi- dates Parker and King are former committeemen and Mr Sweeney was nominated by the democrats to succeed his father, the late William J. Sweeney, a member of the board for many years.

Then comes the clash of the constabulary. Some genuine veterans are included in the list of candidates for constables. They are, republican, Alfred P. Abbe of South Windham, Wilbur G. Stevens of North Windham, Clarence E. Avery of South Windham and Ralph J. Lussier of this city. Democrats, Joseph Peck, William D. Kelley, John T. Miekle and Thomas W. Doyle, of this city.

The polls in the four districts will be open from 6 a. m. to 5 p. m. Voting in the first district will be in the town building, at the High street entrance; second district on the second floor of the old town building on Church street; third district, voting booth corner of Ives and Mill street, near railroad crossing; fourth district, voting booth on Flora Maine land on Pleasant street, opposite entrance to South street. Electors residing in North Windham and Windham will cast their ballots at the third district voting booth, and those from South Windham in the fourth district.

Upon announcement of the election returns at the town building Monday evening, the meeting will be adjourned to Saturday afternoon at two o'clock at the town hall when the business of the meeting will be transacted, including the reports of town officials, authorizing the selectmen and treasurer to borrow specific amounts of money to meet current expenses and making the customary appropriation, $350 to the Willimantic Welfare Bureau; $950 to St. Joseph's hospital and $100 for the Windham Center Library.

A. HALE BENNETT FOR SHERIFF NOMINATED BY DEMOCRATS

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Oct. 3—A. Hale Bennett of Canterbury was placed in nomination as candidate for sheriff, at the Windham county democratic convention held in the town hall here Saturday afternoon. The attendance was poor, but five of the fifteen towns in the county being represented. Seven of the fourteen delegates present were from Windham. Valentine L. Murphy, of the state central committee, was chairman and Mrs. Cora Hawes of Canterbury was clerk. Daniel Smith, of Brooklyn presented the name of Mr. Bennett and the choice was made unanimous without seconding the nomination. The county committee for the ensuing two years was chosen as follows: Valentine L. Murphy, of Windham, Edward Keegan, Thompson and [illegible] Bingood, Killingly.

UNION RELIGIOUS SERVICES OPEN SUNDAY AFTERNOON

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Oct. 3—The first in a series of union religious services, a cooperative endeavor by all the Protestant churches of this city and surrounding towns to promote the cause of religion, was held at the First Baptist church here at three o'clock Sunday afternoon. Milton S. Rees, D. D., of Rochester, N. Y., was the preacher, his sermon being an appeal for the recognition of religion as the fundamental human need. Mrs. M. S. Rees directed union choirs and orchestras, in a great musical program at both services, including large delegations from surrounding towns led by their respective pastors the auditorium of the church was crowded. The first evening service was held at 7:45 o'clock in the church, also under the direction of Dr. and Mrs. Rees. The arrangements for the religious revival were made by a representative committee of one hundred from the laity and clergy of nineteen churches of the vicinity.

Willimantic shows a gain in the number of yearly arrests for intoxication, according to figures collected from the police records by the Moderation League, Inc., of New York city and published in a pamphlet entitled "A National Survey of Conditions Under Prohibition." With the Volstead act going into effect in 1919 there was a drop with a rapid rise throughout the state in 1923. The year 1917 was the high year for Willimantic, with 317 arrests. This numbered lowered to an average of 100 less in the two years following. The number was below 100 in 1920, 1921 and 1922, but has since increased, being 148 in 1923, 138 in 1924, and 145 in 1925.

SERVICES RESUMED SUNDAY IN BAPTIST AUDIENCE ROOM

(Special to the Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Oct. 3—Morning worship at the Baptist church today was held in the newly fitted and redecorated audience room, which has been closed all summer.

The services there, with extra attractive features, coupled with the rally day exercises in the Sunday school, went to make up a significant day in the church's history. At the morning session, opportunity was afforded a large audience to see and admire the work done, including the setting of new electric side-lights, with modern candle fixtures.

The floral decorations came in for their share of admiration, they being gentians, roses, zinnias, dahlias, gladioli and a handsome basket of Lavender Queen asters, from Mrs. F. H. Gilbert, in memory of her mother, Mrs. Lucy Jeffers. Mrs. James B. Palmer placed roses and fringed gentians in several of the memorial windows, commemmorating their donors.

The musical program under the direction of Mrs. G. H. Prior, chorister, included two solos, Above and Be Still, Gounod, If With All Your Heart (from Elijah), Mendelssohn, sung by Chas. Edw. Prior, Jr., solo tenor, in the United Congregational church of Bridgeport. Mr. Prior was accompanied by th organist, Miss Ellen R. Prior.

Other numbers of the program were: Prelude, Maestoso, McDowell; "Offertory", Lordon; anthem, Rejoice in The Lord, Stults; Postlude, March Romaine, Gounod.

John E. Phillips the church's senior deacon, gave an interesting talk on the early hardship of its history, pointing out the high spots along its line of advancement, since the founding by Rev. Benejah Cook, in 1840.

George H. Prior, who has had charge of the repairs, redecorations and change in light scheme, told the story about what was needed and what was done, in a manner proving of absorbing interest to his hearers.

The pastor, Rev. E. E. Scates spoke briefly on the necessary rededication of human lives to Christian service.

Tyler O. Gilbert, superintendent of the Sunday school, conducted the attractive exercises of Rally day, which an audience of 186 thoroughly enjoyed. The following program, arranged by Mrs. R. A. Wilbur, Misses Ellen Prior and Emma Dearnle, was given in a very pleasing manner by the classes participating Song, "Jesus Loves Me," by primary room; recitations, Welcome to Rally Day, Herman Tripp; Your Invitation, Earle Gilbert; exercise, Our Plan, Ruth Cartcart, Mildred Gilbert, Marion Wilbur.

Duet, The Life Worth While, Misses Florence Quimby and Emma Beardsley; exercise, Sheaves of Service, Arthur Gray, Chester Sweet, William Brooster, Arthur Tripp, Clarence Sweet.

In connection with the extra programs of the day, the evening services held much of special attraction. The admirable musical numbers were supplemented by two solos by Mrs. Prior, Soft Southern Breeze (from Rebekah) Barnby, Thanks Be To God, Dixon, which were sung in connection with the following choir selections: Prelude, Andantino-Lemare; offertory, To a Wild Rose, McDowell; anthem, Saviour, Breathe an Evening Blessing, Creswell; postlude in G, Scotson-Clarke.

The speaker of the evening was Rev. Elbert E. Gates of Hartford, executive secretary of the Connecticut Baptist convention. Charles Edward Prior of Bridgeport, treasurer of the convention, gave a random recollection talk, on many matters of local interest with which his years of connection with the Jewett City Baptist church have made him familiar. No more delightful meetings in the newly dedicated edifice, could possibly have been achieved by the committee that had the programs in charge.

Health Officer Dr. G. H. Jennings stated Sunday that the quarantine on dogs would be over at noon today (Monday).

A triduum for the French-speaking people commenced Sunday evening at St. Mary's church and will continue this (Monday) and Tuesday evenings. Rev. Father Gabriel, A. A., of the Assumption college, Worcester, is the preacher.

DOG QUARANTINE LIFTED IN PLAINFIELD-GRISWOLD

(Special to the Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Oct. 3—Every dog in the towns of Plainfield and Griswold will stand right up on end and do a Charleston upon reading this—if dogs read. The quarantine that has kept them in durance vile is off at noon—Monday, October 4. They were ordered tied up as long ago as June 19, and since that date the world has looked like a mighty sour place to them. James M. Whittlesey, commissioner of domestic animals, sets forth elsewhere in this paper today, in an official way, that the quarantine period ends at noon this day. Owners who love their dogs and have been sympathetic over the necessity of keeping the animals more or less confined and restricted in their movements will be among those who will feel a thrill of happiness over the arrival of the end of the quarantine period. The dogs may be excused if they hold a convention to celebrate the event. Rabid dogs that ran at large in Plainfield and Griswold in early June caused the quarantine. These dogs took a bite at people here and there and the situation was such that a rigid quarantine was ordered. Chief Special Deputy Howard A. Elliott of the domestic animal department checked up the facts and the restrictive order soon issued. In all the time that the quarantine has been in force Plainfield and Griswold people as a whole have obeyed it rigidly. A few dogs got loose from time to time, but the general observance of the order was such that officials were gratified.

ELECTION DAY CONTESTS AND SPLIT TICKETS CERTAIN

DANIELSON, Oct. 3—Monday is election day in Killingly. The polls will open in the town hall at 8 o'clock. The outstanding feature of the election is the hot campaign for places on the board of selectmen. John A. Gilbert, at present first selectman, as for years past, and Napoleon P. Gingras, also a member of the board, are the republican candidates to succeed themselves. On the democratic side Alcott D. Sayles, democratic member of the present board, is a candidate to succeed himself and his running mate is A. E. Hall. Only three of these four candidates can be elected, as the Killingly board is made up of three members. There is harmony in the ranks of the republican party. There is dissension among the battalions of democrats.

The row in the democratic ranks grows out of the fact that 40 more votes than the checklist called for were found in the ballot box at the democratic caucus in the contest in which Alcott D. Sayles was declared the nominee, over John Ryan of Dayville.

There will be plenty of slashing in the selectmen's fight. Straight tickets among the democrats will not be too plentiful. The rancor the caucus engendered remains. The ranks of the republicans will be raided for votes for one or the other of the democratic candidates.

Specimen ballots have been gobbled up as never before by partisans in this fight—and this indicates split tickets galore. The voters are having these ballots handed to them marked for a cutting bee. Republican leaders are only concerned with as is democratic row to the extent of protecting their own rank and file from injudicious giving away of votes to the possible end that their own candidates for selectmen may be defeated. That is something for the republicans to think about, no matter how much their sympathies may be swayed, one way or the other, in the other parts of town in the second district, including Dayville, Goodyear, Attawaugan and Ballouville, the democratic dissension is particularly marked. Few democrats up there will vote a straight party ticket. They have a grievance and intend to register it at the polls. They vow that they upset of harmony in the democratic ranks will never be settled until it is settled right, whether at this election or some future one.

SUPPLY OF MOONSHINE AT CHARLES ABDALLAH'S

(Special to the Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Oct. 3—Charles Abdallah of Mechanic street will come to the Killingly town court this (Monday) morning to plead to charges having to do with violations of the liquor law. Saturday night Deputy Sheriff Charles E. Ayer and Officer John Gebert of the Danielson police raided the Abdallah home and brought away several quarts of something alleged to be moonshine whiskey. Abdallah has been under suspicion of having kept liquors for years. As far back as the early period of prohibition Deputy Sheriff Ayer went to him with an admonition to be more circumspect. Years past and developments were such that the sheriff had again last July to warn Abdallah. Complaints against the place continued to come in and Saturday night's raid resulted.

Sunday at 11 o'clock the body of Alfred E. Smith, 78, arrived here by train from Somerville, Mass., and was taken in charge by Undertaker A. F. Wood. Burial was in Westfield cemetery. The services for Mr. Smith had been held in Somerville.

Mr. Smith died September 30, after suffering a cerebral hemorrhage. Fifty years ago he was a resident of Wauregan, but since that time has lived in the vicinity of Boston. He died at the home of his son, Everett E. Smith, with whom he had been making his home.

Another real estate transaction of importance is that in which the Danielson inn property has passed by purchase into the possession of Joseph Natorski from F. C. Newberry of Wethersfield. The inn is one of Danielson's two hotels and has been a hostelry for nearly half a century. It includes about 40 rooms.

After the week end Mr. Natorski, who has been in business here for a number of years, stated that he will make extensive repairs to the property to put it into first class condition. These repairs, already underway, involve interior work. The outside of the hotel is to be painted before cold weather sets in. Eventually Mr. Natorski will remove his business from the Keystone block where he has been located for a long time, to the basement of the hotel, unoccupied for a number of years. The hotel business is to continue under its present management.

Funeral services for Charles Clemons who died at Dayville the past week, were conducted at the undertaking rooms of L. E. Kennedy, Sunday afternoon by Rev. John R. Pratt of Brooklyn Congregational church. Burial was in the South cemetery at Brooklyn. Relatives acted as bearers.

Funeral services for Charles W. Johnson, 82, who died Friday afternoon, were conducted Sunday afternoon at the undertaking rooms of Martin E. Burns by Rev. William Swainson, pastor of the Congregational church at Dayville. Mr. Johnson had been a resident of Danielson for a number of years.

He was a veteran of the Civil war having entered the service April 6, 1861, as a member of Company E, 24th Maine infantry, serving nine months in this organization and then being discharged. He re-enlisted in the 30th Maine infantry and served until discharged on August 25, 1865. Mr. Johnson leaves a daughter, Mrs. Charles Randall, and a grandson, John Randall, both of Meredith, N. H. Burial was in Westfield cemetery.

CONNECTICUT WOOL MEN COMING TO COUNTRY CLUB

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Oct. 3—Connecticut wool men, including salesmen who cover this part of the state and Connecticut woolen and worsted manufacturers, are to hold their annual outing on October 7, at the Putnam Country club. It is thought that there will be more than one hundred at the outing. Some thing over $150 will be spent for the prizes. One of the features of the day will be the dinner at the club house. The top floor of the Putnam Inn has been reserved for the visitors.

STATE IS MOST LIBERAL IN LOCAL TRADE SCHOOL

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Oct. 3—Evening classes at the Putnam State Trade school will begin Monday, October 4. Each year the school spends about three thousand dollars for the benefit of those who wish to perfect themselves in some vocation or to learn a new trade, thus fitting and improving themselves in a new line of endeavor.

The new addition to the school is being rushed to completion, to take care of the greatly increased enrollment in the day school. The evening classes four nights a week, but each pupil is given two nights a week training as the departments alternate. On Tuesdays and Fridays the machine shop, textile departments, electrical and sewing departments are in session. Monday and Thursday sessions are held in the carpentry, drafting and cooking departments.

The evening school affords a chance to those who are employed during the day. The same intensive training and instruction in the various branches are given in the evening classes as in the day classes. The offer of the state is without charge and those who wish to enroll may do so now at any time.

LOCAL WOMEN RECOVER AFTER SERIOUS AUTO MISHAP

(Special to the Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Oct. 3—Miss Eliza Reid money order clerk at Putnam postoffice, who has been in a Worcester hospital since last July following an automobile accident near Worcester has so far recovered that she is able to return to her home on South Main St. Miss Reid is now able to get about on crutches and it is thought that she will entirely recover and not be crippled. he had a broken pelvic bone, broken ribs and many bruises.

Mrs. Thomas Duffey, who was injured while in the same car with Miss Reid, is expected home some time this week. She also had a badly broken pelvic bone and many other injuries, but no broken ribs.

"Steeple Tom" Fitzpatric is erecting a lightning rod on the chimney of Mill No. 1 of the Grosvenordale company at Grosvenordale. The stack rises 150 feet and in order to get his rigging fastened to the top of the chimney, Mr. Fitzpatric flew a kite over it, to which grappling irons were attached. It was a most interesting procedure and his manoeuvers were watched by a large crowd, but he got the rigging where he wanted it.

To hear the first and second ball games in the series there were large crowds around all the radio dealers salesrooms and there were but few home sets that were not in use. Graham McNamee is held in high favor here as an announcer and his running description of the game, with never a fine point missed and his comments on the side, are a course of delight to hearers.

Postmaster A. Macdonald gives notice that on and after Monday, October 11 the postoffice is to close at 7 o'clock in the evening. VOLUNTOWN

SCHOOL CHILDREN'S FAIR PROVES VERY MERITORIOUS

The annual fair given by the pupils of the town schools was held in Union hall Friday evening of last week and was an success in every way. The attendance was good, the exhibits were excellent and the program very entertaining. The success of the affair repaid, in some measure the efforts of teachers and pupils as everybody seemed to work hard and deserved success.

The hall had all the aspects of the exhibition halls of the larger fairs. There were splendid specimens of all kinds of fruits, vegetables, flowers, cooking and fancy work, all shown by the children. There was a poultry and pet animals section and here were shown pet dogs, cats and kittens, guinea pigs, a parrot, bantams, etc.

During the evening the following program given by the children was well received by the large audience, as was shown by the spontaneous applause that followed each number.

The Wheels of Industry in the town of Voluntown were stopped last week end and will probably be still for some time. Many old hands regret the passing of the Briggs Mfg. Co., as they have been fair employers and have had very little labor troubles at their plants. The only hands that are working in these mills today are the men employed in No. 1 mill, breaking up machinery and turning it into junk. It seems too bad that this beautifully situated town, with a healthy climate, a splendid water privilege and a community of law-abiding citizens should be without some kind of a staple industry.

The Breakfast Room Which I Remember Best

"I HAVE traveled almost the world over. I have been the frequent guest in many beautiful homes in Europe and America. Have eaten countless breakfasts amid entrancing surroundings and prepared by exceptional cooks. But the occasions which I best remember are the breakfasts served in the sunny room here pictured.

"Breakfast to me is the ceremonial meal of the day. I want it in cheerful surroundings, with congenial company. I want inviting outlooks, flowers arranged by an artist, sunlight on the glassware. Then simple food served in the daintiest way.

"But, above all, a royal cup of coffee. I have studied coffee from tree to cup to become a connoisseur. Exquisite coffee is to me the glory of a breakfast. They serve it always in this room — La Touraine (Extra), brewed in the perfect way. They send a thousand miles to get it every week.

"I have often drunk coffee in the Ritz in Paris, whose coffee is famed the world over. I have drunk it in English coffee houses where good coffee had its birth. But I give to La Touraine (Extra) the pinnacle place as they serve it in this room. No ordinary coffee will ever satisfy one who has tasted that supreme creation."

— Extract from letter to the W. S. Quinby Company

Interesting facts about La Touraine (Extra) Coffee

It is the largest-selling coffee in New England, the birthplace of fine coffees in America. In this home of exacting coffee critics, it is considered the supreme result of 237 years of coffee development.

It is the coffee served in many dining places famous for their coffees. In all Statler Hotels, for instance. In the magnificent Shoreland of Chicago. In countless country homes which study fine hospitality.

The blend combines the four finest coffees that grow. Each comes from a different country, each is the pride of a nation. Each derives its excellent flavor from one of the rarest soils of the earth.

Three of the coffees combined in this blend cost 50% more than ordinary coffee, and 25% more than Sao Paulo, the prize coffee of Brazil. One is so rare that only 30,000 bags are grown yearly.

The formula for this blend is a secret, carefully preserved. Coffee experts spent 20 years in perfecting it. No other blend has been made to resemble it. Those who find here their ideal flavor can find it nowhere else.

Mr. E. J. Butler, the noted coffee expert, personally tests, tastes and selects all coffees used in this blend. His duty is to maintain, without regard to cost, this premier coffee flavor. He pays any price necessary to combine in La Touraine (Extra) the maximum delights.

La Touraine (Extra) is sold direct to retail grocers. This to save middlemen's profits. It is sold in double sealed cartons, not in cans. These and other economies—about 11 cents per pound—pay for the extra quality. Thus users get this matchless coffee without a fancy price.

TONIGHT'S TOWN MEETING

The annual town meeting provides a great opportunity for the townspeople which is unfortunately not appreciated in too many instances. That great privilege of getting together and democratically by majority action what ... in the same manner disposition ... propositions ... scheduled for action ... not be regarded ... it is a privilege ... duty involved in the interest of good government.

A town meeting should have the attendance of at least a number of the townspeople as can get there since it is the business of the corporation of which they are stockholders that is at stake.

Then at the annual town meeting there is much business to be transacted, business that involves large expenditures, concerns the whole town and means that such taxes as will be necessary to meet them will have to be paid by the citizens.

There is not only the regular departments of the town which must be taken care of but there are certain expenditures which have been made for a number of years for the good of the community and certain other extras in which it is important that there should be an expression of the sentiment of as large a number of the townspeople as possible. It is a time to ask questions and to find out about any of the items that are not understood.

For the first time Norwich is offered the opportunity of possessing a town forest under a plan which deserves considerable attention. The wooded point of land on the Thames known as Perch Rock is especially attractive and it doesn't appear that the generous proposition of the Misses Lucas is one that could wisely be disregarded. Its possibilities in a growing community make a most favorable impression.

Whatever is done tonight in disposition of the several matters in the warning should, however, be by the action of such a number that it can be considered representative of the townspeople. By all means avoid the situation of leaving the business of such an important meeting to a small group.

CLEAN CELLARS A PREVENTIVE

In connection with the observance of fire prevention week, the suggestion has been made in another city that the citizens through their own initiative and as an excellent bit of prevention work also make a clean-up week with special stress being laid upon the cellars.

The suggestion will be regarded as a pertinent one if a bit of thought is given to the condition of many cellars, especially in the business section of town, where quantities of inflammable materials are allowed to accumulate at the very point where once they became ignited they are certain to cause serious losses.

In the matter of fire prevention there isn't much that is of greater importance than eliminating the rubbish heaps, getting rid of the papers and boxes that are the accumulated results of business and disposing of those things which only need the application of a match or the firebrand in order to develop a bad fire.

Because the rubbish or the tinderlike kindling are out of sight in a closet or a cellar doesn't overcome the danger. It simply increases it and the longer such conditions are tolerated the bigger becomes the invitation to those who are careless to start something in the way of a fire which will mean unpleasant results.

How many are so flush with dollars that they are willing to have them burned in such a manner? How many have the moral right to endanger the property of their neighbors by maintaining such conditions? How many can justify those fire hazards when they stop to realize the menace that exists to those who reside in such buildings?

By all means there should be a response to this clean-up appeal wherever it is needed. Fire departments may endeavor to end the existence of dangerous conditions within the fire limits when known or when discovered, but a general cleaning up that will end the hazard for the time being and a policy that will prevent the return of such a condition would be of tremendous benefit in the prevention of fires. It is an easy way to avoid bad fire losses and it would probably be surprising if it were known how many really need to respond to such an appeal.

A COSTLY LESSON

Florida is going to be brought to a greater realization of its situation and the need of providing better protection for itself as the result of the recent disaster. It is going through much the same sort of experience that other regions have. Florida isn't going to be abandoned because it has had storms, any more than the slopes and foothills of volcanoes are depopulated because there is an occasional eruption. Florida has seen where it can provide better protection and it can be expected to rebuild with that understanding in mind.

Perhaps one of the surprising things in connection with the disaster is that while the buildings seem to have been prettily heavily protected by way of insurance against fire, there was slight provision against severe storms in spite of the character of many of the buildings and the knowledge that bad storms could be expected.

According to figures which have been compiled there will be a storm loss, covered by insurance, to the amount of $7,500,000 in which 150 companies are interested, but that is only a mere trifle in comparison with the destruction wrought. The storm conditions in Florida make the insurance rates high but that very fact shows the importance of being protected against the very conditions which can be expected with even greater regularity than fires.

Experience is a costly teacher, and Florida isn't the first to find it out. Earthquake regions have altered the manner of constructing buildings to meet conditions which is felt may some day be repeated. Florida will build differently than it has for it is in the path of the West Indian hurricanes and while the next may not be as severe as the last there is no telling what it will be, and the substantial construction like other protection will pay in the end.

Such might have been strenuously preached before the storm without getting much attention, but it will be a great surprise if there has to be much pounding to send it home in the future.

COURIER-JOURNAL'S ANNIVERSARY

The New Haven Journal-Courier observed its 150th anniversary by publishing on Saturday an edition of 128 pages which is a number of great historical value in connection with the city as well as the newspaper.

The Journal-Courier is one of the few newspapers that can point to such an age. New Haven had a small newspaper as far back as 1758 which was known as the Gazette. One of those connected therewith, Thomas Green, left for Hartford in 1764 and started the Courant, also long lived, but remained there but a few years, whence he returned to New Haven and resumed his newspaper activity with his brother in the publication of the Connecticut Journal and New Haven Post Boy afterwards absorbing the Gazette and many others which have since been started in the Elm City. For the past eight decades it has borne the combination name by which it is now known, and with which the Carrington family has been so closely and favorably identified since 1835.

It was some 17 years ago that the paper began to feel the new influence which came with the making of Colonel Norris G. Osborn editor in chief, now the dean of Connecticut newspaper men, who had for many years previous been prominently identified with Connecticut journalism, while for the past six years there has also come to it the added influence of Associate Editor Amos P. Wilder.

The Journal-Courier carries its years well. It is extended the heartiest congratulations and there is confidence in the belief that it will reach its bicentennial with no evidences, except good ones, of the earmarks of age.

MR. HUGHES' APPOINTMENT

We cannot call to mind any better selection the president might have made in filling the vacancy in the international court of abitration at The Hague than was made in the choice of Charles E. Hughes. His qualifications are beyond question, his ability is outstanding and the prestige which his presence as a member of such a court will give this country is the greatest possible.

It is inevitable that the question will be asked as to the meaning of this appointment at this particular time. Time will disclose what sort of a bearing it may have upon the relationship of this country to the world court, adherence to which just now rests in the balance with the individual response by the other countries to our reservations awaited.

The court at The Hague is a court of arbitration to which the countries may take their problems. It differs from the world court in that international disputes must be submitted to it by the nations in the league or that adhering thereto. The former court has, however, been inactive since the world court came into existence, and it remains to be seen whether the filling at this time of the vacancy at The Hague, which has prevailed since a year ago last August, has any special significance relative to our attitude. It is not to be overlooked, however, that it shows our disposition in regard to arbitration so far as maintaining our part in the international court with which we are already connected since none but the best selection was made in filling the vacancy. It may be an honor to the former secretary of state but it is certain that he will do honor to the country.

WOMAN IN LIFE AND IN THE KITCHEN

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

Soft tissue paper is splendid for polishing mirrors.

Silver will remain untarnished if packed away in dry flour.

Butter custard cups before filling and they will be easier to wash.

Dry your dish cloth in the open air and keep it sweet and odorless.

Tablecloths will keep fresh much longer if folded neatly after each using.

Warm the new shoes before wearing and they will be much more comfortable.

When you make chicken soup try adding a grating of nutmeg just before serving.

Sugar may be replaced by honey when making puddings. In rice pudding it gives a better flavor and is preferable.

When making a baked custard make a point of warming the milk before adding the eggs as there is less chance of it turning out thin and watery.

To clean painted ceilings use plenty of warm water, with a little ammonia, soda or borax in it. A sponge is much better for this purpose.

Keep a piece of blotting paper under your bureau cover over the wood. Perfumes and liquids accidentally spilled will have less opportunity to injure the wood.

A good substitute for a small funnel such as is used in filling salt and pepper boxes may be made by utilizing the corner of an envelope and cutting off the tip of the corner.

When steel becomes rusty rub it with a piece of emery paper that has been dipped in turpentine. Polish with a fresh piece of emery paper and you will be delighted with the result.

In baking potatoes place them in the broiler instead of in the oven. They will cook much more quickly and the flavor will be much improved by the quick cooking. A saving in gas is also a result not to be scoffed at.

FLOOR POLISH

A good floor polish may be made by mixing four ounces of beeswax, a piece of resin the size of a hickory nut, and one quart of turpentine. Pound the resin and cut up the beeswax. Then melt together. When they are melted take them from the fire and stir in a quart of turpentine. Rub a little of this on the floor with a piece of flannel and then polish with a dry flannel and a brush.

TREATING AN OILCLOTH

If the kitchen oilcloth looks shabby, as it does when the colors begin to wear off, it may be made to look equal to new by being treated in the following manner: Use brown paint—four or five cans will cover a large floor. Choose a time when the kitchen can be closed for two days. Coat the oil cloth carefully and when thoroughly dry give it a good polishing with furniture cream.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY

Face cloths made of three thicknesses of white mosquito netting are very satisfactory. They keep white, dry quickly and are especially good when traveling.

Massage or exercise is good for thin hands with enlarged knuckles. Although the massage cannot alter the bones of the hand, it helps distribute the flesh so that the fingers will taper smoothly instead of being knotty at the joints. The forearm should be held up, elbow resting in a table and the massage begun from the fingers downward. A food cream should be used for the massage.

After a hot bath, during which the feet have been benefited by a hard brushing all over with a rather stiff brush, the toenails should be cut—not in pointed or even rounded outline, as we cut the finger nails, but straight across. They should then be filed smooth and carefully cleaned, and the cuticle should be pushed back rather than cut, using an orangewood stick.

A very simple remedy for oily scalp in its early stages has a sulphur base. It is made by mixing 2 ounces flowers of sulphur with ounce borax and 1 pint boiling water. When cool, pour the lotion into a bottle and let it stand three or four days, shaking it up occasionally. Then strain and apply to the scalp. As sulphur is very insoluble in water it is necessary to shake the liquid well before using. Fifteen drops of oil of bergamot or other floral essence may be added to perfume the mixture if desired. Moisten the scalp thoroughly with this lotion three times a week, then massage vigorously for at least 10 minutes.

WHAT IS A GOOD COMB?

A good comb has blunt teeth, to prevent scalp irritation; smooth teeth, to keep it from catching the hair. It must have both wide and fine teeth, or, better still, it should be twins—a wide-toothed comb to free the hair from tangles, and a fine-toothed comb for a variety of services where wide teeth won't suffice.

SAVE YOUR BLANKETS

If you will make end covers of muslin or cheesecloth for quilts and blankets you can keep them freshly laundered, with less wear and tear on the bedding than if the whole article must be cleaned so frequently.

KEEP IT CLEAN

It is very important to keep your vacuum cleaner brush clean. Empty the bag frequently, too, and see that the motor is oiled regularly at the places indicated in instructions given you with the machine.

LIKE NEW

A little turpentine poured over the hardened shoe polish will make it fine for use once more. Let it remain on the polish for about an hour to soften.

DICTATES OF FASHION

Reptile leathers hold their own in the shoe world. Pumps are cut higher of late, and heels are higher, too.

Coral color, an old-fashioned shade, is returning to prominence in the trimming of gray and putty-colored frocks.

The jabot may be large or small, or of any material, but it is rarely omitted from the smart frock in some version or other.

More popular than the tailleur developed all in one tone is the coat of plain color and the skirt of checked or plaid material.

A velveteen jacket worn over a straight dress of crepe de chine in harmonizing shade makes an ideal sport costume for early fall.

The fad for using both sides of crepe satin has produced street and afternoon dresses of elegant simplicity. No other trimming is needed than the contrast in surfaces.

The lace frock frequently has its lace coat or wrap to match. Often it is combined with chiffon of the exact shade.

Among the materials which will be extensively employed in the fashioning of autumn and winter frocks is moire, both in the dull finish and in a new lustrous finish which gives it the effect of metal cloth.

An extremely pretty costume for the two-year old consists of a frock of white piqua in coral, a short coat of the same material, also piped in color, and a wee sunbonnet which carries out the color scheme.

The use of peplums in tiered effects is a new development in fashion that is of distinct importance. It clearly indicates a departure from the prevailing straight line silhouette and gives opportunity for extremely interesting effects.

COAT LININGS ARE ELABORATE

Linings used in fur coats this season are extremely lovely since many of them are embroidered or appliqued with velvet flowers down the sidefronts or around the hem. Many furriers are showing unlined furcoats and permitting one to select one's own lining and floral design. This is far more sensible than showing a ready-lined coat since no two women have the dered linings placed in a coat for $25 at several shops.

VELVET USED FOR MANY HATS

Velvet seems to be the outstanding fabric for hats. Both dull and bright colors are used. Shapes vary from tams, crushed turbans and small-brimmed sports models to wide-brimmed affairs. Often two colors of velvet are combined in sort of a patch-work manner to form tam shapes. Many of the velvet tams in the shops must be draped and tacked to suit the wearer. Felt and grosgrain ribbon combine to form some of the smartest of tam or sports shapes, and though felt will be popular. It will undoubtedly be a season of velvet millinery.

LAUNDRY HINTS

Fur collars and cuffs may often be cleaned by rubbing them thoroughly with cornmeal soaked in gasoline.

One tablespoon of soap jelly added to each quart of water used in making starch will prevent the iron from sticking to the clothes.

When doing up your summer cretonnes, dip them in a thin starch, just strong enough to give them a light stiffening. This will make them look like new and keep them clean longer.

To press a hem, plaits or a large plain surface, take an old piece of cotton material (a pillow case would do) and after placing the material to be pressed with the right side down thoroughly wet the cloth and wring it out, place smoothly over the material and iron until dry. If this is done to one part of a dress, all parts must be treated in the same way, or the part pressed will be noticeable.

SOAP BARK FOR WOOL

Winter is coming and with it will come the washing of woolens. A soap bark solution is more satisfactory than soap or soap flakes for washing dark wools. It is easy to use and has good cleaning qualities. The material retains that soft feel and new appearance. There is no danger of the streaking or spotting which frequently results when soap is used and when the rinsing is insufficient.

Purchase of one ounce of soap tree bark from the druggist. Place the bark in a kettle, pour one quart of boiling water over it and allow it to simmer for one-half to three-quarters of an hour. Strain through cheese cloth. Use this liquid as a soap solution.

Prepare the lukewarm soft water for washing and proceed in the usual way. The soap bark solution will give a good suds, but will not feel soapy. Rinse in water of the same temperature. Squeeze the water out of the material, but do not twist in wringing, as this mats the wool fiber.

Extremes of temperature in drying are to be avoided. Freezing or extreme heat shrinks the material and makes it harsh. Press on the wrong side before entirely dry.

NON-DRIP CANDLES

Varnish the candles for use on the dinner table and let them dry out for a few days before using. Then you can feel satisfied that they will not drip on your pet "company" table linen.

A HINT

Before you start on a journey you should see that all your outer clothing is properly marked with identifying symbols. There often are mixups in Pullman dressing rooms, hotels, checkrooms, restaurants, etc.

CONCERNING WOMEN

Miss Lois Bannaway, aged 22 years, who handles the finances of Huron, S. D., is said to be the youngest woman city treasurer in the United States.

Mrs. Edna M. Bassett of Hollywood, Cal., director of the child placing bureau of Greece, has place 6,000 Greek orphans in homes during the past year.

The recent elections for members of the rural soviets in Russia saw much activity on the part of the peasant women, who in many villages outvoted the men.

The Countess de Chambrun, sister of Speaker of the House Longworth, after publishing a Life of Shakespeare, opened a sort of Shakespeare exposition in Paris.

Queen Mary of England is planning a nursery in Buckingham palace, for baby Princess Elizabeth, daughter of the duke and duchess of York.

The ex-Express Charlotte of Mexico, who is spending her last years of life in a Brussels, chateau, celebrated her 86th birthday recently.

Forty-five years a telegraph operator and never a single complaint against her by any of the thousands of customers with whom she has come in contact during that time is the record of Miss Ella F. Regan, veteran operator and manager of the telegraph office in one of the Boston railway stations.

THE HOME ARTIST

Faded mattings may be colored or even stenciled with a thick soft brush dipped in hot dye and evenly applied.

LOOSE STRANDS

If a thread works loose from a rug or carpet, do not pull it out, leaving a nasty vacancy in place of the thread. Cut it even with the other strands of the carpet and it will not be noticeable.

RECIPES

Dutch Peach Cake: Sift together two cups of flour, one-quarter of a cup of sugar, three level teaspoons of salt. Work in with the finger tips a quarter of a cup of shortening, add two peeled, chopped peaches and wet to a dough with one lightly beaten egg, added to a third of a cup of milk.

Spread the dough in a round, greased pan, press slices from two large peaches into the top and dredge the top with sugar and a very little ground cinnamon. Bake in a moderately hot oven.

Hot Spiced Tea: Make a spiced sirup by boiling in equal parts of sugar and water a few cloves, a few bits of cinnamon and a blade or two of mace. Just enough spices to flavor the sirup delicately. Remove spices; pour the syrup into individual pitchers and it should be hot, rather than cold when brought on, though in some high class tea rooms it is often cold. No cream is offered and the guests use the syrup to sweeten their tea instead of sugar.

The degree of spiciness of the syrup is purely a matter of taste, many hostesses preferring merely a suspicion of spice and a suggestion of its fragrance, especially when spiced tea is known to be a novelty to most of the guests.

Make the Most of Books

By James Hosmer Penniman, Litt. D.

Books Develops Thought

When you read a number of books on the same topic each throws light on the other and you get deeper, clearer ideas. You think more. One subject studied thoroughly has more educational value than many looked at superficially. But while there is the greatest culture value in taking up one line of thought and pursuing it as far as possible, the importance of the broad foundation to build on must always be kept before you. "What science and practical life alike need is not narrow men, but broad men sharpened to a point," says Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Enrico Malatesta, arrested in connection with the recent attempt on the life of Premier Mussolini, has been the acknowledged leader of the Italian anarchists for many years. He is usually spoken of as chief of the so-called philosophical Anarchists, as distinguished from the bomb-throwing element. Malatesta has had a tempestuous career. He was an Italian count, but shortly after reaching his majority renounced his title and estates in order to devote himself to the propaganda or anarchism. He was an ally of Bakunin, the founder of modern anarchism. In 1878 he organized an insurrection in Italy and led a band of insurgents against the government officers. He was captured, condemned and deported. In all he has spent more than a dozen years in various prisons. He was accused of being implicated in the assassination of King Humbert in 1900, but denied the charge.

YOUR HEALTH

FAIR, FAT AND FORTY—BUT WHY FAT?

Mark L. Emerson, M. D., Oakland, Cal. Member Gorgas Memorial Institute

Like President Roosevelt's cowboy who after visiting the circus, and viewing the giraffe, said, "There ain't any such animal," you can't be beautiful and fat, no more than you can be healthy and fat.

Life insurance companies won't insure you if you are too fat and movie companies won't employ you if you are overweight, unless you are taken on as a burlesque.

Even out of the movies fat people are the source of much amusement and the butt of many good-natured jibes. It is probably because they look so funny; but sooner or later it is a serious matter to be overweight.

When you are building a house you put up bricks and morter until the house is built, and when its finished you do not pile on more bricks and mortar just to make it look bigger, distorting your lines of symmetry and beauty.

When building up our stature, we force the feeding to make a strong structure, but after becoming mature and the structure of our body is complete, we should not keep on adding food and fat until we are bulging out all over. We should be about normal weight a 40 years of age, also at 50 and at ever other time of life.

The reason so many people get fat about 40 years of age is because they keep on overeating—eating all kinds of foods, principally starches, fats and sweets, bread and butter, hot cakes sweet cakes, pie, waffles, fat and cream. If you wish to be attractive at 40, and you certainly should be attractive at this age, then keep your weight normal and do not be a misfit.

Fair at 40, certainly try and be so, for that is the best time of life. But to be good looking and fat is as impossible as it is to be fat and in the best of health. If you are over-weight, do not commence taking some peculiar diet or special cure of which you know nothing, but go to se your family doctor so that you may be fair at 40—without the fat.

Only those have lived well who have not lived for themselves alone.

POETRY

The Modern St. Francis

A hundred students heard two men
In warm, impassioned plea
To yield to God and fit themselves
For holy ministry.
One promised ample competence
And homes equipped and fine,
Rich, cultured congregations,
And chance to rise and shine!
He promised long vacations,
And friendships strong and rare,
With travel to the old-world shrines,
And standing everywhere!
The other told of men in need,
Far, far beyond the sea;
Of poverty and ignorance,
Of vice and misery;
He told of nations in the dark
Without a ray of light,
Where Gospel truth was never heard,
And virtue out of sight!
He promised poverty and pain,
Disease may be, and death!
But oh, the need of those poor souls!
They heard with bated breath!
Not one responded to the first.
To him they gave scant heed!
But to the second twenty said,
"I'll go to those in need!"
Heroic souls are willing still
To suffer long, or die,
If thereby they may lift and lead
To Him who rules on high;
The ways of ease do not appeal
To right determined souls;
They give themselves to sturdy tasks,
And seek sublimer goals!
—Rev. William Wood.

To the Fringed Gentian

Thou blossom bright with autumn dew,
And colored with the heaven's own blue
That openest when the quiet light
Succeeds the keen and frosty night.

Thou comest not when violets lean
O'er wandering brooks and springs un sealed,
Or columbines, in purple dressed,
Nod o'er the ground-bird's hidden nest.

Thou waitest late, and comest alone,
When woods are bare and birds are flown,
And frost and shortening days portend
The aged year is near his end.

Then doth thy sweet and quiet eye
Look through its fringes to the sky
Blue—blue—as if that sky let fall
A flower from its cerulean wall.

I would that thus, when I shall see
The hour of death draw near to me,
Hope, blossoming within my heart,
May look to heaven as I depart.
—William Cullen Bryant

India is becoming modernized rapidly. It takes readily to western ideas, and goods which a few years ago sold only to the Europeans there and to the wealthy Indians are now demanded by the masses, and are on sale in all the larger centers as well as in the bazar districts of the smaller towns. American locks, sewing machines, aluminum ware, rifles, radios, canned goods, phonographs, hinges, nails, varnishes, watches crockery, scissors, clippers, and a host of other articles are now found throughout India, and in most instances, are prominently displayed and energetically pushed by the dealers

"Cascarets" for Headache, Colds, Constipation

To-night! Clean your bowels and stop headache, colds, sour stomach

Get a 10-cent box.

Take a Cascaret to-night to cleanse your Liver, Stomach and Bowels, and you will surely feel great by morning. You men and women who have headache, coated tongue, a bad cold, are bilious, nervous, upset, bothered with a sick, sassy, disordered stomach, or have backache and feel all worn out. Are you keeping your bowels clean with Cascarets—or merely forcing a passageway every few days with salts, cathartic pills or castor oil?

Cascarets immediately cleanse and regulate the stomach, remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry off the constipated waste matter and poison from the bowels.

Remember, a Cascaret to-night will straighten you out by morning. A 10-cent box from your druggist means healthy bowel action; a clear head and cheerfulness for months. Don't forget the children.

OBITUARY

Mrs. George F. Blackmar

Mrs. Harriet Stanton Blackmar, widow of George F. Blackmar, and mother of the late Dr. John S. Blackmar, died suddenly Saturday morning at the home of her daughter-in-law, Mrs. John S. Blackmar, No. 314 Broadway. Mrs. Blackmar was in the 75th year of her age. She was born in New York state and was the daughter of the late Rev. Robert Palmer Stanton and Harriet Jones Stanton. Practically all of her long life was passed in this city. She received her education in the public schools of Norwich and was a graduate of the Norwich Free Academy. For 48 years Mrs. Blackmar was a teacher in the Norwich public schools, most of her teaching service being at the Broadway school, retiring several years ago.

Mrs. Blackmar was a member of Faith Trumbull chapter, D. A. R., was a charter member of the Norwich Round Table and a member of Park Congregational church. Surviving are her daughter-in-law, Mrs. John S. Blackmar, with whom she resided, a nephew, Frederick Symington of New Haven, and two sisters-in-law, Mrs. Andrew Carey of Greeneville and Mrs. Daniel Preston, also of this city.

A woman of high ideals Mrs. Blackmar was an inspiration to her many friends. As a teacher in the public schools she left an example of conscientiousness and attainment for other public school teachers in this community to follow. She was faithful in every responsibility undertaken as was shown in her 48 years of school work. Mrs. Blackmar was admired and loved by an extremely large list of friends throughout this locality, all of whom will be shocked and grieved to learn of her sudden death. A true Christian life has been taken from the community in which she was highly esteemed, respected and admired.

Miss Catherine Murphy

After a short illness Miss Catherine Murphy died Saturday morning about 8:30 o'clock at her home, No. 32 Sherman street. She was born in Ireland and was the daughter of Mortimer and Mary McCarthy Murphy. Fifty years ago Miss Murphy came to this country and since that time had resided in Norwich. She was a devout member of St. Patrick's parish.

She Surviving are two sisters, Mrs. Ellen Shea, 10th street, New London, and Mrs. Alice Higgins of Ireland and a brother, Thomas Murphy of Quincy, Mass. Miss Murphy was well known in the Falls section and had many friends by whom she was highly esteemed.

DECLARES BIBLE IS MASTERPIECE IN LITERATURE

Although the Bible can now be read in 800 different languages and dialects there is no more beautiful version of the scriptures to be found in any language than in our own, declared William W. Ellsworth of New Hartford when he spoke Sunday evening at the Central Baptist church upon "The English Bible." Mr. Ellsworth delivered an address which was the same he had given 46 times last year before audiences in schools, colleges and churches considering the Bible as to its value from a literary standpoint.

He called it a model for short story writing and said that no one can be an effective writer of English without a knowledge of the Bible. Lincoln's Gettysburg address was so effective because it had the grand manner which we associate with the Bible and Lincoln would never have made the impression he did if it had not been for his knowledge of the Bible literature.

Mr. Ellsworth described in an interesting way the different translations, from that, of John Wycliff, who was the first to put the book into the language that the common people could read, down to the King James version and some of the modern translations of recent years. The King James version, he said, had helped more than any other thing to beautify the language which we use and he felt that the modern versions loss much of the dignity of that version and these later translators give little thought to the value of the musical phrase and rythm that is used in the King James version. The Bible, Mr. Ellsworth asserted, is the cornerstone of English literature and one of the chief forces that has put the English people into literary leadership.

REGISTRARS WILL RECEIVE APPLICATION FOR TO-BE-MADE

The registrars of voters for Norwich have announced that they will be in session on Tuesday from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. for the reception of applications for those who wish to be made voters this fall. The registrars will be in session in the different districts at the following places:

Mrs. Jerome Mayer (Sarle Plaut) is a director of the Hartford Women's club, which will hold a meeting of the club's governing board Monday of the week, the first to be tonight (Monday) in the ballroom of the Hotel Bond. Geoffrey O'Hara, Canadian singer and composer, will be heard on "Music and the Mind."

PLANNING FORT SHANTOK PILGRIMAGE TO BE EVENT FOR COLUMBUS DAY

An interesting program is being prepared by the chamber of commerce for the Fort Shantok pilgrimage on Columbus day, Tuesday, Oct. 12. Fort Shantok is the first state park in New London county and was made possible through the cooperation of the New London and Norwich chambers of commerce. The site is an historical one, commemmorating the friendship that existed between the Indians and the early colonial settlers.

It is expected that the Coast Guard Artillery band will render a concert through the efforts of the New London chamber. Prominent citizens of this county and state officials will give short addresses. The Boy Scouts, Camp Fire Girls, school children of Montville, and possibly the Independent Order of Red Men will have a part in the program. A number of Mohegan Indians will be present.

The purpose of the pilgrimage is to acquaint the people of the location of this new state reservation for the public. The park consists of about 120 acres, located about two miles from the state highway on the westerly side of the Thames river. Signs will be placed so that the roads will be properly marked. The selectmen of Montville are fixing the roads to the park so that they will be in good condition. The nearest entrance to the park from Norwich is just beyond Trading Cove, taking the left turn toward the river at what is known as the Sussman farm. The nearest approach from New London is to turn right at the witch hazel mill.

The state park commission has built a stockade around the old Indian burial ground, giving it a colonial aspect. A flight of 89 steps built of rough hewn timber has been built by the commission leading from a plateau to a ravine where water from an old Indian spring is available. All who can will find it of interest to visit the park on next Columbus day.

TRAFFIC ACCIDENTS ADD TO FIREMEN'S HAZARDS

The Norwich chamber of commerce is cooperating with the insurance department of the United States chamber of commerce in the nationwide observance of Fire Prevention week, which is being held during this week. Fire losses, both as regards human life and property, are increasing each year. The majority of these losses are due to carelessness and could be avoided. There are many aspects to the fire phase which deals with the accidents due to careless traffic.

More firemen are probably killed while on their way to fires than in the course of fire fighting. Numerous traffic tragedies occur every year in which members of fire department are involved. According to the insurance department of the United States chamber of commerce, one of the chief causes is the inherent tendency of motorists to race the apparatus to fires. Legislation can be devised which will curb this misdirected enthusiasm of motorists but it is not always necessary to go to this extreme. The average automobile driver does not understand the risk to which he is subjecting himself and the firemen by hurrying to the fire. It should be possible to impress upon every motorist that he should immediately stop his machine at the nearest curb as soon as he hears the fire engine siren or bell. Police departments should cooperate by warning offenders and can also assist in keeping automobiles at a safe distance from all fires.

Every person with normal hearing can immediately recognize the signals of fire engines as they respond to alarms. Sometimes however, it is difficult to note the direction from which they are coming and thinking it is safe to continue, the drivers have started across intersections only to find the fire trucks bearing down upon them. It must be remembered that the noise of the engines and sirens makes it difficult for the drivers of fire apparatus to hear approaches vehicles and furthermore the momentum of the trucks due to heavy weight and high speed is such that it may be difficult to stop them within a few feet. A safe procedure for the motorists to follow is to stop until there is no possibility of collision with the apparatus.

Collisions between two pieces of apparatus have occurred where excessive speed was being maintained. A slightly slower speed would delay the apparatus only a few seconds on the average run and should reduce accidents materially. Because of their responsibility the drivers of fire trucks should be specially trained. If they exercise a high degree of care and obtain full support from the public, the tragedies which are so common at the present time can be curtailed.

Y. M. C. A. SUNDAY SERVICES OPEN WELL ATTENDED

Notwithstanding other attractions and unusually fine weather, the first Sunday meeting of the season at the local Young Men's Christian association was attended by a large audience that practically filled the spacious gymnasium of the "Y" building and the service was most interesting and greatly enjoyed by all present. The meeting opened with the singing of "Onward Christian Soldiers," the scripture was read by General Secretary Edwin Hill and an earnest prayer was offered by Rev. J. J. Berger a Baptist clergyman who was temporarily in the city. Hugh Kinder furnished the music for the picture which was as usual very appropriate; Mr. Kinder also rendered a pleasing vocal solo, and between the reels sang the verses of "Where is My Wandering Boy Tonight", and the audience joined in the chorus. The feature picture was the first half of "Over the Hill" with Mary Carr the principal character. It is needless to say that the picture made a very deep impression, picturing as it did the typical mother with a large family, and the accompanying worries, and cares that well nigh broke her down, but she maintained a brave spirit through it all. The picture ended just when Mary Carr was surprised by the return of her boy for whom she mourned so much; it will be continued next Sunday at 4 o'clock.

Secretary Hill gave a brief talk and spoke in part as follows: "In the proverbs we read that 'A wise son maketh a glad father, but a foolish son is the heaviness of his mother.' The mother in this story was one of the kind whose advice and lead is well worth following, but alas some of her children did not follow her advice. The very name of the mother is, in a sense sacred, for the mother of "The Master" was Mary, you remember. A good mother is one of God's greatest blessings; a mother's love is closest akin to the love of God. I am reminded of those lines, "If I were drowned in the deepest sea, I know whose love would flow down to me, Mother o' Mine." Because of mother's great influence, how important that she be the right kind of a mother. Alas, some are not the right kind. America will be to a large extent what her mothers are, and I hope and pray that our mothers may be of the kind that lead her children to follow; her as she follows the lead of the Christ. One of the saddest things in all the world is to see a boy or a girl become a prodigal and thereby trample on mother's love. Hundreds of mothers in America are wondering where their boy or girl is while I speak to you. If you can get a prodigal child to think often enough of his worthy mother, he will eventually turn his footsteps back to her and her God. Nothing will comfort a godly mother quite so much as to know in her last moments that her children are following her Christ. Let every mother be what she ought to be, and let every son and daughter contribute his and her share of harmony to the home life.

Rev. Mr. Berger pronounced the benediction. L. R. Church and E. H. Davis had charge of the ushering.

ACCLAMATION VOTES GIVES SHERIFF BROWN RENOMINATION

Sheriff Sidney A. Brown of New London, was by acclamation renominated to his sixth consecutive term at the republican county convention here at noon Saturday in the town hall. The convention was called to order by Chairman Andrew P. Davies of Norwich, chairman of the county convention committee. On motion of Perry J. Hollandersky, Judge Lewis B. Crandall was named as permenent chairman of the convention. Judge William A. Wilcox of Stonington was elected secretary.

On motion of Attorney Max Boyer, Chairman Crandall appointed the county committee as follows: Perry J. Hollandersky, New London; Frank W. Batty, Mystic; L. P. Smith, Lebanon.

Sheriff Brown's name was presented to the convention by State's Attorney Arthur M. Brown of Griswold, who said:

SIDNEY A. BROWN

"It has been my privilege to attend many republican convention but there has been none so peaceful as this one. We here today are all of one mind. When a county sheriff candidate is talked of, we always think of one man. It is my pleasure to present the name of one who has ably and impartially served as county sheriff for over 20 years. As long as I have been practicing law he has been sheriff and since I was named state's attorney I have had close contact with the sheriff and the sheriff's office. Sheriff Brown has made an ideal official by his strength of character and ability. He has filled the bill in every way. It gives me great pleasure to nominate this ideal sheriff and close personal friend, Sidney A. Brown, of New London."

The nomination was seconded by Attorney Max Boyer. On motion of Mr. Hollandersky the chair appointed the following committee to wait upon Sheriff Brown and escort him to the platform: State's Attorney Arthur M. Brown, L. P. Smith and Mr. Hollandersky.

Sheriff Brown, in accepting the nomination, said: "I am indeed very grateful to you all for the great honor which you have conferred upon me in renominating me for the office of sheriff. Your action shows that you have confidence in me, and are satisfied with my tenure in office, and your action in renominating me is therefore doubly gratifying. You may rest assured that your confidence will not be misplaced, and that I shall continue in the future as I have in the past to give my best efforts in the administration of the duties of the office to which you have nominated me and to which I am confident, with your continued support, to be elected."

After the convention the delegates were invited to a luncheon at the Wauregan hotel as guests of Sheriff Brown.

Sheriff Brown has now been in office for 21 years and there appears to be but little doubt that he will be re-elected to round out an even 25 years as county sheriff.

THEATRE BENEFITS RAISE $63.20 TO HELP FLORIDA

Three Norwich theatres, the Broadway, Palace and Breed, raised a total of $63.20 at benefit performances Sunday afternoon for the storm victims of Florida. The proceeds of the Breed theatre totaled $41.05, the Davis theatre took in $21 and the Palace $1.15. The money was turned over Sunday evening to H. W. Gallup, treasurer of the Norwich chapter, American Red Cross, who will forward it for the benefit of the Florida storm victims.

The Broadway theatre showed the picture, Without Mercy, featuring Vera Reynolds. At the Breed theatre the picture, Baree, Son of Kazan, by James Oliver Curwood and featuring Anita Stewart with the famous dog, Wolf. The attraction at the Palace theatre was Borrowed Finery.

The benefit performances were held in response to a state wide request by Governor John H. Trumbull and in cooperation with the Motion Picture Theatre Owners of Connecticut. The theatres were donated for the performances and the theatre employes gave their services.

UNDER ARREST FOR DRIVING UNDER INFLUENCE

Felix Benoit of Mansfield was arrested late Saturday afternoon on Russell road on the charge of driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor. His machine sustained a broken axle and he stopped in Russell road from where a telephone message to the police gave warning of the condition of the man, which had been observed by a resident of the neighborhood. Sergeant Myron O. Morgan and Officer John Carroll brought him to police headquarters in a taxicab. Two other men were with Benoit, one of whom was found fast asleep against the cemetery wall when the officers arrived.

The bride was attended by her mother, and David J. Reid of Brooklyn, N. Y., was the best man. The bride wore a gown of chanelle red and carried Ophelia roses. Mrs. Greenhalgh was gowned in blue crepe de chine.

During the afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Leonard left for a wedding tour to New York, Philadelphia and Washington and after November 15th will be home to their many friends at No. 5 Town street. The bride received many gifts including cut glass, silverware, furniture, money and linen.

Mr. Leonard is a well known boxer and is a favorite among boxing fans in New England and New York. His bride is a graduate of the Plainfield grammar school, the Norwich Free Academy and the Norwich Commercial school. She has been employed at the office of the Norwich gas and electric department on Shetucket street.

Programme for Philathea Class

Friday evening, last, the Philathea class of the United church Sunday school held its regular meeting at the home of Mrs. A. C. Freeman, 39 Union St. A most interesting program was arranged by the program committee and very cleverly carried out by members of the class as follows: Piano duet, Mrs. William H. Bewley and Miss Marion Beebe; poem, Mrs. Clarence A. Spear; whistling solo, Mrs Alfred G. Bliven; humorous reading, Miss Nellie Crowe; vacation experience, Mrs. George Gifford; piano solo, Miss Nina Perry; original poem, Mrs Edwin F. Colt; vocal solo, Mrs. May Young; reading, Miss Gertrude Bisbee; class song, Philathea members. A short business meeting followed the entertainment, after which the hostesses, Mrs. A. C. Freeman and Miss Gertrude Bisbee, served refreshments of grape juice, sandwiches, salted nuts and pinoche.

YANTIC MAN DIES; WAS HIT BY TROLLEY

Hit by a Norwich-bound Willimantic trolley car at the crossing in Baltic about 10:15 o'clock Sunday night, Anthony Wisneski of Yantic, died at the W. W. Backus hospital shortly before midnight. He received a broken jaw, fractured leg and other injuries.

Wisneski was apparently asleep on the rails and in the darkness Motorman Earl Fitzgerald did not see him until too late to stop the car. Wisneski was pushed off the rails by the car which did not pass over his body.

As it was seen that the man was badly injured a hurry call was sent in for the ambulance and he was rushed to the Backus hospital, where his death occurred an hour and a half after the accident. Little information regarding the man's family or as to how he came to be asleep on the tracks was available up to press time this (Monday) morning. Conductor Henry Savage was in charge of the trolley car.

RAYMOND LAFONTAINE DEACON, RECEIVED ORDER SUNDAY

Sunday morning, at St. Joseph's Cathedral, Hartford, Raymond La Fontaine son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick La Fontaine, of Summer street, Norwich, was ordained a deacon, by Rt. Rev. Bishop Maurice F. McAuliffe, D. D. Two other Connecticut young seminarians were also raised to the order of deacon. In the solemn high mass which followed Rev. Mr. LaFontaine served as sub-deacon. The order of deacon was conferred on him, preceding his ordination to the priesthood.

At present he is a prefect in St Thomas' seminary, Hartford.

Automobiles in Collision.

Two automobiles were in collision late Sunday afternoon on the Military highway, near the state hospital. The box delivery machine owned and driven by Charles F. Jennings of 201 Hamilton avenue had the left front tire damaged, and the machine of Philip Loucks of East Haddam, which Mrs. Ethel Smith of this city was driving, has two hub caps, mud guard and running board damaged.

Physical Director Coming.

William C. McKean of Springfield, Mass., who has been chosen physical director for the Y. M. C. A., is to arrive here this (Monday) afternoon, according to word that he has sent to the local officials.

Greeneville Makes Police Record.

The Greeneville section scored heavily in police records between Saturday morning and Sunday night. Out of 12 arrests in that time, 11 were in Greeneville, intoxication and breach of the peace being the cause.

RIVERVIEW BLANKS TAFTVILLE A. A. AND ALSO SHUTS OUT THEJ. B. MARTIN CLUB

The Riverview club eliminated any chance of an eastern Connecticut team laying claim to state championship honors when it disposed of the two leading eastern contenders, J. B. Martin and Taftville A. A. over the week end. Riverview let both teams out of the running without a score, shutting out the Velvetmen on Saturday, 14 to 0 in a one-sided slugging fest, and blanking the Taftville A. A. 3 to 0, on Sunday in one of the best games ever seen at the State hospital diamond.

A record crowd, close to 2,000 fans paying in, saw a brilliant pitching battle in the Sunday encounter between Mitchell of the Hartford Eastern league club and Andy Rush, lean and lank hurler of the Bridgeport Eastern leaguers. For seven innings the two boys hurled brilliant ball and then came the break. Mitchell, who had the edge on Rush all through the game, allowing but two hits in the seven innings, was touched for a single by Rush. Normandin sacrificed and Rush pulled up at second. Mitchell weakened in his pitching to Moore and passed him. Farrell, the fourth man to face Mitchell in this frame, caught one of his shoots and drove the ball to deep right center. Lefty Dona, playing right field for Taftville, made a brilliant try to the flying sphere and managed to just touch it with his gloved hand before he tripped and fell. The ball disappeared in the long grass in the extreme outfield and before it had been recovered and returned to the infield Farrell had cantered across the plate in the rear of Rush and Moore. This break settled all doubts as to Taftville's claim for championship honors.

Taftville could do little with Rush and but seven men reached the initial sack. Riverview on the other hand were held completely in subjection by Mitchell who although beaten, allowed but four hits. Rush was almost as stingy with his hits, Taftville getting but five. It was a game well worth seeing, a well played game that sparkled with brilliant fielding and airtight pitching.

Saturday's game was a weird affair with Riverview pounding the ball at will until they had amassed a total of 16 hits which netted 14 runs. Darkness put a stop to the slaughter in the eighth inning and the handful of fans that stayed to the finish did not get much of a thrill.

Eddy Dugas was complete master of the Velvetmen and pitched as sparkling a game as could be desired. He held the Martin club to three scattered hits while he mowed down nine of the opposing batters with sharp breaking curves and almost perfect control. Not only was his pitching good but he also connected twice, once for a double and the next time for a single.

Joe Faber, star shortfielder of the York...Pa., club, showed that his batting eye which brought him through to a season's average of .328 had not dimmed in the least, for he nicked Lanning for three hits, one of them being a home run to deep left. Joe Belair also solved Lanning's delivery for three bingles.

With these two victories salted away, Riverview can put in its claim for state recognition without fear of dispute from any club in the eastern part of the state. Riverview also stands well toward the top in the western invasion, having taken into camp the two New Departure teams and a number of other clubs that were battling for the state semi-pro title. CARDINALS JUBILANT OVER THEIR BRILLIANT VICTORY

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—(AP)—As the Yankees were jubilant in their clubhouse after yesterday's world series game, so were the Cardinals well pleased with themselves when they left the field this afternoon. The St. Louis club, youngest in the majors, still has the enthusiasm of youth and they made no effort to conceal their elation at evening the series. The celebration was cut short by the hurried departure for the St. Louis battlefield, but Grover Cleveland Alexander and Billy Southworth were guests of honor at an informal reception among the players before the hurried changes from uniforms to street clothes was given right of way. "We are sure to win," the Cards chorused.

The Yankees were cheerful enough as they, too, hurried through preparations to leave for Missouri. "What's one game this early in the series?" was the reaction of the players to the defeat.

"We hit today behind wonderful pitching," said Manager Hornsby. "You can't beat that combination."

"Today was vastly different from yesterday. We fielded well enough then and got good pitching but didn't hit. Today everything was right.

"It's not necessary for me to call attention to Alexander's pitching. Every one of those 63,000 people must have known that they were looking at great pitching. It was smart pitching, too, for Alex knew just where the ball was going. Of course Southworth's home run didn't do us any harm.

"I am not sure who will work the opening game at home for us. It will be Reinhard or Haines, as I see it now."

Manager Huggins was quick to praise the skill and cunning of the veteran Alexander.

"Alexander pitched a remarkable game," said the Yankee manager, "and of course he deserved to win. We couldn't get to him and when you don't hit, you can't expect to make runs.

"I have no criticism of the play of our boys. They were hustling and will have lots of fight in St. Louis. There will be plenty of games for us to win, and it still looks like a great series. The first two games have been decided by the pitchers. Pennock was the whole show yesterday and Y was Alexander's time today.

"I am undecided tonight about my pitching selection for the opening game at St. Louis. I think now it's a toss between Ruether and Hoyt."

Babe Ruth was complaining after the game that he could not find the ball Thevenow drove into his territory for a home run in the ninth.

"After I chased to the foul line, and just missed making the catch," said the Babe, "I couldn't locate the ball. And no one would tell me where it was."

The great slugger was complaining also that he could have caught Southworth's drive in the seventh, the home run that put the game on ice for the Cards, if the bleachers had not been in the way.

"I was right after the ball but the best I could do was to get within a foot of it," said Ruth, who is himself something of an authority on home runs.

WORLD'S SERIES SIDELIGHTS

(By The Associated Press.)

Nick Altrock, comedian-coach of the Washington Senators, watched the game dolefully from the stands, a cigar in his mouth and the peak of his cap over one ear. It is the first series in years that Nick's antics with his partner in fun, Al Schacht, have not helped keep the crowd in good humor.

Babe Ruth was never cheered any more lustily than Rogers Hornsby when when the Cardinal chieftain punched a double down the right field foul line in the first inning. New York fans like their idols, whether they are native or visiting.

Ruth looked disgusted when Alexander shot over a fast inshoot for the third strike on the Babe in the opening frame. The Yankee slugger strikes out now and then but rarely does he let 'em go over without a thrust.

Meusel made such a quick pickup and throw on Southworth's line single in the third that Douthit, who had hit safely just before, had to slide to avoid being forced out at second base.

The Cardinals cut loose with their first real display of batting power in the second when singles by Douthit and Southworth, a sacrifice by Hornsby and a ringing blow to left by Bottomley produced two runs. This was Bottomley's third hit in two days.

The veteran Alexander was given a terrific ovation in the fourth after he struck out Gehrig, Lazzeri and Dugan in a row with a baffling assortment of curves and "smoke balls." Big Alex had the speed of a locomotive and the hop of a jackrabbit in most of his offerings.

The Cardinals nearly mobbed Southworth after his homer in the seventh produced three runs and the right field bleacher crowd stood to cheer him to the echo when he came out to his position after the inning. The circuit wallop cleared the bleacher screen about five feet.

Alexander had a hand in a freak double play that snuffed out the Yankees in the first inning. After Combs, first at bat, had drawn the first and last walk old Alex handed out. Koenig smashed a screamer by the twirler's head. In ducking, Alex touched the ball and when Thevenow gathered it in back of second on a dead run to beat Combs to second and then toss out the Yankee shortstop at first, Alexander was given credit for participating in the twin killing.

Alexander, master of the American League champions, was definite after Meusel and Lazzeri had scored in the second with one out. The Card veteran fanned Severeid and Shocker to end the rally and after Combs had singled to open the third frame, the big hurler set the next 21 Yanks down in order without even a semblance of a hit. Seven were strikeout victims and only two hit the ball out of the infield.

WHITE SOX EVEN SERIES BY BLANKING CUBS

CHICAGO, Oct. 3—(AP)—The White Sox evened the series with the Cubs today by shutting them out four to nothing. Blankenship allowed only six hits which were widely scattered while the White Sox bunched theirs off Rush. Bill Barrett led the attack with two doubles and a single. A crowd of 35,000 witnessed the game.

Sets New World's Mark.

PARIS, Oct. 4.—(AP)—Miss Edwards of England broke the woman's world's record for the 200 metres race (about 220 yards) today setting a mark of 26 seconds flat. The former record was 26 1-5 seconds.

The performance was in the course of an international meet in Pershing stadium in which England, Sweden, Czecho-Slovakia, France and German, competed. England won. It was the first time German women competed in athletic events in France.

ALEXANDER'S GREAT PITCHING FEATURED THE VICTORY

NEW YORK, Oct. 3—(AP)—Only threats marked the first inning's offensive of the second game of the world's series. Hornsby doubled after Douthit had looked at a third strike and Southworth fouled to Severeid but was left when Koenig threw out Bottomley. Hornsby's hit was a long one, the ball rolling up the right field terrace. Shocker showed the Cardinal manager a slow ball and one a bit slower.

Combs walked to open the Yankees half. Koenig gave Thevenow a chance to make a snappy play on his roller near second base. The shortstop took the ball, touched second and completed a double play at first. Alexander crossed Ruth by slipping a fast ball by him for the third strike.

Alexander had a chance to hit in a run in the second but popped up. Bell flied to Meusel and Hafey rolled to Lazzeri before O'Farrell singled to left. Shocker deflected Thevenow's smash through the box into right field. O'Farrell taking third under wraps. Then Koenig took Alexander's bat.

The Yankees opened one run and were promised another in their second turn. Meusel singled. Alexander threw out Gehrig on a hit and run play while Meusel was running to second. Lazzeri's single sent Meusel over with the first run. Dugan dropped a Texas leaguer into right and Lazzeri scampered to third. Severeid missed a third strike. With Shocker up, a double steal was attempted. Thevenow took O'Farrell's throw and caught Lazzeri between third and the plate. A chase ensued but Lazzeri escaped the network of Cardinal players when Alexander made a weird throw.

The Cards promptly tied the score by solid hitting in the third. Douthit beat out a hit to deep short and Southworth singled to left. Meusel making a remarkable play when he trapped the ball and threw to second so quickly that Douthit had to slide to make it. Hornsby moved them along with a sacrifice and Bottomley sent them home with a long single to right. Bell fouled to Severeid and Hafey's smash was gathered in by Meusel.

Combs opened the Yankee third with a hit and it seemed that the intermittent bombardment might continue. Alexander got his curve in order then and Koenig fanned, while Ruth popped to Thevenow. Bell fumbled Meusel's hard hit grounder but caught on the rebound and threw to first for the third out.

After O'Farrell, Thevenow and Alexander failed to get the ball out of the infield in the fourth Alexander electrified the huge crowd by striking out Gehrig, Lazzeri and Dugan in order. All took healthy swings at the important third strikes. Alexander was mixing his offerings to the Yankee batsmen and working the corners.

The Cardinal fifth was uneventful, Douthit flying to Ruth, Southworth rolling to Shocker and Hornsby following suit to Dugan. The Yankees did nothing in their half. When Shocker fanned for the second time Alexander's strikeouts were increased to eight. Bell threw out Severeid and Hornsby took care of Combs's roller.

Shocker continued to baffle the Cards in the sixth. Bottomley's roller went straight to Gehrig. Koenig threw out Bell and Hafey fouled to Gehrig.

Hornsby took care of rollers from Koenig and Ruth and Meusel was called out on strikes in the Yankee's sixth.

It was a "Lucky Seventh" for the Cards, Southworth's home run driving in three runs. O'Farrell opened with a double to center and ran to third on Thevenow's single to left. Alexander popped to Lazzeri and Douthit lifted a short fly to Meusel. Southworth drove the ball high and far into the right field bleachers for the first home run of the series. Hornsby rolled to Koenig.

Alexander tossed out Gehrig and Thevenow took care of Lazzeri's grounder. Bell robbed Dugan of a hit when he took the smash on the run and threw perfectly to first, to end the seventh.

Bottomley opened the eighth with a single and Shawkey was called to replace Shocker. The arm encased in the red pitching shirt struck out both Bell and Hafey and Bottomley went out trying to steal second.

Paschal batted for Severeid and fanned on three pitched balls. Reuther was called to the plate to take Shawkey's turn. The hard hitting pitcher dribbled one to Alexander and was thrown out. Hafey was directly in the path of Comb's drive.

After O'Farrell had been retired by Lazzeri and Gehrig, in the ninth, Thevenow got a home run inside the grounds. Ruth barely reached the Card shortstop's drive and could not hold the ball. Thevenow showed a great exhibition of speed in circling the bases. Alexander was pitching instead of batting, and fanned. Douthit walked and ran to third on Southworth's single. A pass to Hornsby filled the bases. Bottomley ended it with a fly to Combs.

Hornsby tossed out Koenig and then made a sensational stab of Ruth's liner. The game was over when Thevenow threw out Meusel. Score:

TORONTO TAKES "LITTLE WORLD'S SERIES" FROM THE LOUISVILLE CLUB

LOUISVILLE, Ky. Oct. 3.—(AP)—The Toronto Internationals, fresh from four victories over Louisville at Toronto, made a clean sweep of the junior world series, taking today's game here, 7 to 0.

Stewart left-handed the American Association entry into submission, yielding five hits. Cullop, southpaw ace of the Colonels, started but gave way to Wilkinson in the sixth inning after the first two batsmen had hit safely.

Toronto scored several of its runs by superior base running. Gilhooley scored from second on a bunt in the third inning. Lawry dumped one in front of the plate and Gilhooley advanced to third, scoring when Cullop threw Lawry's tap to first.

Toronto scored in the first inning. Schmel was safe when Betzel took his hit and tagged Gilhooley, who had singled, took third on Betzel's fumble of Lawry's infield blow and scored on Walker's base hit.

Miller singled to open the second inning, stole second and scored on Heath's one base knock. A base on balls, a sacrifice and Lawry's bunt scored Gilhooley in the third.

Successive singles by Schmel, Lawry and Walker, Layne's sacrifice, and, after Miller struck out, Heath's triple netted three more runs in the sixth.

Lawry's single, Carlyle's sacrifice and Layne's double added the last two. The score:

HARVARD'S DEFEAT IS SURPRISE OF FOOTBALL

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—(AP)—Smashing defeat of a revamped Harvard team at the hands of tiny Geneva provided a stunning inaugural of the big three season as the last of the major eastern elements swung into the pigskin parade.

The 16 to 7 victory of the Pennsylvania eleven, strangely reminiscent of the day five years ago when "Bo" McMillan led his band of Centre college colonels to equally startling triumph over the Crimson, marked the first defeat on the opening day of the season in his history of Harvard football.

But in his place on the stadium turf, the famous "Bo," now coach of the Geneva squad, sent a towering halfback, "Mac" Fleniken to rip the Harvard line apart, skirt the ends, and toss passes even as he had done in making football history five years before. Clearing the path for Fliniken, just as the flaming Red Roberts had done for "Bo", was the huge 230 pound end, Cal Hubbard, and a smashing forward wall that humbled the Crimson line continually. The Golden Giants, who only last week lost to Cornell by a single touchdown, outplayed, outfought, outgeneraled the Harvard squad throughout the four periods and only a 46 yard sprint by Sayles after Harvard had recovered a fumble saved the Crimson from a shutout.

The Cambridge eleven, under a new coach, Arnold Horwee, definitely sounded the knell of the football system that has held away since the passing of Percy Haughton. Saturday Harvard threw away its former conservative game with the waiting line defense, and from a huddle system of signal barking, sent guards and ends smashing forward while backs tossed a multitude of passes in vain.

Hardly less startling was the game fight of Amherst champions of the little three against Princeton, big three titleholders, in the season inaugural for the Tigers. The Lord Jeffs fell, 14 to 7 but only the great work of Jake Slagle, all-American back, and Joe Prendergrast, pulled the game from the fire in the last quarter. Another powerful Yale scoring machine took to the air and swept Boston university to a crushing 51 to 0 defeat with a flood of forward passes to start the season in triumph.

Up in the New Hampshire hills, the Dartmouth Indian continued his climb to another championship eleven by whipping Hobart soundly, 50 to 0. The return of Eddie Dooley to the Green backfield and the stellar play of Lane and McPhail seem destined to carry the Dartmouth colors along the path blazed by "Swede" Oberlander and his mates last season.

Both the army and navy eleven came through their initial combats in fine style. The cadets whipped Detroit with the help of a host of substitutes, 21 to 0 while the Middies were smashing out a close 17 to 12 victory over Purdue in an intersectional struggle at Annapolis. Georgetown, after crushing Drexel last week, was able only to tie Pittsburgh, 6 to 6, after the latter, on the previous Saturday had barely beaten Allegheny 9 to 7.

Lchich took its second defeat in two Saturdays when Gettysburg tripped the Pennsylvanians, 16 to 0. St. Johns turned the trick last week, 17 to 0. West Virginia had little trouble crushing an old rival, Washington and Lee, 18 to 0. New York university with a 13 to 0 victory over Allegheny, and Cornell, conquerors of Niagara, 28 to 0, showed impressively.

PYLE BELIEVES HELEN WILLS MAY TURN PROFESSIONAL

NEW YORK, Oct. 3—(AP)—Charles C. Pyle, promoter of the professional tennis movement, expressed the belief today that Helen Wills would appear soon against Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen, the French tennis queen.

However, Pyle took occasion to deny that he has had any dealings directly or indirectly with Miss Wills or William Tilden looking towards their joining Mlle. Lenglen. Vincent Richards, Miss Mary K. Browne, Paul Feret, Howard O. Kinsey and Harvey W. Snodgrass in the opening game of their North American tour at Madison Square garden next Saturday night.

"I honestly believe that subsequent developments will enable the great Helen Wills to play Mlle. Lenglen before the end of the present season," said Pyle.

"The tremendous amount of publicity that will emanate from different sources during the tour of Mlle. Lenglen and her associate players will cause the public to almost forget the sideline amateurs."

WHITMAN ELECTED HEAD OF BASEBALL WRITERS

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—(AP)—The baseball Writers' Association of America at its annual meeting today elected Burton Whitman, Boston Herald, president; Warren Brown, Chicago Herald Examiner, vice president; Henry P. Edwards, Cleveland Plain Dealer, secretary and treasurer; J. Roy Stockton, St. Louis Post Dispatch, Tom Swope, Cincinnati Post, Stoney McLinn, Philadelphia Ledger and Tomas Rice, Brooklyn, directors.

SOUTHWORTH

PENNOCK PITCHES YANKS TO VICTORY IN FIRST GAME

YANKEE STADIUM, N. Y., Oct. 3—Under a sky which threatened almost constantly to drench the playing field in a downpour, Herb Pennock, premier southpaw of the American league, rose to greatest heights here Saturday afternoon and scattered hordes of gloom over Cardinal rooters by spoiling the changes of Rogers Hornsby down to a 2 to 1 defeat in the opening game of the annual fall world's series classic.

Backed up by his mates with an airtight and sometimes spectacular defense, the eminent silver fox raiser from Pennsylvania pitched St. Louis into complete subjection before some 62,000 howling fans in a manner that left little room for doubt, as to his greatness. Three hits, two of which were bunched in the first inning to produce the only Cardinal tally of the afternoon, proved the sum total of the St. Louis offensive thrusts against sharp breaking hooks of the Yankee mound wizard and for a period of seven innings which stretched from the second until the ninth, not a Cardinal was able to hit in safety, and but three reached first only to be stranded. The score:

HEAVYWEIGHT TRYOUTS TO START ON THURSDAY

NEW YORK, Oct. 3—(AP)—Tex Rickard's heavyweight elimination tournaments to produce suitable opposition for the newly crowned champion in the person of Gene Tunney, start on Thursday night at Madison Square garden with Knute Hansen, the seafaring Dane, squaring off with Franz Diener, German titleholder, in the main ten round bout.

Hansen will find formidable opposition in Diener who fought a draw with the famous Spanish boxer, Paolino, before arriving in this country.

Jimmy Delaney, the St. Paul, Minn., lightheavyweight, who aspires to grow into the heavier class, is down for the 10-round semi-final against Alex Hoir, Peruvian champion. Bob Fitzsimmons, Jr., son of "Ruby Bob," opposes Jack Demsye in the opening 10-rounder.

Monte Munn, Nebraska assemblyman, is booked for a six rounder against Jimmy Murphy, former Ohio football star. Henry Lamar, a grandson of the late Justice Lamar of the United States supreme court, makes his New York debut in a four-round affair with George Comas of Philadelphia.

Jack Sharkey, Boston heavyweight, arrived here tonight and will start training tomorrow for his bout with Harry Wills, at Ebbets Field, Oct. 12. Willis is already working out in a local gymnasium.

MALONE TO HANDLE TUNNEY'S FINANCIAL AFFAIRS

HARTFORD, Oct. 3 (AP)—Gene Tunney, world's champion heavyweight boxer stated here today that on Saturday he signed Dudley Field Malone, New York attorney, to handle all his personal and financial affairs. Malone was one of the backers of Gertrude Ederle in her channel swim.

Tunney, who spent the week-end with friends in this city, was entertained this evening at the home of Governor and Mrs. John H. Trumbull, of Plainville. The champion will return to New York city tomorrow.

Questioned concerning his future plans, the champion said that he has received many flattering offers from motion picture concerns and others, in the event a sufficiently attractive proposal is made him he may enter the movies, he added. He intends absolutely, however, to remain in the fighting game and is agreeable to a return match with Dempsey.

Tunney stated that press reports concerning his so-called hold-up by a policeman in Stamford, Conn., Saturday, were entirely erroneous. While en route to this city, Tunney and his companion were stopped by Patrolman William C. Lynch, of the Stamford police who recognized the champion. Tunney says that Lynch and he were war-time buddies, the latter being a member of the crew of the boat De Kalb which took the champion to France during the war. The patrolman after congratulating Tunney and talking over some old time war experiences escorted the champion's car through Stamford.

Cleaning carbon~Grinding valves~~Excessive upkeep~ periodic lay-ups~~the sleeve-valve-engined Willys-Knight gets rid of them all~~~~~~

Abolish carbon troubles... Do away with valve-grinding... And you add years to the life and usefulness of your car...

In the same process, you save your share of the $420,000,000 tax which American owners must pay, this year, for the correction of damage done by these twin evils inseparable from all poppet-valve cars.

Carbon has no harmful effect on the Willys-Knight Great Six. Nor are there any valves to grind. Its sleeve-valve engine-construction, patented exclusive—does away with both...

As a matter of fact, the presence of carbon in this car is a desirable cond

JUMPS FROM TRAIN AT STONINGTON, N.Y. PRISONER SOUGHT AT NEW LONDON

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 3—Thomas Jeverlino, 30, a prisoner, made his escape from a New York detective at Stonington, Saturday night, while en route from Boston to New York. The state police were notified of the escape of Jeverlino as were the New London police, but no trace of the fugitive was found. He was described as being about five feet eight inches in height and weighing about 155 pounds of dark complexion and wearing dark trousers, but no hat. Jeverlino, who was arrested in Boston recently was turned over to the New York officer Saturday afternoon and the prisoner and the officer started for New York on the Gilt Edge express, which is scheduled to arrive in New London at 7:40 p. m. When the train reached Stonington Jeverlino requested permission to go to the lavatory and his request was granted. Just as the train was pulling out of the station he jumped through the window and disappeared in the darkness. It was later ascertained that Jeverlino secured a ride to New London in a Rhode Island automobile, but he was not located in this city.

WOMAN STRUCK ON HEAD BY STICK FROM UPPER WINDOW

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 3—Mrs. Edith Holmes, wife of Elmer Holmes, 40 Summer street, was passing through Bank street today, when she was hit on the head by a stick which was either thrown or dropped from a tenement in a three-story building. Mrs. Holmes, who suffered a severe bruise, made a complaint to the police.

COURT'S PATIENCE EXHAUSTED SAILORS SENT TO JAIL

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 3—Drunken sailors figured in the police court Saturday. It was the morning after the night before for all the dozen gobs who received the money Uncle Sam allows them each month for wearing the blue of the navy. They had found liquor in such quantity that they had became and were found intoxicated—some drunk and others down and out. Only one of the sailors pretended that he was not intoxicated when he was arrested, but he was convicted on the evidence produced by the arresting officers and was fined. A few of the bunch could raise the necessary money to pay their fines, but the majority of them went to jail. An appeal by an officer of the service was not effectual in inducing the court to be lenient to a degree that the men could go aboard the ships, it being held that if one was allowed freedom from penalty all should be treated likewise, so the judgments were held to. It has been noticed that there were fewer sailors in custody Saturday night and Sunday than have usually been there on Saturdays and Sundays. The penalty was perhaps severe, but it was deserved and may have a wholesome effect. The sailors are coast guardsmen, who evidently chased liquor sellers to some purpose.

A woman caught stealing from a waist store some months ago and who was compelled to surrender the goods she stole, is represented to be living an honest life now so a complaint against her was nolled.

A burglary, probably perpetrated by boys, was discovered this morning when the grocery store owned by Barney Belgrad, 28 Montauk avenue, was opened for business by Mrs. Belgrad. She notified the police and Sergeant John Cavanaugh was assigned to conduct an investigation. The officer discovered that a piece of glass from a rear window had been removed permitting the window to be unlocked. The only plunder obtained was 75 cents.

Mrs. Margaret Francis, wife of Frank Francis, 47 Connecticut avenue complained to the police this morning that a neighbor residing opposite the Francis residence harbored several goats, but failed to keep them upon his premises. Instead the goats roamed at random. Patrolman Augustus Ita was sent to the home of the owner of the goats and the latter was ordered to keep the animals off the highway and from property of other residents.

A complaint against Eugene Gemini was nolled because he is in the Norwich State hospital for the insane. He was found with a loaded revolver in his possession after he had been found to have been in the McKim house. He was examined by specialists and was found to be insane.

Private funeral services for Mrs. Catherine M. Veltman, widow of Louis B. Veltman, were held Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the residence of her sister, Mrs. Nettie Crocker, 408 Ocean avenue, Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth, pastor of the First Church of Christ officiating. The bearers were Leonard G. Crocker, Alfred Colt, Stephen Crocker and James Fowler. Burial was in Cedar Grove cemetery.

Mrs. Roy Allen of Waterford: Mrs. Ned Leighton and infant daughter, 71 Jefferson avenue and Samuel Whitman, Waterford, patients at Lawrence Memorial Associated hospital, were discharged today.

John E. Murray, 37 Federal street, made complaint to the police this morning that his gold watch had been stolen from his room during his absence Saturday.

Mrs. Cohan, 16 Harris court, complained to the police this morning that J. Gasman, 36 Mountain avenue, had entered the cellar of her home Saturday and had removed two loads of wood.

FOUR BOOZY JOY RIDERS INCLUDE GROTON WOMAN

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 3—Charles S. McGuire, chief petty officer, United States Coast Guard destroyer Trippe; Frank J. Dondjewski, sailor aboard the destroyer; Leon L. Morris, of Thames street, Groton and his wife, Helen, were arrested Saturday afternoon as a result of a free-for-all fight on Pequot avenue. McGuire and Dondjewski were charged with breach of the peace and were released on bail of $50 each for their presentation in the police court Monday morning. Morris was charged with driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor and furnished a surety on his bond of $150. His wife, charged with intoxication, was released on furnishing a surety on her bond of $50.

The automobile in which the quartette was riding was a borrowed one, having been loaned to them by a coast guard officer upon the representation that McGuire and Dondjewski desired to go to Hartford. While driving about the city the sailors came upon Morris and his wife and they were invited to take a ride. This they did and during the course of events, two quarts of liquor, which McGuire and Dondjewski had, were displayed and their contents sampled. On Pequot avenue where the automobile had been parked, a row took place between the two sailors and Morris. Morris finally being given a beating. Mrs. Morris, he claims was also treated roughly by the sailors. The fight, or a part of it was witnessed, by Lieut. Crutchin, U. S. N., who communicated with the police, and who stated that the auto had just passed through Pequot avenue and that the woman was in the back seat and unconscious. Sergeant Smith was sent out in the police auto and Officer Augustus Ray was detailed to make a search for the automobile by motorcycle. Other officers were instructed to keep a watch for the auto. Traffic Officer Thomas Cavanaugh informed headquarters that the auto had emerged from Howard street and had just passed through Reed, street, although he had attempted to intercept it. Traffic Officer William Graham, on duty on Main street, corner of Crystal avenue, finally saw the automobile approaching and recognizing the occupants, held up the car and placed all four under arrest.

BLOCKED WAY OF POLICE CAR SPEEDING TO A FIRE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 3—Carl Albano, 91 Truman street, was arrested Saturday afternoon by Sergeant Nelson Smith, charged with violation of the city ordinance in not giving right of way to the police auto. A fire occurred on Shaw street, near the corner of Steward street, and an alarm was rung in from Box 451. While the police auto was speeding through Bank street, Albano's auto, it is claimed, was driven in the path of the police auto and Albano refused to drive to the curb and come to a stop. The arrest of Albano is the second to occur within a week of auto drivers failing to bring their cars to a stop at the approach of fire apparatus or the police auto. The driver will be presented in the police court Monday morning. The fine was of little consequence.

The funeral of John Garvey, 58, of Washington street, was held from the home of his son, Dennis, at 20 Tweddy street Saturday morning, with requiem mass at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church Rev. Raymond J. O'Callaghan officiated. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery. The bearers were Anthony Sousa, Patrick Smolensky, Maurice Garvey, Patrick and Daniel Corcoran and Maurice Connell.

Mr. Garvey who was born in County Kerry, Ireland, came to this country when a young man. He married Nora Clifford at Norwich in 1897. She died in March, 1912. Mr. Garvey was employed for more than 25 years by the New Haven railroad in the section department, being a foreman for several years. He is survived by four daughters, Mrs. Anthony Sousa, Mrs. Patrick Smolensky, and Misses Catherine and Helen Garvey, and by four sons, Maurice Garvey of Norwich and Daniel, John and Peter Garvey, all of this city. There are seven grandchildren surviving.

Albert MacKendrick, 19, United States Coast Guardsman was arrested Saturday night at the corner of Broad and Williams street by Patrolman Lawrence Reilly. The latter was drunk and creating a disturbance. Another sailor, Martin P. Ryan, 25, stationed aboard the submarine O-3, was arrested on North Bank street Saturday night by Patrolman Edward Riordan charged with intoxication. Both will be presented in the police court Monday morning.

E. Arthur Smith, of Station 16 Waterford, complained to the police this morning that last night while his automobile was parked in the rear of the Exchange building, Bank street, a thief stole a manufacturing set.

Charles Glassenberg, proprietor of the New London News company, Bank street, made a complaint to the police this morning that a bundle of Boston papers had been stolen from the corner of Main and Williams street. Mr. Glassenberg stated that the papers had been left at the corner before the store for which they were intended had opened and that the theft occurred between 4 and 5 o'clock. Mr. Glassenberg stated that the theft is the fourth to occur within a few weeks.

William Johnson, 17 Hill street, was arrested Saturday night by Patrolman Edward Riordan when found drunk and lying across the sidewalk on Douglass street. He will be in a batch of drunks that will be presented in the police court Monday morning.

The police had a new experience in handling drunks this evening, when a young man residing at the corner of John and Main streets, appeared at the police station and desired to be booked by the police in his engaging in a fight with another young man. The fellow even wanted to deposit a forfeit in good faith and to assure his defeating his opponent. The man was given an opportunity to return to his room, but he talked fight just long enough to result in his being locked up on a charge of intoxication.

Mrs. Henry F. Macomber is critically ill at her apartment, Ye Faire Harbour, Broad street. So serious is Mrs. Macomber's condition that her son, Frances was summoned to the bedside of his mother today.

An employe of Harry Payne Whitney's yacht, which is moored in Swan Cove became drunk tonight and was found staggering aimlessly about North Bank street. He was arrested by Patrolman Edward Riordan and will be among those presented in the police court Monday morning.

An excursion train with 740 passengers passed through New London Saturday night at 9:45 o'clock, en route from Boston to Washington.

An automobile driven by a chief petty officer named Smith collided with a traffic beacon on the New London approach to the Thames river bridge this afternoon and then was driven away without Smith stopping to ascertain the extent of the damage occasioned. He was ordered to present himself in the police court Monday morning on a charge of evasion of responsibility.

An automobile owned by Joseph La France, 40 Pearl street, this city, was stolen from its parking place in Groton this evening. LaFrance suspects a certain man of having stolen the auto. The car is a Studebaker and carries Connecticut registration, N-7587.

About 50 students of Connecticut College for Women were among the large number of bathers at Ocean Beach this afternoon. The water is most agreeable now of any time during the year.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Who Are the United Workers?

Now that the season has arrived when the people of Norwich are to have the annual opportunity to share in the work of the United Workers, the question arises "Wh are the United Workers?" Any contribution to the United Workers is considered to be one of the activities carried on by this benevolent association. A brief sketch of each of the six departments of work will be presented in the daily papers each day this week.

Just three years ago this month the clinic for psychiatric clinic was started by the United Workers in response to the growing need for physically and mentally trained to care for the mental health of the community. This was in line with the nationwide public health movement.

Today a week in the neuropsychiatric clinic rooms at Backus hospital children, young people and adults come for consultation with the clinic psychiatrists and social workers, and for help in gaining control of themselves and in learning to adjust to their environment at home, at school, and work.

This new and constructive method of approach to individual problems is equally accessible to the charity patient and to those who are able to pay a part for examination and treatment for nervous and personality difficulties.

In addition to the direct work of the clinic, means have been used for informing the public upon the general subject of mental hygiene.

A lending library at the clinic rooms keeps books in circulation and a constantly enlarging selection of books on mental hygiene may be borrowed from the Otis library. Many of the popular magazines and papers present articles by specialists on this subject which meets a growing interest.

Addresses by out of town speakers have been given during the past years before groups of mothers, teachers and others.

Announcement will soon be made of a series of four free lectures by Dr. Lloyd J. Thompson, psychiatrist of the Yale Medical school.

Opening Concert Norwich Music Ass'n

The opening program for the twelfth season of the Norwich Music Association will be presented by the Flomondel Trio in Slater Hall annex on Tuesday evening, October 5th at 8 p. m.

The Flomondel Trio consists of a lyric soprano, contralto and pianist, and their programs are said to be varied, charming and in the utmost good taste.

Membership in the Association is open to anyone interested in good music. Application should be made to Mr. William H. Collins, 63 McKinley avenue, by mail, phone or at the door of the concert hall on Tuesday evening. The fee for the season, consisting of seven programs, is $3.00.

WINDHAM

DeWitt Lathrop of Prospect Harbor, Me., has been at the home of his father, H. C. Lathrop this week. Mr. and Mrs. Lathrop and son will move to Windham about the middle of November occupying Mrs. C. C. Abbe's house while the former W. C. Woodworth drug store is being remodeled into a house for them.

Isaac H. Johnson is making good progress toward recovery in St. Joseph's hospital Willimantic where he underwent an operation and is expected home next week

Broadway Theater

There a five feature acts of the world's best Keith Albee vaudeville acts, opening at the Broadway theater today. It most certainly looks like a program with something to talk about.

Some unusual an delaborate settings distinguish The Unfair Sex, which is playing at the Broadway theater this week as the feature attraction.

Much of the action of this thrilling melodrama of society and the netherworld takes place in luxurious New York apartments and in a fashionable night club, and some of it in the mansion of some New England aristocracy.

The most spectacular scenes of The Unfair Sex are those filmed in the Merry Go Round club, the night club at which the enchantress of the piece held sway. The furnishings here are elaborate and unusual, the whole resembling a gigantic merry go round, the orchestra in the center, the tables on the outer edge, and the dance floor in between.

The library of the heavy is another other particularly striking set. A secret door opening through the book shelves is cleverly arranged, which would defy the most careful inspection until opened.

The Unfair Sex stars Hope Hampton and Holbrook Blinn of stage and screen fame and Nita Naldi and Walter Miller, favorites of all film fans. The fast moving story is the work of Eugene Walter.

Breed Theater

Rex Ingram's production of Mare Nostrum (Our Sea) for Metro-Goldwyn, had its first showing at the Breed theater last night. This screen version of the famous Blasco Ibanez story is another triumph for the youthful director who already has to his credit such successes as Scaramouche, The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse, and The Prisoner of Zenda.

Mare Nostrum is a powerful story of the seat at the time of the great World war. Ingram produced it on the original locations in Spain, France and Italy described by the author in his book. The result is a delightful combination of a strong dramatic story and pictorial and historical beauty such as only Ingram is capable of making.

Alice Terry and Antonio Moreno enact the leading roles and share honors in the success of the picture with Ingram and Ibanez. Miss Terry and Moreno have played many parts before the camera but neither of them have done previously matches up to their performances in Mare Nostrum.

With the exception of Hughie Mack, who has an outstanding comedy role, the remaining members of the cast are foreign artists who make their first appearance in the American such a well balanced and capable cast, to be congratulated in his selection of screen in this picture. Ingram's also. The German characters are specially.

Willis Goldbeck prepared the scenario for Mare Nostrum.

Palace Theatre

Pola Negri with Tom Moore and Ford Sterling in her latest success "Good and Naughty" and Marie Prevost in "Seven Sinners" constitute the big double feature bill that will have its final showings at the Palace this afternoon and evening and for quality and quantity presents one of the finest programs yet presented at this popular theatre. Tomorrow another double feature event is announced. Monte Blue in "Across the Pacific" and Dorothy Devore in "The Gilded Highway" and on Tuesday on the stage for the evening performance only will be added an all new beauty review among the young ladies appearing will be several from the recent Atlantic City show, each presenting a song or dance for the entertainment of the audience an even more attractive performance than the one of last Tuesday that proved so pleasing is promised on Thursday, Milton Sills is coming on the screen sensation of the year "Men of Steel" pronounced by press and public wherever it has been shown one of the most marvelous productions in screen history, a mighty drama in which the star is supported by Doris Kenyon and a great cast, a thrilling plot and romantic love story go into the making of this gigantic photoplay that is one of the outstanding productions of this or any other season. Double features are on the bill at every change of program and without any increase in prices and this policy will be the rule with the exception only of road show attractions.

Champion Spark Plug Goes on Air

Among the large business concerns of the country to sponsor radio programs is the Champion Spark Plug company of Toledo.

Beginning on Tuesday, Oct. 5 every Tuesday from eight to nine o'clock the champion sparkers will be heard over stations WJZ, New York, WGY Schenectady, WCR Washington and WBZ, Springfield, Mass.

This means that Champion entertainment will be offered to the entire eastern section of the country and to people in the west with sets responsive enough to bring in these powerful stations.

The Champion Sparkers will consist of a nationally known orchestra which is responsible for many fine records for one of the leading phonograph companies and a vocal quartet also well known nationally.

One reason for Champion engaging in radio broadcasting is that so many of the dealers who sell Champion spark plugs also sell radio equipment.

The longest street car ride in the world for one fare of 7 cents may be had in Chicago. From the south city limits, with its glimpses of green farms, to the north city limits at the edge of the forest, this ride is 37 3-10 miles and it takes about four hours' riding. Eight transfers are necessary.

The Salvation Army will have a fruit, vegetable and cake sale in their room, 10 Cliff street tonight at 7:30. This sale is in connection with their annual harvest festival effort which they are just completing.

Lyceum Theater, New London

"By their fruits ye shall know them." The best way to judge what to expect in the future is by a record of the past. Therefore in tabluated form are the outstanding achievements of the persons whose work produced The Enemy which comes to the Lyceum theater, for one performance only, Saturday evening, October 9th, direct from its all season run at the Times Square theater, New York.

Written by Channing Pollock, author of The Fool. Produced by Crosby Gaige, producer of Silence and The Butter and Egg Man. Directed by Robert Milton, director of He Who Gets Slapped.

Acted by: Florence Rittenhouse who starred in The Shame Woman; Russ Whytal who starred in For Fair Virginia. Charles Dalton who starred in The Sign of the Cross. Leslie Barrie, one of the principal players with the Theater Guild. Olive May, recalled as the Bonita of Arizona and in Fair and Warmer. Frank Sylvester, the unforgettable Napoleon of The Mis-Leading Lady.

John Dady, who scored a hit in Lightnin', Donald Hughes who was in Is Zat So?

Basile Kibalchich and His Russian Choir

Basile Kibalchich, whose Russian Symphonic choir will appear here at Slater Memorial hall on Wednesday, October 20th, has a long musical history or illustrious a chievment behind him. Mr. Kibalchich was born in Tchernigoff, southern Russia, in the center of a region which for richness in folk-lore, folk song and choral singing is hardly equalled in any other part of the world. He showed musical talent at an early age and at the age of 12 he was called upon to lead a large local choir, and a special stand had to be built to accomodate the budding conductor.

Then followed a varied but steady growth in musical experience—as student under Rimsky-Korsakoff in Russia, Switzerland and France. Finally organizing his first Russian symphonic choir, he began to tour Europe and in a short time was recognized by the European press as one of the most accomplished conductors before the public.

According to one New York paper, "Mr. Kibalchich uses his voice like so many wind instruments and the singing of his chorus resembles some ideal sort of organ. The chorus not only sings but hums, and by means of fine graduations of tone and accent often suggest a string orchestra."

These opinions of the New York press were unanimous and music lovers here will have an opportunity to verify these opinions, according to which the Russian choir can best be termed as a human orchestra.

Mail notice of number of tickets desired to Mr. H. A. Tirrell, principal, or enter your subscription upon list now at Cranston's store. Advance subscribers will have prior choice in selection of seats.

Tickets, including reserved seats will be $2.00 each.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

WEEKLY FINANCIAL REVIEW

NEW YORK, Oct. 3—(AP)—A break in October futures to the lowest levels in five years and the marking up of money rates to the highest figures of the year were the two most important developments in this week's financial and commodity markets. Movements in the stock market were highly erratic, due to the uncertainty over the future trend of business and money rates while bond prices drifted lower.

Frequent shifts in price movements in the stock market during the past week reflect the keen struggle that is being waged by opposing speculative forces for the control of the market. Fears a higher money rates were generally held responsible for the reactionary tendencies earlier in the week, but curiously on the very day that call money touched six per cent. the highest level since last January, the market turned upward under the leadership of U. S. Steel common and General Motors.

The advance was bitterly contested by speculators for the decline, with a resultant confusion in price movement. The struggle undoubtedly will be resumed during the coming week, with the issue probably in doubt until the effect of this seasonal expression in commercial and agricultural financing and the large volume of brokers loans [illegible] till money market becomes more clearly apparent.

POETRY FOR THE WIDE AWAKES

The Peppermint Shop

There's a dear little lovable man
Who lives in the Peppermint Shop,
It's just 'round the corner of Jumping-rope Lane,
On the street that's called Hippety-Hop.

In summer his windows are gay
With marbles and colored balloons,
And wee china dollies that close their blue eyes
To sleep through the warm afternoons.

'Tis here that the children all come;
The Chubbies, the Pigtails, the Curls
The freckle-faced boys with the tousled-up hair,
The dimpled and snub-nosy girls.

"What price is a marshmallow ball?"
"I'll take, please, some licorice whips."
"Two cents' worth of jelly-beans put in a bag
And seventeen chocolate chips."

They buzz at the counter like flies;
They giggle and whisper and plan;
They count out the pennies all moist in their hands
To give to the dear little man.

Such munching and licking of lips,
And fingers all sticky and sweet,
Such smiles of content as they swarm through the door
To scamper away down the street.

But tomorrow and the next day, and next,
They'll come back to the Peppermint Shop,
For it's just 'round the corner of Jumping-Rope Lane
On the street that's called Hippety-hop.

The Man for Mother Thinks I Am

Whilst walking down a crowded city street the other day,
I heard a little urchin go a comrade turn and say,
"Hi, Chimmie, lemme tell youse, I'd be happy as a clam
If I only was the feller that my mother thinks I am.

"She thinks I am a wonder, and she knows her little lad,
Could never mix with nuttin' dat was ugly, mean, or bad.
O., lots of times I sit and tink how nice 'twould be, gee whiz.
If a feller was de feller dat his mudder tinks he is."

My friends, be yours a life of toil or undiluted joy,
You can learn a wholesome lesson from that small unlettered boy.
Don't aim to be an earthly saint, with eyes fixed on a star;
Just try to be the fellow that your mother thinks you are.

Will S. Atkin.

UNCLE JED'S TALK TO THE WIDE AWAKES

Every boy and girl wants to live. No youngster wants to be crippled or injured. But every day in the year lots of children are killed and injured while playing in the streets and right in their own homes. Last year about 21,000 boys and girls under 15 years of age met untimely deaths.

Automobiles alone killed about 7,000 young people. Perhaps you know of some little playmate who was accidentally killed or injured as a result of playing in the streets which should be used only by vehicles.

Boys and girls often get killed and injured by falls. Sometimes they lean too far out of a window or over a balcony. Often they are in too much of a hurry to get down to the street and fall downstairs. Once in awhile they trip over a toy they left upon the floor, slip and crush their skulls upon the floor or some piece of furniture.

A great many youngsters are burned or scalded to death. They get too close to bonfires. Playing with matches has caused the deaths or thousands of boys and girls. Upsetting some thing that mother was cooking on the kitchen stove has been responsible for many burns and scalds.

Many, many lots have been overcome as a result of playing around gas stoves which should be avoided by children.

Too many youngsters have been killed as a result of toying with guns, pistols and revolvers.

Drownings take the lives of hundreds of little folks every summer. Any boy or girl who can read this newspaper is old enough to learn how to swim.

TAFTVILLE

Harold M. Pearce of Goodyear has been a recent guest at the home of the parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Pinaree and family of North C Street.

George W. Meiser and Miss Flossie M. Meiser left Saturday in their car for a trip which will take them to the sesquicentennial exposition at Philadelphia.

The members of Castle Perilous, K. of P. A. held a ceremonial conclave Friday evening. At this meeting Hartford Zeltner presided. Curtis Heller was Sensational and Byron Kloss was Herald. Committees were appointed to take charge of a ceremonial to be held early in November. Delegates from other castles are expected to be present and a supper will be served. The main purpose of the conclave will be to discuss the Century Pantaline for which national headquarters has recently granted a charter.

Manuel Greco of Norwich Ave. has left for a weeks stay in New York to attend the World's series.

LEGION AUXILIARY MAKES SOME PLANS FOR SEASON

The first meeting of the fall season of the Ladies Auxiliary of Fletcher post No. 4, American Legion, was held last week in the post rooms on Shetucket street, a goodly number of members attending. The meeting opened in the usual form with President William I. Borne in the chair.

Reports were read and accepted and several applications for membership were acted upon. Arrangements were made to visit several sick members and very interesting reports were read by the president, concerning the state convention held at New Haven in September. Miss Evon Broadhurst was the local member appointed to be district committee woman for the Fifth district. Plans were made for a sale to be held this month and each member was asked to contribute fancy work and food, the proceeds from the sale to be used for welfare work. It was voted to hold a whist in the rooms in October.

The next meeting of the auxiliary is to be held October 4th when final plans are to be made for the sale and it is expected that a good attendance will be had to plan for fall activities.

TWO GRANGE DEGREES TO BE WORKED AT PACHAUG

The fifth and sixth degrees are to be conferred at a special meeting of New London county Pomona and the state grange at Pachaug on Wednesday, the fifth degree in the morning and the sixth in the afternoon. It is the intention to secure a bus to transport the Norwich grange members to the meeting if enough of them notify Mrs. Ida Richardson, the worthy master before Tuesday of their desire to go.

LOYAL CIRCLE, KING'S DAUGHTERS CELEBRATES 20TH ANNIVERSARY

Marking the 20th milestone in the history of Loyal Circle of King's Daughters, 24 members of the circle gathered at Buckingham Memorial Saturday night to feast and celebrate in honor of the occasion. The large dining hall was used for the banquet and the decorations were in colors of the circle, purple and silver predominating, huge displays of purple asters, the gift of Mrs. Henry Hewitt of Lebanon, being used for room and table decorations. Place cards were white, mounted with silver crosses on which were inscribed 1906-1926, In His Name. Favors were large purple tulips and the waitresses were dressed in white and wore aprons of purple and silver and bandeaux of the same colors.

Shortly after 7 o'clock, announcement was made that the banquet was to be served and after the 24 members were seated the following menu was served by members of Clara Barton ten, No. 7, Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil war:

Fruit Cocktail
Roast Native Turkey
Dressing Brown Gravy
Mashed Potatoes
Creamed Onions Peas
Olives Celery
Tomato Salad Lettuce Salad
Cranberry Sauce
Coffee Rolls
Ice Cream Lady Fingers
Loyal Circle Birthday Cake

Following the banquet Mrs. George E. Zimmerman, leader of the circle, spoke briefly concerning the joyousness of the occasion and the pleasure it afforded her to welcome the members once again to an anniversary banquet. She then called on Mrs. George Carter, charter member of the circle, to read letters from charter members unable to attend the banquet these being from Mrs. Joseph Ambler of Washington, D. C., and Mrs. Charles Nichols of Jersey City, N. J.

The entertainment of the evening was most delightful and was thoroughly enjoyed, adding much to the happiness of the occasion. The opening number of the program was a duet by Miss Lucile Guile at the piano and George Guile, violinist this being followed by a pleasing solo by Mrs. William Bailey, who was forced to respond with an encore. A reading by Miss Isabelle Shearer was followed by a violin selection by Nelson Parker accompaniment being by Miss Dorothy Packer. A solo dance by Miss Lois Durie was followed by another selection by the Guile duo and another reading by Miss Shearer, after which the Guiles closed the entertainment program with violin and piano duet.

One of the most interesting numbers on the program was the reading of the history of the circle, especially concerning the tenth anniversary banquet held Oct. 3, 1916 at the home of Mrs. George W. Carter at No. 355 Main street. That banquet was of special importance inasmuch as it was the home where the circle was organized on Oct. 1, 1906. Being interested in the work of the King's Daughters, Mrs. Carter with friends met at her home with Miss Lucy Geer, county secretary, and the circle was organized and named Loyal circle. There were ten charter members of the circle: Mrs. Fred Parker, Miss Maude Allen, Miss Jessie Cherry, Miss Elizabeth Hall, Miss Flossie Holloway, Mrs. Mrs. Charles Nichols, Mrs. Hall, Mrs. William McCord, Miss Margaret Haun and Mrs. George Carter.

Upon organizing the circle the members elected as the first officers Mrs. George Carter as leader, Miss Elizabeth Hall as vice leader, Mrs. Charles Nichols as secretary and Miss Flossie Holloway as treasurer.

During the first ten years the circle had but four leaders, Mrs. George Carter, Mrs. Clarence Brown, Mrs. Charles C. Treat and Mrs. Louis A. Wheeler. In 1920 Mrs. George E. Zimmerman became leader of the circle and is the present leader, making but five leaders in the 20 years the circle has been carrying on its work of kindness and charity in His Name, and but two leaders: Mrs. Wheeler and Mrs. Zimmerman, during the past ten years.

The circle now numbers 27 members, among them two of the charter members and the present officers are: Mrs. George E. Zimmerman, leader; Mrs. Louis A. Wheeler, vice leader; Mrs. Alex Durie, secretary; Mrs. Archibald Torrance, treasurer.

The 20th anniversary banquet will be one long to be remembered and gave inspiration to the members to go on in doing kind acts in His Name. The success of the anniversary observance was due to the work of the committees: Mrs. Louis A. Wheeler on program and Mrs. Arad R. Manning, Mrs. Archibald Torrance and Mrs. Harry Rushworth on decorations.

QUEEN OF THE ROSARY HONORED AT ST. PATRICK'S

The veneration for and love of the Mother of Christ was manifested throughout all the services at St. Patrick's church Sunday, opening October, the month devoted to the Rosary, which is as a chaplet of prayers recalling the principal events in the earthly ministry of the Saviour. At the 7:30 low mass, read as usual by the rector, Rt. Rev. Msgr. M. H. May, members of the Rosary society and children of Mary received holy communion in a body. The three priests of the parish had heard so many confessions Saturday from 3 to 6 and 7 to nearly 10 o'clock that an unusually large number went to the altar for communion. Msgr. May beginning his sermon of Rev. John J. Reilly in saying the Communist. The three altar bouquets were adorned with fall flowers.

It was the 16th Sunday after Pentecost, the epistle read in all the masses throughout the world on that and each being Ephesians 4: 23-28 and the gospel Matthew 22: 2-14, the parable of the marriage feast. Preaching from the gospel, Monsignor May developed the text, "Friend, how camest thou in hither, not having on a wedding garment?" This is a gospel in which stand out two sullen thoughts—the infinite goodness of God and the ingratitude of man. The wedding garment, for the absence of which man so often merits the rebuke of the almighty King giving the marriage feast is charity—that complex of all virtues; the garment of love for God and love for neighbor. Men fancy it sufficient when they have donned the garment of faith, of belief. But this is not enough; even the devils believe. Faith without good works will never suffice to clothe one in the mystical wedding robe upon which God insists. Supplementing belief, there must be practice of virtues, generous, earnest charity, loyal obedience to the commandments, which will make of those bidden to the wedding feast true Christians and Catholics, pleasing in the sight of God here and entitled to wear the wedding garment of eternal reward in the everlasting dwellings hereafter.

Sunday afternoon, following devotions there was a reception of 15 new members into the Rosary society. Miss Annie G. Stanton, president. Shortly after 3 o'clock, the members of the Rosary society, Children of Mary and Immaculate Conception sodality assembled in the basement chapel, marching through the school grounds and to the upper church. The parish rector, Monsignor May, led the procession and was preceded by three altar boys, one carrying the crucifix, the others bearing lighted candles. In the procession also were 30 little girls in white, wearing veils and representing the mysteries of the Rosary—ten carried yellow flowers, ten had white flowers and ten had red blossoms, for the joyous, the sorrowful and glorious mysteries, respectively. The procession entered the church by the center aisle, Miss Stanton, the president, leading the Rosary society and Miss Loretta Lefebvre president, at the head of the children of Mary.

Rev. Myles Paul Galvin, senior assistant, led in the recitation of the Rosary, the large congregation joining in the responses. Monsignor May then received the 15 new members into the Rosary society, reading the consecration prayers and investing the new members with the society medal. The exercises closed with Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament, given by Monsignor May. The processional hymn was "Come, Holy Ghost", and before the reception ceremonial the societies sang "Mother Dearest, Mother Fairest." The concluding hymn was congregational singing of "Holy God, We Praise Thy Name." Organist Henry J. LaFontaine directed the music and during Benediction sang "Divine Praises."

The little girls in the procession again demonstrated the splendid training which the children of the Sunday and day schools receive from their devoted instructors, the Sisters of Mercy of the Perkins avenue convent.

Presented Gifts at Hospital

The members of Immergruen lodge, O. D. H. S., presented Mrs. Thomas Carberry two large bouquets and gifts of candy at the Backus hospital. Her infant son, Raymond Michael, received gifts of money.

REGISTRATION OF MOTOR VEHICLES SLOWS UP

A pronounced slowing up in the rate of motor vehicle registrations in Connecticut, as of September 1, is indicated by figures given out at the state motor vehicle department. Whereas on the corresponding date of last year, Connecticut registrations showed an increase of 13 per cent. over the previous year shown by September 1, 1924 was 17 per cent. and by September 1, 1923 was 15 per cent.

The total number of cars registered by September 1 of this year was 264,966, as against 244,134 on the corresponding date of last year, 211,283 by September 1, 1924, 174,691 by that date of 1923 and 147,926 by September 1, 1922. If registrations had continued at about the average rate for the previous three years, 300,000 motor vehicles would have been registered in the state by the end of this year, but it now appears improbable that this total will be reached. The total number of motor vehicles registered in Connecticut during 1926 was 262,744, it will be noted that that total had been exceeded by the end of the eighth month of this year. September registrations passed the total for 1925 with towards 27,000 for the remaining months of the year are not strong registrations months.

The slowing up in the rate of increase is most noticeable in registrations of so-called pleasure cars and public service cars, total number of which registered by September 1, 1926 was 7 per cent. in excess of the registrations in that class a year before. Registrations of commercial cars showed a 13 per cent. increase at that time, however, while motorcycle registrations had decreased 8 per cent and combination registrations 1 per cent.

FLORIDA MAYORS SAY NO TYPHOID IN MIAMI

The Bulletin is in receipt of a letter signed jointly by Mayor J. P. Grethen of Hialeah, Mayor F. M. Miller of Country Club Estates, and F. B. Squires, president of the Chamber of Commerce of Opa Locka, who state officially that there is not a single case of typhoid in any of the municipalities that they represent, nor is there a case in any part of the city of Miami. We base this, their letter says, not only upon our own knowledge but also upon the formal statement to us of City Physician R. J. Lamb, of Hialeah, who of course has full opportunity to know conditions accurately.

Not only, we may add, has the greater Miami district a "clean bill of health," therefore, in a physical sense, but also in respect to mental attitude as well: for the big, cheering fact is that the unanimous attitude of all our people is emphatically: "Business as usual."

Repair of buildings is going on everywhere. Debris has already been almost entirely collected and disposed of. Telephone, power and light wires are being rapidly replaced. The supply of pure water has been restored. Street repairs are being made where necessary.

The Red Cross is valiantly aiding our effective local relief work, and it is our intention shortly to turn over complete control of all this effort to that great organization. The very generous contributions of funds that are coming to us from all over the country are being wisely used to meet pressing needs. The high value of the aid rendered by the Curtiss-Bright company, which so promptly stepped into the breach with its great facilities, also deserve our thankful acknowledgement.

NORWICH TOWN

LOCAL RELATIVES ATTEND WEDDING AT SARATOGA

Mr. and Mrs. Orrin S. Smith, accompanied by their grand-daughter, Miss Eleanor Smith, are passing several days Eleanor Smith, are passing several days they went to attend the wedding Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock, of Mr. and Mrs. Smith's granddaughter, Miss Lucile Thomas, and Kenneth Palmer, of Boston. The bride is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. Snowden Thomas (Mabel Smith) of Saratoga Springs, formerly of Norwich. Following a wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Palmer are to occupy an apartment in Boston, where the groom is located. The bride is a niece of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney P. Smith of Norwich Town.

News of the death Friday, about midnight of Burrill William Lathrop, 68, of Norwich Town, was not wholly unexpected by his friends, as his condition had been critical, since he was suddenly stricken, nearly two weeks previous. Mr. Lathrop had been under the care of skilled physicians and nurses for a number of days.

Mr. Lathrop was active in attending to his daily duties and found plenty to occupy his time. His chief duty was carrying the mail to and from the post office, where his daughter was in charge.

In his younger life for a few years he was in the grain and coal business in Wichita, Kansas, returning to Norwich a number of years ago.

Mr. Lathrop was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William B. Lathrop, esteemed residents of Norwich Town for many years the homestead being situated at 86 Town street. He was born in Iowa City, Iowa, Jan. 12, 1858. He married Miss Florence A. Bussey, who died a little over six years ago. He is survived by four children, Frank B. Lathrop and Mrs. John Kinney (Phoebe Lathrop) who reside at home, B. Dudley Lathrop of Norwich Town and Clifford A. Lathrop of Worcester, Mass., also by a sister, Mrs. John Blair, (Mary Lathrop), of Worcester, Mass., and a brotner, Charles E. Lathrop of Kansas City, Mo. He leaves six grandchildren, Phyllis Austin Lathrop, Clifford Austin Lathrop, Jr., and Richard Tilden Lathrop, all of Worcester, Dudley Noyes Lathrop, Elizabeth Orline Lathrop and Flora Mae Kinney, of this city.

Mr. Lathrop was an indulgent father and his family has received many expressions of sympathy since his death. He was a member of the First Congregational church, Norwich Town, belonging to one of the oldest families in Norwich and was a direct descendant of both Rev. William Fitch and Rev. Benj. Lord who were the first two ministers of the church. He was also a Mason.

Cards received in town last week from Thomas H. Bacheler, of East Town street, who is passing several weeks in the west, came from Muskegon, Michigan. Before returning to Norwich, Mr. Bacheler is to spend some time with his brother, Rev. Gilbert B. Bacheler, at Ligonier, Mich.

Callers Sunday evening at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Charles H. Lamb, of Town street, included Dr. Lamb's relatives, Mrs. Harriet E. Brainerd and Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence J. Gremley, of Mystic.

A prayer service for Wooden Wait Sterry was held Saturday afternoon at 2:15 at his home, 40 Otrabando avenue.

In the First Congregational church at 2:30 o'clock, the pastor, Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey, conducted public funeral services, attended by a large assemblage of relatives, friends and neighbors. Rev. Mr. Bailey paid tribute to Mr. Sterry for his loyalty and never-ceasing faithfulness in discharging the duties assigned him in his charing for the house of God, "The Life of Which I Long", by Whittier, was read by Rev. Mr. Bailey, preceding his formal prayer. Herbert L. Yoringham was at the organ. Beautiful floral pieces were arranged about the pulpit and in front of the platform. The bearers were a brother, Jabez W. Sterry, two nephews, Robert Wells Sterry and Howard Branstog Sterry, all of Norwich and a cousin Frank C. Sterry of Willimantic. Burial was in the family plot in Yantic cemetery, where Rev. Mr. Bailey conducted the committal service.

Charles A. Gager was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

In recognition of his long and faithful service as sexton of the First Congregational church the church bell was tolled 58 times, significant of the fact that Sexton Sterry was buried on his birthday, the bell tolling once for each year of his life. This was while the funeral procession formed, and during the burial service in Yantic cemetery.

Out of town relatives present were from Willimantic, Jewett City and New London. The flowers included a pillow, union made, from Robert Wells, Howard Brewster and Charles Theodore Sterry; spray of purple asters, Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Sterry, spray of asters, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Cantor, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Wheeler, and Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Irish; spray of pink rosebuds, Mrs. C. P. Lane and Miss Mary Bacheler; white asters and pink rosebuds, marked "Brother", Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Sterry; white astors and gladioli, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Barber and family; spray of rari-colored gladioli, Mrs. Alice E. Tufts, pink gladioli, Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Ryan; purple astors, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wagnor; spray, gladioli, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Norris; pink rosebuds, William Howard and family; white dahlias and purple asters, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Kiess; purple asters, Mr. and Mrs. Jabez M. Sterry; gladioli and spirea, Misses Ruth and Louise Sterry; pink carnations, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Logan Sterry; wreath of dahlias and rosebuds, First Congregational church; spray of cactus dahlias, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Bishop; pink carnations, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Davis.

TRIAL OF SUIT FOR REAL ESTATE COMMISSIONER

Trial in the $500 damage suit brought by Martin J. Walsh of Groton against Rosario Garagliano was held before Judge Charles B. Waller in the court of common pleas at New London Saturday.

The plaintiff alleges that on or about Sept. 1, 1925, the defendant employed him to procure a purchaser for certain real estate belonging to the defendant and wife, Matilda Tasco Garagliano, situated in Groton and consisting of two tracts of land. The plaintiff alleges that the defendant wanted $10,000 for the land and agreed to pay a commission of three per cent to Walsh if the latter succeeded in procuring a buyer. Walsh alleges that he sold the property for the agreed price and was therefore entitled to $305 as commission, which it is alleged has never been paid.

Dr. J. L. Erb, of Connecticut college, who began his service as organist at the United Congregational church Sunday morning played as the prelude Rheinberger's Intermezzo (Fourth Sonata) at the offertory Andante in D flat, Chauvet, with Faulkes' grand chorus in G as the recessional.

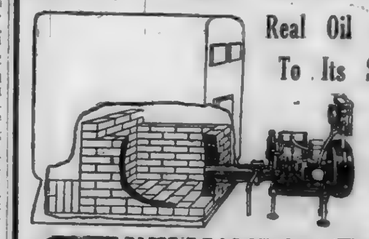
Real Oil Heating Refined To Its Simplest Form



WILLIAMS OIL-O-MATIC HEATING

Your Oil-O-Matic is connected to the front of your present furnace or boiler. No part goes inside. It supplies oil as fuel in place of coal, so nebulized as to produce an intense, pure flame. Hotter than a great bed of red hot coals.

In your living room is a thermostat connected with the Oil-O-Matic downstairs. This automatically starts and stops the burner as the room temperature varies.

Simply set the indicator at the temperature you enjoy and forget you have a heating plant. Everything else is done automatically. No fireman is required. No ashes to remove. No smoke, soot or odor.

Our Fall Opening

WILL CONTINUE ALL THIS WEEK

Our Fall Opening is a demonstration of our readiness for Fall in every department of the store. Whether you need goods for personal wear or for the home you will find it to your advantage to make selections now while assortments are complete. In nearly every department are "special offerings" secured for Fall Opening Week, and these are being offered at prices which mean worthwhile economies.

A LEADING FEATURE OF FALL OPENING WEEK

Is an Interesting Miniature Fruit of the Loom Exhibit In Large Window, West of Main Entrance.

Interesting! Instructive!

This is a most unique and instructive display. It is a replica in miniature of the Big Mill where the world famous Fruit of hte Loom Cloth is made. It is novel, fascinating exhibit, always in motion. Modern magic transforms a ball of cotton, before your eyes, into a bolt of fine cloth. You can see the snowy Fruit of the Loom Nainsooks and soft Muslins in their various processes of being woven. You can see the fluffy white cotton balls — the threads that are spun — the woven cloth, before it is bleached — then the snowy sparkling white fabrics after they are finished. This display, which is now in our window, is of great educational value to every grownup and child who sees it. It will give you a splendid idea of the great New England mill, that for more than three-quarters of a century has been weaving Fruit of the Loom Cloth.

In connection with the window display, we are featuring "Fruit of the Loom" products this week, including —

Sheetings	Shirts	Women's Night Gowns
Nainsooks	Mattress Covers	Infants' Gertrudes
Cambrics	Men's Night Shirts	Infants' Gowns
Pillow Cases	Men's Pajamas	Etc., Etc.

Women know the good qualities of this famous fabric — it has meant quality and fineness of finish for many years. We invite your consideration, this week, of our showing of Fruit of the Loom fabrics and of articles and garments fashioned from Fruit of the Loom Cloth.

—THE—

CHALLENGE

I am CONCRETE and I defy comparison; I am age-proof, vermin-proof and everlasting.

Make me properly and I will remain intact, getting stronger with age; I need NO PAINT OR REPAIR; rain, sleet, snow, and all the elements, have no effect but to harden me.

I am young, yet old; I have seen the mightiest come and go.

You will find me on the EGYPTIAN PYRAMIDS, built 4000 years ago.

I helped build NERO'S COLLISEUM AT ROME. Wood and steel are perishable; I AM NOT.

I am ADAMANT, INDESTRUCTIBLE, ETERNAL.

As a result of scientific progress, I am in very many places superior to stone. AGE is my friend. In the form of burial vaults, I stand supreme, incomparable. They had a hard time drilling through me at KING TUT'S TOMB. THE ROMAN AQUEDUCT was lined with me, and it is one of the world's marvels.

Set me up against unprotected steel or iron and leave us alone for a number of years, and then take a look. I am stronger and better, while the steel and iron are rusting away.

SHIPS are now built of me; great bridges, formerly of steel, are now made of me. I have been discredited in some cases by DISHONESTY, GRAFT, GREED, AND CARELESSNESS.

I BELIEVE IN HONESTY; make me right and I will stand 10,000 years.

Don't expect me at my best when you withhold the cement. I AM REVOLUTIONIZING THE WORLD, FOR THIS IS THE CONCRETE AGE. You will soon find me listed as BURIAL VAULTS on every up-to-date Funeral Director's list of equipment. In this form I am proof against VERMIN, AIR, WATER AND DECAY, and can be taken up for removal, intact, 50 or 150 years from now. Steel cannot stand comparison. I offer absolute and permanent protection and continue LOYAL TO THE TRUST imposed upon me long after my competitors are swept away.

I built the PANAMA CANAL, the wonderful HYDRO-ELECTRIC POWER PROJECT, with its great wheelpits and forebay. Now they are building immense locks on the great new Welland Canal of me.

Truly I am INDISPENSABLE, IRRESISTIBLE AND EVERLASTING.

They finish my surface in many ways and make the most beautiful homes of me in the form of STUCCO, and when I am dressed and smoothed by carborundum stones (I become so hard that no other stone will affect me), and in a coat of scientifically prepared enamel I am as beautiful as the most polished steel, yet I hold a wonderful advantage—I CANNOT RUST, ROT OR CORRODE. Above surface or below, in dry sand or in bog, I REMAIN ADAMANT. Some say I am heavy, but my weight only indicates my SUBSTANCE AND STABILITY, which enables me to remain perfect long after wood or metal are collapsed and gone.

Cement Companies are spending millions to educate the people to my WONDERFUL POWERS OF ENDURANCE.

No matter how cheap, or what the claims, no substitute can endure with me. Modern science makes me absolutely permanent and waterproof. I AM THE ETERNAL MATERIAL WHICH MADE ROME.

This is the new concrete age. I AM CONCRETE.

CONTENDS THAT $15,000 FEE FOR LAWYER WAS A "PLUM"

Prosecution in the Daugherty-Miller Case Introduced Evidence That Miller's Last Official Act Was to Divert $15,000 of Governmental Funds to Adna R. Johnson, the Man Who Wrote the Letter Releasing $7,000,000 to Richard Merton, German Metal Magnate—Remuneration for a Half Hour Conference With Department of Justice Lawyers—Johnson Was Dropped by the Present Alien Property Custodian.

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—(AP)—Evidence was introduced in court today intended to show that one of the last official acts of Thomas W. Miller as alien property custodian was to shake a $15,000 plum from the governmental tree into the hands of Adna R. Johnson.

Johnson is the man who wrote the letter releasing to Richard Merton, German metal magnate, the $7,000,000 proceeds of American Metal company stock impounded under the trading with the enemy.

Miller is on trial with Harry M. Daugherty, attorney general of President Harding's cabinet, for conspiracy to defraud the government in permitting approval of the metal company claims. The government charges they did so under the influence of "hypodermic injections of graft" distributed through John T. King, late republican leader, freed by Mertin for $441,000 to quit approval of the claims.

In previous days of the trial George E. Wilmoth, first assistant in Miller's office, said full responsibility for such approval was given the claims in the alien property custodian's office, and Senator Guy D. Goff, assistant to Daugherty, assumed entire responsibility for final award in the attorney general's office.

Both denied that they had been given any instructions about passing the claim by either Daugherty or Miller, but both said they came to their final conclusions after length conferences with Johnson, who was a special assistant to Daugherty. Johnson wrote the letter turning the $7,000,000 over to Merton and, on his assurance that it was all right, Goff signed it.

Johnson was the third "witness to be called by the defense and the climax of his testimony for the day came when United States Attorney Buckner took him for cross-examination.

Buckner introduced two government checks made out to Johnson and dated Sept. 2, 1925 one for $10,000 and one for $5,000. It was shown that Johnson cashed them 5 Mar. 3, after returning from a vacation which consumed the last month he'd been in the government service, he having resigned, effective March 1. Next a letter was introduced from Miller, whose own resignation was to become effective March 15, to the attorney general saying that he had appointed Johnson as a civilian lawyer to assist in the preparation in suits involving alien property claims brought against it by the Equitable Trust company of New York and Sigg Fehr of Ohio.

"Who was it necessary," Buckner asked, "for Mr. Miller to appoint such a lawyer on the eve of his own resignation? Why did he not leave this task for his successor, during whose tenure the cases would be tried? And was there no lawyer in the department itself competent to handle this work that an outside lawyer had to be hired at a $15,000 fee?"

The prosecutor then sought to show through questioning Johnson that in fact the fee was a mere present and that no real work was even expected in return.

"Was not a man named Stanley, a government lawyer, already in charge of these cases?" he asked.

"He was."

"Did you, after your appointment by Miller, ever do any real work on the cases?"

"I went to Washington from my home in Ironton, O., for a conference with department of justice lawyers."

"How long did that conference take?"

"Well, about half an hour."

"Last November were you not dropped by the present alien property custodian, relieved of all further duties?"

"I was."

"And up to that time you had never appeared in either of these cases, the cases you received $15,000 for assisting in?"

"I had not."

Today's session, which marked the beginning of the fifth week of the trial, was opened with the recall of Williams to the stand for cross examination.

Buckner brought out by questioning that the letter forwarding the Merton claims from the "A. P. C." office to the attorney general's office was in fact not a recommendation but only a statement that the claim seemed all right, supposing that the attorney general's office found the facts as stated in them to be correct and the law involved correctly interpreted.

"In common language then," Buckner asked Williams, "what you really did with these claims was to pass the buck from your office to the attorney general's, wasn't it?"

"Yes, sir," Williams responded, "you might say that's just what we did."

After Williams was excused William Rand, counsel for Miller, introduced the letter written his client by President Coolidge in accepting Miller's resignation in March, 1925. The letter was read to the jury. It contained expression of Mr. Coolidge's thanks to Miller "for all the efficient service you have rendered in the past."

POSITION OF MISSIONARIES IN CHINA IS PRECARIOUS

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 4.—(AP)—The position of foreign missionaries in China is becoming increasingly precarious. They have been kidnaped by bandits and endangered by operations of Chinese military factions among whom the anti-foreign feeling has grown, owing in part to clashes in the Yangtze basin with loss of life when Chinese troops attacked British naval men. Ill feeling toward missionaries has been reported recently from widely separated cities.

Three American missionaries were carried off yesterday by bandits who attacked a large party proceeding to stations at Shenchowfu, Hunan province.

Those who were kidnapped were Miss Minerva S. Weil of the Reformed Mission; Miss Lydia K. Coe, Evangelical Mission, and Karl H. Berk, Reformed Mission.

Seven other missionaries escaped and are reported safe at Taoyuan Taye. Thirty armed Chinese guards employed by the missionaries for protection decamped when the bandits appeared.

Hundreds of miles to the north, at Suchow, capital of Suchai province, 15 American missionaries and a like number of British were reported in dispatches Saturday to be in a desperate situation. They were unable to leave the city, for which marauding troops of the deposed government of Peking were contending with Shansi province forces.

The American legation at Peking has appealed to rival commanders to safeguard the Shansi missionaries.

HELD WITHOUT BAIL FOR DEATH OF CLOAK MODEL

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—(AP)—Francis Murphy and John J. Fitzpatrick, charged with homicide after the death a week ago of Dorothy Smith of Holden, Mass., who dropped from the window of an apartment to which they had taken her were held without bail today, for decision tomorrow, at a hearing before Magistrate Charles A. Oberwager.

The medical examiner who performed the autopsy reported that the girl was attacked before her death. One witness said she saw the girl fall. Another said he saw her hanging out of the window, holding on to a man's hands. A third said he heard screams and a man's voice in the apartment.

The defense produced a letter intended to show that Miss Smith contemplated suicide.

FAIRY AND FOLK TALES WINS NEWBERRY MEDAL

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Oct. 4—(AP)—Arthur Bowie Chrisman, writer of fairy and folk tales, was awarded the John Newberry medal today at the American Library association conference. The medal is awarded annually for the most distinguished children's book of the year.

The medal is the gift of Frederic G. Melcher, of New York city, and is named in honor of John Newberry, an eighteenth century publisher who devoted attention to children's books.

DISTRICT ATT'Y WITNESS IN M'PHERSON CASE

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Oct. 4.—(AP)—Joe Ryan, deputy district attorney of Los Angeles county, whom Aimee Semple McPherson, evangelist, has denounced repeatedly over her temple radio as her persecutor, faced her today from the witness box in her preliminary hearing on charges of criminal conspiracy.

Ryan recounted his part in the investigation of Mrs. McPherson's story—that she was kidnapped at the Santa Monica Beach, May 18, last, and escaped from alien captors on the Mexican desert June 23.

The deputy district attorney, over bitter opposition of W. I. Gilbert, chief of defense counsel, took up the tale from his first meeting with the evangelist in the Douglas, Ariz., hospital, following her arrival there from the desert. He went over the futile search for the shack in which she said she was held, below the Mexican border and wound up with a comment on cosmetics which he said the woman-pastor used on the train to make dark circle under her eyes just before her return to Los Angeles.

GEORGE A. FINN HAS PETITIONED FOR PARDON

HARTFORD, Oct. 4—(AP)—Luman C. Beckett, Arthur M. Becker and Giovanni Vourri are among the sixty-three convicts at the state prison who have petitioned the board of pardons for their release at its session on November 1. Thirteen petitioners are from Hartford county, twenty-seven are from New Haven county, fifteen are from Fairfield county, three from New London county, two from Litchfield county, and one from each of the counties of Middlesex, Tolland and Windham.

Petitioners from New London county are:

George A. Finn, 35, Norwich, convicted of embezzlement, January 6, 1925, 5 to 9 years, second petition.

Simon A. G. Salbury, 47, Preston, convicted of murder, in the second degree October 9, 1918, life 12th petition.

Dirkoo Cabaudo, 40, Norwich, convicted of murder in the second degree October 30, 1909, life, 12th petition.

MRS. BUDLONG LOSES FIGHT FOR COUNSEL FEES

NEWPORT, R. I., Oct. 4—(AP)—Mrs. Jessie Margaret Budlong today lost her fight to compel her husband, Milton J Budlong of New York and Newport, to pay her counsel fees incurred in opposing the husband's suit for separate maintenance.

Judge Carpenter in superior court denied two petitions for counsel fees and expenses on the ground that Mrs. Budlong's financial status had not changed since the case was heard last January by Judge Walsh. At that time when the court denied Mrs. Budlong's suit for divorce, it was established that she was possessed of considerable assets.

At today's hearing, as at the trial of her husband's suit, Mrs. Budlong acted as her own attorney. In the course of her statement to the court she said there was a conspiracy on foot to ruin her financially and she expressed the hope that "the state would not be a party to it."

INDICATIONS OF SWEEPING REPUBLICAN VICTORY

WATERBURY, Oct. 4.—(AP)—Returns from the town election held last night indicate a sweeping republican victory, 18 out of 23 towns turning out a majority vote for the G. O. P. In only five towns did the democrats register a larger vote than the republicans.

In the town of Bethlehem, R. A. Jones, who held the office of tax collector and whose books it is claimed show that he paid the town $1,500 too much, was not re-elected. An accounting has been asked.

Kent Benson who was elected constable in the town of Kent, was a nominee on both republican and democratic tickets.

The five towns that went democratic are: Bethlehem, Cornwall, Kent, Washington and Morris. The following towns went republican: Beacon Falls, Bridgewater, Cheshire, Goshen, Litchfield, Middlebury, New Milford, Oxford, Plymouth, Prospect, Roxbury, Seymour, Southbury, Thomaston, Watertown, Wolcott, Woodbury and Washington.

CASE OF OIL LAND LEASES REACHES SUPREME COURT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4—(AP)—The long disputed question of the validity of leases on the naval oil reserves, started with a senate investigation and passed upon by lower federal courts, today reached the supreme court. At the opening of its fall term, oral arguments in the Edward L. Doheny case involving contracts for the construction of storage tanks for the navy at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, and leases on the Elk Hill naval reserve in California, were begun by Frank J. Hogan, leading counsel for Doheny, and his associate Frederic R. Kellogg. Mr. Hogan completed what he termed a statement of facts and tomorrow before the special counsel for the government is heard. Mr. Kellogg will apply them to what he contends is the law in the case.

Doheny's counsel held the act of 1920 gave the secretary of the navy full discretion in determining use of the oil in the reserves; that former Secretary of the Navy Denby, himself, determined to exercise this authority upon the recommendation of Admiral J. K. Robinson in charge of the reserves, and decided to take the oil out of the ground where it was being drained by neighboring privately owned wells, and place it in storage tanks for future use of the navy in emergencies.

The Doheny counsel also held the secretary acted after being assured by the judge advocate general of the navy of his right to do so, and that the loan of $100,000 by Doheny to Albert B. Fall, about a year before the contracts and leases were made did not constitute a bribe.

Hogan contended evidence by the government in the trial court failed to show any conection whatever between the contract and the loan upon a promissory note. It was not customary in case of bribe-giving he said, to take promissory notes and he further held the policy of taking the oil from the reserves had originated in and been developed at the navy department.

Prosecution of the cases was attributed by Hogan to a wave of hysteria which swept over the country prior to the 1924 presidential campaign.

FRANCE PREPARING TO RATIFY DEBT AGREEMENT

PARIS, Oct. 4—(AP)—Oral reservations to the Washington debt agreement, which would not affect the validity of ratification as far as the United States is concerned, probably will make their appearance in the forthcoming French discussion of the debt settlement.

33 Men Entombed in [illegible] Coal Mine

Were Trapped by an Explosion — Six Bodies Have Been Brought to Surface.

ROCKWOOD, Tenn., Oct. 4.—(AP)—Six bodies had been brought to the surface tonight from the Rodgers entry of the Roane Iron Company mine in which an explosion occurred today. Twenty-seven miners remained unaccounted for at 8 p. m.

The blast in the Rodgers entry, about three miles under ground, occurred in almost the identical spot where a gas explosion killed ten men in July, 1925. It was at this point that 25 of the miners were working today and veterans said the concussion probably snuffed out their lives before after-damp gas had time to do its work.

The recovered bodies were found near the Tengue entry, a branch leading off from the Rodgers entry about three quarters of a mile from the scene of the explosion. Three of the injured were located in the same entry by rescuers and brought to the surface after having been almost overcome despite hastily erected brattices, against the gas.

Rescue crews made slow progress in penetrating the shaft due to excessive heat and smoke and danger from gas, but they pushed forward on the slender hope that some life might still exist, leaving the bodies of the two dead men where they lay.

A large force of open lamp miners has been recruited and await orders to enter the mine to assist in carrying the bodies of those believed to be dead to the main slope. From there afrain of mine cars is ready to take them to the surface.

ARGUMENTS IN APPEAL OF THE "BIG FIVE" PACKERS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—(AP)—With former Secretary Hughes appearing for the appellants and Assistant Attorney General Donovan for the government, the District of Columbia court of appeals heard final arguments today on the appeal of the "Big Five" meat packers for the setting aside of the celebrated consent decree of 1920.

In asking that the decree permanently be set aside, Mr. Hughes argued that the district court of appeals had exceeded its judicial powers in entering the decree in the first place since there had been no finding of fact or agreement that a violation of the law had in fact taken place.

In addition, the former secretary of state asserted that A. Mitchell Palmer, attorney general in the Wilson cabinet, had abused the authority of his office in requiring the packers to enter into the decree to prevent the carrying out of federal actions then instituted in the federal courts in Illinois.

"This was not a decree, but an abuse of the administration of justice," Mr. Hughes declared, adding that the whole action constituted "an abuse of the powers of the attorney general's office the like of which never has been seen before."

Colonel Donovan argued that the court below had the authority to enter the decree despite the stipulation contained in it that it was not to be construed as an admission of any law violation by the packers.

"The defendants had a right to compel the government to prove the charges made in the bill of complaint," Mr. Donovan said, "but they elected not to do so, but to enter into the consent decree.

"The purpose was to prevent violations of the anti-trust laws and as such served the real purposes of the law which is to prevent the creation of monopolies. Once a monopoly is formed, dissolution decrees are more form that fact."

TRIAL OF MORSE CASE POSTPONED ONE WEEK

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—(AP)—The opening of the trial of 21 defendants, charged with Charles W. Morse with fraudulent use of the mails, today was postponed for a week by Federal Judge Thacher, who explained that a change in counsel for the defendants had made necessary a postponement.

The defendants are charged with offense in connection with sales of stock of the United States Steamship company and affiliated organizations. Morse has been adjudged unable to stand trial because of his physical condition.

HALIFAX, N. S., Oct. 4.—(AP)—The Nova Scotia schooner Haligonian will accept the New England challenge and will be on the starting line in the open ocean race off Gloucester this month, on condition that her shareholders are guaranteed against loss as a result of her participation. This was the decision of the directors of the Haligonian at a meeting today at which the master of the vessel, Captain M. Crouse, was present.

Keynote Address at A. F. of L. Convention

Outline of Major Projects for Welfare of Labor During the Coming Year.

DETROIT, Oct. 4.—(AP)—Reaffirming adherence to its traditional policy of constructive militancy, the American Federation of Labor, through its 46th annual convention, defined today the major projects of its programme for the advancement of labor welfare during the coming year.

Outstanding among the tasks set forth in the annual report of the executive council and the keynote address of President William Green were these:

To oppose "to the full extent of its power the efforts of employers to compel their employes to join company unions."

To continue a vigorous national campaign for the abolition of child labor.

Encourage co-operation between workers and management in the conduct of industry with a view to reducing production costs for the benefit of all.

Oppose a rapidly developing sentiment for the abolition of the direct primary system.

Resist without quarter the subservive propaganda of Russian sympathizers within the ranks of American labor.

Stimulate agricultural elements to a keener appreciation of the necessities of co-operative organization for improvement of the farmer's position.

Work for the five-day week of 40 hours throughout American industry.

Approximately 500 delegates, including fraternal representations from Mexico, Canada and several European countries, assembled for the initial sessions of the convention today.

The business programme will continue through this week and next.

Declining to take the position of interfering in the internal problems of a neighboring state, the executive council report acknowledged demands from various quarters within the federation for severance of relations with the Mexican Federation of Labor with the statement that we believe that the Mexican labor movement should exercise unrestricted authority to make decisions for Mexican labor and to adopt policies to be pursued in their labor problems.

The same section of the report characterized the principle of tolerance as one vital to the success of labor's programme.

"Without tolerance the individual is denied the right to decide his religious affiliations. For these various reasons the American Federation of Labor has not interfered in the difficult situation that developed in Mexico over religious policies."

An invitation for agricultural interests to aline themselves with the cooperative policies of the federation was extended in the council's report on the farm problem.

"Failure of congress to extend relief to the farmers should be a warning to them that they must defeat the efforts to enroll them on the side of the industrial and financial interests" the report said. "The farmers should heed the advice long has been given them, realize that they are living in an age of co-operation and, like all other groups, organize for their mutual advantage and for dealing with the common problems of production and marketing."

ARTIST JOHN HELD ELECTED A CONSTABLE

WESTON, Conn., Oct. 4—(AP)—John Held, Jr. farmer and artist, today joined the ranks of Connecticut's constables. He was elected constable and a member of the board of relief at the annual town election, receiving 137 votes to 94 cast for his opponent.

Held will enter the field in November for more political honors, having been nominated by the democratic congressional convention in the fourth district recently, to oppose Congressman Schuyler T. Merritt.

SOLUTION OF RED LEAD TAKEN AS DRINK OF WINE

NEW BRITAIN, Oct. 4.—(AP)—Lawrence Durba is in the New Britain General hospital suffering from poisoning and may not recover. He was 17 years old today and a friend gave him what he declared was wine. After Durba drank the so-called wine, he was told, he said, that it was a solution of red lead.

The young man went to a theatre where he was taken ill. He refused to tell who gave him the drink.

STAMFORD HAS ELECTED DEM. FIRST SELECTMAN

STAMFORD, Oct. 4.—(AP)—For the first time in more than ten years, the voters of the town of Stamford, today elected a democratic first selectman. Andrew Schlechtweig, who has been a candidate for many years, was elected over Charles H. Martin, republican, who has been selectman for four years. Schlechtweig's majority was 400.

HEAVY RAINS ARE CAUSING FLOODS IN FOUR STATES OF THE CENTRAL WEST

CHICAGO, Oct. 4—(AP)—Goaded to new rampages by phenomenal autumn rainfall, the rivers and streams of four states have continued into October, the havoc they wrought throughout last month.

Illinois, Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma were counting flood losses tonight, with hundreds of families homeless and many channels threatening to unload new tides of raging water.

Beardstown, Illinois, residents, who spent many days of September bolstering an Illinois river levee in the face of rising water, saw their efforts made vain when a thirty foot break in the dyke admitted to the city flood waters which swept the main streets and filled the southern section of the city to the level of he river.

Five hundred families were homeless tonight and many of them were accepting aid from the Salvation Army, which sent relief from Galesburg. Down town stores saw their first floors hidden beneath the ascending tide, which made a torrent of one downtown thoroughfare for ten blocks.

Danville, Illinois, experienced the worst flood in thirteen years, when the Vermillion river drove lowland residents to the house tops, whence they were rescued by police in boats.

The Mississippi river reached the highest fall stage ever recorded at Alton, Illinois, and floods in the Missouri and Illinois rivers above St. Louis, near their confluence with the larger stream, made many homeless and covered thousands of acres of corn and orchard lands.

Over most of Kansas and Oklahoma flood conditions were less severe than on Sunday night, with the water receding, but many streams had not yet returned to their banks. Three lives were taken by the flood in Oklahoma Sunday.

Tracks were washed away and highways submerged in many localities, particularly in Illinois.

September rainfall records for the middle west, compiled today by the weather bureau, show a great excess of precipitation from western Ohio to central Nevada, most notably at Springfield, Illinois, where 15.16 inches of rain fell during the month—almost twelve inches more than the normal amount.

RED CROSS WORK EXTOLLED BY PRESIDENT COOLIDGE

At Annual Convention in Washington the Chief Executive Declared the American Red Cross Represents Idealisms of Sensible, Practical, Sound Methods in the Real Problems of Relief—Recounted the Humanitarian Services Rendered by the Red Cross—Chairman Payne Asserted That Florida Storm Sufferers Are in Greater Need "Than the Interests There Would Have Us Believe."

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4—(AP)—Public support of the ministrations of the American Red Cross "represents idealism applied in a sensible, practical, sound way to the real problems of relief," President Coolidge told the annual convention of the organization in an address tonight.

Recounting the humanitarian services of the Red Cross in the San Francisco and Tokyo earthquakes and the more recent hurricane in Florida, the president continued:

"The public has come to realize the superlative ability of this organization to cope with such situations. There is faith that all contributions will be wisely, economically and honestly spent for the benefit of the sufferers—none being used for purposes of administration."

Declaring that "in this country we have no permanent class requiring charity," the president observed that "after all, human nature does not want permanent charity but permanent independence through the opportunity to work out its own destiny. It is at this point that the economic well-being and prosperity of a nation passes over into the deal. Great wealth belonging to a few is not a condition that we see in this country, but rather a system of production and distribution where the great mass of people shall be contributors to the purpose and shall share in the rewards.

"Under this system, toward which we are constantly advancing in America, prosperity and idealism merge, and the cause of economics serves the cause of humanity. The higher idealism, the true philanthropy, is not that which comes to the rescue after the catastrophe but rather of that which through obedience to sound economic laws creates a prosperity among the people that anticipates and prevents the need of charity."

What the Red Cross is doing is "only one example of the innumerable results of American idealism," Mr. Coolidge said, pointing out that the resources of wealth and prosperity had supplied charities in many other directions. That fact, he declared, "is one of the most complete demonstrations that our people in their effort to accomplish results are moved by righteous purpose, adding that "the success has not been turned to greed, envy or selfishness, but has been productive of generosity, benevolence and charity."

Organization of the junior Red Cross among high school students the president said was "one of the most promising of recent developments," with its "rich inspiration in the youth of that fine spirit of service and self sacrifice which is so characteristic of the senior organization." The junior groups also were praised as helpful forces in fostering international friendliness through close contact with similar organizations abroad.

"Among the choicest treasures of my bookshelves," the president added, "are thousands upon thousands of bound personal letters written by the school children of Japan expressing the gratitude of that exceedingly courteous nation for the millions of relief afforded them by the American Red Cross at the time of the devastating earthquake and flood which overwhelmed Tokyo and the surrounding territory in 1923. Out of the spirit of those who gave and the gratitude of those who received a better understanding and more enduring ties of friendship have certainly been made."

EMPHASIZED THE NEEDS OF FLORIDA STORM SUFFERERS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4—(AP)—Reemphasizing that Floridas storm sufferers are in greater need "than the interests there would have us believe," John Barton Payne, chairman of the American Red Cross, told the annual convention of that organization today that the time had come for decisive action against the propaganda activities of "officials and special interests."

Mr. Payne was the principal speaker on the day's program, while the legal session was set aside for the annual address of President Coolidge, who is president of the Red Cross.

Laying aside his prepared address, in which he declared the existence of the Red Cross again had been justified by the dreadful disaster" to Florida, Mr. Payne asserted there was going on in that state a "conflict between humanitarian efforts and "selfish business interests." The time has come, he said, when "we must consider seriously whether it is too late to renew our campaign for the relief for the poor and stricken in the storm area."

The first intimation he had about "what was going on," the chairman said, was when the chairman of the Chicago chapter "called me on the telephone and read me the message Gov. Martin had sent to the mayor of Chicago, thanking him for offers and aid, and assuring him that, while the governor, would let him know if further assistance was necessary."

"At first," Mr. Payne asserted, "I could scarcely believe that a governor would make such a statement, right at the height of a campaign to raise money for the relief of the poor people of his state."

"I suppose," he continued, "that the desire of a group to protect its business interests is a natural weakness." It is time, however, for the American Red Cross "to speak out," he added and the American people still should be ready to go forward and provide adequate relief for the many people in Florida who are in dire need of it."

William Fortune of Indianapolis, who arranged for quick transportation of typhoid vaccine to Florida shortly after the hurricane was elected chairman of the convention.

Contributions to the Florida relief fund total $2,118,000 to date, it was announced, a fund of $5,000,000 is sought.

NOT TO REOPEN CHARGES AGAINST ATTY. ALLING

HARTFORD, Oct. 4.— (AP) —The judges of the superior court, at their morning session in the state library building today, refused to reopen the charges against States Attorney Arnon A. Alling, of New Haven county, as requested by Mrs. Sarah A. Devlin, president of the Public Welfare association of New Haven.

After the charges by Mrs. Devlin that he had been seen entering places where liquor was reputed to have been sold, had been dismissed by the judges last summer, Mrs. Devlin renewed the charges in the form of specifications, against States Attorney Alling.

The judges voted that they would not reopen the charges against Mr. Alling because the Public Welfare association and Mrs. Devlin had previously been given all opportunity to make specific their charges and failed to do so in upwards of five months although several times requested to do so. The specifications which Mrs. Devlin and the association made against Mr Alling covered the same ground as her general complaints, which the judges dismissed in June.

Chief Justice George W. Wheeler, having been requested to furnish a copy of the specifications against Mr. Alling, declined on behalf of the judges on the ground that it was not for the public interest to give them out.

HAYS SAYS HOLLYWOOD WILL BECOME ART CENTER

BRIARCLIFF MANOR, N. Y., Oct. 4—(AP)—Hollywood, Cal., is "an international enterprise," which in another 10 years may very well be the art center of the world," Will H. Hays, president of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, declared here tonight.

Speaking at a dinner given in his honor by the Society of Motion Picture Engineers, Mr. Hays declared that "all the nations of the earth make the pictures for the world," although the great majority of motion pictures are America made. The cinema, he said, is "drawing from every corner of the world the greatest artists and artisans to aid in its service to the world."

CHARGED WITH ILLEGAL POSSESSION OF LIQUOR

PORTLAND, Me., Oct. 4—(AP)—Eight men, the crew of the power boat, May, seized by the coast guard destroyer Burrows, after shots were fired off Monhegan island yesterday afternoon, were arraigned before U. S. Commissioner George F. Gould late today on charges of illegal possession of 35 cases of liquor, and the hearing was continued until tomorrow at 9.30 a. m. The vessel is at this port.

The officials expressed the belief that the 35 cases of liquor taken was but a small part of the boat's cargo, the remainder being tossed overboard.

SUPERIOR COURT JUDGES CHANGE CODE OF ETHICS

HARTFORD, Oct. 4.—State's Attorney Hugh M. Alcorn may defend a murderer in New Haven county. State's Attorney Arnon A. Alling may do the same in Hartford county.

This is the revolutionary effect of a rule adopted by the judges of the superior court at their morning session at the state library building today when the judges repealed the rule of the code of ethics which prohibited state's attorneys and prosecutors of any criminal court in the state from defending an accused in any court.

The adopted rule permits them to appear on behalf of an accused in any criminal court other than their own. It means that the prosecutors in the Hartford police court may defend an accused in the superior court provided the case did not originate in their court.

The substituted rule was adopted, however, to give the prosecutors of the small towns the opportunity for a larger practice than was possible under the previous rule. Since its adoption and rigorous enforcement by judges, prosecutors have been greatly limited in their criminal practice. The result was that complaints developed against the rule.

The new rule is entitled "practice of judges, prosecuting attorneys and public defenders," and reads:

"A lawyer who is a judge of the supreme or superior courts may not practice law in any state or federal court.

"A lawyer who is state's attorney or a judge or prosecutor of the district court of Waterbury or of any criminal court of common pleas or of any town, borough or city court having criminal jurisdiction may not appear, during the period of his incumbency of such office, in any criminal case in behalf of an accused in the court of which he is an officer, or in such case upon appeal or binding over from such court.

"No public defender, during the incumbency of such office, may appear in behalf of the state in any criminal case in the court of which he is an officer, or in such case upon appeal or binding over from such court.

"The effect of the substituted rule limits these officials in their practice in behalf of an accused to courts other than their own court."

The repealed rule prohibited state's attorneys, judges, except justices of the peace, and prosecutors of any criminal court in the state from appearing in any court in behalf of an accused during the period of their incumbency of such office and prohibited a public defender from appearing in behalf of the state in any criminal case in any court during the period of his incumbency of his office.

ASHFORD CELEBRATION A BIG COMMUNITY EVENT

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Oct. 4—The third annual celebration of the acceptance of the Knowlton Memorial building at Warrenville Saturday afternoon and evening, was a notable success, although bad weather tended to reduce the attendance somewhat. The Babcock Concert band, the oldest and the only endowed band in the United States, played the opening concert, under direction of Professor A. E. Lyman. Following came songs and recitations by the school children led by their teachers, Misses Helen Shuboug and Margaret Law, with Miss Lydia Metter at the piano. The children also sang, Fair Ashford, the words of which were composed two years ago for the dedication by Miss Emily J. Chism. In closing their program the children gave the salute to the flag and led the audience in the Star Spangled Banner.

State's Attorney Arthur M. Brown of New London county, the speaker of the day, gave a masterly presentation of the constitutional foundations of American Liberty and Independence, with tribute to the founders, laying emphasis on the obedience to law and the guarantee of freedom of worship.

Rev. H. M. Coolidge of Union gave enlightening illustrations of the every-day meaning of American loyalty and opportunity, with special adoptation to the many children present.

Mrs. Edwin W. Higgins of Norwich brought out very interesting information concerning the Knowlton family in colonial and revolutionary days, quoting from Miss Ellen D. Larned's history of Windham county, with special reference to Colonel Thomas Knowlton. She described the beneficent gifts of the late Charles Clark Knowlton, not only in Ashford but the splendid residence hall at Connecticut College for Women at New London. In his modesty the donor had persisted on the name "Colonial" for the hall, but that has been changed to Knowlton hall, in accordance with the wish of all friends of the college.

Chairman Allen S. Lincoln called for recognition of the Old Home Day features of the celebration, noting the presence of many from other towns. He read a letter of cordial greeting from Governor John H. Trumbull, a native of Ashford, expressing sincere regret that a prior engagement prevented his attendance this year; in the past he had attended with his mother and Mrs. Trumbull.

There were several brief responses from old-home visitors, among them Edward Walker of Gurleyville, Norbert L. Walbridge of Stafford (son of Leander Walbridge of Ashford), Mrs. Abbie Chism Whitehouse, of Abington, Mrs. Julia Chism Gowdy of Hazardville. Others present of Ashford descent were, Joseph A. Dimock of West Willington Mrs Walter Green (Maud Packer) of Mystic, Andrew M. Grant of Mont Hope, Mrs. Oren P. Adams) (Bernice Beam) of Stafford Springs, Samuel Heck and Miss Della M. Heck of Union. Others in attendance included Mrs. Hammond Knowlton, Mrs. Ethan Allen Doty, Mrs. Henry E. Church of Hartford and Archbild W. Buchanan of Mansfield Center.

Rev Dr. H. M. Herringer, pastor of Warrenville Baptist church, made a brief address expressing appreciation of the value of community spirit in the town of his recent adoption.

Refreshments were served from 5 to 7 by the Ladies' Aid society and this was followed by an evening program opened by Rev. Dr. Herringer who led in community singing. Mr. and Mrs. Herringer sang a duet and Mrs. Herringer gave a solo. A vocal duet was rendered by Mrs. George Whitehouse and Mrs. Norman D. Baker and a piano solo by Mrs. Baker. Dr. Herringer was also heard in a violin solo. Dancing from 9 to midnight followed, to music by Lyman's orchestra. Alex Bassett being prompter for the square dances. Jack Arnold was floor director.

Mary Kapinos of the Stone Row was definitely branded as a common drunkard, in police court Monday morning, and Judge Frank H. Foss imposed the maximum sentence of six months in the county jail. Mrs. Kapinos, who has already served much time at the jail was arrested when a complaint was made that her husband was beating her. Albert Kapinos explained that his wife was to blame and the charge of breach of peace against him was nolled.

Fines of $10 each were imposed in the cases of Justin McCarthy and Jeremiah Welch, who pleaded guilty to intoxication.

Fred Boucher, who walked into the police station and announced himself down and out and sick, did not seem to understand what the court meant by charging him with intoxication. The man has been under the care of a physician since his arrest. The court sentenced him to the Norwich State Farm for Inebriates for a period of six months.

John Zager, known locally as "Johnny the Rabbit" walked into a house on Chapman street late Sunday. The woman in the house became frightened and made an outcry. Zager was arrested and in court Monday he was fined $15 and costs, amounting to $22.15.

The funeral of Miss Theresa Kelly was held from her home in South Coventry Monday, with requiem high mass at St. Mary's church, there, at nine o'clock. Rev. Dennis F. Moran sang the mass. Miss Celia Day was at the organ, and Miss Annie Wellwood and Miss Day sang. There were beautiful floral tributes. The bearers were Frank Brodvent, Patrick Bradley, Gordon Shumway, Hansen Dorothy and Stanley Barr, of Tupper Lake, N. Y., and Andrew Broderick of South Coventry. The committal service was held at the grave by Rev. Father Moran. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery. Arrangements were in charge of Killourey Brothers.

Rotary clubs of eastern Connecticut with representations from New London, Norwich, Putnam and Danielson, will meet with the Willimantic Rotary club this (Tuesday) evening in the new Nathan Hale hotel for a family gathering. The speakers will be Allan D. Colvin of Hartford, governor of the 30th Rotary district and Rev. George J. Donahue of Pomfret. The dinner will be at 7:30. Over one hundred and twenty are expected to be in attendance.

Mrs. Edward T. Sneden Grimes died Sunday after a long illness at her home, 273 W. 113th street, New York city. She leaves her husband, one son, Edward J. Jr., two sisters, Mrs. Robert Sturk of Parkridge, N. J., and Mrs. Herman Hague of New York; and two brothers, Ralph and Edward Sneden of New York city.

Mrs. Lucy E. B. More of 100 High street, who has been seriously ill for the past three months, is reported as in a state of coma. Mrs. More has been a sufferer with rheumatism for the past eighteen years. Mrs. Edward Burt of Putnam and visiting nurses of this city are attending her.

FIRE CHIEF H. J. KELLY ISSUES CAUTIONS TO PUBLIC

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Oct. 4—Fire Chief Henry J. Kelly has issued a statement in compliance with National Fire Prevention week, which he declares is applicable to all of the fifty-two weeks of the year and for every year of a sound and safe lifetime. In pointing out that fifteen hundred people are killed and fifty thousand injured in one year as the result of fire in this country, while property valued at five hundred million dollars is annually destroyed. ONLY HALF THE NORMAL VOTE—REPUBLICANS FAR IN THE LEAD

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, Oct. 4—The vote in the annual election of the town of Windham today was among the lightest recorded. No definite explanation of this situation was forthcoming from the politicians. The day was ideal for election activities but the town appeared in the grip of a lethargy that baffled the best efforts of vote-getting strategy. Officials at the third ward used to handling big crowds in years past, were lonesome. The removal in wholesale lots, of former residents of that section following the strike and later evictions of employees of the Thread company has changed that district from the biggest to the smallest, as the new residents of that zone have not yet been made voters.

Out of a total of 6,300 voters on the list, only 1,305 ballots had been cast up to noon; 200 in the first, 510 in the second, 255 in the third and 240 in the fourth districts. That the noon hour failed to provide the usual boom is indicated by the fact that at 2:45 o'clock only 2,265 ballots had been cast in the four districts, an even 400 less than at that hour one year ago. When the polls closed at five o'clock the total vote was several hundred under the total of previous years.

With only 3103 ballots cast out of a total of 6300 on the list, the republicans made a clean sweep. Straight republican tickets were in the lead in all wards but the normally democratic third. For the principal offices on the ballot, Ernest P. Chesbro for first selectman, present incumbent, defeated Robert O. Snow by a majority of 495. In the contest for collector of taxes Lester H. Blish followed in the band wagon and nosed out the incumbent Bert S. More who ran far ahead of his ticket, by a majority of 177. The crack runs were made by Raymond A. Parker, first name on the school committee, with a total of 1707 votes, 17 votes ahead of his ticket.

A detailed account of the vote follows:

Republican—Assessors for three years, *George E. Gifford 1691; for two years, *Chauncey E. MacFarlane 1714; board of relief, Lewye G. Gerry 1677; selectmen, *Ernest P. Chesbro 1750; *Charles Larrabee 1717, agent of town deposit fund, *George H. Spencer, 1701; auditor *Charles L. Boss, 1194; collector of taxes, *Lester H. Blish, 1593; constables, *Wilbur G. Stevens, 1761; *Alfred P. Abbe, 1685; *Clarence E. Avery, 1703; *Ralph J. Lussier, 1718; registrar of voters, *A. Linn Weatherhead, 1691; town school committee, *Raymond A. Parker, 1767; *Walter R. King, 1675.

Democratic—Assessors for three years, Lawrence S. Casey, 1301; for two years, Michael L. Falvey, 1274; board of relief, Alexis Caisse, 1336; selectmen, Robert O. Snow, 1262; *Jeremiah Hegley, 1275; agent of town deposit fund, Charles M. Holbrook, 1230; auditor, *Conrad Dubeau, 1231; collector of taxes, Bert F. More, 1416; constables, Joseph Peck, 1236; *William D. Kelley, 1316; *John T. Meiklejohn, 1305; *Thomas W. Doyle, 1282; registrar of voters, *Thomas A. Shea, 1283; town school committee, William A. Buck, 1223; *William B. Sweeney, 1305.

The total votes were announced at the first district voting place in the town building by Chief Moderator Alfred R. Handfield about 9 o'clock, following which the meeting was adjourned for the business session, Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Official lists for the annual town election were: Alfred R. Handfield, chief moderator First district: Alfred R. Handfield, moderator; John C. Barstow, official checker; Wilbert Jacobs, box tender; Dennis S. Shea and William Palmer, challengers; Maurice K. Moran and James O. Bacon, ballot clerks; Paul Dansereau and William Piche, booth tenders. Mrs. Lucy Lynch was the first woman to vote and Patrick McSweeney the first man.

Second district: Michael A. Sullivan, moderator; William S. Congdon, official checker Eugene J. Randall and Frank M. Lincoln, challengers; Anthony Hexrin, box tender; Charles H. Baker and Joseph Bishop, ballot clerks; Fred Pratt and George W. Parker booth tenders; Margaret Bulger was the first woman to vote and First Selectman Ernest P. Chesebro the first man.

Third district: Rev. William M. Brown of Windham Center, moderator; Stephen Connor, official checker; John Hznido and Edward Brown, challengers; Carl Josephson, box tender; Elmer Green and Thomas Tennant, ballot clerks; Theodore Delude and Octave Dubreuil, booth tenders.

Ellsworth, ballot clerks; Ralph O. Snow and Raymond McNickle, booth tenders. Charles Palmer, of South Windham was the first man to vote and Marie Turcotte the first woman.

JEWETT CITY

PRES. W. J. TUCKER BORN ON PACHAUG GRANGE HALL SITE

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Oct. 4.—Pachaug people were interested in reading in The Bulletin of the death and funeral of Prof. William Javett Tucker, eulogized at his funeral Sunday at Hanover, N. H., as "Dartmouth's Greatest President." Eighty years ago, in Griswold, in the one time Dr. Gay house near the bridge by the church, a baby was born, and according to Griswold records, was christened Willie J. Tucker. The great man, whose death has removed one of the outstanding characters in college life, was this same Willie Tucker. The Dr. Gay house was burned some 20 years ago and today occupying its site, is the new Pachaug grange hall. When he was still young his parents left Pachaug, and the little general store kept by his father on Bilgood's corner was closed. After 65 years had passed, Rev. Francis Childs came to the pastorate of the First Congregational church in Pachaug, and was shortly after that appointed upon the book committee of the Colt library. Mr. Childs wrote to William J. Tucker, setting before him certain urgent needs of the library. The great man's reply, received without delay expressed in no uncertain manner, that the "Little Hamlet by the Stream", the place where he was born, was still bright in his memory. Accompanying his letter was a substantial check.

The fact that Griswold has no town election this year, brings to the town certain advantages and considerable financial benefit. On the other side of the slate, and reckoned among the possible disadvantages is the fact that the annual town report gets a comparatively small circulation. It cost $30,513.99 to carry on the running of the town in 1925.

For the fiscal year just closed, the records show that the current expenses for 1926 were $28,206.44. This reduction is of interest when it is seen that during March and April of this year it cost $1,334.08 to clear the highways of snow. During 1925 no item appears for removing snow.

During 1921, dog damages to sheep paid were $16, and for the four following years this ever present nuisance cost $28, $31, $122, $67 and for this year $90; $455 in six years.

A recapitulation shows the town current expenses for 1926

Highways $6,258.58; bridges $340.90, snow $1,334.08, town officers $1,680, assessing and collecting taxes $2,419.02, outside poor $1,668.39, town farm $2,157.88, medical attendance outside poor $50.88, care of insane and imbeciles $1,311.80, damage done by dogs $90, town hall, Jewett City $1,878.92, town hall, Pachaug, $33.75, vital statistics $224.50, election expenses $361.95, interest $6,875.42, miscellaneous $1,620.81, total $25,406.44.

The town debt has been decreased $15,429.48 during the year, and now stands at $83,513.52, with a balance in the treasury Sept. 1 of $7,757.48.

In the town court Monday morning Joseph Polinski was fined $50 and costs for reckless driving in connection with Sunday night's accident.

John Moran drew $1 fine and costs for driving without license, or registration. No blame was placed on Moran. It was Mrs. Moran who was injured not Mrs. Polinski; the latter was the only occupant of the Polinski car.

Pachaug Community club held its September meeting Thursday evening with 110 in attendance. The business meeting was in charge of President George Palmer. The committee, Mr. and Mrs. John Peckham, Charles Campbell and the executive committee provided an enjoyable program which opened with Community singing led by Mrs. John Peckham with Mrs. Christina Murphy at the piano; piano solo and encore by Miss Regina Guthknecht, humorous story and encore by Fred Hicks of Canterbury, vocal solo with encore by Miss Verna Tarbox, accompanied at the piano by Miss Irene Stewart, piano solo and encore by Susan Terry and another song by Mr. Hicks.

The closing number, an old time spelling match was tied by Emma Manchini and Fred Hicks. The committee for the Oct. meeting is Mr. and Mrs. John Medick, Alexina Pepin, George and Marion Frink.

The funeral of Leon Young was held at Pachaug church, after prayer at the home of Victor Campbell, Monday afternoon. The church was filled with friends and relatives of the young man and his wife's family. Rev. W. J. Reynolds of Lisbon officiated. Mrs. E. A. Geer played the processional and recessional selections. Burial was in Pachaug cemetery, the bearers being World War veterans, Steve Serdechnely, William Watson, Charles Barber and Irving Thornton. A firing squad, Gilbert Miner, Wilfred LeClaire, Daniel Sullivan and John Smith, under command of P. W. Chase, fired three volleys at the grave. There were beautiful flowers from the family and friends and the orders of which the young man was a member. Relatives and friends fro mout of town included Mr. and Mrsfl. Archibald Dawley of Hope Valley, Mr. and Mrs. Nathan James Fred and Leon James, Stonington, Arthur Brown and Mrs. Ida Briggs and Mrs. Hannah Arnold, Ashaway, Mrs. John Phillips, Mrs. Clarence Tyler, Mrs. Mary Bellevance and Everett Phillips, Moosup; Mr. and Mrs. Philip Doelker, Providence; Mr. and Mrs. William Jones, Wequetequock; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Austin, Danielson; Mrs. James Austin, Norwich; Mrs. William Bartholic and T. J. Brown, Plainfield, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Montague, Uncasville.

A recent floral addition, reasonably rare, escapes general notice during the latter days of September. Mild water pepper, claims an inconspicuous place in the fall herberiums of those who find it growing near some wayside brook. Its little white pinkish flowers are to be thought of in connection with the common knotweed, that grows all over the country door yards. Many birds are nourished by the seeds, and as one writer has hinted, this little local flower is perhaps the "hindering knotgrass" to which Shakespeare refers in the Midsummer Nights Dream; so terming it, not on account of its knotted trailing stems, but because of the belief that it would hinder the growth of a child. In Beaumont and Fletcher's Coxcomb, the same superstitution is indicated: "We want a boy kept under for a year with milk and knotgrass."

Men with sound judgments generate a lot of silence.

It's a waste of the other fellow's time to talk foolishly.

Noank bank played several selections during the evening.

Jack Lamb has been losing chickens during the past few weeks. One day last week George Main was going out to the race for lobsters about 1.30 o'clock in the morning and saw a large skunk in the yard and he had a gun taking it to the boat and he let both barrels go and the skunk was killed. It was the thief that has been stealing the chickens around that neighborhood.

Boat Grenadier of Gloucester, Mass., was at the town dock with 40,000 halibut and cod. The boat stopped to take on gasoline, then started full speed for Fulton's market, New York, where the fish is bringing a good price.

HOW THE PILGRIM MOTHER

Kept Her Family in Good Health

A statue to the Pilgrim Mother was recently unveiled at Plymouth Rock, Mass. Through her we honor every pioneer woman who endured privation and hardships that a nation might live. Shoulder to shoulder with her husband she built a home in the wilderness and reared her sturdy sons and daughters. She cooked and sewed. She spun and wove for her family. When they were ill, she brewed remedies from roots and herbs—such roots and herbs as are now used in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

A Massachusetts woman writes: "I was all run-down, with no ambition. I was tired all the time. Some times I would be in bed two or three days at a time, and the doctor would have to give me something to quiet me. A friend told me about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I have had wonderful results from it. I felt better after taking the second bottle, and I am never without it in the house now. I have told lots of people about it and they say it helps them, too."—Mrs. J. W. Critchett, 2 Hammond Street, Cambridge, Mass.

DANIELSON

REPUBLICANS WIN OUT IN MONDAY'S TOWN ELECTION

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Oct. 4—Republicans of Killingly elected all their candidates in today's annual town meeting. The upset of the election was the defeat of A. E. Sayles, democrat, member of the board of selectman during the past year, by Amos E. Hall, after one of the most strenuous campaigns for that office in this town for years. There were 1,567 votes cast in the election and of this number 31 were rejected for mutilations and improper markings. The detail of the ballot was as follows:

Assessors: *Fred L. Miller, r. 849; James P. Aldrich, d. 523.

Board of Relief: *Edwin T. Lawrence, r. 792; Joseph Hall, d. 498.

Selectmen: *John A. Gilbert, r. 730; *Napoleon P. Gingras r, 517; *Amos E. Hall, d. 674; Albert D. Sayles d. 650.

Agent of Town Deposit Fund: *Frank T. Preston, r 892; John W. Gallup, d. 483.

Auditors: *Elmer C. Wood, r. 814; *Marguerite Dunn, d. 482.

Collector of Taxes: *James R. Walsh, r & d 1357.

Constables: *Louis S. Barstow, r. 802; *Jesse B. Childs, r, 797; *George LaBelle, r, 812; *Martin Wolfe, r, 855; *Peter J. Stone, d. 465; *Alcott B. Sayles d. 532, *George E. Alvord, d, 477.

Registrars of Voters: *D Fred Kenworthy, r, 802; *Frank L. Bennett, r, 831; *James E. Smith, r, 805; A. J. Boulet, d. 469; Albert J. Cavanaugh d, 496; *James P. Aldrich, d, 474.

Town School Committee, three years: *Agnes H. Paine, r, 803; *Frank E. Harrington, r, 805; *John W. Gallup, d, 490; Ella A. Woodworth, d 455.

For two years: *Frank L. Bennett, r, 814.

Miss Emma F. Pilling, member of the school committee for a number of years past but not nominated by either party this year, received 68 votes from people who wrote in her name on the blank column.

DEMOCRATS IN BROOKLYN GET PICK OF OFFICES

(Special to The Bulletin)

BROOKLYN, Conn., Oct. 4—Democrats of Brooklyn elected about all their candidates for major offices in today's annual town election. The new board of selectmen is made up of E. M. M. Marlor and Hugh Gorman, Jr., democrats and Frank E. Spaulding republican. John M. Bessette, democrat, was re-elected as tax collector, an office he has filled for a long term of years. The newly elected members of the town school committee are Serge F. Doyan, democrat and John S. Gardner and Sidney W. Bard, republicans. James C. Moran, democratic candidate for the town school committee received more votes than either of the two republicans but the moderator of the meeting ruled that Mr. Moran was not regularly nominated in the caucus, his name having been substituted for the regular nominee, a Mr. Havens, who had, it is understood, signified his intention not to run but is said to have failed to have given notice that he would not do so.

RILEY'S CROSSING HIGHWAY IS VOTED RETAINED

(Special to the Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Oct. 4—No great amount of debate was involved in discussing of the business before the annual town meeting this afternoon. One matter did produce a bit of opposition, that being the clause in the warning relating to a request of the selectmen for an expression of opinion by electors on a proposal that an old original short stretch of town highway running from what is known as Riley's crossing to the site of the old town house at Killingly Center be closed. This proposition was discussed and defeated by the meeting, opposition being based on the fact that the highway is a convenience to residents of the neighborhood.

There is a bridge on the course of this stretch of highway that is over a private sluice way. The bridge is in such bad repair that the selectmen made a request of the owner of the sluice way that the structure be given attention. This request not having been complied with, the selectmen, in the interest of safety, closed the bridge. As matters stand, it would appear that a new suit is about the only means remaining of getting the bridge repaired and the highway open to the usual travel.

The meeting voted to accept the layout of the extension of L'Homme street. The matter of passing upon a layout of Union street was laid on the table as the plans for this layout are not complete. Reports of various officers of the town were accepted as printed in the town reports.

Included in appropriations made at the meeting were $1,400 for instruction in music in the public schools, $15 for books for the school library, $500 for the Day Kimball hospital at Putnam, $425 for Memorial day, $100 of this appropriation to be used at East Killingly, $100 at Dayville and $225 in Danielson; $175 for Armistice day.

The meeting adjourned until the third Monday in March, at which time a budget for the current fiscal year will be presented and the tax rate fixed.

Counters working steadily from the time the polls closed at 3 o'clock were not long in establishing that the vote of the day was 1167. The forecasted splitting of tickets in the battle for offices on the board of selectmen proved to be no idle dream. There were 854 split tickets as against 506 straight republican and 282 straight democratic, the small number of straight tickets on the democratic side being indicative of how things went in that party.

The result of the election and the detail of the vote is given elsewhere in this column this morning.

Thursday of this week a special meeting of Quinebaug Pomona grange, No. 2, called by order of State Master Weeden and Pomona Master Barstow is to be held with Wolf Den grange, No. 111 of Abington. This meeting is to open at 10:30 a. m. for the conferring of the fifth degree in full form. At noon a dinner is to be served by Wolf Den grange.

At an afternoon session opening at 2 o'clock officers of the Connecticut State grange are to confer the sixth degree on all fifth degree members who are entitled to receive it.

The officers of the Connecticut State grange and Quinebaug Pomona grange are co-operating at this special meeting to enable all patrons in this jurisdiction to receive the fifth and sixth degrees, making them eligible to receive the seventh degree at the meeting of the National grange in Portland, Me., the coming month.

Mrs. Susie G. Williams, Brooklyn, secretary of Quinebaug Pomona grange, is soliciting members for flowers for the meeting at Abington on Thursday, that the state Flora's court may be impressively beautiful.

Annual reports of officers and committees of the town of Killingly were made available for voters participating in the annual election and town election on Monday. These reports set out the statement of conditions of the town and contain various tables and statistics of interest to those who like to know where the money goes that it costs to run the town. Study of the reports will give any citizen an insight into the financial and maintenance affairs of the town.

At the parsonage of the Westfield Congregational church here Thursday of last week Miss Bencie Cutler, resident in the northern section of this town, and Everett C. Pellett were united in marriage by Rev. Harding W. Gaylord. They were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Luther of Norwich. Upon their return from their wedding trip they will make their home on Broad street, near the head of Carter street.

Mrs. Geneva Maffitt Moran, 43, wife of James H. Moran, died Sunday night at their home on Oak street after an illness of three years. Mrs. Moran was born in Jewett City, June 1, 1883, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Maffitt. The greater part of her life had been spent in Danielson. Mrs. Maffitt leaves her husband, her parents and a sister, Mrs Edward Bennett, of Danielson.

Tenement to rent. Mrs. A. Tetreault, Broad and Franklin Sts.—Adv.

As yet Danielson has not responded too generously to the Red Cross appeal for contributions for Florida relief. Up to Monday afternoon the total amount contributed, including the proceeds from the Sunday afternoon benefit at the Orpheum theatre, was just under $100. There is still time to give and any donation may be mailed or left with Cashier Francis E. Storer at the Windham County National bank, as treasurer of the local chapter of the Red Cross.

The auxiliary to the Woman's Board of Missions of Westfield Congregational church is to meet this (Tuesday) afternoon with Mrs. Amelia Tillinghast. An Introduction to the Study of the Moslem World will be the subject for the afternoon.

Following Monday's town election, officers named for the ensuing year on the board of selectmen and town school committee will meet within a very few days and reorganize. Members of the board of assessors also will take up their work during the coming week.

On a recent visit here Frank C. Arnoult, traffic manager of the Colonial Air Transport, Inc., inspected the proposed emergency landing field for aeroplanes on the borough farm and pronounced it adequate in size for the purpose intended.

Undertaker A. F. Wood was in Worcester Monday afternoon to convey from that city to Danielson the body of Mrs. Simeon Danielson, who died the past week at Leland Stamford university, shortly after her arrival on the Pacific coast.

To many motorists in town the mails have brought forms for filling out their applications for 1927 motor vehicle registrations. The rules are the same as last year. Those who file on or before November 15, may have their present registrations retained for them.

A checkup at the close of the polls Monday showed that Killingly has its share of what has come to be called the slacker vote—those who do not go to the polls. As to this, there are many reasons, among them lack of interest, illness, absence from town, pressing business engagements, etc.

And as to the voting, this year demonstrated as have all the other years since the present form of ballot came into use that many are highly uncertain as to how to mark split ballots and have them count. A number of votes were thrown out on Monday for improper marking, lack of marking and for mutilation.

The case of State vs. Charles Abdallah, charged with violation of the liquor laws, will be heard in the town court next Saturday morning.

Monday afternoon a session of the town court was held to dispose of the cases of two men charged with having been intoxicated.

James Sayles, Elmville, who some weeks since underwent a major surgical operation at a Worcester hospital, was greeted by many friends in Danielson Monday. Mr. Sayles is very much improved in health.

DEBUT IN GRAND OPERA OF MISS DOROTHY SPEARE

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Oct. 4.—Franklin B. Christmas of this city has received word of the successful debut in grand opera at Asti, Italy, of Miss Dorothy Speare who in private life is the wife of his son, Franklin B. Christmas, Jr. Miss Speare is from Newton Center, Mass., is a graduate of Smith college, class of 1919. A performance in her honor is planned at the Milan Opera house when she will sing the coloratura roles in the Barber of Seville, Traviata and Rigoletto.

Mrs. Christmas has also already written three successful novels.

FAYETTE L. WRIGHT CLAIMS HURRICANE STORIES UNTRUE

(Special to the Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Oct. 4.—The following letter has been received from Fayette L. Wright, formerly of Pomfret, now living in St. Petersburg:

"I have just received yours of September 24 and note with interest the letter in reference to the hurricane which stated among other things that the whole state of Florida had been destroyed. The writer of that letter is in error. The hurricane was certainly very severe in a certain section of the state, but not over the entire state as your correspondent would have people believe.

"The damage in this section was very slight and scarcely perceptible a few miles north of here. The writer was out in the height of the storm here. The wind attained a velocity of 60 to 70 miles an hour. It stripped shingles from many roofs in the city and there was a rainfall of about six and one-half inches from 3 p. m. the 18th, to 3 a. m., the 19th. The rain, driven by the wind through the unshingled roofs, caused most of the damage.

"Business has resumed normal conconditions in this section of the state, churches were well filled yesterday and we see people from every state in the Union who have come in since the hurricane last Saturday. I understand a great many papers in the north are publishing letters from people from here who are misrepresenting the amount of damage done as the result of the storm.

"I have stated facts and repeat that the damage done in this section by the hurricane was very slight."

Word has been received from Willem van der Lasn that he and his family escaped without injury in the recent tornado in Florida and that his business is not seriously injured.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry B. Congdon are closing their summer home, Hillside cottage at Pomfret and will take up their winter residence in Providence, returning to Pomfret for the week ends during the fall months. Mrs. Hayden, who is Mrs. Congdon's mother, and a painted of distinction, will accompny them.

The October meeting of Pomfret League of Women Voters is to be held at the home of Miss Katherine Noyes Wednesday, at 2 p. m. Attorney Eric H. Johnson of Putnam, will speak on the "Legal Status of Women."

The Rectory school, at Pomfret, under the management of Rev. F. H. Bigelow, has opened for the year with the largest enrollment that it has had.

The faculty of Rollins college, Winter Park, Florida, of which Hamilton Holt of Woodstock is president, has abolished lectures and studying outside of classrooms. A two hour period during which professor and students will meet for study and conference has been substituted for the former one hour lecture period and the students are not required to do studying outside of the two hour period. The object of the innovation is to bring teacher and student into closer contact.

Amateur boxing will be resumed in Putnam October 21 when a card of ten fast bouts will be arranged for submission to local fans. The bouts are to be at St. John's hall. Any boys wishing to enter the ring should get in tquch with Alvin Jarvis or Alfred Bardier. The amateur bouts of last season were very interesting and if as much interest is shown this season in the sport the bouts will be put on regularly during the winter months.

A Well Child's conference is to be held at the Grange hall in South Woodstock Wednesday from 2 to 4.

The Young People's society of the Second Congregational church has named the following committees to serve for the coming year: Meetings, Ethel Spooner, Phyllis Tatem, Rowland DeBeardinis; Russel Perry; membership, DeBeradinis; socials, Thomas Sherman, Alice Louise Sherman, Harry C. Thayer; service, Rhoda Hines, James F. English and Delia M. Rowe.

Miss Florence Danforth of Holyoke, Mass., spent the week end with friends in the city. Miss Danforth was formerly a resident of Putnam.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Spencer have been recent guests of Mrs. Spencer's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. N. Fisher.

William Easton of Woonsocket spent the week end with his family on Ring street.

Miss Helen Wheaton of Bradley street and Miss Mildred Hattin of Pomfret, have gone to Boston to spend the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Allen of Rutland, Mass., were the week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Justin Greene on Center street.

Miss Dora Allard of Norwich has been the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Allard, Church street.

Theodore Larrow of Mechanics street has gone to Florida for the winter.

Mrs. Ruby Booth of Hartford is the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Morse.

Miss Gladys Chaffee has returned to Boston after a visit with her mother, Mrs. Morris Patterson.

Mrs. Hattie Malley is entertaining her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Malley of Baltimore.

Mrs. Robert Diamond has returned from a short visit with Boston relatives.

COLUMBIA

Mrs. Dickenson of Cortland, N. Y., has been visiting her cousin, Miss Ann Dix, at Overlook.

Miss Lena Wolff and Mrs. Kate Wolff have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. William Wolff.

Mrs. Dora Yeomans of New Haven has been spending a few days with her niece, Miss Harriet Fuller.

Mrs. Louis Kohlhoff died Thursday night at the home of her sister, Mrs. Henry Burr. Mrs. Kohlhoff had for several years made her home in Windham, but came to her sisters home in Columbia Tuesday. The funeral was held at parlors in Willimantic Saturday morning. Burial will be in Rye, N. Y.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hutchins and family spent Sunday in Jewett City at the home of Mrs. Moeller.

Eleven members of the Christian Endeavor society held a dog roast at the lake Friday evening.

Miss Margaret Hutchins is to teach typewriting again this winter at the night school in Willimantic, beginning this week. This is the second year she taught it.

Miss Nellie Dainton of Willimantic spent the week end with Miss Elizabeth Bertsch.

A 4,000 year old drug is coming back into favor. Physicians have again started to use ephedrine, a powerful aid in raising blood pressure and treating asthma and colds. Ephedrine was a favorite Chinese household remedy as far back as history carries.

NO PLACE FOR RAIDERS

It is well that the word has been given out in Washington that there need be no expectation that encouragement will be given to a treasury raiding policy at the opening of the next session of congress. Such a policy hasn't been sanctioned in the past and there is nothing to indicate that there has been any change in sentiment however much there are those who would like to indulge in it.

Because the revenue shows up a bit larger than was estimated furnishes no reason for indulging in a lot of extravagances. It doesn't in fact justify resort to means of slashing the revenue until it can be determined what it is going to amount to over a longer period of time, for even though the treasury is benefiting a bit more than was thought possible such increase can be devoted to the benefit of the country and the taxpayers by reducing the indebtedness quite as effectively as by rushing into tax reduction by gambling on the future. It is a method that is more sensible for it means the greater relief to the taxpayer in the end if he pays while he can and has to pay over a shorter period of time.

But it is well that Washington lets it be known thus far in advance that there need be no thought of laying plans for ruthless spending during the coming winter. Congress will soon be in session for the enactment of much business. Campaigns for election are now underway and the importance of preventing extravagant claims and promises on the part of candidates has been well considered. It is easy to tell what the individual is ready to do but it is a decidedly different matter for that individual to get congress or the administration to see things through his glasses, and this is now accentuated by the statement from Washington to the effect that treasury raiders can expect so much attention.

That is of course as it should be. The sane administration of our financial problems has produced most gratifying results. Extravagant outlays could have made such results impossible and it is no more appropriate now for the disregarding of past policies than it has been in the immediate past.

A FORESTRY PROGRAM

In a recent joint communication to the New England council the six state foresters of this part of the country submitted a joint plan for the promotion of greater and needed interest in forestry development, and the idea is one that should get more than passing attention.

In the opinion of the New England foresters there should be the following:

The establishment of a town forest in every New England town.

Adjustment of taxation upon lands growing trees.

Larger appropriations for preventing and fighting forest fires, pests and fungus diseases.

Development of the government forestry station for New England and New York state at Amherst.

Extension of state nurseries and private forests.

Purchase by every New England state of at least ten per cent. of its forest area.

This is in keeping with the idea of bringing about a much greater development of forest land, the utilization of waste land and the prevention of the large losses that are now sustained each year.

Serious inroads have been made into the forest lands of New England until three quarters of the saw timber and pulpwood of the whole area is to be found in the state of Maine. This not only shows what has been going on in the other states but the need of getting busy and replacing the forests which have been removed instead of tolerating so much waste land.

Town forests are the means of demonstrating the effectiveness of such use of land and the results which can be obtained by the individual when attention is given to this means of using land that is not otherwise employed.

There is need for wooded areas for the proper protection of watersheds and to overcome the erosion of the hillsides which have been denuded. But the desirability of developing a crop of timber at the same time other and quicker maturing crops are being grown should need no extensive urging. New England as a whole can get back of the suggested program with profit.

LEAKING FLYING MACHINES

Probably no one will ever know definitely what was the cause of the crash of the French passenger carrying airplane in England, but the impression has been gained by some, as the result of the statement made by the person who saw the plane afire just before it fell, that it was due to a leak in the gasoline tank.

This directs attention to the fact that many of the airplane accidents are due to a similar trouble, and it was the cause of the postponement of the flight of the big Sikorsky plane when everything was ready for the start. Considering the character of gasoline there is a seriousness involved when leaks develop in the tank or the supply line and it is natural that the question should be asked as to why there are so many instances where serious trouble develops from this cause.

It would seem possible to provide a tank and pipe line that would not be giving out so often, for when free gasoline is thrown off from an airplane it can be depended upon to create frightful consequences, even as it did in England. This is a matter of enough importance to call for more substantial construction, better material, better workmanship or whatever is necessary to prevent that dangerous condition from developing, and this is particularly true of the flying machines which are used for public transportation purposes.

Aviation has undergone rapid development. It is much safer today than it was a decade ago. Improvements are being constantly made and greater confidence is being displayed in the navigators of the air whether for short or long distances and whether for the transportation of mail or humanity. But the struggle for greater speed, greater distance records or greater altitude must not loose sight of the importance of safety. Capable handling of a flying machine goes for nought if there is something the matter with the equipment which permits it to burst into flames and destroy life and property. Apparently this is something that needs quite as much attention on the other side of the water as it does on this.

FLORIDA'S NEEDS

What seems to be a most unfortunate situation is that which has developed in Florida where the forces working for the relief of the stricken territory are experiencing difficulty in getting the necessary funds because of the statements which have been given out from Florida authorities to the effect that conditions have been badly exaggerated. The result of this is to dry up the sources from which funds are expected.

Florida is cognizant of the fact that it is possible to discourage a great many from going to that state during the coming winter if the impression is gained that it is devastated. Consequently the aim seems to have been to point to exaggerations and endeavor to minimize the effect of the storm. The result is that the relief forces and the authorities and big interests are working at cross purposes.

When Chairman John Barton Payne of the American Red Cross declares that $5,000,000 is needed to administer relief in Florida it must be accepted as pretty near right. He has no reason for injuring Florida and no desire to spend millions for relief there when it is not needed. Red Cross work isn't carried on in that way. But when the state and city authorities endeavor to cover up conditions for the purpose of assuring the winter tourist business before dealing properly with the present conditions it doesn't tend to swell the relief funds which are being sought. It in fact created the impression in the minds of those to whom the appeal might go that Florida did not only can but is ready to take care of itself in the present emergency. It is on that point that opinions seem to differ and thereby choke contributions.

ANOTHER INVESTIGATION

More than New York state will be interested in the action of its attorney general in sending a corps of investigators to Scranton for the purpose of finding out what the conditions are there relative to labor and output.

Complaints have been received concerning the advance in the price of coal and threats of others. His investigation plans an inquiry into the pay of the miners among other things, but it doesn't appear this year that the wage question has anything to do with the increase in the price of coal for the agreement was for the continuance of the old wage scale, so that the increase in price cannot be based upon great expenditures for wages.

Just what good can be accomplished by this investigation is hard to see, but if throwing light upon the facts will help there may be some benefit. No harm can certainly come from it, and it is possible that the consumer may receive some relief as the result.

It is well that it should be established and set forth by some agency just what the reason is for the increase in or the maintenance of the price of anthracite now that the war is over and the strike is over. Had the strike been won by the strikers an advance was assured. The strike was not won by the strikers and yet the price of coal has been increased just the same. New England as well as New York is interested in this development. Conditions demonstrating the need of relief and protection have been evident for a long time but without favorable results. The consumer pays no matter what happens. New York doesn't control the situation but possibly it can put the matter in such light that some consideration may be obtained for the public. It will probably be, however, just another investigation.

FROM LUCILE'S DIARY

Cousin Emily has been visiting us. There appears to be a family conspiracy to leave her to my care when she is at our house. She is not an enlivening person.

"Well, my dear child," replied father when I complained that I had more than my share of the entertaining to do, "you were the one who would go out to Starved Rock to visit her a few summers ago, and thus resume cousinly relations after many years of what might be called pleasant desuetude."

Four days of dragging her through the shops, the Art Institute and the Field museum made me almost a wreck. I was just deciding to tell mother I must have a day of rest in bed when some home friends of Cousin Emily telephone that they were in the city in their car. It immediately occurred to me that it would be delightful for her to drive back to Starved Rock with them. As she does not hear well over the phone, I talked for her, and I tactfully suggested that a seat for her in their car would be greatly appreciated. They were leaving the next morning.

"Well, of course we'd be glad to accomodate her," said Mr. Hanford, and enthusiastically, "if she doesn't mind a little crowding and a pretty early start? I suppose it would be all right."

When I told Cousin Emily that the Hanfords had invited her to drive home with them she was surprised. She said they rarely took any one in their car.

"Then you must feel flattered," I said, and I told her that I would call her in time for the 5 o'clock departure. "I've a wonderful faculty of waking at any hour I wish. You won't have to have an old alarm clock ticking in your room, for at 4 o'clock I'll be knocking at your door."

Father and mother had gone to their bridge club and Cousin Fannie was up in granny's room, so we went to bed before 9. I thought it a good chance to get some beauty sleep, and I told Cousin Emily she would need a good rest before her journey. As I closed my eyes I said over and over again, "I must wake at 4," and it seemed to me not time at all before I awoke with a start, fearful that I had overslept. I glanced at my radio wrist watch and complimented myself upon my accuracy in waking just at the right time.

"Dear me, Lucile, is it time to get up already?" groaned Cousin Emily. "I don't feel as if I had had any sleep at all."

"You'll be all right, dear, after you've had some coffee," I assured her, and I ran down quietly to the kitchen to make it. I could not find any cream, but I thought black coffee would be just right to rouse and stimulate her. Then I went back to her room, and helped her put the last things in her suitcase and together we crept down into the kitchen, where I gave her a large cup of the coffee, which she drank docilely, poor dear, for she was still only half awake. In a few minutes she was quite bright, and she soon became anxious about the Hanfords finding our house.

"Oh, they'll be along presently," I said. "I gave Mr. Hanford full directions."

We moved into the living room, and after a half hour of waiting I myself began to wonder why they did not come, and she grew frankly nervous. At last I telephoned them at their friends' house.

"Why aren't we there?" shouted Mr. Hanford. "Great Scot, why should we be there at 2 o'clock? When I said 5 I didn't mean 2 o'clock!" He was so irate that I did not try to explain but merely said that Cousin Emily would be ready when they came. His only reply was, "Umph."

"When I looked at my watch," I said to Cousin Emily, it must have been 13:26. You see how easily that would be mistaken for 4 o'clock—just getting the hands mixed, you know. Quite a joke on us, but you can take a good nap now before you go."

"Nap!" After all that black coffee Lucile, I couldn't close an eye," she declared indignantly, and she evidently could not, for she sat in a miserable heap on the couch till 5, grumbling all the time so I could not get any sleep myself. It certainly was inconsiderate of her not to be quiet.

Dad and mother were greatly surprised when they heard that she had left early in the morning. They were rather cross with me for letting her accept the invitation from the Hanfords. They feared that it would be a trip for her, but I assured them that she was as bright as a dollar when she left. I said nothing about the little mistake in the rising time, for I was afraid it might worry them, and I always try to save my dear parents from any small annoyances or anxieties when I can.—Chicago News.

YOUR HEALTH

EXAMINATIONS TO REDUCE CANCER

By Irvin Abell, M. D., Louisville, Ky.
Member Gorgas Memorial Institute

The mortality from cancer could be decreased 30 per cent in one year, easily if this one outstanding fact could be brought home to every person in this country:

That all cancers are local in their origin, and if recognized and destroyed before a spread has occurred, they are curable!

Cancer mortality is largely the mortality of delay. Hence the importance of early and painstaking investigation of seemingly innocent lesions cannot be stressed too strongly.

A definite decrease in cancer loss must come as the result of a recognition by lay people, you readers of this newspaper, of the conditions under which cancer develops and the need for immediate and proper treatment.

Because the almost prevalent lack of pain in early growth, cancer is one of the most insidious diseases. Any trifling disturbances in function of an organ gives no index of the storm that is brewing.

Agreeing that early recognition, accessibility and destruction mean cure, "what precautions should I take," is a fair question. Every tumor, nodule, swelling, mole, ulcer or other local abnormality should be subjected to the scrutiny of competent physician. Every disturbance of function, whether of digestive tract, urinary system, genital organs or of the glandular system should be carefully investigated in order to determine its underlying cause.

This advice becomes the more imperative as you approach middle life, since 3/4 per cent of all cancers occur after the age of 35.

The steadily growing practice of yearly health examinations, as advocated by the Gorgas Memorial institute, will be the means of recognizing many cancers while still in the curable stage.

In the homely philosophy of David Harum, "treat your enemy (cancer) as he would treat you, but do it first." The means of doing this are mainly three: surgery, radium, and X-ray. There is no medicine or serum worthy of reliance, notwithstanding the scores of so called "cancer-cures," which may be bought all the way from $1 to several hundred dollars or more per bottle.

The knowledge that cancer is local in its beginning, and at such time, curable, should discourage the practice of the slightest delay in seeking the information to be obtained by the microscope and the X-rya.

Police of New Haven have been unable to find any clues which might lead to the identity of the masked bandit, who on Friday night leaped aboard an Orange street bus at Cold Suring and Orange streets, and after beating the driver, Jake Zirlen, relieved him of about $43.

Make the Most of Books

By James Hosmer Penniman, Litt. D.

Knowledge Like a Torch

If you can enjoy the study of some special subject connected with your occupation and keep at it long enough to make yourself master of it, you may by so doing educate yourself. You should not only study the actual operations, but you should also familiarize yourself with what has been written about them, and should make an effort to record a permanent advance made by your own exertions.

"Knowledge of books in a man of business, is as a torch in the hands of one who is willing and able to show those who are bewildered the way which leads to prosperity and welfare," says the Spectator. How much, for example, has been lost in treasure and energy because politicians who have not read history and political economy, ignorantly persist in methods that have failed ever since the world began. "A prince without letters," said Ben Johnson, "is a pilot without eyes. All his government is groping." "It is manifest that all government of action is to be gotten by knowledge, and knowledge best by gathering many knowledges, which is reading," wrote Sir Philip Sidney.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

This is the 75th birthday anniversary of T. P. O'Connor, veteran journalist and nationalist member of parliament, who by reason of his continuous service of more than 45 years is known as the "father of the house or commons." Mr. O'Connor's youth was spent in Ireland, where he received his education and began his career as a journalist. In 1870 he went to London in search of a fresh field for his talents, and became a subeditor on the Daily Telegraph. He was afterwards employed in the London office of the New York Herald. In 1880 he entered parliament as member for Galway, and in 1885 was returned for both Galway and Liverpool, when he elected to stand for the latter constituency, which he has represented in parliament since that time. In the course of his career "Tay Pay," as he is familiarly known, has founded more than half a dozen newspapers and periodicals.

CHILD TRAINING

TEACHING CHILDREN TO KNOW GREAT MEN

By Dr. Stephen S. Wise

I cannot think of a finer service that parents can render a child than to help him rightly to appraise the moral and spiritual worth of men and women well-known, of the best-known, or the so-called great. To reveal Washington, Lincoln or Roosevelt to a child is to inspirt and enrich a child, not only by placing a Titantic figure in the Pantheon in his imagination, but by making clear what are the greatnesses of the great.

It was said of a most learned and distinguished Englishman that he had no shrines. I am not afraid that American children will be shrineless, but I am concerned about the American child having shrines worthy of his reverence and honor. Parents cannot expect to reveal to a child the essence of greatness and nobleness in another until after they have answered for themselves the question of what greatness really is,—until they know that greatness is not a matter of passing fame, but of abiding worth, moral and spiritual; and that in a democracy no man is great who does not greatly serve.

I would warn parents against the danger of filling the shrines of their children with second and third and even fifth rate figures. Parents must have the courage to say to a child,—"This man, however well-known is not worthy of your respect for he lacks nobility. This man, however rich or powerful, however numerous his benefactions, is not a truly great and noble person."

We owe our children the truth at all times and under all circumstances. Let parents be generous in their appraisals of the worthy, but let them be unsparing intheir condemnation of those who are unworthy of a child's love and reverence.

Stories That Recall Others

He Remembered.

Two children, a brother and sister, had a dispute which ended in a fight. The little boy was on a visit to his aunt's, and, wishing to relate the affair, said, "Me and sister had a fight."

And the aunt asked, "Who whipped?"

The little fellew honestly answered, "Dad did."

Keep Hair Tidy, Keep It Curly

By Edna Wallace Hopper

Summer and winter my hair is ever curly. It is tidy, but fluffy. It has a glow. Yet I never visit a hairdresser, never have a Marcel wave.

Those results are due to a hair dress which great experts made especially for me. I apply it twice a week. It doubles the beauty of my hair in an hour. And that wave and sheen remain.

Now you can obtain the same product. All toilet counters supply it as Edna Wallace Hopper's Wave and Sheen. The price is 75c. My guarantee comes with each bottle, so you take no risk.

This is a delight—one of the best things I ever found for women, especially those with bobbed hair. In summer it is essential. Go try it now.

POETRY

Prelude

I saw the constellated matin choir
Then when they sang together in the dawn,—
The morning stars of this first rounded day
Hesperian, hundred-houred, that fading leaves
Youth's fillet still upon the New World's brow:
Then when they sang together,—sang for joy
Of mount and wood and cataract, and stretch
Of keen-aired vasty reaches happy-homed,—
I heard the stately hymning, saw their light
Resolve in flame that evil long unwrought
With what was else the goodliest domain
Of freedom warded by the ancient sea;
So sang they, rose they, to meridian,
And westering down the firmament led on
Cluster and train of younger celebrants
That beaconed as they might, by adverse skies
Shrouded, but stayed not nor discomfited,—
Of whom how many, and how dear, alas,
The voices stilled mid-orbit, stars eclipsed
Long ere the hour of setting; yet in turn
Others unbeaming shine, nor fail to chant
New antheums, yet not alien, for the time
Does not out-darkling nor of music mute
To the next age,—that quickened now awaits
Their heralding, their more impassioned song.

—Edmund Clarence Stedman.

A Home

What is a home? A guarded space
Wherein a few, unfairly blest,
Shall sit together, face to face,
And bask and purr, and be at rest? . . .

Dim image from far glory caught,
Fair type of fairer things to be,
The true home rises in our thought
As beacon for all men to see.

Its lamps burn freely in the night;
Its fire-glows, all unchidden, shed
Their cheering and abounding light
On homeless folk uncomforted.

Each sweet and secret thing within
Gives out a fragrance on the air—
A thankful breath sent forth to win
A little smile from others' care.

So the old miracle anew
Is wrought on earth and proven good
And crumbs apportioned for a few,
God-blessed, suffice a multitude.

—Susan Coolidge.

OBITUARY

Henry Harvey Fitch.

On the morning of Oct. 3, the life of Henry Harvey Fitch, formerly of Preston, ended at the home of his sister, Mrs. Amasa S. Williston, of Tiverton, R. I. He was born in Preston on April 24, 1851, the son of George G. and Amelia Harvey Fitch, he lived in that town until about 14 years ago, when he went to stay with an aunt in East Killingly. Several years ago he was a member of a class of deaf mutes conducted by Henry V. Edmond at Park Congregational church and a member of that church. He is survived by one brother, G. W. Fitch, of Los Angeles, Calif., a sister, Mrs. Amasa S. Williston, of Tiverton, R. I. three nephews and two nieces. There are several cousins. A brother, Joseph H. Fitch, of Preston, died last November.

ANNUAL TOWN MEETING VOTES ALL BUT ONE OF APPROPRIATIONS ASKED

The annual town meeting of the citizens of Norwich held Monday evening in the town hall voted all regular appropriations as recommended by the board of selectmen and voted all "extras" on the list with the exception of an item of $1,000 for storm guards on local bridges, which was indefinitely postponed. The meeting which had an attendance of about 500 men and women was called to order at 8 o'clock by First Selectman William S. Murray and the warning was read by Town Clerk Charles S. Holbrook. After accepting the annual reports of the town accounts, town health officer, town school committee and the trustees of the Otis library, the meeting adopted a resolution introduced by Town Comsel H. H. Pettis, fixing salaries of town officers as follows:

Salaries Are Fixed

First selectman $3,000, second and third selectmen $200 each, clerical assistance $1,200, town clerk $200, town treasurer $1,000, board of assessors $3,800, clerical assistance $1,500, secretary town school committee $400 collector of town taxes, 3-4 of one per cent of the tax collected.

The estimated expenses of the town as recommended by the selectmen, were voted item by item as follows:

Estimated expenses, Alms house $10,000, outside poor $7,000, insane $12,000, neglected and dependent children $5,000, widows' pension $5,500, highways (city of Norwich) $23,000, highways (town of Norwich) $30,000, macadam repairs $3,000, oiling roads $4,000, bridges $5,000, Lafayette St. improvement $4,795.74, contingent $14,000, interest $13,500, tax map—reappropriation $736.19, national guard $5,000, election expenses $6,000, registry of vital statistics $2,000, town clerk's office $1,000, town property tax $10,000, sinking fund $23,600, tuberculosis $2,000, probate court $500, street lighting $8,000, state tax $25,000, county tax $15,500, assessors' office $7,800, reappropriation for equipment—assessors' office $317.03, Chelsea Parish $600, town health office $1,000, Taftville fire engine company $800, Yantic engine company $700, total $247,048.56.

$290,748.98 For Schools

The meeting then voted an appropriation of $290,748.98 for the support of the town schools, this being the appropriation recommended by the town school committee.

Extras Are Voted

With the regular appropriations and the school appropriation out of the way the meeting proceeded to act on resolutions as follows:

Adopted, resolution introduced by Town Counsel H. H. Pettis, authorizing the selectmen to borrow a sum not to exceed $325,000 at such times and in such amounts during the next year as they shall deem proper in anticipation of the tax collections.

Adopted, resolution introduced by Walter Camp appropriating $1,500 to be used by the selectmen for the proper care and maintenance of the trees bordering upon the highways of the town.

Adopted resolution introduced by Town Counsel Henry H. Pettis ratifying the action of the selectmen in purposing a small strip of land for $1 from Dorcas Fenton in connection with the layout of the improved highway on the Gallows Hill road so called. Selectman Murray explained that when the road intersection followed the road plan it was suddenly discovered that the men were working on land belonging to Mr. Fenton. The town secured an agreement with Mr. Fenton to purchase the strip of land for $100.

Adopted, resolution introduced by Town Counsel H. H. Pettis appropriating a sum not to exceed $500 to defray the traveling expenses of outside teachers in this town who desire to attend the Putnam trade school.

Accepted Town Forest Offer

Adopted, resolution introduced by James D. Noyes, accepting the offer of Nancy E. and Mary C. Lucas to give to the town of Norwich a tract of land containing eight acres, near Pierce's Rock, bordering on the Thames river, the land to be maintained by the town as a town forest. Mr. Noyes introducing the resolution said that his resolution was somewhat different as the other resolutions asked for something, whereas this resolution offered the town a substantial tract of land as a gift.

Questions Academy Appropriation

Shepard B. Palmer introduced a resolution authorizing the appropriation of $67,500 to relieve the parents of children who are residents of this town and who attend the Norwich Free Academy from payment of the customary term fees for the school year 1926-27. George H. Gilman wanted to know what the usual term fee is. He said he didn't pay any fee when he went to the academy and didn't know of any one else that did. He said he understood that out of town pupils paid an annual fee of $120.

S. B. Palmer said that the present arrangement has been in force for a number of years. The annual fee is $100.

Mr. Gilman wanted to know if the academy charges $100 per pupil.

Principal Henry A. Tirrell of the N. F. A. said that the academy charges $100 a year for resident pupils and $120 a year for non-resident pupils.

Herbert M. Leroy joined the discussion by explaining that the state laws require the town to maintain a high school and that as the town does not maintain a high school it pays the tuition of the pupils.

Mr. Gilman said that he had examined the laws and that they do not require the town to maintain a high school.

Town Counsel Pettis said that both gentlemen were right, although their statements differed. Mr. Pettis said that the state laws require the town to furnish a high school education for its children.

In spite of the opposition voiced by Mr. Gilman the resolution was adopted.

Charles L. Stewart introduced a resolution authorizing an appropriation of $10,500 for medical inspection and general health work among the children of school age residing in town. Mr. Stewart pointed out that this year there is an increase of $500 to continue furnishing milk to certain children who otherwise would be undernourished. The appropriation was voted.

The meeting then adopted a resolution introduced by Dr. E. J. Brophy appropriating $1,800 to be used in maintaining a treatment station for venereal diseases. Dr. Brophy stated that the subject of venereal diseases has been kept under cover. He explained how a treatment station will not only cure patients who are unable to pay but will prevent them from spreading the disease to others. Most towns have treatment stations such as these, Dr. Brophy said.

Opposed Armistice Day Appropriation

"I am heartily against that resolution" said George H. Gilman, after Rev. Alexander H. Abbott, pastor of the United Congregational church, had introduced a resolution appropriating $1,000 to be used in defraying the necessary expenses of a proper observance of Armistice day in Norwich. His opposition went for naught, however, as the meeting appropriated the sum asked for.

Mr. Gilman said he thought Armistice day should be a day of public sorrow. He refered to the war as coming to a close in an "unsatisfactory manner." He said he couldn't understand why the expenses of a local observance of the day should run up to any such figures as $1,000.

Rev. Mr. Abbott came quickly to the defense of the resolution. He said it was perfectly proper to afford Mr. Gilman the opportunity to observe Armistice day in his own way. He spoke of those who did not come back, of their achievements and of the achievements of those who did come back. He said that no item in the programme will do injustice to the spirit of the day. Be silent at the time to be silent, and noisy at the time to be noisy, said Rev. Mr. Abbott. He concluded by saying that it will be a great thing for Norwich if we carry this through.

A. R. Manning presented a resolution appropriating $1,000 to place fire hydrants in the village of Yantic, between the railroad crossing and the Bozrah town line. The appropriation was quickly appropriated. The last appropriation on the list fell through. In spite of the fact that some 200 people had signed a petition asking $1,000 for the purpose of placing storm guards on the lower and upper Preston bridges and the Laurel Hill bridge, no one appeared with a resolution at the meeting and on a motion made by Town Counsel Pettis, action on the matter was indefinitely postponed.

Thanks to the Misses Lucas

James L. Case spoke of the generous gift made by the Misses Lucas to the town of Norwich and said the least thing the meeting could do was to say "thank you." He moved that the selectment be authorized to express at the proper time and in the proper manner the thanks and appreciation of the town of Norwich to the Misses Lucas.

Miss Nancy Lucas, one of the donors, briefly explained the gift. She referred to the fact that the tract was purchased by her father 30 years ago and that he had the town forest idea in view at that time. Miss Lucas said that she and her sister in presenting the land to the town are carrying out Mr. Lucas' wish. In future years when the river is no longer bordered by woods there will be this tract of land for the future citizens of Norwich. The meeting adjourned at 9:10 o'clock, until the first Monday in March when the town tax will be laid.

LETTERS GIVES PICTURE OF FLORIDA CONDITIONS

The following letter from Earl Phillips at Hialeah, Florida, has been received by his father, H. Walter Phillips of 422 Laurel Hill avenue:

Hialeah, Fla.
Sept. 24, 8:30 p. m.

Dear Father:

We received your letter of the 20th yesterday. There is so much I could say but haven't got time to, that I hardly know where to begin. I have been on the jump ever since the storm. It started in raining and blowing here about 10 or 11 o'clock last Friday night and the wind kept increasing all during the night and morning. We did not sleep hardly any that night and got up several times and then would go to bed to sleep again. About 5:30 it was making such a terrific noise that we put our clothes on, for by this time it was coming directly from the north.

I know the two windows on the north wind and it was very near small sized windows, but that old kitchen door looked as if it would break in two on minute. You know it was made of that veneered stuff. Well, just stood there and held it by brute force against it for a long time. The bathroom over the bathroom had already started to come off and we stuffed some of our best clothes in the trunk and brought the mattress in the kitchen. By that time the lights and water were off. The paper on the north side of the kitchen was started also and the veranda was all torn to pieces, the lattice blown on the floor and the screen door off. The wind kept increasing and velocity of the storm was probably the hardest during the first storm at about 6:30 a. m. Saturday. Mr. Hewitt's shop and closet had gone bottom side up and we got a peek out of the window and saw Bill Baker's house had turned halfway around. The little house right in back of us had the whole roof off and caved in. That's the little one on 11th St. I believe the storm abated about 7:00 o'clock I had nailed a chair against the door and I think that helped keep that from blowing in. All I had was a flat-iron to hammer with. Well, after it let up we got out and went around to the neighbors. Our little house was all right except for some paper off the roof and so was Mr. Hewitt's and Slater's and Vivian's. Joe-Acts Garage on 12th went down in a heap and most of it blew away I guess. Well, I got the Ford out and Mr. Slater and I went over on 17th St. to tell Art Chapman his garage was down. We couldn't locate him and his house was blown about 20 feet but wasn't to pieces. Well, it was blowing a little then but not hard and I noticed the wind gradually working toward the east. Before I got back to the house the wind had blown the top off my Ford. Well, I put it up in the garage and shut two windows that had been open. All the time the wind was working to the southeast. I went over to talk to Vivian and pretty soon it began to blow hard again so I went to the house and shut the windows.

Well, this is the next evening. We were so tired that we had to go to bed. Last night before I finished. I will continue with our account of our experiences of the storm which were very mild compared with others. Well as I was saying we went back into the house (our little one) when it began to blow again. By this time the storm was around to the southeast. You see the first one was sort of a suction of the hurricane as it blew from the north but the second one we were in the direct path of the storm. It came very quick and blew something fierce. We knew that the old shack was not very strong and as we had full size windows on the south side I was some worried. The old place would just rock. I told Mary we had better make a run for Mrs. Hewitt's house. I knew we could get there all right if we didn't get struck by something. You could see boards a hundred feet or more in the air and I saw a wash tub hit our garage like a bullet. Well I got Mr. Hewitt's key in my hand and stuffed a few things in my pocket and we went out on the porch which of course was on the leeward side of the house. Then when a lull came we made a run for it and got inside safely.

There wasn't a dry place in the whole house so we both sat in a chair and held an umbrella over us. The old wind sounded like a steady roll of thunder all the time. A flying board went through Mr. Hewitt's bedroom window and broke both windows out. I think it must have been about two o'clock Saturday afternoon before it let up again.

After it let up we went down and got groceries and went over to the water plant and got some water. It kept raining all that afternoon and all Saturday night. Slater's family, Mary and I stayed over at Vivian's all night. I got the auto tent and we set it up in Vivian's parlor and put two cots in under it and we built a fire in the fireplace. The floor were soaking wet and he bored holes in them to let the water out. We took turns sleeping and no one got much rest that night. Vivian and I got up at daylight Sunday and rode to Miami. He wanted to see how his office was. We rode down Flagler street which was just full of broken glass and went up Bayshore Drive. It was full of boats that had washed up and there were several boats up in Royal Palm park. We saw two seaplanes that were blown from somewhere up against some houses. After we got back we went out to get roofing paper. We were some of the first to get to the Hialeah Supply company and they had plenty—then so I got 10 rolls for Mr. Hewitt and Vivian 15 rolls, that is we paid for them. The next thing was to get them. The water was nearly knee deep around the lumber yard and boards all tumbled around. We had to lug them ourselves and believe me they were heavy as they were soaking wet and we had to extract them from the wreckage of the building. We got nine rolls up to the house but the next load we got stuck in the mud and water. We had Vivian's car. I was about all in as I hadn't had hardly a thing to eat for about two days. It finally ended up by having to transfer our load to a truck before we could get the car loose.

We came right over and put on Vivian's roof. That is, we laid it on with lath. Well, we ate and slep at Vivian's till about Wednesday as Mr. Hewitt's house was so wet. I finally fixed his roof up temporarily with pieces I had found lying around the yard.

It was a tedious job drying out all the stuff and everything smelled something fierce. Yesterday we washed all the floors and it looks pretty good in here now. I had to pry the stops off the window in order to get them open. The front door I can't get open and the back door won't close.

You remember those two unfinished houses on 15th street that we looked at? The ones that were on the same lot near Seminole ave. Well, they went all in a heap. Mr. Clune's floors are all warped up. He had 5-16 inch floors and they just squeezed the boards right out. They took Mr. Clune to another house after the storm and he was pretty miserable for some time and still is, although I think he is some better today. His garage blew down. I and Steward are the only two left in the office now. He let the last draftsman go today. There is a family living in our office. It didn't get hurt much. Just a few windows out and part of the roofing paper off. I guess we will have enough work to keep us going now.

The top of the bank building blew off, the roof of the city hall and one corner blew off. The Hialeah ice plant blew all down and that was a large cement block building. The Arabian Nights Cafe in Country Club Estates is all down. The roof blew off of that building you built on Palm avenue and of course all the plate glass windows were broken. Mr. Hewitt's building opposite the city hall was all smashed. I think the roof from the city hall fell on it. The buildings at the race track and the Jai-Alai building were badly damaged. All three of those green houses side of us were damaged beyond repair. There were hundreds of homes that were just flattened to the ground. It blew Willie-Willie's Indian village all away but one hut.

The water in the canal is about four feet above normal. The church windows are all blown out but the building itself is badly hurt. There is lots of water around Sixth street and over around the studio way and of course up around the race-track. The mosquitoes are awful thick but we manage to kill them in our bed-room before going to bed.

I don't think the stories you people heard about hanging people are quite so bad. But they did hang a negro on Bougainvillea avenue who cut a dead woman's finger off to get her ring. They caught him at it and hung him right then and there. I also heard they shot several negroes around Buena Vista for looting.

Some of the surveyors were down from Lake Okeechobee and said it wasn't bad where they were but I heard that there were over 300 killed in Moore Haven, a place of about 1400 people on the south west shore of Lake Okeechobee. They have ordered all the rest of the inhabitants out of the city on account of the water and dead things floating around. They say the stay is just dark with buzzards flying overhead.

Well, I guess if you wanted to come down you could get plenty of work all right. The union schedule of wages for carpenters is $1.12 1-2 cents per hour. I'm sure you could get work if you came down. I heard today that the relief committee is going to build up free of charge, all houses that were destroyed. I don't know how true it is.

The only question would be of a place to live. I would like to see you and the folks all come down. Well, it is time to go to bed so I will close for now, with love to everyone.

EARL

WEDDINGS

Littlejohn-Morris

A quiet wedding was celebrated on Monday evening at 7 o'clock when Miss Ethel Elizabeth Morris, only daughter of Richard Morris and Catherine Schlemmer Morris of 107, Washington St., was united in marriage with Harold Stanley Littlejohn, of Portland, Me., only son of Harry F. Littlejohn of Ipswich, Mass., and the late Carrie E. Jackson of Portland. Rev. Alexander H. Abbot, pastor of the United Congregational church, where the bride is a member, performed the ceremony, the double ring service being used.

Mrs. Evelyn Gleason, attended the bride, while William Gleason acted as best man.

The bride was dressed in a blue and tan ensemble suit with picture hat and corsage bouquet of white roses. Her attendant was dressed in pink silk with picture hat and corsage bouquet of pink roses. Mr. and Mrs. William Gleason received as gifts from the bride and groom white gold cuff links and blue stone bracelet.

The bride was born in this city and educated in the public schools. She is a member of the United Congregational church. In the last year she has been employed with G. Lackenbach on 30 Broadway. The broom was born in Portland, Me., and educated in the public schools there. In the past year he has been in the employ of the Efficient Stage Lighting Equipment Corp. of New York as an electrician.

The bride received many gifts, including money, furniture and other useful gifts.

Immediately after the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride, only intimate friends and relatives attending.

The newlyweds left in the evening for Brooklyn, N. Y., where they will make their home.

Graley—Tramontozzi

At St. Patrick's church, Monday morning at 8 o'clock, Rt. Rev. Msgr. Michael H. May, united in marriage Walter Graley of Mohegan Park road and Miss Anna Tramontozzi of No. 26 Baltic street. The maid of honor was Miss Laura Levesqueas, and the bridesmaids were Miss Josephine and Miss Mary Tramontozzi, sisters of the bride. Frank Puvone was the best man.

The bride was charming in a gown of white silk with lace trimmings, and wore a wreath caught with a tulle veil. Her maid of honor was gowned in old rose with hat to match. Miss Josephine Tramontozzi was gowned in orange crepe with hat to match and Miss Mary Tramontozzi wore pink satin with hat to match. Following the ceremony there was a wedding breakfast at the home of the bride's parents, at No. 26 Baltic street. Over 150 guests were present. There was also a reception and dance in the evening. The house was decorated in red, yellow, green and blue. During the evening the bride and groom left for a wedding trip to New York city and other places and will be at home to their many friends in a newly furnished apartment at No. 26 Baltic street after Dec. 1.

The bride received numerous beautiful and useful gifts. She is the daughter of William and Antonia Tramontozzi, is a graduate of St. Patrick's school and has been employed by the Robert Gair company of Montville. Mr. Graley is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Graley of the Mohegan Park road, is a graduate of the Greeneville grammar school and is employed as a truck man for the Yantic Grain company.

Banfield-Fetterman

Johnston Blair Banfield, son of Mr and Mrs. William J. Banfield of Norwich, and Annie M. Fetterman, daughter of Mrs. Johanna Heibel of Norwich, were united in marriage Saturday evening last at Trinity Episcopal church, Wethersfield by Rev. William Henry Smith, pastor of that church. The maid of honor was Miss Hazel L. Banfield, sister of the bridegroom, and Frank B. Lathrop of Norwich Town was the best man.

SUSIE HEARS OF MANY CASES WHERE MERCHANTS DO NOT GET SQUARE DEAL

As will be remembered Susie in her letter last week brought before the public a few experiences relative to the service given by the merchants of Norwich. In that letter she told of a few instances where the service was not up to the standard but in this week's letter she is viewing the service question from the viewpoint of the merchant. Her letter follows:

Dear Sports Ed:

Say Ed., old top, that letter what I writ last week was like poking a stick on a hornets' nest and then turning it around. Oh boy, ain't I glad them merchants don't put my name and address 'cause from some of the nice (?) things they said about that letter I guess I is about as popular as a skunk at a lawn party. Well I ain't pulling no punch on that letter and I lets it lay like it was read and I guess a lotta people has had the same experiences as what I wroted about.

Well, Ed., it's always been my aim to give everybody a even break. I ain't no champeen of the public nor yet is I standing up for them merchants what is grouchy and what I give no service. These merchants what I'm going to write about is them what is trying to give the public a square break but the public ain't giving the merchants no break at all. They's a lotta folks what if you give 'em a inch they take a coupla miles and then squawk 'cause there ain't more. Now I'm going to recite a few cases what I know of where some folks didn't give a accommodating merchant a square deal.

The first case what comes to mind is that of a dame what was sorta shy on parlor furniture and she wanted to throw a party for her friends. Well she don't want to buy no chairs nor yet does she wanta ask the neighbors for theirs so she's gets a bright idea and trots down to a furniture store whats always been trying to give service. She goes and looks over the furniture 'til she sees a whole set what looks pretty neat. She tells the clerk that she is gone on this set and its just what she wants but she ain't sure its going to match the wall paper. Seeing as how she can't bring up the house to see if it matches she suggests that the store cart up the furniture to the house. Well the furniture is taken to the house and as her hubby ain't home she says they better leave it so's he can see it. Well she pulls the party off in great style and everybody says how pretty her new furniture is and all that kind of bunk and she is sitting pretty. Well next morning she puts the tags back on the furniture and calls up and says it don't match and will they please come and get it.

Now there was a mighty accommodating merchant but the woman don't care what merchant no break at all and now if she should really want something sent on approval I guess she could whisstle for it. That ain't no way to treat a store what's trying to give good service.

Here's a nother case that happened last year during the football season. You remember Ed. how them big coon coats was all the rage to wear to football games. If you didn't have one you was a bum, number and fell like you was wearing hoop skirts to a ball. Well one of them near-flappers gets a bid to go to a football game down to New Haven. (No Ed. don't think it was me 'cause I went to Boston to my foot ball game.) Well she ain't got no 'coon coat yet she must have one. The folks ain't got no extra cash to blow in on fur wrappers so she does her stuff. She goes to a store what sells fur coats and trys on everything in sight 'till she finds one what she likes. Seeing how she was all alone she tells the merchant that that's the coat she likes but she ain't sure 'mothaw' will like it and could she take it home so mothaw could see it. Seeing how the merchant knew her he lets her get away with a coat what would have set her old man back about 300 bucks. She takes the coat and next day she is at the ball game all dressed up like a sore finger and all her sister flappers is green with envy 'cause she got a bran new coat. But that's the last time they see her in it. It goes back to the merchant with a note saying as how mothaw thinks I don't look good in fur I am returning the coat. Say that flapper didn't even thank the feller what let her take it. Can you beat that?

I know another dame what would pull that same stunt when she wanted a new dress to wear to a party. She pulled it a coupla times until one time she spilled soup on a $75 gown and she had to buy it. She ain't taking no more chances.

Then there is them women what go shopping and is too lazy to carry home what they buy. Of course nobody don't expect them to lug home a cook stove or a ton of coal on their back but I ain't heard of no spool of No. 70 thread breaking anybody's back yet. A merchant was telling me of a woman what come in and orders a spool of thread and a dress pattern and wants them sent up to a place about three miles from the store. Gosh you can't even lie that one say nothing about beating it.

Can you imagine burning up a coupla quarts of gas besides the wear and tear on the automobile delivering 15 cents worth of merchandise? You can't blame no merchant for feeling kind of peeved. Them clerks, the obliging one, not them what chews gum and their main topic of conversation is "he says to me and I says to him," don't have no soft time waiting on them women what thinks a store is sort of a museum. Them kind of women would get the angora of a angel. They goes into a store without no intention of buying and they have the clerk pull and over a lotta stock and then don't buy no much as a paper of pins. Then they go out and brag about it, yet they expect a whale of a lotta service. Its the likes of them what crabs good service for everybody.

Now Ed., I've tried to show both sides of this service question without no hard feelings for either the merchants or the public. Now if the public would try to treat the merchants square and the merchants snap into it and realize that its 1926 and try to please the public what a whale of a nice town Norwich would be to trade in. This service proposition oughta be a 50-50 proposition and when we get good service we oughta appreciate it. How about it?

Well Ed., I pick the Cardinals to win the series. Have I made a bum guess?

Yours as ever
SUSIE

Ed. Note—No. I think you showed very good judgment in your choice of teams.

WHITE SOX TAKE LEAD IN CHICAGO CITY SERIES

CHICAGO, Oct. 4.—(AP)—Chicago's major league representatives met today in the fifth game of the city series and the White Sox, playing on their own field, won, 2 to 1.

The American leaguers now need only one more victory to clinch the title, won last year by the Cubs.

Red Faber, veteran spitball pitcher and Root, the National league's clever young stock faced each other in a resumption of their competition started in the opening game. In that contest Root emerged victorious, but today the tables were turned. Although Faber did not last the entire route, his relief was effective. The scores:

BASEBALL SPECIAL MAKES RECORD RUN TO ST. LOUIS

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 4.—(AP)—The invading Yankees, champions of the American league, roiled into St. Louis this afternoon on their special train on the New York Central railroad making a record run from New York of 1,157 miles in 23 hours and one half. This is the best previous record by 55 minutes.

A wildly excited crowd of baseball fans, confident of ultimate victory in the world's series that debarked at the terminal and the door looks of the throng that had gathered to greet the Gotham's heroes only to steel the Yanks against a heavy day tomorrow in the third game of the series. The Yanks came to town five minutes ahead of the home club and went at once to their hotel.

All along the route during the daylight ride through Ohio, Indiana and Illinois, crowds gathered at the various stations to catch a fleeting glimpse of the Yankees as they sped west. At Unionville, Ind., 300 persons gathered at the station to see "Babe" Ruth and his mates and they would not be appeased until the Bambino made his appearance at the car window. Through Indiana an airplane raced along with the special a mile a minute.

"It looks like 'Dutch' Ruether for the Yanks' pitcher tomorrow," said Miller Huggins, the New York manager, "and Waite Hoyt the next day." We will have the same lineup that has appeared in the other games. All the boys are in good shape and we are prepared to battle to a successful finish."

The American leaguers expected to face Arthur Reinhart, a southpaw, as they agreed that the strategy seemed to call for a left hander to keep Young from poling the ball into the short right field stands. With Ruether and Reinhart hurling tomorrow another duel of southpaws was in prospect.

The only casualty on the Yanks trip was Herb Pennock, who lost control shifting a razor blade and nicked the second finger of his pitching hand. There was a hurried call for Doc Woods, the club's trainer, who taped the cut digit.

"It doesn't amount to anything," said Pennock, "and I'll be ready when called upon."

The silver fox breeder of Kenneth Square, Pa., said he had recovered from the effects of Saturday's contest and was right as a trivet.

Urban Shocker said he had no alibis to offer for his defeat by the Cardinals on Sunday.

"I threw a high spitter to Southworth," said Shocker, "and it broke inside just where I wanted, but Southworth got hold of it. At that the home run was just a long high fly which only fell inside the bleacher fence. I have fooled Southworth on a high spitter on a previous pitch. I have no alibis and hope my turn comes again to pitch against the Cards. They got several hits off me but no real hard line smashes."

"Babe" Ruth and the Yank artillery insist they have always hit well in Sportsman's park where the fences are short.

"We started hitting here on the last trip," said the "Babe," and clinched the pennant. We will put the series in the bag here."

Colonel Jake Ruppert, owner of the Yanks, led his men into town the incarnation of optimism, and the prediction that his boys will take the next three straight.

As the Yankees special entered the outskirts of St. Louis this afternoon they were given a big cheer by hundreds of enthusiastic fans who mistakenly thought that it was the train bearing the Cardinals. Several bombs were exploded all of which gave the Yankees players a big laugh.

HEAVYWEIGHT BOUTS ARE POSTPONED UNTIL FRIDAY

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—(AP)—The fistic carnival featuring heavyweights at Madison Square garden this week will be held Friday night and not Thursday as previously announced. Promoter Tex Rickard said today that Gene Tunney, the newly crowned heavyweight champion and Jack Dempsey have promised to attend at the show which is headed by a 10-round bout bringing together Knute Hansen, Danish boxer, and Franz Diener, German champion.

WORLD'S SERIES RETURNS AT BULLETIN CO. OFFICE

As has been customary for many years the play by play returns of the World's Series games at New York and St. Louis will be announced at the Bulletin office by megaphone. The Associated Press service direct from the Yankee Stadium and the National league park at St. Louis will be more complete this year than ever before.

The games are scheduled to start at 2:30 p. m. daily and the play by play account will cover every ball pitched and every playing incident and will be supplemented by a description of the high spots during the game.

FABER'S STARS TAKE FIRST GAME FROM MOOSUP

Joe Faber's All-Stars were returned the victors over Henry Loughran's Moosup team, 5 to 3, in the opening game of the series on the Carpet grounds at Moosup on Sunday last. The battle was a duel between the rival hurlers, the honors, however, being carried off by Tillman, who twirled an exceptionally heady game, holding the Moosup sluggers in the hollow of his hand, turning them back hitless until the 8th inning. Fenney, the Moosup ace, pitched his usual brilliant game until the eighth when with two down and a man on first he could not locate the plate for Faber or Wojack, filling the sacks, the three occupants scoring on Burns' long double to deep center, which cinched the game for the All Stars.

Faber's men drew first blood in the opening stanza when Krauss walked, reached second on Doyle's error of Liberty's infield tap, both runners moving up on a passed ball and scoring on Wojack's double.

Moosup's first run in the fourth, was the result of a free ticket to Agnew who advanced to second on a passed ball crossing the pan when Kendricks hard smash got away from Burns. McBeth, starting off for Moosup in the eighth singled; Tillman then tightened up fanning the next two; successive singles by Hart, Agnew and Kendricks added two more tallies to their score, but B. Liberty's hard smash to deep center, which bore the earmarks of a home run, was gathered in by Jarvis after a long sprint, retiring the side with two on bases.

It was even break between both teams as to fielding, each side working an error, both being costly, but Fenney's inability to locate the plate in the eighth, assisted by Burns' double and Tillman's masterly twirling spelled defeat for Moosup.

The second game of the series will be played at Ashland park, Jewett City on Sunday next, when Manager Loughran will try to turn the tables on Faber's aggregation. The score:

TWO HARVARD PLAYERS ARE DECLARED INELIGIBLE

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 4—(AP)—Joseph P. Crosby, Crimson regular halfback, and R. W. Turner, center on Harvard's varsity football team, today were declared ineligible for football for the entire 1926 season. The two players were placed on the list of "temporary ineligibles" last week when they failed to pass reading examinations in French and German, and were unable to figure in the Saturday game in which Geneva defeated the Crimson.

Last Friday when Crosby and Turner were ruled out of the game by faculty order it was reported at first that the ban was for the entire season. Later, however, the Harvard Athletic association announced that it would not be known definitely until tonight whether the players could compete during the rest of the year.

The official explanation from the college office was that Turner and Crosby "could not compete in football until they had satisfied the departments of French and German that they could pass their reading examinations." The marks of the examinations were available tonight and in a final ruling the two players were barred from the Crimson squad.

Both Turner and Crosby were veterans. The former has been replaced at center by Bell, who is lighter and lacks Turner's experience. Crosby has been relied on as one of the most effective backfield men on the Crimson squad. He has been replaced by French, a sophomore.

FAIR WEATHER PREDICTED FOR TODAY'S GAME

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Oct. 4—(AP)—Fair and cool weather was predicted for tomorrow when the Cardinals and Yankees play the third game of the World's Series at Sportsman's park.

The rain which fell last night and continued today will not materially hurt the condition of the playing field. The infield was covered with a waterproof tarpaulin and no amount of rain can damage it before it is uncovered. The outfield is well drained and a few hours of sun and a light breeze tomorrow will make it firm and fast.

TWO YALE PLAYERS HAVE BEEN ADDED TO VARSITY

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 4—(AP)—As a result of their good work with the Yale football team in its game with Boston university Saturday, Eddie Decker, of Montclair, N. J., quarterback on last year's freshman team, and Earle Goodwine, of West Lebanon, Ind., halfback on last year's scrub team, were moved up to the Eli varsity squad today.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 4.—(AP)—After the tumult and the shouting had subsided tonight, rival boards of strategy of the Yankees and Cardinals put the finishing touches to their plans of battle for the third game tomorrow, first of three contests scheduled here.

Unless there is a sudden shift in plans, tomorrow will bring about a pitching duel between "Dutch" Ruether, veteran southpaw of the Yankees and Arthur Rienhart, slim young portsider of the Cardinals in the second left handed tussle of the series.

"Dutch" has been through the best of many a fierce campaign. His experience and coolness will be as much of an asset as his hurling skill when the clamor for the Cardinals breaks loose at Sportsman's park tomorrow.

Charles Flint Rhem, brilliant young right hander of the Cardinals, had been picked by some for duty tomorrow but Rogers Hornsby is understood to have listened to the advance of veteran counsellors to keep him in reserve. These advisers believe that Rhem's favorite weapon, speed, would be made to order for the Yankee sluggers, whereas Reinhart's more deceptive offerings would be less to the liking of the New Yorkers.

If Reinhart goes to the mound and wins, Hornsby probably will come back with Sherdel in the fourth game Wednesday. Sherdel, twirled a good game Saturday, although beaten, and would be fit for duty again after three full days between assignments.

So far there has been little to choose between the contending clubs, deadlocked at one victory apiece as they shift battlegrounds. The Yankees won the first tilt with better pitching and timelier hitting and the same factors prevailed for the Cardinals in the second contest, Pennock for the Yankees and Alexander for the Cardinals both turned in mound masterpieces. One wallop was sufficient to give them the decision in each case. Gehrig's single producing the winning tally in the first game and Southworth's homer settling the issue in the Sunday game.

Defensively the Yankees have had somewhat the best of it so far. They played errorless ball in each game, with their "kid" infield shining particularly, while the Cardinals seemed less steady and were charged with an error in each contest. The experienced superiority of the Cardinals behind the bat has failed to materialize thus far. Hank Severeid, now in his 15th season, has played faultlessly behind the bat for the Yanks in filling the shoes of the injured regular, Bob Gough. Defensively his work has easily mensured up to that of Bob O'Farrell, the Cardinal star, although the latter's bat has been more potent.

Expert observers now predict that the series will go at least six games if not the limit of seven, thus necessitating a return to New York for the finish. It would take three straight victories for either team here to end the struggle and no unbiased critic anticipates such a streak with the contending clans as well matched as have appeared to be in the first two frays.

If the intersectional warfare goes the limit, or as far as six games, it promises to shatter all baseball records for attendance and receipts. It may be closer to a $1,500,000 series than the million dollar variety common to the last three years.

Gate receipts already have passed the $400,000 mark for the first two games, with the second contest breaking all single game marks. Sportsman's park will not accommodate anything like the crowds that packed the Yankee stadium, exceeding 61,000 each day, but it would not be surprising to see $500,000 added to the coffers here, with another $400,000 in sight if two more games are required to settle the issue in New York.

The attendance, if seven games are played, may reach 350,000 to far surpass the record 301,000 total in 1923. The players' pool, derived from the first four games only, now is over $204,000 and seems certain to be close to $400,000 altogether, as compared with the previous record of $320,763 set in 1923 when the Yankees defeated the Giants.

MRS. STETSON IS OUT AFTER MORE GOLF HONORS

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 4—(AP)—Scarcely rested from the arduous task of winning the women's national golf championship on Saturday, Mrs. G. Henry Stetson took up the quest of the Berthelyn cup over her home course at the Huntington Valley Country club today and won the qualifying medal with a score of 81, one stroke under the woman's par.

Mrs. Stetson's score was within a stroke of her own record for the course and duplicated her first day's score in the women's eastern championship in the spring, which marked her first conquest of more than local significance.

The efforts to qualify in the first sixteen resulted in many failures. The most notable of which was that of Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd, three times national champion. She took 94, one stroke too many, and her failure was her first in any tournament since first gaining fame more than twenty years ago.

Miss Glenna Collett, dethroned last week as national champion, barely qualified with a score of 92. Miss Virginia Wilson, Chicago, who beat Miss Collett in the title event, was safely in with a 91.

YOUNG APPROVES SCOUTING RULE IN FOOTBALL

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 4—(AP)—Complete elimination of scouting from football would be a good thing for the game, said Lou Young head coach of the University of Pennsylvania football squad, in referring to the Yale-Princeton agreement to do away with this practice.

"Certainly it would give the spectators a better run for their money because more time would be spent by the coaches in developing their offenses and less time in defenses," Young said. "This would mean more scoring and much more open game.

"It is all a question of the honor system. If every college agreed to keep strictly to the letter of the agreement there would not be any worry. But the fact of the matter is that some college would cut the corners a trifle or more than a trifle and that would mean trouble.

"With every one on the same plane scouting can go on openly because every team has the same opportunity as its opponent. There isn't the slightest chance of any reneging under the present system."

DELANEY EXPECTS TO CHALLENGE GENE TUNNEY

BRIDGEPORT, Oct. 4.—(AP)—The Bridgeport Telegram will say tomorrow that Jack Delaney, of this city, light heavyweight champion of the world, has added 20 pounds, as a result of recreation and outdoor life at his camp at Lake Winnepesaukee, N. H., and expects to leave there within two or three weeks, to issue a challenge for a bout with Gene Tunney, new world's heavyweight champion.

Delaney said he now weighs 187 pounds, as compared with 166½ when he defeated Berlenbach. "Of course," Delaney is quoted by the Telegram, as saying, "my goal has been the heavyweight championship, but I didn't think that I would have to meet Tunney, because I always was sure of licking him. I had figured to box Tunney for a big purse, but not for the world's title.

"When I came here, it was with the intention of building up and put on about ten pounds to be in shape to go against Dempsey. But now, I suppose it will be Tunney."

Delaney expects his fighting weight to be about 173 pounds, he told the Telegram interviewer.

YALE NEWS COMMENTS ON SCOUTING RULE

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 4—(AP)—Classifying scouting as harmful to football and one of the "factors which have called forth this ballyhoo about football over-emphasis" the Yale Daily News today gave its support to Coaches Jones of Yale, and Roper, of Princeton in their new non-scouting agreement.

"Coaches Jones and Roper," the News says editorially, "have made an outstanding contribution to the game of football. Both have been, individually important factors in the popularization of the sport and in the study of football science. Now they have combined to remove one of its evils. In the scouting agreement they have eradicated by mutual consent the spying menace from the Yale-Princeton game."

SESQUI ARENA AVAILABLE FOR SEVENTH SERIES GAME

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 4—(AP)—Dr. George W. Orton, director of athletics at the Sesqui-Centennial exposition, today wired Commissioner K. M. Landis inviting the New York Yankees and the St Louis Cardinals to play in the Sesqui-Centennial stadium if a seventh game is necessary to decide the world's series baseball championship.

It was pointed out that the stadium has a much larger seating capacity that either the New York or St. Louis ball park and that it would provide neutral ground for the deciding game.

An invitation to play two games of the series in the stadium was declined some time ago by the baseball authorities.

SCOUTING PLAN ONLY A PERSONAL AGREEMENT

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 4.—(AP)—Howard Taylor Jones, head coach of the Yale football squad told here today that he, Bob Zuppke and W. W. Roper, head coach at Princeton, had reached an agreement on non-scouting which will eliminate the practice of sending scouts to watch early season games of the rival teams.

The agreement was not premeditated, he said, and he knew of no organized effort to enlist other colleges in the plan.

"It was a personal matter" said Coach Jones. "Mr. Roper and I have long been in agreement on the evil of scouting rival teams. Last week we happened to get together in New York and in the course of our conversation the matter arose. We then decided to put a non-scouting agreement into effect between our own teams and drew up the terms of such a compact."

BEZDEK ENDORSES JONES' NO-SCOUTING PLAN

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Oct. 4.—(AP)—Hugo Bezdek athletic director at Pennsylvania State college has for years been a firm believer in the abolition of organized football scouting. However he does that even doing away with scouts would not entirely eliminate the tendency of the alumni and graduate students at other institutions to send information on opponent teams to their alma mater.

"The theory is fine," Bezdek said tonight, "but to get perfection in practice would be difficult. I shall be anxious to see how it works out. I hope it is successful."

ST. LOUIS HOTELS ARE CROWDED WITH FANS

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Oct. 4.—(AP)—Trains discharged hundreds of passengers coming into town to see the St. Louis Cardinals do battle with the New York Yankees while scores of others reached the city by automobile. Hotels were filled to overflowing and rooms were at a premium. Many private homes took care of those unable to obtain accommodations at the hotels.

The line of spectators eager to get the best seats in the unreserved section began to form this afternoon and by 4 o'clock seven stout hearted fans were on hand and ready for an 18-hour wait before the gates were opened. The early comers brought boxes on which to camp and with the threat of wet weather, the fans provided themselves with raincoats. As the evening wore along, the line grew in length and the police made provision to keep order through the night.

Reserved seats were not to be had tonight except at a big advance over the fixed price and speculators were ready to reap the usual harvest from late comers unable to obtain tickets.

The Cardinals were the favorites in betting tonight at 5 to 4 on the series.

TAFTVILLE A. A. TO PLAY FABER'S CLUB SATURDAY

After having been eliminated as a contender for state honors the Taftville A. A. will engage the team that is piloted by Joe Faber on next Saturday at the Providence street grounds. Faber's team downed the Moosup club on last Sunday and expects to take the game from Treland's team on Saturday. Taftville has been playing exceptionally good ball this season and has an enviable record of 50 wins out of 66 games played.

PRINCETON TO ADOPT NEW ROWING METHODS

PRINCTON, N. J., Oct. 4.—(AP)—The Princeton varsity crew will train this season by "rowing for pleasure," Coach Charles Lang announced tonight. Good results can be obtained, Lang said, without the use of rigid training rules, and the men will be allowed to judge for themselves what mode of living is most beneficial in the making of an oarsman.

One hundred candidates have reported for the varsity eight.

CARDINALS FAVORITES TO WIN WORLD SERIES

NEW YORK, Oct. 4—(AP)—Odds of 6 to 5 and even money on the Cardinals to win the world series were reported by Wall street wagering firms today. St. Louis ruled favorite to defeat the Yankees in the third game at 6 to 5 also.

One betting house reported placing $6,000 against $5,000 on the Cardinals to take the series while another place a wager of $10,000 at even money that St. Louis will win.

Walker Kayoes Callahan.

CHICAGO, Oct. 4.—(AP)—Micky Walker, former welterweight champion, scoring a comeback after losing his championship to Pete Latzo and being knocked out in his next start, scored a technical knockout over Shuffle Callahan of Chicago Heights here tonight. Callahan was battered all over the ring for five rounds and was decidedly weak when his seconds chucked in a towel at the end of the fifth round. Callahan weighed 154 1-4. Walker weighed 154.

Lombardo Gets Verdict.

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—(AP)—Jose Lombardo of Panama won the decision over Frankie Fink of Texas in a ten round bout at the Broadway arena in Brooklyn tonight. Fink dazed the Panamen in the second round. Lombardo arose immediately without a count. The weights were Lombardo 124½, Fink 123½.

WORLD'S SERIES SIDELIGHTS
(By the Associated Press)

Alexander and Southworth, reigning two Cardinal playing heroes, are the oldest performers in the St. Louis ranks. The big right hander is 39 and the home run batter 32. Both are natives of Nebraska although Southworth now claims Columbus, Ohio, as his home. With their leader, Rogers Hornsby, they share the added distinction of having seen the longest major service of any of the Cards. Alex is finishing his sixteenth season, Southworth his tenth and Hornsby his twelfth in the big show.

If the Cardinals win in the series, their victory will go down as another instance of "Beginner's Luck." Triumph has frequently gone to a team making its world series debut, conspicuous examples being the Athletics in 1910, Braves in 1914, Reds in 1919, Cleveland in 1920 and Senators in 1924.

None of the Yankee long range guns has hit any distant targets so far. All of the ten New York bingles in the opening games were singles whereas the Cardinals included three doubles and two more runs in their fifteen hits.

Figure hounds estimate that it cost the clubs, officials and long distance fans something like a half million dollars in traveling expenses alone to make the shift from New York to St. Louis.

"Sunny Jim" Bottomley has collected the most hits, four, but Tommy Thevenow, with three safe blows in six times at bat, is leading the parade of pounders with an average of .500. Bottomley is next with .444 and Southworth third with .375. Combs and Dugan each with two hits in six turns at the plate, are leading the Yankee list.

The Cardinals are hitting harder as a team, the rival marks being .327 and .174 but the Yankees have the best fielding record. The Hugmen have handled 76 chances faultlessly while the Cardinals are charged with two errors in 85 chances. Bell and Alexander made the miscues.

Taylor and Burrone Signed

Her Hair Fairly SPARKLES Now!

The woman who knows what to do after waving her hair doesn't fear the effect of hot irons. Nor of frequent washings. A few drops of Danderine on a comb or towel—and the hair is soft and lustrous, and behaves beautifully.

A bit of Danderine rubbed lightly into the scalp, is the one sure way to dissolve every particle of dandruff. But a few drops more make a dressing that is simply marvelous. A sheen that rivals brilliantine, and no grease!

Moderator, James H. McKnight; registrars, Fred W. Boutler, Joseph H. McGuinness; deputy registrar, Walter Fitzgerald; ballot clerks, George T. Robinson, Thomas J. Whalen; booth tenders, Alber Fish, Thomas Thorp, Manuel Cella, Samuel Castagna, Thomas Farrell; checkers, Paul H. Kietzel, John Sullivan, Martin T. Devine; ballot box tenders for stubs, John W. Barker, Timothy Mulcahey; ballot box tenders for ballots, Arthur J. Labrecque, Richard Morrison; couriers, N. Henry Lanphear, George E. Bernard.

When the polls closed at 5 p. m. the total vote cast was 1475.

For the first hour of voting at 7 a. m., 130 ballots had been cast and at the end of the third hour at 9 a. m. 350 votes had been deposited.

FEWER ARRESTS LAST MONTH POLICE CHIEF'S REPORT SHOWS

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, Oct. 4—The October meeting of the Westerly town council was held Monday morning at 8.30 o'clock in the council chambers president John D. Nichols, Councilmen Rogers E. Trainer, Peter Nardone and Isaac G. Smith with Council Clerk Everett E. Whipple and Town Solicitor John Ferguson. Absentee were Councilmen H. H. Coleman, A. Clifford Holdsworth and Thomas F. More. Clerk Whipple read the records of the last regular council meting held Sept. 7th and the special council hearing on Sept. 17th.

Chairman Rogers E. Trainer of the building code committee of the council announced that the committe consisting of himself and Isaac G. Smith had named Harry H Coleman to succed Councilman A. Clifford Holdsworth, who resigned by reason of his removing to Massachusetts.

Joseph W. Delaney, janitor of the parochial school of Immaculate Conception parish at the corner of Dixon and High streets, with the approval of Westerly Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown, was voted a police constable without pay. This action will give the janitor traffic control when pupils are crossing the highways.

Approval was the action of Town Treasurer James M. Pendleton in his issue of notes to the amount of $125,000 dated Nov. 1, 1926 and due May 1, 1927, for the construction and maintenance of sewer main drains.

The town treasurer was voted power to reissue his duplicate voucher for $99.24 to Everett Burns from school committee funds to replace one which was lost.

Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown reported five arrests for September. This was the fewest arrests in several months. It showed arrests for operating automobile without license 1, insanity 1, driving automobile while under the influence of liquor, 2, and operation of an automobile not having proper brakes 1.

Sewer assessments for equal apportionments of a term of years for the following amounts were voted:

Sept. 9. Maynard Land company, Mason Heights, lots Nos. 59, 61, 122, 124, 124, 185, 186 and 187, $527.60.

11. James A. Brown and James G. Brown, Cross street $89.72.

13. George Ferraro, Cross St., $103.79.

22. George Ferraro, Cross St., $101.35.

25. R. J. Butler, Jr., Granite street $147.90.

29. Heirs of John and estate of Mary J. Dower, Vose street $113.50.

30. James G. Butler and wife, Granite street $108.65.

John and Herbert Sawyer estate, Summer street $119.06.

Oct. 2. Angelo Siciliano, Hobart St. $132.83.

Angelo and Christina Siciliano Cross street $49.77.

Alexander Lawrence, Cross street $129.37.

Milk dealers' licenses were voted Ralph I. Main and Andrew B. Morris. Council Clerk Everett E. Whipple read a copy of a letter sent to Highway Engineer A. L. Leon of Westerly from 30 West 127th st., New York, Sept. 16, 1926 and signed by Lydia Richmond.

Following the recommendation of the Westerly patriotic bodies, Harold W. Merrill post, No. 16, American Legion, Harley P. Chase post, Veterans of Foreign Wars and the British Colonial Great War Veterans, a communication was received from George W. Andrews, secretary of the Armistice day observance committee of these societies, which urged the council to take action relative to a half holiday. The council voted a half holiday Armistice day, Thursday, Nov. 11, by the closing of places of business at noon, for the remainder of the day.

Following the request of the town council, Oct. 31, for the institution of a weekly service in Westerly throughout the year by the Rhode Island state board of public roads for the insurance of automobile registrations the board in a communication signed by George R. Wellington, chief clerg, reported:

"The board does not appreciate any particular necessity at this time for extension of service and is hardly in position to grant such extension."

Highway Engineer Adolph L. Leon appeared before the council to ask in behalf of the Westerly highway commission that some way be found by the town council or the police committee of the council to relieve the parking situation on John street, where a continuous parking of automobiles by employes of the George C. Moore company plant on Beach street, is carried on.

Councilman Peter Nardone brought up the matter of the celebration of Columbus day with parade and fireworks. The council voted a license, subject to supervision of police committee for the parade and fireworks display on the ball park off High street.

For the next town election the council determined that the polling place for the first or northerly section voting district of the town should be on the easterly side of the town hall. The second or southerly voting district polling place was placed on the westerly side of the town hall.

Councilman Isaac G. Smith reported to the council that he had received from John Wall a complete statement of the Westerly town treasurer's books from Jan. 1 to June 30, 1926, and that the same was being left in the town treasurer's office in the Westerly town hall.

William Deitch, manager of the United theatre, through Councilman Nardone asked for permission to have moving pictures on Sunday. Councilman Trainer looked up the law, passed at the last session of the Rhode Island state legislature and it was decided that the law only permitted the cities of Providence, Pawtucket, Woonsocket and Newport to have such Sunday picture exhibitions.

The council voted the payment of water works bills, $2021.71; sewer bills, $222.24; poor department bills, $539.48; and pay rolls for sewer department, $2p17.97; and water works $2145.10.

Before Judge Oliver H. Williams at a special session of third district court Monday morning Henry I. Tanner of Westerly was arraigned on a charge of operating an automobile in the town of Richmond. R. L. Sunday, while under the influence of liquor. Tanner was sentenced to 15 days in Providence county jail.

Mrs. Allen W. Blake, a resident of Westerly for over 50 years, died Saturday at her home, at 17 Tower street. She was born in Penryn, Cornwall, England, July 25, 1848, the daughter of James and Elizabeth H. Wills. She married George U. Blake in 1868 and they came to America, to make their home and six children were born to them. Mrs. Blake held membership in the Congregational church. Besides a sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Cock, she is survived by seven grandchildren, Mrs. Vera Smith, Mrs. Francis Kenyon, Mrs. William Bray, Albert H. Smith, Jr., C. Wallace Smith, James Blake, Capt. Raymond Blake and four great-grandchildren.

It's all a matter of picking the packing

HOW much fun you get out of a pipe depends largely on one thing: the tobacco. The pipe itself is the accessory, after all. The tobacco's the thing. That's why the most contented bunch of smokers in the world smoke Prince Albert exclusively.

The instant you open a tidy red tin of P. A., you know this tobacco is unlike any other. That warm, rich fragrance! Only real tobacco could give off such an appetizing aroma. You are completely won to P. A. when you smoke that first load.

Cool as a cove, sheltered from the beat of the sun. Sweet as a breath of clover. Fragrant as fresh-cut flowers . . . fragrant and mild. Yet with a body that satisfies your smoke-taste right down to the ground. A rare combination, Men.

It is a pretty safe guess that, if you smoke one tin of Prince Albert—all of it—you will continue to smoke Prince Albert from then on. That has been the experience of other pipe-smokers. It's worth finding out about. Buy some P. A. today.

P. A. is sold everywhere in tidy red tins, pound and half-pound tin humidors, and pound crystal-glass humidors with sponge-moistener top. And always with every bit of bite and parch removed by the Prince Albert process.

BUILDING OPERATIONS IN NORWICH

With 27 permits being granted during the month of September by Fire Marshal Howard L. Stanton the total building permits issued for the third quarter of the year amounted to 73 a decrease o 14 permits when compared to the third quarter of 1925 when there were 87 permits granted. The total valuation of the new buildings as set forth in the applications is $168,270.00 which is $52,435 less than the total valuation of the same quarter a year ago, when the valuation was $220,705.

The building summary for the past quarter was as follows:

New frame houses	13
New frame garages	13
New frame barns	2
New frame sheds	1
Alterations to [illegible] buildings	31
New brick buildings	2
New concrete [illegible]	1
New concrete garages	7
New cement garages	1
Alterations to dwellings	6
Alterations to [illegible] buildings	1
Total	73

During the [illegible] week there were 12 buildings [illegible] by Fire Marshal Stanton [illegible] included a number [illegible] new dwelling houses [illegible] and are as follows:

To John [illegible] to build a one-room addition to the present house at 30 Spruce [illegible] The addition will be 10 x [illegible] and will provide a bedroom.

To Manuel Andrade to erect a one-story [illegible] house on Brendon street [illegible] be about 30 x 36 feet [illegible] stone and cement foundation [illegible] exterior will be finished in clapboards and shingles, while the interior will be finished in hard wood and plaster.

To Charles W. Barton to erect a cement-block garage on North Main street [illegible] The garage will be 40 x 50 feet with cement foundation and cement-block walls. There will be 12 rooms, each apartment having 5 rooms and bath. The interior finish will be in hard wood and plaster.

To Stanley Walanda to erect a frame garage 18 x 25 feet for himself at the corner of 10th and 11th streets.

To John Zachaba to erect a two-family frame house on Yantic street. The house will be 26 x 28 feet and two stories high. There will be 12 rooms with all modern fixtures.

To John Senetzki to build a frame cottage on Summit street for himself. The cottage will be 26 x 28 feet with five rooms and bath and will be modernly equiped with plumbing, heating and lighting fixtures.

To Contractor P. F. Sweeney to add a porch and bay window to the present house at 122 Broadway for Joseph Boylan.

To John Urick Jr., to erect a frame bungalow on Lois street for Josef Hulay. The house will be 24 x 26 feet and one story high. The exterior finish will be in clapboards and composition shingles. The interior will be finished in plaster with a hard pine finish.

To Henr R. Armstrong to build a frame garage at 24 River avenue. The garage will be 20 x 40 feet.

To Stanley Rojewski to erect a frame house of the bungalow type on the Mohegan Park road. The house will be 28 x 38 feet and will have seven rooms and bath. The exterior finish will be of composition shingles and the interior will be in hardwood and plaster.

To Alphonse Debreiul to erect a frame house on Pratt street for Carmine Cinquegrano. The house will be 24 x 26 feet and two stories high.

REAL ESTATE SALES AND MORTGAGE LOANS

In Norwich during the past week there were 6 sales of real estate a falling off of five sales as compared to the same week in 1925. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $100,320 and $79,500.

There were 13 sales of real estate in New London during the past week, one more than for the corresponding week a year ago. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $81,419 and $4,500.

State Building Situation.

Predictions of a building slump this year in Connecticut are flatly contradicted by the totals of building permits issued in the building centers in this state reported by The Commercial Record. That the rate of adtivity at this time is on a par with last year, a record building year, is indicated by the coincidence of a total of 442 permits issued during the past week, the exact number issued during the same period in 1925. The total of $1,-447,400 in estimated construction costs is an increase over last year's total of $1,383,110.

New London

The beginning of work on the new telephone building for the Southern New England Telephone company, in Washington street was the most significant building feature of the week. After the preliminary work of razing the former frame building utilized for some time by the telephone company as an office, work has now started in earnest, work has now started in earnest on the actual construction. Surveyors laid out the foundation sites last Saturday and the H. Wales Lines company, which has the contract for the work had a steam shovel working this week excavating for the basement.

The building permit issued by the council Monday, specifies a brick structure two and three stories in height with dimensions of 83 feet by 90 feet. When completed the new building will house the local office of the telephone company with the switchboards. Ample space will be provided for future expansion.

Twelve more permits were issued by the council Monday night, bringing the total for the month up to an even 50 permits issued. Besides the permit for the telephone company building the list includes one cottage, and eight garages, in but one or two instances the garages are designed for private use.

The permit for the cottage was issued to Edna Brown and is to be located in Ledyard street, where several new cottages have been erected recently. The dwelling will be of frame construction and 26 by 30 feet in dimen with a rear parlor 7 by 20 feet.

Plans are in preparation for an addition to the building at Golden and Union streets recently leased by Mrs. Marie Stoddard to Samuel Lufshutz and others of New York through the agency of Thomas T. Wetmore. According to tentative plans the building will be redesigned to provide a ballroom on one floor and two and three room apartments on the other floors.

Work is progressing rapidly on the construction of an addition, 35 by 14 feet, to the building at 93 Main street for Emil Seifert. The new structure is of concrete block side and rear walls with tapestry brick on the street front side. The outside structure is lined with tile.

Work has started on the construction of a stone garage, 24 by 40 feet, for Ftiela J. Kupidlowski at 66-70 Hempstead street.

A new brick front has been completed to the building at 135 North Bank street for Pawel Buckzkowski. The new front is of tapestry brick, extends 28 feet along the front of the building and is two stories high.

Ground has been broken in Glenwood avenue for two cottages to be built by B. B. Prentice of 141 Mohegan avenue. From private plans each of the two houses will be of frame construction arranged with six rooms each and also a sun porch and breakfast nook. Steam heat and all other modern improvements will be included in the construction.

Building Permits

Twelve applications for building permits, approved by Building Inspector William Gunn, Jr., and recommended by Acting City Manager Carey, Condon were approved by the council Monday night and the permits granted.

Frank Kalka, garage, 12 by 18, Cape Ann court.

Timothy Sullivan, balcony, 6 by 8, 31 Williams street.

Stefa Kupidlowski, four-car steel garage, 24 by 40, 68-70 Hempstead street.

Louis Feldman, addition to garage, 8 by 20, 453 Montauk avenue.

Albert E. Paquette, garage, 20 by 18, 29 Darrow street.

Walter S. Calvert estate, garage, 16 by 32, Tenth street.

Marion J. Fellman, garage, 20 by 40, 3098 Ocean avenue.

S. N. E. T. Co., telephone exchange building, 82-6 by 89-4, Washington street.

Edna Brown, frame cottage, 25 by 30, sun parlor, 7 by 20, Ledyard street.

Edna Brown, frame garage, 11 by 20, Ledyard street.

Mrs. E. Burckle, enclose veranda with glass, 8 by 29, 908 Bank street.

Florence Frieland, 27 by 20, 104 Ocean avenue.

Westerly

In the next week progress will be more noticeable in the erection of the two business blocks, the light and power building of the South County Public service company at 45 High street and the Nardone block, corner of Canal and High streets. Steel girders are rapidly being placed in position to support the first floor at the Nadone block, when the heavy three inch flooring, now on the site, can be laid. Waterproofing of the cement foundation walls was begun the past week. At the electric building, the brick walls at the rear have reached a point at the second story, four or five courses of stone are now in place at the south wall of the main building. Zoning Building Inspector Louis J. Rossi has issued the following Westerly building permits during the past week.

Sept. 27. Serafino Celestino, 18 Pearl street. Two car garage, 20 feet by 20 feet on land rear of Alba Inn.

Sept. 28. Nunzia Finzio, Potter hill. Cottage house 20 feet by 36 feet, off State road, south of Potter hill bridge.

Sept. 29 Robert Robar, 73 Cross street. Two-car garage, 20 feet by 20 feet, Cross street.

October 1. Agnes Gavitt, Highland avenue. One-car garage, 12 feet by 18 feet.

October 2. Joseph Capalbo, Quarry road, Bradford, R. I. One-car garage, 18 feet by 20 feet, quarry road.

October 2. Patsy Pelegrino, 36 Pierce street. Cottage house, 24 feet by 32 feet on Lot No. 23, Clark avenue, Pleasant View beach.

NIANTIC

The polls for the town election were open Monday at 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. The new voting machines which the town purchased a few years ago from Binghampton, N. Y., were in use. A few days before the election, Selectman Frederick A. Beckwith gave instruction to a few of the new voters. BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

The End of Danny's Ride

There's nothing Fortune e'er can send,
But soon or late must have an end.
—Old Mother Nature.

Danny Meadow Mouse was having a funny experience. He certainly was. He was hiding in a rubber boot where he knew he had no business to be. The rubber boot was in the bottom of a rowboat and the boat was being rowed up the creek by a man who had been fishing. In the boat were a pail of clams and three or four eels. It was those eels that kept Danny in that boat. Peep the Sandpiper had told Danny that eels were not snakes, but were fish. Peep might be right, but Danny preferred to take no chances. He didn't like like their looks, even if they were not alive.

So Danny stayed in the boat and listened to the gurgling of the water, and wondered what was going to happen next. Even now he didn't understand that he was being taken in the very direction that he wanted to travel. You see, he had only one frightened peep outside the boot. He didn't know anything about boats. He didn't even know he was in a bad fix.

"I get out of here the first chance I get," thought Danny. "I won't waste any time about it. I don't like being so near to one of those two-legged creatures. I'm afraid of them. The only one I'm not afraid of is Farmer Brown's Boy, and I know this isn't Farmer Brown's Boy. I wish those Slippery Slims (he meant the eels) were not there. Just looking at them takes all my strength. Now what's the two-legged creature getting ready to do?"

The two-legged creature was taking his oars in. He had rowed as far as he was going. Danny felt the bow of the boat gently scrape in the mud. The man laid the oars down with such a racket that Danny's heart turned over twice. That is, it felt as if it did. Anyway, the boot was being picked up.

What the man said Danny never knew

Danny, who had been part way up the leg of the boot, tumbled down in to the foot of it. Then something began to come inside that boot. It nearly filled the boot. It was the man's foot, though Danny didn't know that. The man was putting the rubber the rubber boot on.

With a little squeal of terror Danny started up. He met the thing that was coming down into the boat, but he kept right on. It was a bare foot and a bare leg. Danny started up that bare leg. Danny started up that bare leg.

Then things really did happen. Danny heard a wild yell. That boot flew off and overboard with a splash. If Danny had been in the boot still he would have gone overboard with it but he wasn't. He was just about up to the knee of that man's leg. The instant he saw daylight Danny made a frantic jump. So did the man. The man stepped on Slippery Slim. Danny went over one side headfirst toward the bank. He made a very tiny splash. You wouldn't have heard that splash if you had been there, because there was a bigger splash was the man going backward out of the boat on the other side. Slippery Slim the Eel hadn't given him good footing at all. Slippery Slim was well named. So, splash went the man into the water on the other side of the boat.

What the man said Danny never knew. You see, he was so scared that he scrambled up that bank as fast as his legs could take him. He thought he was the most abused Meadow Mouse that ever lived. But he wasn't, for unknown to him he had been given a long, long lift toward home. As for the man—well, never mind what he said.

WAUREGAN SPINNER MAKES THREATS TO CLEAN UP CITY OF NEW LONDON

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 4. — Jere Walsh, a stranger in New London, who recently was employed as a spinner in a mill at Wauregan, was arrested this afternoon by Traffic Officer William Corcoran, charged with intoxication. He will be presented in the police court tomorrow morning. Walsh was in the vicinity of State and Bank streets and suddenly became imbued with a desire to purchase alcohol. He entered a drug company store and attempted to make its purchase, but it was refused him. Walsh then became abusive and demonstrative, resulting in his being ejected. When he reached the street Walsh declared to pedestrians in general that he was going to "clean up" the city. He did not get far with his cleaning up for Officer Corcoran was near at hand and quickly placed Walsh under arrest.

MOTHER OF FOUR CHILDREN PREFERS JAIL TO STATE FARM

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 4.—Where does all the business come from that gets into the police court, is a question that is frequently heard. It is claimed that much of it comes from without the city, but it will be admitted from a study of the place of residence of the accused that New London furnishes a large share of the cases prosecuted. Of late the sailors of the coast guard have been arraigned in court in numbers, because they have been making use of the booze they discovered to be in existence, in violation of the Volstead law. They have drank a lot of what they found and this came under the eyes of the police as intoxicated and offensive in the public eye. There were the usual doze; or more cases before the court when it assembled today, and drunks supplied the major portion of the offenses alleged. The accused in no instance denied that they were not rightly accused for all pleaded guilty. Fines came to most of them, but a few were remanded as of weakness of will power and these were shown a degree of leniency.

One woman was in the group of accused persons she is Gertrude Crandall who the police have designated "The Cat." The woman is the mother of four children, three being with their father who divorced the woman, while a fourth is with a family named Main in Groton. The woman has been the consort of sailors until she attracted the attention of the police and was arrested. Her admissions to the officer showed her shame in marked degree. She has been committed to the state farm for women, but she has been away from there a considerable time. She begged not to be sent back there and asked to be confined in jail instead. She was committed for a period of three months.

Harry F. Holloway of Groton was to have been in court today for embezzlement of a large sum of money from his employers, but his physical condition would not permit his appearance and the case was continued till November.

Carl Albino was charged with impeding the progress of fire apparatus. He was engaged elsewhere today, so the case was continued till tomorrow.

Adam Kupidlewski, driver of a truck that delivers bread to dealers, was charged with reckless operation of a truck in driving along Huntington street at a speed of more than 30 miles an hour. On Federal street he encountered the milk truck of Charles W. Peabody, of Waterford. A collision was barely averted because Adam sheered to the left though he was compelled to go to the left of a street beacon to do that. Police Sergeant Howard witnessed what happened. He ordered Adam to appear for prosecution. Adam denied the speed alleged, but what he said was sufficient to convince the court he was an offender under the law and he was fined $25.

Albert McKenrick of Saybrook was the lone sailor to get a penalty. He was fined $10. Leon L. Morris, a chief petty officer, appeared for operating an auto while he was under the influence of intoxicating liquor. His wife was charged with intoxication and Charles F. McGuire and Frank J. Dondajewski, also sailors were arraigned for intoxication and breach of peace. The parties were having a wild time Saturday when they were arrested, so the cases were interwoven. To get at the facts, all the cases were continued to next Monday and the accused gave bonds in considerable amounts to appear then.

Hormidas Minault was fined $5 for a spree in which he indulged Saturday and Sunday.

One man appeared in court for the first time in two years and a half. He was given the opportunity to lengthen out his period of absence, and will be wise if he takes advantage of his chance.

A small boy residing on John street was struck by an automobile truck owned by the W. R. Perry Ice company and driven by Frank Rothen, Jr., 3 Jennie street, this afternoon on John street. The boy was knocked down, but escaped injury except for minor bruises. The boy's mother was near at hand and took charge of the child, refusing to reveal his or her name.

Letitia Gardner has sold a building lot on Ocean avenue to William Porter.

James H. Clarkin, Hartford, has sold two buildings lots on Thames street to the Minucci Brothers' Building and Realty company, Inc.

Joseph A. St. Germain has sold a house and lot on Montauk avenue to Thomas C. Montgomery.

Miss Lillian Stiegel, 133 Squire street and Edward Murphy, 89 Harrison street, patients at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital, were discharged over the week end.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel today ordered the drivers' licenses of William F. Driscoll, 37 Home street; Alvin T. Pukhaus, 56 Lewis street, and Walter R. Radicioni, 48 Goshen street, returned to the owners. The licenses were suspended two weeks ago for violations of the motor vehicle law.

A Dodge automobile owned by John Ackley of Poquonoc, was stolen from its place of parking on Bank street last night. Ackley came to New London with a friend and left the auto beside the curb while they attended a motion picture performance. When he returned to where he had left the auto he discovered that it had been stolen. The police of Norwich, Westerly, Hartford and New Haven and the state police at Groton and Centerbrook were requested to be on the lookout for the automobile.

Mrs. Benjamin Bloomer, 21 Morgan street, made complaint to the police this morning that Mrs. Joseph Martin, 27 Morgan street, had been calling the former vile names. Sergeant John Cavanaugh was assigned to the complaint and it is believed that the verbal combats of the women have ended.

Miss Jessie Ockford, 35 Cleveland street, made complaint to the police this morning that youths in returning home from school daily annoy her by trampling upon her lawn and damaging her garden. Miss Ockford also stated that the boys were guilty of vile language. The complaint was turned over to Superintendent of Schools Warren B. Hanson.

W. C. FOX AGAIN MAYOR RE-ELECTED BY COUNCIL

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 4.—William C. Fox is to be the mayor of New London during the year to come, as he has been in the year that has just passed. He was chosen this evening, at a meeting of the council, on the second ballot. The meeting opened at 8 o'clock and got right down to business. At the start Councilor Murray asked for an informal ballot for the election of a presiding officer and it followed with Councilor Streeter getting three of the ballots cast, Mayor Fox received three and Councilor Murray got one vote. Mr. Murray thanked the member who voted for him, but he announced that he was not a candidate for the office and did not want to be considered a candidate. He moved for a formal ballot on which Mayor Fox received four votes and Councilor Streeter got three. The ballot was made unanimous and Mayor Fox was declared elected. He expressed his gratification for the honor and asked that all councilors work together during the year for the interests of the city. There were more than the usual number of applications for building permits presented to the council, though they were nearly all for garage construction, though a few cottages are contemplated. The permits requested were all granted.

The Raymond-Alexander company was awarded a contract for tile pipe at a cost, estimated at $437.33. A contract for 2,000 feet of brass pipe was awarded to the Hungerford company at an estimated cost of $579.01.

The director of finance was authorized to borrow such sums of money as were needed to meet current expenses, until such time as taxes are paid. Councilor Streeter urged that no purchases be made and that the expenditures be for only necessary purposes. Mayor Fox recommended that the council meet as soon as possible that the appropriations may be decided upon.

The finance committee was authorized to ask for bids for the services of accountants, to make an audit of the city's books.

Councilor Streeter presented a petition from taxpayers on Grove street and Terrace avenue for the improvement of the highway there and for the provision of gutters that will make the streets safe. He said the streets were in deplorable condition at present and that they were a menace to all who travelled them with autos. The petition was referred to the city manager for report.

An electric business sign was asked for on Bank street, the use of a couple of feet on the same street for the display of goods was sought and the removal of a dead tree from in front petitioned for. These requests were referred to the city manager with power to grant or deny them.

Beulah lodge installed officers this evening. This is the N. E. O. P. lodge of the city.

The local branch of the Connecticut Council of Catholic Women held its first open meeting of the year at the diocesan bureau in Jay street the past week. The following officers were elected: President, Mrs. Thomas Durivan; first vice president, Mrs. Clarence A. Carr; second, Mrs. Frank E. G. Douglas; chairman of social activities, Mrs. Alice Savage; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Francis O'Hara; financial secretary, Miss Marion Corcoran. The council has planned an active winter and outlined several projects including a course of six lectures to be given at the bureau before Christmas, a children's hour of movies once a week between 4.45 and 5.45 p. m. in the basement of the bureau, and a class in home nursing.

An automobile truck owned by the City Coal company and driven by Timothy J. Murphy, 374 Connecticut avenue and a Connecticut company trolley car collided this afternoon on Bank street, near Lane A. The motor vehicle suffered the greater damage.

A manhole cover was discovered broken and likely to cause damage on Chapel street this evening. The danger spot was reported by to the police and George E. Watters, superintendent of the city's water and sewer system was notified. The spot was made safe for the night.

Harold Staplins was arrested this afternoon at the request of Probation Officer Richard W. Mansfield, who charged the young man with having stolen a flashlight from the hardware store of S. Grushkin, 615 Bank street.

City Manager William A. Holt has returned from his annual vacation of two weeks and today resumed his duties at the municipal building.

Elmer Ellsworth Goss, 65, of 32 Blackhall street, died this morning at Home Memorial hospital, where he had been a patient about three weeks, following a shock. He is survived by two brothers, George A. and Charles H. Goss and by two sisters, Miss Margaret E. Goss and Mrs. Annie McD. Jordan, with whom he resided. Mr. Goss was a tinsmith by occupation and was a member of the Huntington street Baptist church and the Christian Endeavor society of that church.

Charles Edward Warren, 73, formerly of Brooklyn, N. Y., died last night at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. Henry B. Plant, Eastern Point. He is survived, besides Mrs. Plant, by three daughters, Mrs. William G. Goodwin, Mrs. Henry B. Hart and Miss Helen L. Warren. Mr. Warren had not been in sound health for a year and for nine months he had been residing with his daughter at Eastern Point and during the greater part of which time he had been under the care of a physician.

Lloyd L. Brown, son of Mrs. Gertrude Brown, and Miss Edith M. Gurney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Josiah H. Gurney, were married Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the Montauk avenue Baptist church by Rev. Horatio J. Chase, pastor of the church. Ralph L. Gurney, Bayshore, L. I., brother of the bride, was best man and Miss Maude E. Reeder, New Haven, was maid of honor. The other attendants were Miss Dorothy L. Green, New Haven, and Mrs. Robert H. Baum, this city. Mr. and Mrs. Brown are now on a wedding trip and upon their return to New London will reside at 272 Willetts avenue.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Breed Theater

Rex Ingram and Blasco Ibanez, director and author of Mare Nostrum (Our Sea), which is the feature attraction at the Breed theatre, are one famous director-author combination who are great personal friends. They met for the first time after Ingram made the motion picture version of The Four Horseman of the Apocalypse one of Ibanez' greatest stories. They had an opportunity to renew their friendship while Ingram was abroad filming Mare Nostrum for Metro-Goldwyn.

Alice Terry and Antonio Moreno share honors with Ingram and Ibanez in the success of Mare Nostrum. In the featured parts of this picture they give the most delightful and convincing performance that have ever been witnessed on the screen.

Palace Theater

Tonight for one night only the Palace will present on the stage an all new Beauty Review. Among the young ladies appearing will be several from the recent beauty contest at Atlantic City and each one will contribute a song or dance to the entertainment. The beauty show presented on Tuesday evening of last week proved most enjoyable and tonight's review is expected to be even better. On the screen will be an entirely new double feature program with Monte Blue in his latest production, Across The Pacific and Dorothy Devore in The Gilded Highway. With a corking new comedy entitled George the Winner. The double feature policy of the Palace started on Sunday night last has proved tremendously popular with Norwich theater goers as evidenced by the largest audiences the theater has held since the opening of the season, programs are changed every Tuesday, Thursday and Sunday. On Thursday Milton Sills is coming in Men or Steel one of the truly big sensations in screen history. A picture play acknowledged by both press and public as one of the finest of which the motion picture world can boast, the star is supported by Doris Kenyon and 149 of the most popular players of the day. Men of Steel is a wonderful production and one that lovers of the motion pictures cannot afford to miss seeing. Put Men of Steel on your list for the last half of this week. Baseball returns will be received this afternoon by radio from the World Series game at St. Louis.

Broadway Theater

Vaudeville came back to the Broadway theater yesterday to make everyone happy and delighted for having seen it.

There are five Keith-Albee acts of very good and high standing in the profession.

Fleet express moods if one is to judge the opening act with Murphy and Bradley. They are two fine artistic novelty dancers.

Bruce and Myers offered a comedy skit that has a song or two making for splendid entertainment throughout.

Jack Conway offered a 100 per cent proof farce called in the Cellar which has to do with the new use cellars have been put to since the passage of the 18th amendment. Mr. Conway and his company of three get out all the fun that is found in this particular cellar.

A session with Mike is offered by Mel Craig, a mimic of what who knows the value of comedy.

Perfect harmony in some extraordinary entertainment is offered by Anne Fuller, prima donna and Al Striker, premier contortionist.

Two worldly schemers and two unsophisticated youngsters of blueblood New England stock provide the characters for an exciting society melodrama. The Unfair Sex, which is at the Broadway theater now. The former two attempt to prey upon the latter's wealth, and the manner in which they are frustrated provides a thrilling climax. The story is by Eugene Walter.

Broadway Theater

Whenever the announcement comes that Douglas Fairbanks has done another motion picture, the question is immediately asked, "What is it this time?"

Fairbanks, through his pioneering work on the screen, is looked to for cinematic innovations. His leadership in the production field is undisputed, due to his record of past achievements. The films with which he has commanded much attention are—his Robin Hood, his The Thief of Bagdad, Don Q and others.

Now he comes forth again with another very speedy adventure story in color. It is The Black Pirate, a story of 17th century piracy.

"Who can think of a pirate story and not think of color?" Doug asked when questioned as to why he had made his decision. "The days of the pirates constitute perhaps the most colorful period of history, a fact lending itself naturally to color treatment."

The locale of the story is in Tropical seas. In the beginning, the star is not a pirate. In fact, he becomes a pirate through force of circumstances. The story deals with his innumerable adventures in avenging the death of his father who dies as the result of hardships inflicted by sea rovers. There is a lively girl to be rescued, for which role Billie Dove was selected, and in the end she succumbs to a Fairbanksian wooing with much delicacy and grace. The story resounds with the clash of cutlasses, and carries with it the whine of the wind and the swing of the sea.

The cast was selected with usual Fairbanks care, every attention being devoted to the types. There are only two women in the piece, Billie Dove and Tempt Pigott. Among the men, whose histrionic ability ranks high, are Anders Randolf as the pirate Captain, Donald Crisp as a one-armed pirate, San De Grasse as a sinister second mate, Charles Stevens, Clarice Belcher, Al MacQuarrie and others. The pirate crew is made up of expigilists, wrestlers, cow-punchers, and others whose fearsome faces might well strike terror to the heart of any law-abiding voyager.

The Black Pirate will be shown first in this city as a United Artists release at the Broadway with an elaborate presentation, which opens here next Sunday, coming here direct from a run of six months in New York city.

Miss Perkins Resumes Teaching

Miss Helen L. Perkins, teacher of singing, has resumed vocal instruction at her studio in the Alice building and will be happy to make appointments with singers who wish to consult her in regard to study. As an understanding of correct breathing, tone placement and diction are very essential to the right rendition of song, Miss Perkins gives a thorough technical foundation, as is demonstrated in the successful work of many of her pupils.

AUCTIONS

AUCTION NOTICE

By Witter Bros., Auctioneers, Office 42 Main St., Danielson, Conn. Highly important two day auction sale at the residence of the late Mrs. A. Monica Hull, located on the Village Green at Woodstock Hill, Conn., on Monday and Tuesday, Oct. 11 and 12, starting at 10 o'clock A. M. each day, of a highly desirable and valuable collection of antique and modern furniture representing the contents of a cultured home of 11 rooms.

The real estate pleasantly located on the Village Green at Woodstock Hill, Conn., will be offered for sale at 1 o'clock, P. M., as described. An attractive 2 1-2 story house of 11 rooms, closets and hallways, large veranda, steam heat, excellent well of water piped to the house, cistern pump, etc., together with a fine barn standing on a plot of ground 80x319 feet will be sacrificed under the following liberal conditions. A mortgage of 50% of the purchase price will be accepted by the present owner if the purchaser should so desire. A deposit of $100 in cash will be required at time of sale and the remaining one-half of the purchase price must be paid upon the delivery of the deed within 45 hours of the termination of the sale. Catalogues are now ready for distribution. If stormy on either of the dates set for the sale it will be postponed to the first fair day after. The lunch will be first class. Sale by order of E. C. Berrian, Salida, Colorado.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

MARKETS AT A GLANCE
New York

Stocks lower; Atlantic Coast Line breaks sharply.

Bonds steady; German issues lead; foreign bonds higher.

Foreign exchanges firm; French francs advance.

Cotton easy; bearish private crop estimates.

Sugar barely steady; commission house selling.

Coffee lower; increased crop estimates.

Chicago

Wheat lower; predictions clear weather northwest.

Corn easy; large stocks.

Cattle; steady.

Hogs; firm.

MARKET CLOSED WEAK.

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—(By The A. P.) Acute weakness developed in today's stock market after an early period of strength. In the absence of any adverse news developments, the selling was attributed to the further decline in the price of raw cotton which is now selling at prices so low as to cause some uneasiness over a possible change in economic conditions in the south. Final quotations, which were around the lowest of the day, disclosed a long list of net declines ranging from 1 to 10 points.

Despite the sharp deficit in reserve in last Saturday's clearing house statement, money was in abundant supply. Call loans renewed at 5 1-2 per cent., and then dropped to 5. After the market closed, the New York Federal Reserve bank reported an increase of slightly more than $50,000,000 in brokers' loans for the week ended last Wednesday.

The day's business news was largely constructive in character, in included the publication of a series of favorable industrial and railroad earnings statements, an increase of 50 cents a ton in pig iron prices in the Pittsburgh district, and an increase in the Miami Copper dividend. Directors of the American Smelting Company meet for dividend action tomorrow and are expected to place the stock on an $8 annual basis.

U. S. Steel common and General Motors, two of the leaders selected by operators for the rise last week, were among the hardest hit. Steel broke from 153 1-4 to 147 5-8 and then rallied to 148 1-4 for a net loss of 4 7-8 points on the day, while General Motors showed a net decline of 4 1-8 points. Among the many other issues to fall back 3 points or more, fere Allied Chemical, American Express, Consolidated Gas, Coca Cola, DuPont, Foundation Co., General Asphalt, Manhattan Electrical Supply, Pullman, South Porto Rican Sugar, Westinghouse Air Brake and Woolworth.

Continental Baking A broke nearly 5 points to a new 1926 low at 66 5-4. Pan American, Western Pand Maracaibo Oils also sank to new low levels, selling of the oils being accentuated by reports that other companies would follow the lead of Mariand in stock financing this fall and winter.

Atlantic Coast Line broke 10 points to 207 on selling inspired by the belief that the road would be the hardest hit as a result of the sharp drop in cotton. Southern Railway yielded over 2 points on unconfirmed rumor that an additional issue of common stock would be authorized at the next meeting of directors. Early gains in the Van Sweringen issues failed to hold and they all closed lower on the day.

There were a few strong spots scattered throughout the list. May Department Stores was bid up nearly 5 points in anticipation of an early stock dividend. Warner Pictures declined further on confirmation of reports that negotiations were pending for the use of its Vitaphone device in theatres controlled by Famous Players-International. Harvester touched a new high at 138 1-2 and then broke to 133 1-4 for a net loss of over 3 points on the day.

Time money and commercial paper were unchanged.

Commodity prices were weak, cotton was hammered down to the lowest levels in years, the December option getting below 12 cents, but moderate buying support made its appearance and the market closed only 26 to 24 points net lower. Wheat yielded 1 1-2 to nearly 2 cents a bushel on expectations of better weather and larger deliveries. The sugar and coffee market showed little change.

Except for a break of 10 points in Spanish pesetas, nearly half of which was later recovered, the foreign exchanges need fairly steady. Demand sterling was firm around $4 84 3-4 and French francs were well supported just above 3.80 cents.

TAFTVILLE

Rally day was observed Sunday at the Taftville Congregational church school. There was a large attendance. The speaker was Edwin Hill, secretary of the Norwich Y. M. C. A., who imparted a valuable and interesting message to the pupils, teachers and officers of the school. The Young People's society of Christian Endeavor held its meeting Sunday evening in the vestry of the church. Mrs. Eugene N. Monty was the leader and the topic discussed was Education.

A gathering of 75 witnessed the installation of the newly elected officers of Ponemah council, No. 34, Knights of Columbus at Paris hall Sunday afternoon, by District Deputy John E. Hennon of Jewett City, assisted by D. J. Welch of Occum. The officers installed were Grand Knight John J. Daley; Deputy grand knight William T. Delaney; chancellor William Smith; recording secretary James Hanlon; financial secretary Edward V. Murphy; treasurer Peter N. Lafleur; advocate Armand Fontaine; lecturer David W. O'Brien; trustee John H. Murphy; outside guard Arthur Allard and inside guard James Nolan. Remarks were made by Grand Knight Daley, District Deputy Hennon, and Rev. John B. Malley, one of the assistant pastors of Sacred Heart church.

After the installation ceremonies, the members sat down to a delicious dinner of chicken patties, rolls, celery, apple pie a la mode, coffee and cigars. Nagle catered.

John Wohlleben has returned to his home in Flushing, N. Y., after spending several days in town.

Rev. Henri F. Chagnon has been a recent guest of relatives in Brockton, Mass.

Joseph Kershaw of the Ponemah house left Saturday to spend two weeks in Canada.

Because of the bad weather, the corn roast and scout work exhibition which was to have been given on Ponemah heights by the members of Troop 3, Boy Scouts, Saturday afternoon, had to be postponed.

Mr. and Mrs. Odilon Jarry of New Bedford were week-end guests at the home of Mr. Jary's sister, Mrs. Matilda Caron and family of North B street.

Clarence J. Nagle of the Ponemah house attended the Brockton fair Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel McSheffery of Hartford have been guests of Mr. Mc Sheffery's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Mc Sheffery of South A street.

Henry J. Caron of North Fourth avenue had returned to work after enjoying a vacation of three weeks.

Oscar Tetreault of North Third avenue is unable to work because of a bad cut on the hand.

Miss Ida Marcaurtle of New Haven has been the guest of her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mathieu and family of Prattz avenue.

The funeral of Yvonne Phoebe Adams, youngest daughter of Edmund and Phoebe Bouchet Adams of South A street was held Monday at Sacred Heart church at 2:30 p. m. Rev. E. O. Ballerose, the pastor, officiating. The bearers were Adelard Adams, Harold Cochran, Omer Gagnon and Archille Paquette. Burial was in the family lot in Sacred Heart cemetery on the Canterbury turnpike. Undertaker George G. Grant was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

SEVERAL DAMAGE CLAIMS ARE PRESENTED AGAINST THE CITY

Claims for a broken automobile spring, for damage by water and sewerage in a millinery store, and for damage by water and encroachment on private property were among the business matters to come before the October meeting of the common council Monday evening, which was held after a recess had been taken to allow the council members to attend the annual town meeting in the town hall.

The council meeting convened again at 9:20 with Mayor Milo R. Waters presiding.

The sum of $750 was voted to aid in the parade expenses on Armistice day on a petition from E. C. Dunbar and others.

A petition of Mrs. Edna L. Fowler for removal of two trees at 120 Broad street and one for removal of a tree at 20-24 Connell street were referred to the public works committee with power.

Reference to the police commissioners with power was the action taken on the petition of A. F. Wyman for an electric light on Court street and the petition of Francis Gretula for an electric light on Russell road near No. 24.

The petition of A. H. Williams and others for the acceptance of Francis place as a public street was referred to the public works committee.

The petition of Carmena and Lena Chinquograno for permission to connect lots on Greeneville Heights with the public sewer in Pratt street was presented and was granted on recommendation of the public work committee.

A. V. Covello and others residing on North Main street, petitioned for the city to take into consideration the matter of widening North Main street at its southerly end so that a sidewalk could be put in on the northerly side of the street. The petition was referred to the public works committee for investigation.

The council voted its approval to the action of the water commissioners in authorizing the water board president, Frank H. Quinley, to sign a contract with Palmer Bros. of New London for pipe right and supplying water to Palmer Bros. for the sum of $11,000 in full for all claims on account of diversion of water in the building of the Deep River reservoir. The treasurer is also authorized to pay $1,028.43 at once as part of the consideration.

Councilman Quinley remarked that he would be glad to have the public know that the water board had now secured all the water rights except the three smallest for a total of $67,000. This is gratifying in view of the fact that predictions had been made that water rights could not be secured for less than $200,000 to $500,000.

A quit claim deed from Edith G. Talbot for a strip of land for highway purposes in Francis place was presented and accepted and a petition from Mrs. George Matthews for a bug light on Hammond avenue was granted.

An invitation from the Armistice day committee to participate in the parade was accepted.

Broken Automobile Spring

John T. Barry gave notice of a claim for $31 for a rear spring on his automobile broken in front of the Buckingham Memorial on Sept. 12. Councilman W. H. Aldrich moved that in future all claims for broken automobile springs be thrown out, but the council voted to refer the claim to the finance committee on suggestion of Alderman Henry Gebrath after Mayor Waters had remarked that personally he was very much in favor of Councilman Aldrich's motion.

The claim of Mary E. Dawson of 12 Cliff street was referred to the corporation counsel and finance committee. She claimed $200 damage by water and sewerage that came into her millinery store from a public drain on Aug. 12 and 13.

Claim On Beech Drive

Dr. Frank C. Atchison of Beech drive presented a claim and threatened to take necessary steps to collect it on account of a culvert built on Beech drive which had caused a natural brook to overflow onto his land. He also claimed that fences which had been erected had been allowed to get into bad repair so that his land was left open to the public and he claimed that a wire fence that had been erected had wrongfully taken about a quarter of an acre of his land.

The matter was referred to the park commissioners and the corporation counsel.

Re-appointed On Commission

Mayor Waters announced the reappointment of Mrs. Betty Pasnik to succeed herself on the recreation commission for a term of seven years from Oct. 1.

Upon a written recommendation from City Attorney Lee Roy Robbins that there was no ordinance providing for penalty for violation of rules of the park commission, such an ordinance was presented fixing the penalty at a fine not to exceed $50.

Action of the proposed ordinance was postponed to the next meeting to allow for publication.

Councilman Quinley presented an invitation for the common council to accompany the water commissioners on an inspection visit to the Deep River reservoir on Saturday, Oct. 23. The invitation was accepted.

The council adjourned at 9:55 after approving the following department bills:

Park department	$ 662.40
Recreation commission	271.02
Deep River reservoir	57,291.91
Water department	6,731.30
Gas and electric department	60,804.52
Finance department	9,036.55
Police department	6,085.58
Street lighting	2,548.14
Fire department	7,112.73
Cemetery department	992.78
Public works department	24,358.34

SUSPENDED SENTENCE IS GIVEN TO WIFE BEATER

Ludwig Zulinski of No. 49 Second street, was in the city court Monday for the second time within a week. The charge was the same, of smashing up the furniture in his home. The attack followed his attendance at a christening.

In court he agreed to pay his wife $15 a week out of his weekly wages of $25. He was given a suspended jail sentence of 10 days. A Forest street man who brazenly informed Officer John O'Neil that the latter couldn't take him to the police station when he was being arrested for breach of the peace, appeared in court in spite of his boast. He paid $3 for the disturbance he created, the charge being nolled on payment of that sum.

Felix Benoit of Mansfield was presented on a charge of operating while under the influence of liquor. His case was continued until October 13.

Peter Driscoll, of Yantic, paid $5 for running a machine with one headlight, and for failing to stop after Police Officer Peter Yuono had blown his whistle. A half dozen other men paid fines for intoxication.

New Building Extends Sheltering Arms Work

The Sheltering Arms, an important branch of the United Workers, is endeavoring to extend its work, since moving into the new home. A wing has been built exclusively for men, also several double rooms for aged couples.

As soon as possible the building will be open for public inspection, due notice of which will be given in the daily papers. Meanwhile friends are always welcome at any time. Visit the new home, and see all the brightness, the beauty and comfort that have been brought into the lives of these people in their declining years.

The calling of the district visitors has already started and it is hoped that everyone will welcome these calls and be willing to share in the responsibility of carrying on the departments of the United Workers, any one of which is indispensable to the town and costs more to run than the town has given for some years towards the running of the whole work of the United Workers.

Nothing pleases a woman more than the little attentions her husband shows her when other women are around.

WILL SPEAK BEFORE CONGREGATIONAL WOMEN

The semi-annual meeting of the Woman's Congregational Home Missionary Union of Connecticut, Eastern District, is to be held in Willimantic on October 14, Mrs. Allen Latham of Norwich presiding. One of the prominent speakers will be Mrs. Franklin Warner, president of the Woman's Board of Foreign Mission. Mrs. Warner has been corresponding secretary of the Congregational Woman's Home Missionary Federation, a member of the executive committee of the extension boards. She is now on the executive committee of the National Council, associate secretary of the committee on missions and vice chairman of the Interdenominational Council of Foreign Missions Boards of the United States and Canada. She will deliver an address at the Congregational Home Mission Federated annual meeting. This meeting will be of unusual significance as at this time the work of this national organization will be merged with that of the other homeland boards. She addressed the autumn meeting of Fairfield county auxiliaries, New Haven branch of the W. B. M. and Western Connecticut auxiliaries at Stratford September 30th.

LEADS BONDING COMPANY TO NOTABLE RECORD

The last issue of the Commercial Reportdr, a New York publication, contains the following item which will be of local interest:

"Business advances that take place over a period usually marked by improvement attract only casual attention from the people that they concern immediately. When such progress takes place in a usually dull period, however, the business world in general takes notice and congratulates the managers of the improving business.

"In the report of President T. J. Falvey of the Massachusetts Bonding and Insurance company, on business for the first six months of 1925, there is seen the result of managerial ability of a high type. Coupling judgment on investments with thorough knowledge of the times and markets, this company has reached out to secure net earnings "after a substantial addition to reserves above the legal requirements exceeding the annual $12 dividend on the increased $3,000,000 capital stock." This, the report adds, is without giving any credit for the appreciation in market values since January first on securities held.

"This gain, it is noted by business calculators, is over the time of year when such commerce is not particularly flourishing. Mr. Falvey and his organization are being congratulated and insurance circles on the attainment of this excellent goal."

Mr. Falvey is a former Norwich resident and although he has made his home in Boston for the past 25 years, he is still an occasional visitor to Norwich and retains a keen interest in the affairs of the city in which he spent his earlier years.

OCTOBER SALES CONTEST IN BOSTON STORE

A sales contest to continue through October has been started in the Boston store in which the employes in the 29 departments will vie with each other for individual prizes and for prizes for their departments.

Department quotas have been set, based on an increase over last year's figures. The three leading departments which makes the greatest percentage of gain over their quotas will be given awards. Every person in the winning department will receive a day and a half additional pay; the second prize will be a day's additional pay for everyone in the department, and the third prize will be a half of a day's pay for each one in the department.

Nelson E. Church of the Boston store, who is quite an artist has represented this contest very cleverly on a large painting which is displayed in the Shannon building of the store. The scene represents the country and the individual aeroplanes the different departments. Every day the planes will be changed according to the percentages that the department has of it's quota. This scene is not only most interesting to the employes of the store, but is attracting considerable interest and comment from the customers of the store.

First Birthday Party

Little Thomas Falley, Jr., entertained a few of his friends and relatives Monday afternoon, in honor of his first birthday at his home, No. 490 Main street.

Games and music were enjoyed, the prizes going to Betty Krause, Ruth and Krause; Betty Falley and Marjorie Krause.

The dining room was prettily decorated, blue and white being the color scheme. The little guests assembled at the table, where each received a basket of candy; cookies, cake, lemonade, candy and fruit were served.

The little host received a number of pretty and useful presents. The guests were Mrs. Eric Krause and children, Marjorie, Betty, Eric, Richard and Dorothy Ruth; Mrs. P. Lockwood and children, Richard and Stanley, Mrs. William Gardner and daughter, Ethel; Mrs. Joseph Boiselle and children, Marion and Bessie, Joseph and Beatrice Pedace, Learned Balman, Melvena Gross, Mrs. T. J. Talley and children, Mabel, Betty and Junior.

Invitations have been received in Central Village to the Farnsworth-Schneiderwind wedding which takes place at Montclair, N. J., early this month. Mr. Schneiderwind made many friends while he was employed at Central Village by the Farnsworth Co. The bride is Miss Helen Farnsworth, daughter of Daniel Farnsworth.

F. H. PULLEN AT HOME WITH HEALTH IMPROVED

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 4—(AP)—Frank H. Pullen publisher of the Norwich Record, who was in New Haven hospital for several weeks, where he underwent an operation, went to his home this afternoon, his convalescence having progressed so satisfactorily that his removal was considered unlikely to cause a set-back. Mr. Pullen appeared to be in better health than for a considerable period. It was his first hospital experience and his first serious illness.

FUNERALS

Miss Catherine Murphy

At 8:20 o'clock Monday morning the funeral of Miss Catherine Murphy was held from her home, No. 32 Sherman street, and at 9 o'clock there was a solemn high mass in St. Patrick's church. Rev. John J. Reilly was celebrant, Rev. Myles P. Galvin, deacon, and Rt. Rev. Msgr. M. H. May the sub-deacon. Henry J. LaFontaine presided at the organ and Roderick F. Sullivan sang De Profundis at the offertory. He sang Jesus, Lover of My Soul as the waiting hymn and at the recessional Mr. LaFontaine sang Lead, Kindly Light. Burial took place in St. Joseph's cemetery, Rt. Rev. Msgr. M. H. May conducting the committal service.

The bearers were Dennis J. Brennan, Daniel McCarthy, James H. Maloney, Timothy Leary, all of this city, Thomas Shea of New London, and Mortimer Murphy of Quincy, Mass. Many relatives and friends were present, including mourners from Quincy, Mass., Worcester, Mass., Hartford, New London and Westerly. There were numerous floral tributes. Hourigan Bros. had charge of the funeral arrangements.

Mrs. George F. Blackmar

The funeral of Mrs. George F. Blackmar, well known former school teacher in the public schools of Norwich, was held Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock at her home, No. 214 Broadway. There was a large attendance of relatives and friends and there was a wealth of very beautiful floral tributes.

Rev. Samuel H. Howe, D. D., pastor, of Park Congregational church, conducted the funeral service and burial took place in the family plot in Yantic cemetery. The bearers were George L. Ingalls, William H. Collins, Charles A. Sexton and Tyler D. Gay. Undertaker C. A. Gager had charge of the funeral arrangements.

Burrill W. Lathrop

With an attendance that included relatives and friends from Worcester, Hartford, Meriden, New London, Norwich and other places, funeral services for Burrill William Lathrop were held Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock, at his home, 86 Town street, Norwich Town. Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey, pastor of the First Congregational church conducted the services. There were beautiful floral emblems.

Burial was in the family plot in Yantic cemetery, where the committal service was read by Rev. Mr. Bailey. The bearers were: Luther Fenton, Frank Avery, Clyde M. Beebe and Edward Norris.

Church & Allen were in charge of the funeral arrangements.

If a man owes anything to himself, he is likely to settle promptly.

Piles Disappear

No Cutting or Salves Needed

External treatments seldom cure Piles.

Nor do surgical operations.

The cause is inside—bad circulation.

The blood is stagnant, the veins flabby.

The bowel walls are weak, the parts almost dead.

To quickly and safely rid yourself of piles you must free the circulation—send a fresh current through stagnant pools. Internal treatment is the one safe method. Ointments and cutting won't do it.

J. S. Leonhardt, M. D., a specialist, set at work some years ago to find a real internal remedy for piles. He succeeded. He named his prescription HEM-ROID, and tried it in 1000 cases before he was satisfied. Now HEM-ROID is sold by druggists everywhere under guarantee. It is a harmless tablet, easy to take, and can always be found at Lee & Osgood Co., who will gladly refund the purchase price to any dissatisfied customer.

CORONER HELD INQUEST ON DEATH AT BALTIC

An inquest into the death of Anthony Wisneski of Willimantic, who was struck by a Norwich-bound Willimantic car Sunday night, dying an hour and a half later, was held Monday morning by Coroner Jeremiah J. Desmond. Wisneski, it is said, visited his daughter Sunday at her home on the Baltic road. Shortly after 10 o'clock Theodore Benson and Alex Walmsley of Occum, driving a Ford machine, saw Wisneski lying across the trolley rails. They, instead of pulling him off the rails, tried to intercept the oncoming trolley.

Medical Examiner C. C. Glidersleeve gave a verdict of death due to fractured skull, fractured ribs, fractured leg and other injuries. Undertakers Shea and Burke took charge of the body.

Mr. Wisneski was 45 years of age. He is survived byb three daughters, Mrs. John Miller, Mrs. Benjamin Padjeski and Miss Alice Wisneski of Norwich; four sons, Anthony Wisneski of Detroit, John of Norwich, Joseph and Michael of Franklin, and is also survived by his wife. He was a native of Poland. Mrs. Wisneski lived on a farm on the Franklin road.

FORECLOSURE ASKED WITH RECEIVERSHIP APPOINTMENT

Foreclosure of a mortgage, for $2,000 and the appointment of a temporary receiver to care for the property are sought in a suit brought in the superior court by The General Financing Co., N. J., against Francis M. Westgate of Groton, who it is claimed left for parts unknown and there is no one in charge of the premises to collect the rents from the four furnished apartments and two garages. The property is on Smith street, Groton, and should yield a monthly rental of $110, it is claimed.

The plaintiff claims that the defendant has defaulted on two instalments on the mortgage, $40 on Aug. 10 and $50 on Sept. 10, 1926, as well as the interest for six months, from Sept. 10, 1926 amounting to $45.60. The mortgage for $2,000 was given on Aug. 10, 1925 and the Mariners Savings bank of New London has a first mortgage on the premises for $6,000.

Sour Stomach

"Phillips Milk of Magnesia"

Better than Soda

Instead of soda hereafter take a little "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" in water any time for indigestion or sour acid, gassy stomach, and relief will come instantly.

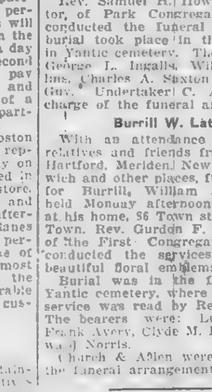
For fifty years genuine "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" has been prescribed by physicians because it overcomes three times as much acid in the stomach as a saturated solution of bicarbonate of soda, leaving the stomach sweet and free from all gases. It neutralizes acid fermentations in the bowels and gently urges the sour, waste from the system without purging. Besides, it is more pleasant to take than soda. Insist upon "Phillips." Twenty-five cent bottles, at druggists. "Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Co., and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.

IT NEVER FAILS

Ask any user her reasons for selecting Rumford. One will probably be its reliability, another its uniformity and a third its economy. Rumford is made from the purest ingredients, scientifically combined to give perfect baking results.

And remember, with Rumford, you have more than merely a baking powder that produces cakes, biscuits, muffins, etc., of that fineness of texture, flavor and appearance sought for by all good housewives.

It is the baking powder that adds the nutritious phosphates of which fine white flour has been partially deprived in the process of milling and is the only type of baking powder possessing this nutritious feature.



The best that science can produce

DETROIT CHURCH PULPITS CLOSED TO LABOR LEADERS

The Detroit Ministerial Association, the Federal Council of Churches of Christ and the Y. M. C. A. Have Rescinded Invitations—President William Green of the A. F. of L. Expressed Surprise at the Cancellation of Invitations and Declared Such Action Was the Result of Interference of the Detroit Chamber of Commerce and Building Trades Association.

DETROIT, Oct. 5—(AP)—William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, took cognizance tonight, in a formal public statement, of advices that the Detroit Ministerial association, the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America, and the Y. M. C. A. had rescinded invitations to labor leaders to fill Detroit pulpits next Sunday.

Mr. Green's statement said the invitations had been cancelled "through the influence of the Detroit chamber of commerce and building trades association."

He expressed surprise that the usual custom of having labor representatives speak in the churches during the annual convention of the federation had been abandoned by the city, which he now host to the forty sixth annual gathering.

"It is difficult to believe that the churches in the city of Detroit would yield to such sinister influences," the statement said.

The labor convention was stirred in a two-hour session today by rumors that the militant tone of President Green's remarks in his keynote address to the initial session yesterday. In which he devoted some time to a discussion on the particular problems of organized labor in Detroit, had led to vigorous protest to the religious bodies against the plan to arrange speaking engagements for prominent convention figures in various pulpits throughout the city.

During the afternoon recess, provided to permit meetings of the several standing committees of the convention, members of the executive council cavassed the situation informally with a view to shaping their pains for other engagements.

Mr. Green prefaced his formal statement with the assertion that although he received no word from Y. M. C. A. officers that an invitation to himself to address a "progressive men's mass meeting" under auspices of the "Y" Sunday afternoon, had been withdrawn, members of his staff have been informed by the secretary who had extended the invitation that it was uncertain whether the meeting would be held.

A committee representing the Y. M. C. A., the secretary said, had been appointed to confer with President Green. No meeting had been arranged up to the hour of the latter's statement.

Dr. A. G. Studer, general secretary of the Detroit Y. M. C. A. told newspapermen he had no knowledge of action by the association's board of directors yesterday at a meeting in which the invitation to Mr. Green was under discussion.

L. M. Terrill, executive secretary under Mr. Studer, said that although he had issued the invitation several weeks ago, and Mr. Green had accepted, he was not in a position to say that the meeting would be held. Neither could we affirm that the invitation had been revoked.

Herbert B. Wallace, Detroit banker and manufacturer and vice president of the board of directors, said the position of the Y. M. C. A. would be defined as soon as an apparent misunderstanding in the matter could be clarified.

Rev. Morton C. Pearson, executive secretary of the Ministerial association, said that no formal action had been taken by the recent meeting of the board; that if churches had recalled their invitations, it was upon their own initiative.

James Myers, field secretary of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America, said speakers from the various welfare departments of his organization would be in Detroit Sunday to fill pulpit engagements. In previous years, he added, he had arranged engagements for the labor leaders.

"For many years," President Green's statement said, "it has been customary for representatives of labor to accept invitations to deliver address in churches in the different cities in which the conventions of the American Federation of Labor have been held. These invitations were extended by the ministerial associations through the official representatives of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America.

"In accordance with this custom, James Myers, secretary of the federal council, extended an invitation to the president of the American Federation of Labor, and to other representatives of organized labor attending the Detroit convention, to deliver addresses at the different churches in the city Sunday, Oct. 10. These invitations were tentatively accepted.

"In view of these facts, it was, therefore, surprising to learn through the press that through the influence of the Detroit chamber of commerce and the Building Trades association, the invitation to labor representatives had been cancelled.

"It is difficult to believe that the churches in the city of Detroit would yield to such sinister influences. The relationships between the American Federation of Labor and the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America has been of a most friendly character. There has been perfect cooperation between these two organizations in the observance of labor Sunday.

"It is common knowledge outside the city of Detroit, that certain employers in this city have formed and maintained an organization having for its purpose the prevention of organization of the working people employed in the manufacturing plants located here. This organization is decidedly hostile to trade unions as represented by the American Federation of Labor.

"It is this same organization . . . that is now using its influence to control the churches and the ministers of the city of Detroit. Neither the working people of this city, nor the churches of this city can be free when they are subjected to the control of such selfish influences."

C. M. Van Dusen, president of the board of directors of the Detroit Y. M. C. A., informed of the statement that the invitation President Green had in effect been withdrawn said: "Because of a request of the board of commerce that arrangements be made for a reply to the labor speakers, the Y. M. C. A. deemed it impracticable to carry out the program."

SUITS AGAINST TAX COLLECTORS OF MADISON

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 5—(AP)—What many regard as a thrust by the defense in the anti-Marsden fight, which has been waged in Madison, during the past five years, was uncovered in civil superior court here today when suits by the town of Madison against George B. Munger, former tax collector, and George S. Watrous, present collector, were filed. Judge Arthur W. Marsden represents the town in both suits.

It is charged against Watrous that he "failed to turn over to the town treasurer the full amount of taxes collected during August, 1926, converting to his own use the sum of $437.92."

The writs pray for a judgment of 15,000 from Munger and $3,500 from Watrous.

PRISONER HAD FORMED HABIT OF LEAVING JAIL

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 5—(AP)—Three additional months in county jail were given Joseph Malone and Antonio Negretti, today in criminal superior court when they pleaded guilty to leaving the jail each evening after completing their work in the engine room, going home for the night, and returning just before daybreak to jail.

The scheme worked well until a policeman happened to see them on the street and inquired if they had completed their jail terms. Malone was serving a sentence for breach of the peace and Negretti as a third offense liquor law violator and as keeper of a disreputable establishment.

NO CANADIAN ENTRY FOR FISHERMEN'S RACE

HALIFAX, N. S., Oct. 5—(AP)—The fishermen's races to be sailed off Gloucester, Mass., beginning October 11 will have no Canadian entry. The owners of the schooner Haligonian of this city, which was to have raced the Gloucester vessels Henry Ford and Columbia, announced tonight definitely that it would be impossible to have the schooner ready in time for the series.

WALTER WARD IS WITH HIS WIFE AT TUCKAHOE, N. Y.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5—(AP)—The New York American says that Walter S. Ward, son of the bakery magnate, who disappeared following a supposed automobile accident May 5 at Trenton, N. J., is living with his wife at Tuckahoe, N. Y.

The automobile was found with a broken windshield near Trenton railroad station. A wide search was instituted; but later was called off. New York declared.

MONEY NEEDED TO PROTECT STATE FORESTS FROM FIRE

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 5.—(AP)—Unless the appropriations made by the state for protecting its forests from fire are trippled, it will be impossible to protect them adequately except in the years when rainfall is great enough to keep them damp, A. F. Hawes, state forester, told members of the Connecticut Forestry association at a recent meeting. The greatly increased human use of the forests for recreation has increased the fire hazard greatly over years ago, according to Mr. Hawes.

The state now spends $15,000 a year on this work. The $15,000 should be increased to $50,000, Mr. Hawes declared. The greater needs are for more fire-lookout towers, more motorcycle patrolmen and more gasoline pumps.

Although the state policy in regard to state forests calls for an area of 200,000 acres of state land, the state now owns only 30,000, he said, urging an increaser appropriation now before land values take on a greater value.

SEARCHING FOR BODIES IN TENNESSEE COAL MINE

ROCKWOOD, Tenn., Oct. 5.—(AP)—Searching for the dead in the Roane Iron Company's coal mine here, the scene of an explosion yesterday in which at least 28 men are believed to have lost their lives, continued tonight with six bodies recovered.

Rescue crews working shifts, clearing a passage to the place, three miles from the mouth of the mine where more than 30 miners were caught in a gas and dust explosion.

Twenty-two men are still unaccounted for. All of them are believed by mine officials and rescue workers to lie dead in the gas infested Rodgers entry of the mine.

The last ray of hope that any of the miners survived the past 36 hours vanished today as bodies were slowly haul I out of the mine and hastily moved to a morgue, while a rain drenched, waiting crowd of men, women and children. The bodies of Clarence Stevens and Philip Gallion were the last recovered.

FOUR CONVICTS ESCAPED FROM MAINE STATE PRISON

THOMASTON, Me., Oct. 5.—(AP)—Four convicts made their escape from the Maine state prison here tonight after felling Patrick Sanfey, a guard, with a blackjack and stealing his keys. One of the prisoners, Edward Ramussen of Boston, escaped a year ago, but was re-captured.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

ASSISI, Italy, Oct. 5—(AP)—One hundred thousand persons, from all parts of Italy, gathered here to join in celebration of the seventh centennial of the death of St. Francis of Assisi.

SANTIAGO, Chile, Oct. 5—(AP)—Fifteen hundred persons participated in a demonstration organized by local communists against the conviction for murder and sentencing to death of Nicola Sacco and Bartoomeo Vanzetti in Massachusetts.

LONDON, Oct. 5—(AP)—The work of loading and unloading vessels at the Tilsbury docks was suspended by the sudden strike of 2,000 men. The strikers' grievance is an alleged new regulation by the port of London authority that union delegates will not be allowed to enter the docks.

PARIS, Oct. 5—(AP)—Maurice de Rothschild, member of the famous family of bankers, whose previous election to the chamber of deputies was invalidated because of charges of the excess use of money in his campaign, has been returned by a heavy majority in a by-election in Hautes-Alpes department.

BEARDSTOWN, ILL., GREAT SUFFERER FROM FLOOD

CHICAGO, Oct. 5—(AP)—Floods waters which rose today in Illinois while they receded in adjacent states centered their wrath tonight at Beardstown, Ill., which watched its last path to the outside world slowly vanish under the rising tide of the Illinois river.

With more than a hundred square blocks submerged by water and more than a hundred families homeless as the result of the bursting levees along the Illinois river and Lost creek, the city faced two advancing overflows, with water four feet deep in some main streets and residents living and doing business in upper floods.

The Beardstown-Springfield road, offering the only clear path from the flood-racked city, was slowly being covered by water as the tide of the Illinois river rose to 24.3 feet and continued to ascend. The road will be covered, flood workers said, by Thursday.

At Peoria, Whitehall, Carrolton, and other central Illinois cities, levees broke or threatened to give way today and lowlands were submerged.

A hundred and fifty men patrolled the Hillview levee at Whitehall with sandbags to plug recurring breaks, and the Illinois river at Peoria, rising a foot a day, had driven residents from the water-front and threatened the dike.

A doctor called to the bedside of P. J. Ward, near Rockport, rowed ten miles by boat to find the patient dead of apoplexy, and conveyed the body by boat to an undertaker.

Mail was delivered by boat at Beardstown to the business section.

The gradual rise of the waters and the forewarning of residents by the constant flood threats of September prevented any loss of life today in Illinois, and the flood damage will be confined to property loss.

In Oklahoma, Kansas and Missouri where floods did harm Sunday and Monday, the water was receding, except at the confluences of major streams, although the Mississippi river stood at flood stage at Cape Girardeau, Missouri, swelled by heavy rains to the north and inundated lowlands.

FRANCE FAVORS FLOATING OF GERMAN BONDS IN U. S.

PARIS, Oct. 5—(AP)—Flotation of German railroad, industrial and reparations bonds in the United States has become a settled policy of the principal continental allied countries entitled to reparations.

The French government, which formerly was adverse to the scheme because of the large sacrifices it would be obliged to suffer in order to make the securities attractive to American investors, now is earnestly in favor of the scheme because of the ready cash in dollars the flotation of the bonds would make available for use in Premier Poincare's stabilization plans.

France, Italy and Belgium, who have been especially interested in the project, have had the matter up at Washington, it was authoritatively learned today. They seek to persuade the American government to allow American banks to interest themselves in the project. It is understood that the French used the argument that floating these bonds will make it easier for France to stabilize the franc and hence make the payment of war debts less burdensome.

Premier Poincare, it was said on excellent authority, has given assurance to Washington that ratification of the Mellon-Berenger settlement of France war debts to the United States will be pushed in the hope of getting favorable action on it before the end of November.

OIL LAND LEASES NOW UP TO SUPREME COURT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5—(AP)—Decision as to the validity of the famous Doheny lease of the Elk Hills naval oil reserve in California, is now up to the supreme court.

After four hours discussion, oral argument by government and defense counsel was concluded and the long drawn out litigation over this lease and the contract for oil storage tanks at the naval base in Hawaii rested with the highes tribunal.

The controversy over the contracts and leases, made while Albert B. Fall was secretary of interior, reached the court in an appeal of Edward L. Doheny to set aside the decision of the lower federal courts in California which ordered them cancelled. Throughout the arguments, however, frequent reference was made to another famous lease—that of the Teapot Dome oil reserve in Wyoming to Harry F. Sinclair.

This latter case, recently decided against Sinclair by the circuit court of appeals sitting in St. Louis, broadly is similar to the Doheny case and the government's special counsel expect decision in the latter to have important bearing on the Teapot litigation should Sinclair appeal from the recent decision.

MARION TALLEY INSURES HER LIFE FOR $200,000

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—(AP)—Marion Talley, young Metropolitan Opera star, has insured her life for $200,000, the earnings of which will go to worthy boys and girls who are without funds to pursue a musical education.

This was announced today by William A. Buchholz for the New York Life Insurance Co. The money will be placed in trust with a Kansas City trust company.

Miss Talley also insured her life for an additional $300,000, naming her parents and sister as beneficiaries at $100,000 each, the company announced, and two brothers survive.

$100,000 Suit Against George M. Coffin

First National Bank of Putnam, of Which Coffin is Receiver, is Involved.

HARTFORD, Oct. 5—(AP)—A suit for $100,000 damages against Receiver George M. Coffin, of the First National bank, of Putnam, and the bank, which was wrecked by former State Treasurer and Cashier G. Harold Gilpatric, has been brought by Charles M. Hamberger, Hartford investment broker, in the superior court. Josiah H. Peck is counsel for Hamberger.

In March and May 1919, Hamberger gave 52 $1,000 bonds of the Paris Water company, a Kentucky corporation, as collateral security for payment of four promissory notes totaling $21,535, he alleged. The receiver of the bank has notified Hamberger, it is alleged, that the bank claims title to the bonds.

Hamberger says he is ready to pay the notes with all accrued interest and proper charges and makes an offer of such payment in his suit. In addition to his claim for damages, he asks for a judgment ordering the bank and the receiver to deliver the bonds to him, and a judgment determining the amount of Hamberger's indebtedness on the notes and ordering the defendants to deliver the bonds to him on payment of the amount determined.

The notes were dated March 28, 1919, a second for $7,250 dated May 12, 1919, a third for $1,600 dated May 21, 1919, and a fourth for $1,185 dated May 21, 1919.

The suit does not grow out of Gilpatric's embezzlements, it is understood. The stock of the Paris Water company is held by residents of Putnam and vicinity.

CINDERELLA HAS LEFT HER ELDERLY HUSBAND

NEW YORK, Oct. 5—(AP)—Edward W. Browning's romance that budded in April has shed at least some of its leaves in October.

Despite the protestations of the 51-year-old wealthy real estate operator and promoter that he still loves his school-girl bride of sixteen, she has left him and gone to New Jersey with her mother. Less than six months ago they were married amid a fanfare of publicity, which had reached some time before when Browning became known as the "Cinderella Man" through his adoption of a young girl and the attempted adoption of another.

The man who had talked of building his bride a "palace" on Long Island, and who had told glowingly of his plans to have a quiet home where he could sit by the fireside, now is saying little in a New York hotel. "Peaches" as Browning calls his bride, has not made clear just why she left him but her mother, Mrs. Katherine Heenan, has said: "There were lots of things that never happened and the palace on Long Island was just one of them."

"The reason for our separation will have to come from Mr. Browning," said "Peaches" today. "And it is for him to say also how long it will be."

Browning, through his secretary, insisted today that the separation was only temporary and that there has been no quarel. He protested his love for her and said: "There never has been a time since we were married that I would not give my life for her."

PSYCHOLOGY TO CORRECT BADLY RUN SOCIAL ORDER

HARTFORD Oct. 5—(AP)—Psychology will some day usher in a new era for mankind when it learns the laws of behavior and is thus enabled to reorganize the present badly constructed and badly run social order, said Professor George R. Wells of Trinity college, broadcasting tonight over WTIC in the third of a series of radio dialogues members of the Trinity faculty are giving this year. He was discussing "the use of psychology" with Professor Morse S. Allne, of the English department.

An amazing large proportion of an individual's acts are forced upon him by the group to which he belongs, Professor Wells said, and the number of rules and regulations, of customs and usages, are really oppressive and are becoming more so. The individual is almost disappearing under his group and there is a growing desire on part of society to regulate every detail of human life, the psychologist continued.

DOUBT SANITY OF NEGRO WHO CONFESSED MURDER

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., Oct. 5—(AP)—Doubts of the sanity of George H. Christmas, negro, who gave himself up to local authorities yesterday and said he killed Susie Herzey on a Monday the latter part of last July in Washington, D. C., are raised by a telegram from authorities there saying no such man is wanted in Washington, that the woman supposed to have been killed is unknown and that the woman supposed to have been killed is unknown and that the address of the alleged crime is fictitious.

Faced with this disclaimer of the crime he confesses, Christmas persists in his story. His sanity will be tested in an attempt to account for the discrepancy between his story and that of the Washington police.

QUEEN MARIE BUYING WARDROBE IN PARIS

PARIS, Oct. 5—(AP)—Queen Marie of Rumania arrived here this morning from Bucharest and before the shops had closed at nightfall she had begun to accumulate a new wardrobe for her forthcoming American tour.

Like any other tourist the queen spent several minutes in the lobby of the Hotel Ritz chatting with friends who greeted her on her arrival on the Simplon-Orient express, one of the crack continental trains. Her daughter Princess Ileana was her constant companion during their first few hours in the French capital, but young Prince Nicholas, her son, went out on his own to have a look around Paris.

TORRINGTON, Oct. 5.—(AP)—Thomas A. Carroll, veteran newspaper man of Torrington, died early today at the New Haven hospital in New Haven, where he had been a patient for two months. Mr. Carroll was a former United States deputy marshal for this district, having served under Marshal C. C. Middlebrooks during the war period. He also was a former democratic registrar of voters. He was born in Torrington 52 years ago and always lived here. For many years he was the Torrington correspondent of the Waterbury Republican. Three sisters survive.

Break in Stock Prices Surprises Wall Street

Widespread Decline Took Place in the Face of Lowering Money Rates.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5—(AP)—Another sharp break in prices on the New York stock exchange today, the second in two days, took Wall street by surprise and started considerable discussion as to whether it signalized a possible change in the trend of business. The decline, which ran from 1 to nearly 9 points in scores of issues took place in face of a lowering of call money rates, the previous firmness of which was blamed for the recent lack of bullish enthusiasm.

With the possible exception of a cut in gasoline prices in Kentucky and a reduction in tire prices in Great Britain, which would have a tendency to reduce profits in those industries, there was nothing in the day's business news to account for the heavy liquidation of stocks, some of which appeared to be of a distress character. Directors of the American Smelting & Refining company raised the annual dividend from $7 to $8 and most of the day's earnings reports were favorable.

Common stock of the United States Steel corporation which broke 4 7-8 points yesterday, fell back another 3 7-8 points today, closing at 143 3-8, the low figure of the day. General Motors fell from 168 to 161 1-4 and then rallied to 164 7-8 off 1 point net. Total transactions in these two issues totaled nearly 500,000 shares, or more than one-fifth of he day's entire volume of business.

In searching about for an explanation of the decline, market observers endeavored to associate the selling with the recent break in cotton prices to the lowest levels in five years, with its possible adverse effect on the country's purchasing power, and to the increase of over $50,000,000 in broker's loans last week. Some brokers described it as "weeding out" of weakly margined accounts, having nothing to do with outside business conditions.

At the day's closing prices, the average of 20 leading industrials was 7 points and the average of 20 leading rails 6 1-2 points below the year's high levels established early in September when the industrials some of the sharpest breaks took place in such issues as American Brake Shoe & Foundry, Brooklyn Edison, Case Threshing Machine, Dupont, Manhattan Electrical Supply and Remington Typewriter, all off 5 points or more. Atlantic Coast Line was the outstanding weak spot in the rails breaking nearly 10 points while Delaware & Hudson fell back 7. "Nickel Plate" common 5 and Norfolk & Western 4 1-2.

GARY SEES SATISFACTORY OUTLOOK FOR BUSINESS

NEW YORK, Oct. 5—(AP)—On the eve of his eighth birthday anniversary, which he will celebrate next Friday, Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the United States Steel corporation, today cast his eye over the business horizon and found conditions "very satisfactory."

Taking an even broader view, he said he was becoming more and more convinced that serious business slumps were no longer necessary, that the majority of people desired prosperity and would do their utmost to maintain it, that the growing competition from foreign trade would probably be friendly and less injurious than that originating in the United States and that the Ford plan of a five-day week for industrial workers was uneconomic.

"I shall require further proof," said Mr. Gary, "before I as satisfied that any man or any number of men can do as much work in five days of eight hours each as could be secured in six days of eight hours each."

In outlining his views on the business situation, the head of the steel corporation explained that he was willing to accept the prediction made to him by one of the most prominent bankers in the world that conditions in the United States would continue to be good during the rest of 1926 and probably throughout 1927.

REPLY FROM THE MIAMI CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5—(AP)—While the annual convention of the American Red Cross devoted itself today to round table discussions of soldier, public health and school problems, a telegram from Lon Worth Crow, president of the Miami Chamber of Commerce, was made public here reiterating the stand taken in the statement which recently brought a public rebuke from the Red Cross chairman, John Barton Payne.

"Miami Chamber of Commerce officials and leaders," Mr. Crow's telegram read, "participated in the preparation of the statement wired to Chairman Payne, signed by Gov. Martin, Mayor Romfh and chairman of the various relief bodies.

"That statement is regarded as an absolutely fair presentation of the situation as it exists, and if the chamber of commerce were to prepare a statement for the Red Cross, it could do no better than to reiterate what was already said in that message.

"There seems no reason why the American cannot distinguish between two classes of citizens damaged in the recent storm: First, those who have some means or can arrange financial rehabilitation; second, those who have lost their all and who must be assisted by Red Cross contributions, if the are to be put back on their feet on a self sustaining basis.

"Neither does it seem to us that informing American people that our hotels and apartments houses will have the damage done to them repaired in time for the usual winter season is a fact that should be concealed.

"If Miami is ever going to be able to rehabilitate herself she must continue to serve the vacationists as usual, because, as everyone knows, a very large part of her annual income comes from that source."

R. I. DEMOCRATS FAVOR LIGHT WINES AND BEER

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Oct. 5—(AP)—A plank recommending modification of the Volstead act to permit sale of light wines and beer will be written into the platform of the democratic party of this state when it convenes here Thursday morning, it is confidently predicted by democratic leaders who are supporting the candidacy of Mayor Joseph H. Gainer of Providence for governor.

Mayor Gainer is opposed for the nomination by former Lieutenant Governor Felix A. Toupin, presiding officer of the state senate during the 11 months' filibuster of 1924.

MAL DAUGHERTY QUERIED ABOUT MISSING RECORDS

Mysterious Sunday Meeting in Bank at Washington Courthouse, O., Brought Forward in Conspiracy Trial—Witness Denied That the Missing Deposit Slips Had Been Taken From the Bank at That Time—Did Not Know Whether They Were in Their Proper Places at That Time.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5—(AP)—The government search-light in the Daugherty-Miller conspiracy case was turned today upon a mysterious Sunday meeting held in the Midland National bank of Washington Courthouse, O., in 1925.

Mal S. Daugherty, brother of former Attorney-General M. Daugherty and president of the Midland bank, was questioned by U. S. Attorney Buckner about the disappearance of bank records which are the missing links in the government's chain of evidence.

That chain has been forged in an effort to prove that Harry Daugherty and Thomas W. Miller, former alien property custodian, conspired to defraud the government in allowing the release of $77,000,000 of impounded assets of the American Metal company in 1921.

Government evidence has shown that some $150,000 worth of Liberty bonds, which formed part of a fee given the late John T. King by Richard Merton, German metal magnate, for putting the metal claim through, turned up later in Miller's account and in the Daugherty bank.

Gaps in the chain of evidence were occasioned by discovery that various records of the financial transactions of both Daughertys and Jesse W. Smith, Harry Daugherty's political handy man, had disappeared from the Midland bank.

Mal Daugherty told of receiving a subpoena in December of last year to appear before a grand jury in New York which was investigating the metal company assets release.

He said he immediately went to his brother's home in Columbus, O., with his personal attorney, N. C. Clyburn. The next day they went to Washington Courthouse and the following morning, a Sunday, all three met at the Midland bank where they stayed from about 8:30 o'clock until about nine.

"Harry had stayed with you at your home that Saturday night?" Buckner asked.

"Yes."

"Then why did you go to the bank for your conference? Could not Mr. Clyburn have come to your house and could you not all have conferred there?"

"My wife was not very well and we didn't want to disturb her."

"But couldn't you three have talked for half an hour without causing any disturbance to Mrs. Daugherty?"

"I suppose we could."

"And it was a Sunday and the bank closed?"

"That is right."

"No one there but you three?"

"No. No one was there."

"Did you," Buckner thundered at the witness, "or your brother or your attorney at that time remove from their proper places in the bank deposit slips, day book sheets or the copy of remittence letter to another bank, all of which had been subpoenaed but none of which have ever been produced."

"We did not," the witness replied.

"Did you take any of these records out to look at them?"

"We did not."

"Do you know whether they were in their proper places at that time or whether they were even then missing?"

"I do not."

While Mal Dougherty was under direct examination of Max D. Steuer, counsel for Harry Daugherty, he told how five $10,000 Liberty bonds, which were a part of the Merton-King money, came to be in his bank and their proceeds later credited to Harry's account.

"On May 27, 1923," he said, "Jesse Smith came into the bank and asked for me. He was very excited and disturbed. He handed me the five bonds, a check for $2,500 and $4,000 in cash, which he told me he would fix up the deficit in the political campaign fund of which my brother was in charge."

The witness then testified that Smith had assisted Harry in raising money for permanent republican fund in Ohio, but that there was a deficit of between $60,000 and $65,000. Harry had for the past year been insisting that Smith make an accounting of his collections and that several times he had asked Mal to impress on Smith the necessity of this. No such accounting was ever made, so far as the witness knew, but instead the bonds, check and cash were turned in to cover the bulk of the deficit. The bonds were sold and the proceeds credited to Harry because he was in charge of the political fund.

Steuer objected strenuously during the day to a line of questioning by Buckner which he believed was based on the assumption that Daugherty might be held responsible for acts of his subordinates, even though he did not know anything about them.

Judge Mack said the testimony could go in on the ground that it might show Daugherty had "closed his eyes" to what his subordinates were doing. This, he held, would constitute conspiracy to defraud the government of his best services.

"I have not said at any time," he said, "that the defendant, without knowledge, would be responsible for the negligence of his subordinates. The question will ultimately be whether he had knowledge and if he had whether he closed his eyes."

SEARCHING FOR SLAYERS OF A MAN NEAR NEWARK

NEWARK, N. J., Oct. 5.—(AP)—Search today was concentrated here for two men who last night shot and killed a man and mortally wounded his son in what police believe was an effort to overtake a truck load of airplane mail bound for Hadley field, New Brunswick, by the use of automobiles commandeered at pistol point.

John Struyf, Shelton farmhand, who towed the gunmen's car from a ditch, after colliding with it on Shelton road identified the slayers from pictures in the rogues gallery at the prosecutor's office in New Brunswick.

Newark police believed the slayers were the same who recently perpetrated a holdup at the Reid Ice Cream company here, during which a man was shot and killed.

Frank Kearney, wealthy lumber dealer of Maplewood is dead and Robert, his 15 year old son, who received a bullet wound through the head, is in critical condition at St. Peter's hospital, New Brunswick.

Kearney was on the way with his wife and son to visit another son, a student at Rutgers university.

He was shot dead by the bandit leader when he refused them a lift to New Brunswick. The son also was shot and all three were dragged from the car.

"Just before the Kearneys reached the scene, Struyf and two companions who had quarrelled with the bandits as a result of the collision, fled. Another motorist who was asked for a ride to New Brunswick, also ran away, first locking his ignition."

Before shooting the Kearneys the leader shot his own companion through the shoulder because of the latter's reluctance to use force.

Racing toward New Bruiswick, the bandits wrecked the Kearney machine in collision with a telephone pole. There they commandeered a farmer's automobile, and forcing the owner out, proceeded to Shelton crossing, where they smashed through the Pennsylvania Railroad gates and made their way to Newark on the Lincoln highway. The car was found abandoned in front of 556 South 13th street. The seats were covered with blood and the body wrecked.

In the bandit machine on Shelton road two shot guns were found and nearby a revolver.

TWO BROKERS HELD FOR DEATH OF CLOAK MODEL

NEW YORK, Oct. 5—(AP)—Francis Murphy and John J. Fitzpatrick, young brokers, were held for grand jury action today after a two-day hearing in homicide court in connection with the death of Miss Dorothy Smith, of Holden, Mass., a cloak model, who leaped from Murphy's apartment on Sept. 27. She died the following day, after telling the police that she leaped from a fourth-floor window, clasping a crucifix to her breast, to escape from the two men.

In referring the case to the grand jury, Magistrate Oberwager said: "Human life was destroyed; human life is expensive and we must not regard it lightly." He declined to grant bail, referring the defendants to the district attorney, who in turn said the granting of bail was beyond his power.

GREEK STEAMER AFIRE AT PIER IN BROOKLYN

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—(AP)—After an all-day battle against a raging fire in the hold, the National Greek Line steamship Byron was taken safely to its Brooklyn pier this afternoon with its 397 passengers still aboard.

The fire was discovered early this morning while the ship was off Ambrose lightship and S. O. S. calls brought city fire boats and coast guard boats to her side.

Then began a frantic dash up the bay with the fire boats pouring water on the burning ship from above, while the crew fought the blaze below. Shortly after 11 o'clock the smoke-shrouded ship was anchored about a half mile off the Brooklyn shore and the blaze finally was extinguished a few hours later.

The passengers, of whom 136 were Americans, returning from visits to Greece and the Near East, were a unit in praising the crew for its efforts to keep the fire under control until assistance arrived.

The ship's officers spoke highly on the conduct of the passengers and said that at no time was there any sign of a panic.

Two members of the crew and one city fireman was overcome while fighting the blaze. They were revived and treated by the ships physician.

The origin of the fire has not been determined. Captain Dimitrios Sigeos, commander of the ship, placed the loss at more than $250,000. The Byron carried 1,200 tons of cargo including a large quantity of Oriental rugs, currants, raisins, olives, olive oil and Greek and Turkish tobacco, almost all of which was destroyed. She left Piraeus, the port of Athens, on September 17th.

HEARING THE CASE OF EVANGELIST M'PHERSON

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 5—(AP)—Sizzling sarcasm that passed between witness and defense counsel today in the preliminary hearing of Aimee Semple McPherson, evangelist, and others on charges of criminal conspiracy, almost obliterated the main issue of the case. Deputy District Attorney Joe Ryan, who was in the witness box nearly the whole of yesterday, spent all of today in the same place.

Ryan said "he was not sure" the McPherson children had not seen their mother during the period in May and June, last, when she said she was held by abductors.

At one time he told of Mrs. McPherson giving a letter bearing on the case to the press. The evangelist sitting at the counsel table, ejaculated: "Oh, that's a lie."

Ryan's statement that he had surveyed an area of four hundred square miles of desert country around Agua Prieta, Mexico, near which Mrs. McPherson declared she slocated the shack from which she escaped her abductors, was the subject of much cross examining by Gilbert.

He said it was possible to see a woman's footprints for fifteen feet on each side of the machine. The party looked for footprints, by day and for the shack moonlight.

Ryan denied he had been told Mrs. McPherson was unconscious at the home of E. R. Gonzales in Agua Prieta.

THREE K. K. K. PAINTERS GIVEN FINES OF $50 AND COSTS EACH

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Oct. 5—The cases of the three young men, Meredith Pratt, Byron Parker and Orville Baker of Wauregan, who decorated the step and sidewalk of the Sacred Heart church in Wauregan and the highways and byways for miles around with the staring white letters, K. K. K. were disposed of in the Windham county superior court session in this city today with the imposition of a fine of $50 and costs, against each of the defendants.

Three original counts involving breach of the peace and violation of the advertising laws had been nolled. The three young culprits pleaded guilty to an amended fourth count, of malicious injury to property. State's Attorney Howard C. Bradford explained the case to Judge John R. Booth who presided. The letters K. K. K. were painted in characters measuring about two feet and the residents of the section were startled to awaken in the morning to find the church step, the sidewalk and the highways bearing evidence of the malicious act. It is said that the letterings could not be removed from the steps and sidewalk without using strong solutions that would prove injurious.

Resentment ran high through the community. State Policeman Edward V. Streaman of the Danielson barracks was working on the case when he secured a description of one of the boys and when he found white paint on the young man's hands, upon accosting him at his home, the identity of the parties was soon determined.

Pratt is the son of a much respected minister. The trio were tried in the local court and each received a sentence of three months in jail and a fine of $75. After explaining to the court that the lower court concerned was composed of a Catholic judge and prosecuting attorney, Attorney Bradford gave his opinion that the sentence imposed was too severe for the crime involved in view of the fact that it was a first offense and that the accused young men undoubtedly had already learned a lesson. There were looks of surprise in the spectators' gallery when he recommended a fine of $50 and costs with no jail sentence, suspended or otherwise.

Officer Streaman stated after court that the arrest of the three "painters" had brought him sudden popularity, as he had since received a number of threatening cards that feature the cautionary expression, "Beware!"

PYTKO GIRL MOTHER FINED $100 AND SENT TO JAIL

(Special to the Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Oct. 5—Agnes Pytko of Wilsonville, town of Thompson, implicated in the infant's murder case with Raymond Wetherbee, who was recently found not guilty, was presented before the superior court in this city this afternoon. The first count of first degree murder was nolled and the girl pleaded guilty to a second count of concealing the birth of an illegitimate child. Her plea was made through her guardian ad litem, Attorney Charles L. Torrey. Judge Booth imposed a fine of $100 and costs and a sentence of six months in the county jail. At the conclusion of the jail sentence the girl is to provide a bond of $100 as assurance of her good behavior.

The Pytko girl had accused Wetherbee of being father of a child born to her June 30 and she claimed that the man strangled the child and threw the body into the river. The Wetherbee case lasted several days of the present term of court in Putnam.

WOODSTOCK MAN GUILTY OF VIOLATING LIQUOR LAW

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Oct. 5—The only case to trial at today's superior court session was the jury case of Peter Murphy of Woodstock, charged with violation of the liquor law, on two counts, having liquor in his possession with intent to sell and the sale of one pint of liquor to Edgar Herindeen, of West Woodstock, July 16. The alleged purchase was prompted by State Policeman Irving H. Nelson of the Danielson barracks. In the Woodstock town court Murphy pleaded not guilty, but received a fine of $50 and costs, amounting to $92.93. He gave notice of appeal. The hearing of evidence and arguments by the attorneys lasted until nearly three o'clock, when the jury retired and within fifteen minute sreturned with a verdict of guilty.

Attorney William H. Buckley of Southbridge Mass, counsel for the accused, stated that the man was without funds and he would prefer a jail sentence to a fine. Judge Booth imposed a sentence of twenty days in jail and payment of the costs of the case, which amounted to about $75.

The following jury panel was selected to hear the case: Joseph Rivard of Putnam, William B. Potter of Brooklyn, Alfred T. Hall of Chaplin, Roy Latham of Eastford, Byron P. Young of Sterling, Matthew T. Dartt of Thompson, Wayland Gage of Woodstock, Charles Cone of Windham, Maurice R. Bicknell of Ashford, Michael T. Shea of Canterbury, George B. Gould of Killingly and John E. Williams of Plainfield. The roll of the jurymen was called by clerk of the court, Miss Marjorie Bradford.

Herindeen, the first witness, testified that he was 19 years of age and a neighbor of Murphy. He told of being given five dollars by Officer Nelson and of using it to buy liquor from Murphy. During cross-examination, Attorney Buckley succeeded in confusing Herindeen and causing him to retract testimony given in the lower court. Cyril A. Paine, who was with Herindeen when the liquor was purchased, was also severely grilled.

Ellery Margy of West Woodstock testified to the reputation of Murphy, whom he had known as a boy. He said that Murphy had told him of selling liquor to Herindeen and Paine. State Policeman Irving H. Nelson testified to arranging for the liquor purchase. The liquor was found to be 40.38 per cent. alcoholic. After cross-examining the officer Attorney Buckley motioned for dismissal of the case, which motion was denied by Judge Booth.

Peter Murphy, the accused, denied the sale of liquor, as did his wife, Mrs. Mary Murphy. Both told of the two young men coming to the place and trying to buy some. They were told that there was none to buy.

Sergeant Albert L. Fields, commanding officer at the Danielson state police barracks testified to receiving complaints about Murphy's place. After brief arguments by the attorneys, Judge Booth gave his charge to the jury. Upon imposing sentence Judge Booth highly commended Attorney Buckley for the manner in which he had handled the case.

The case of John Culley of Killingly, charged with feloniously assaulting with carnal knowledge, a minor female child, Elizabeth Rainsford, 13, of Pomfret, January 15th, last, was taken up in superior court Tuesday. Culley pleaded not guilty and elected to be tried by the court.

Announcements were made of the disposition of the following cases: Frank Leclaire, of this city, violation of the liquor law, nolled.

Joseph Thibeault of Hartford and his son, Napoleon Thibeault of Killingly, charged with perjury in obtaining a divorce in the father's case and complicity to the crime in the second case, nolled. The men were arrested by Sheriff Charles A. Gates on bench warrants.

Joseph Colderado of this city, violation of the liquor law, vacated.

William E. Shores, violation of motor vehicle law, vacated.

Anna B. Clifford of South Windham, reckless driving, nolled.

Frederick Scranton, Joseph Kelly and Arthur Johnson, charged with statutory burglary were discharged from probation.

Court adjourned at four o'clock until this (Wednesday) morning at ten o'clock when the case of George Burton of Plainfield, charged with abuse of a female child, will be taken up. The case is to be tried by jury.

CLAIM THAT WORLD SERIES SPOILED ELECTION INTEREST

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Oct. 5.—The Town of Windham settled down to attending to the real business of the season Tuesday—listening in on divers radios to the world baseball series, which is partly blamed for the light interest taken in the town elections Monday. A compilation of the vote in the fourth districts of the town is indicative of the general republican majority which swept all candidates of G. O. P. conviction into office, although the popularity of Bert F. More and William E. Sweeney, respective candidates for collector of taxes and minority school committeeman, considerably narrowed the margin of winning votes in those two offices.

Following were the counters at the districts: First, Alfred R. Handfield, chief moderator; David P. Ahern, William E. Jackson, James Lynch and Elmer Young; second, Michael E. Sullivan, moderator; Attorney Arthur T. Kelly, William S. Congdon, James Haggerty and Russell W. Potter, Third, Rev. William Brown, moderator; Anthony F. Meehan, G. Leroy Howlett, Charles Cone and E. G. Brennan. Fourth, James F. Twomey, moderator; Edward R. Portelance, Raymond F. Gates, James Sehley Donahue, Jr., William A. Dawson.

The votes by districts:

Dist	Rep.	Dem	Str. Split	Str. Blk.	Mult.	Tot
First	242	156	83	1	20	502
Second	555	389	184	4	11	1151
Third	254	271	79	5	1	610

BRETON DIES FROM BURNS—FILLED TANK MOTOR RUNNING

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Oct. 5.—Edgar Breton, 20, of 252 Main street, died in St. Joseph's hospital early Wednesday morning from burns sustained last Thursday, when gasoline which was being put into his motorcycle tank at a Standard Oil company filling station on lower Main street, overflowed on the hot motor and burst into flames. The motor had been left running. After a preliminary investigation Medical Examiner Dr. Louis I. Mason gave permission for the removal of the body pending the arrival of County Coroner Arthur G. Bill of Danielson Wednesday morning. Mr. Breton was born August 12, 1906, in Tedford Mines, Canada, the son of Mr and Mrs. Joseph Breton. Besides his father he leaves three sisters, Mrs. M Marceaux of Sacred Heart, Canada, Mrs. L Perreault and Miss R. Breton of this city and a brother, Emilio Breton of this city. The case against Leroy Roberts, manager of the filling station, charged with violation of the law which prohibits filling a tank of a motor vehicle while the motor is in operation, was continued in police court Saturday to Tuesday, Oct. 12.

Bible sessions were started Tuesday afternoon as part of the big revival services being conducted here by 10 neighboring Protestant churches with the principal sermons by Dr. Milton S. Rees of Rochester, N. Y. At the First Baptist church Tuesday evening, Dr. Rees spoke on the subject, It Is Time to Awake. The meeting opened with a prayer hour and song service.

At a brief session of police court Tuesday morning, Elton Hallock of Waterbury, charged with operating an overloaded automobile truck, pleaded guilty and Judge Foss imposed the minimum fine of $100, and costs, amounting to $110.55. Arthur Bertrand of Union street, accused of breaking a window in the American Thread company office last Saturday night, denied knowledge of the affair. Witnesses in the case were Arthur Drounin, Herman Bernard, Mrs. Leontine Bernard and Ralph Roberge who said they heard the crash of broken glass. Bertrand was found guilty and fined $10 and costs of $22.55.

Eugenine Clouthier, 63, wife of Joseph Cyr, died at her home, 30 Windham street, Monday night. She was born in St. Ephrem d'Upton, Canada, Feb. 8, 1863, a daughter of Charles and Eugenie Pilon Clouthier. Besides her husband she leaves four children, Henry J., Charles E., Hormisdas O., and E. S. Cyr of this city; a daughter, Mrs. Rose Sylvestre of this city; three sisters, Mrs. Edmond Philliotreault of d'Upton, Canada, Mrs. Napoleon Loisell of St. Helene, Canada, and Mrs. Thomas Jacques of Manville, R. I.; a brother, Delphis Clouthier of Dexville, Canada, and nine grandchildren. She had resided in this city for 34 years and was a member of several organizations of St. Mary's parish including the Ste. Anne Society, of which she was a past president, St. Antoine society, Conseil St. Cecile No 113, Union St. Jean Baptiste d'Amerique and the Stations of the Cross society.

The funeral of Mrs. Edward T. Grimes was held Tuesday with a large attendance. The body and the funeral party arrived in this city from New York at 1:05 o'clock in the afternoon. Burial was in St. Joseph's cemetery where Rev. Charles M. Kelly conducted the committal service. The bearers were Dr. Harry J. Cotter of Boston, Eugene J. Cotter, Joseph J. Grimes and Louis J. Flynn of this city. Arrangements were in charge of Killourey Brothers.

Peter W. Collins of Boston, national lecturer of the Knights of Columbus, is to deliver an address on "Mexico" under the auspices of San Jose council No. 14 in this city later this month, it was announced Tuesday by Grand Knight Patrick A. Connor. The affair will be public.

Edward Girard and Melina Arbour, daughter of Mrs. Melina Arbour of 55 South Park street, were united in marriage in St. Mary's church Monday morning by the pastor, Rev. J. J. Papillon who was also celebrant of the nuptial high mass. A breakfast followed at the home of the bride's mother with a large attendance. Mr. and Mrs. Girard are motoring over the Mohawk Trail on their honeymoon.

A registration of about 140 for the evening school was announced Tuesday by Principal Laurence King. All of the classes are scheduled for session except the advanced shorthand class.

The following have been elected for the year by Windham high school debating club: President, Russell G. Beckwith; vice president, Edward Nichols; secretary-treasurer, John Pickett.

Miss Dorothy Murdock, art teacher at the State Normal school, is at her home, 84 Windham street, recovering from an illness which required treatment at St. Joseph's hospital for a time.

Personal Items

Rev and Mrs W. C. Norris returned here Tuesday after passing the summer in Pennsylvania.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry W. Standish left Tuesday night on a combination business and pleasure trip to New York.

Miss Dorothy Hill, daughter of Mrs. C. Dewett Hill of this city, has been appointed assistant to the principal of the Mansfield Training school.

Miss Helen Stiles, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Stiles of Windham road, left Tuesday to enter Miss Wheelock's school for training kindergarten teachers in Boston. She was accompanied on the trip by her mother, also Miss Mary Stiles and Miss Elizabeth Hardman.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Thompson are guests of their son, William Thompson and family in Brooklyn, N. Y.

Mrs Arthur T. Kelly and Miss Harry S. Gaucher are entertaining Mrs. Dora Nance of New York.

Mrs. Sarah Comins is a guest of Windsor friends.

And the early hunter may get the early bird for his breakfast.

JEWETT CITY

BISHOP'S CROSSING CHANGE PROVES BIG PROPOSITION

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Oct. 5.—Persons who visited Bishop's crossing today were surprised to find the steel for the new overhead bridge, practically all in place. The two long approaches that required a fill of 30,000 cubic yards of gravel, are all concreted and will be ready for travel when the cement floor of the bridge is completed. The cement work is to be put into prepared forms, there will be no other bridge floor in this section like it. It is a contract in itself and more than a month yet will elapse before the detour is cut out. To appreciate the magnitude of the grading problem, it must be known that the lots from which the gravel was taken, are the property of R. W. Dearnley, they were many feet above the state road which they bordered, as the north end of the Joe Roode plain. They have been brought down to the grade of the highway and for 200 feet back toward the west. These lots probably will never grow corn or rye again but their commercial value in building possibilities shows evident increase.

LEDYARD PASTOR COMING TO CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH

(Special to the Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Oct. 5.—Rev. Giles F. Goodenough of Ledyard read his resignation at the Ledyard church on Sunday, and has accepted a call to the Second Congregational church in Jewett City. The date for his coming here is not settled yet, as it will be his duty to remain in Ledyard for a time.

A visit to Simon Brewster's big apple orchards, Tuesday, now in picking time, disclosed a condition of modern apple raising right here in Griswold that the famous belts of New York state could hardly surpass. Mr. Brewster has 35 varieties, all sprayed fruit. The "ready to eat" varieties including the prize McIntosh, will be marketed at once, while the winter varieties, unless closed out at a blanket price in the orchards, to some of the buyers already looking over the bumper crop, will be stored for the late fall and winter market. Tuesday, four men were busy picking Baldwins, fair and sound, showing in every apple the benefits of systematic spraying. Mr. Brewster has more than 20 prize winning varieties and in all will pick over 1,500 and close to 2,000 bushels.

Supt. F. H. Clement, of Griswold public schools, Mrs. Clement, with Mr. and Mrs. Harry Remick as their guests, started Saturday morning in Mr. Clement's car for a trip to Providence. Just north of Bishop's crossing they came upon a loose horse prancing around in the state road. Mr. Clement slowed down until his side of the road was clear, then, as he attempted to pass Mr. Horse sprang over in front of the machine, and there was a mild collision. When it comes to Wild West stuff, that horse did it proper. In an instant he turned his working end toward the now still and useless Buick. Tom Mix's "Tony," Hoot Gibson, Bill Hart's "Calamity Jane" never had anything on that steed of Jim Knight's. He kicked the front nearly off, and stove in one side, busting his hits where they counted most. Before Mr. Clement could get into reverse gear, and back clear of the flying heels, his car had been damaged to the tune of $200.

Local drivers have lodged many complaints of late because of wandering horses in the right of way. One driver said cows are often encountered, wandering home at the close of day, but they never try any Wild West stunts and are easily avoided.

Chicken pie supper, Thursday, Methodist church, 75 cents.—adv.

Main street at P. O. square, was filled with listeners in on the big game at St. Louis. The big set in Carey's did fine work both Sunday and Tuesday, except for the operations of the "Hoopes," who queered the game every few minutes by the terrible screeches, which were regenerated and broadcasted by his set, as he run up his bulbs too high. A half dozen radio operators asked Tuesday evening that this item be printed in Wednesday's Bulletin, that the owners of the squawking set, may, as he is doubtless anxious to do, ife he knows it, remedy the trouble, thus clearing the local air.

In connection with the death of Prof. William Jewett Tucker, president of Dartmouth college, Hanover, N. H., it is of local interest that Francis Y. Brown was graduated by Dartmouth and that his brother, Morton H. Brown who was accepted to enter this year, is transferred at his own request to the freshman entrants, in the fall of 1927. Meanwhile the latter is getting a taste of real country life on a farm in Arpin, Wisconsin. Both young men are sons of State's Attorney and Mrs. Arthur M. Brown.

Announcements have been received of the marriage of Miss Clara Wells of Danielson and Kenneth Everett, of Bradford, R. I. in Danielson, Saturday. Both are well known here, Mrs. Everett having been a teacher at Riverside Grammar school, and Mr. Everett was a former chemist at Aspinook Bleachery.

Nobody here seems to be handing around information as to why Bert Field resigned as foreman of the A. A. Young, Jr., Hose and Ladder Co., No. 1. He says he didn't care to keep it any longer, and it is for personal reasons. Anyway, no man ever at the head of the local company ever received more complimentary mention for his fire-fighting efficiency, than retiring Chief Field.

His successor, "Big Ned" Walsh, elected last Thursday evening, is a finished smoke-eater. Chief Walsh has been a member of the company for years, and has helped tackle all the borough's bad fires. He is hardly noted to be present at a fire, but he gets there with results. Being fearless and with judgment beyond question, he is to be a chief rating second to no predecessor.

Several of the stores and one farmer from Lisbon, were offering sweet corn for sale Tuesday, just right to eat. Paul Geist picked five dozen Monday. This record is without recent precedent. Last year by this date all growing things in the open were killed by the freezes of September. Ed. Barrows recalls that, in Canterbury, on the Butts' bridge hill where he lives, there was a snow flurry October 14th.

A young Jewett City girl, sound and sensible, and not given to superstition, has proof to show that her time has come. Nothing indefinite or unsettled, for she has his picture to prove properly. Last Saturday, having in mind a nice salad for the Sunday dinner the girl in question boiled six—hard. While they were cooling in a pan on the kitchen table, she passed the few waiting minutes in reading The Morning Bulletin. Meanwhile the eggs were ready to "shell," so laying down the paper she took off the outside with ears, laying the six down upon the paper in a row to dry before chopping them for the salad. In an hour or so the 6 H. B. were placed in a pan and removed to the ice box. Sunday arrived, the day of the salad, and chopping preparations were completed. Imagine the young woman's surprise, upon picking out the first one of the six, when, as plain as day, upon the smooth surface of the thin film that had been loosened from the inside of the shell, and clung to the egg—was the clear-cut picture of a fair young man. After much agitation, and reading of witch charms, she appealed to her friends, and they came trooping in. One, wiser than the rest, inquired as to where the eggs were first shelled and damp had been placed. Saturday's Bulletin was recovered from the paper rack, and, sure enough, where once the features of a beautiful young man had adorned the paper's page, there remained only a partial blank. The damp egg with its slightly acid coating had lifted the face from the paper to its sooth outside. The young woman, not to be hoaxed, declares there is something in it.

In a letter received by the Red Cross chapter is stated that the need in Florida is greater than at first anticipated. The disaster is much more serious than first anticipated. The disaster is much more serious than the mid-western tornado. The vice chairman of the National Red Cross who is now in Florida, reports that at least 20,000 homes are demolished or badly damaged, and that there are approximately 4,000 persons injured. In Fort Lauderdale alone 3,000 persons are homeless. Henry M. Baker, National Director of Disaster Relief is in charge of the relief work, and is assisted by 40 nurses 100 base workers, and other trained disaster workers. The chief need is money. Food, water, clothing and medical supplies are now available in quantities for immediate needs. In addition to handling this terrible disaster the Red Cross is also handling the disaster situations following the southern Louisiana hurricane of August 27, the eastern Kansas flood of September 11 and the northwest Iowa flood of September 18.

The receipts of the town this year, including temporary loans from the J. C. Trust of $35,000 have been $142.83 expended as follows: Paid selectmen's orders, $81,849.21; school orders, $60,793.33; state treasurer, dog licenses, $652.87; fox bounties, $40; town court orders, $1,2500.00; total $144,585.41; balance on hand September 1, 1926, $7,757.48; total $152,342.89.

DANIELSON

PARKER TRAGEDY, HARTFORD, ROUSES LOCAL SYMPATHY

(Special to the Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Oct. 5—The bodies of Brooks K. Parker and his daughter, Helena, 5, who are dead in Hartford in a mysterious case that is engaging the attention of the coroner and other officials of that city, are to be brought to Danielson for burial in Westfield cemetery. Mrs. Parker, who before her marriage was Miss Gladys White, the daughter of Mrs. Edwin T. White of Pomfret Landing, and who is very well known here, is seriously ill with pneumonia at a Hartford hospital, though on Tuesday it was said that there were hopes of her recovery.

Strange and puzzling circumstances attended the death of Mr. Parker and the little girl, as well as the highly critical illness of Mrs. Parker. It appeared from the investigation as it had been followed up to Tuesday morning that they were the victims of some sort of poisoning. A theory was that Mr. Parker and Helena were made deadly ill by eating a cake and that Mrs. Parker's critical illness was due to the same cause.

Sunday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Parker were found in a helpless condition in the home at Mr. Parker's mother and [illegible] was dead or almost. Mr. and Mrs. Parker were removed to a hospital where Mr. Parker died. Two boys found in the home were on the verge of passing, but revived on being moved to the open air.

Analysis of the contents of Mr. Parker's stomach showed that it contained some species of alkaloid poison, the exact nature of which will be determined by chemists conducting an examination. It was reported from Hartford Tuesday.

A quantity of vanilla extract that had been used in preparing a cake at the home was analyzed among the things that were subjected to chemical tests. It developed whether it contained any poison or not, but might have caused the illness of Parker household. Another theory is that the tragedy may have been caused by some other food. The children were well and happy when evening Knowledge of their condition was not discovered until Sunday afternoon.

[illegible] another tragedy in which Miss Parker's father, Edwin T. White of Pomfret was shot and killed on June 27 1924, is also unexplained. White, who afterwards was known as a recluse, lived by himself in a house that started to burn and died. Knowing that he was armed and desperate no chances were taken by the posse that he would do further damage. The fiancee of Mrs. Parker's sister, who was visiting at the White home when the uncle became unbalanced mentally, was wounded in the fusillade that killed E. T. White. Ben White did not meet his end until the following day, having eluded pursuing bands and captors through all of Sunday and Sunday night. The affair was as sad a one as has been experienced in this section of eastern Connecticut in years, so the more recent one at Hartford, afflicting the family, arouses [illegible] sympathy of all for these stricken people.

VOTER WITH TWO BALLOTS GOT AWAY UNDETECTED

(Special to The Bulletin.)

DANIELSON, Oct. 5—The lust of the names! There was more or less confusion of Killingly's election results Tuesday, many attempts to analyze them, a hundred different versions to explain the result of the contest for places on the board of selectmen but the fire of warfare was fast coming from the heights it reached on Monday. In a word, the issue had been settled for at least a year.

There are various interesting things about the way the vote for selectmen was cast, according to counters who had an opportunity to look the ballots over and tabulate the results. Every possible combination of cutting has indulged in. A favorite combination of split vote for selectmen was for N. P. Gingras, republican and A. E. Hall, democrat. Both were elected. Another combination gave a vote to First Selectman John E. Gilbert and to Alcott D. Sayles, defeated democrat. Some voted for Gilbert and Hall some for Gingras and Sayles.

More interesting than any of the split tickets were the considerable number of ballots that carried only a vote for Sayles for selectman and Sayles for constable, his name appearing twice in the democratic column. No candidate on either ticket received a bit of consideration from these voters. They voted for Sayles and Sayles only. And, notwithstanding, Sayles lost. Observers regard this phase of the election as showing the tradition with which democrats deserve party regularity and unity to elect a candidate who was a storm center. Other democrats did their utmost to defeat him. Their favorite combination, to do this was a vote for his running mate, Hall, and one for Gingras. Above name appeared in the republican column, opposite the name of Sayles. The result of this was that Gingras came through with 817, the high vote for selectman, while Hall had 676, which was far ahead of the average for democratic candidates. To counteract the Hall vote many a republican had to split a ticket—and did. A result was that Gilbert, candidate for first selectman on the republican ticket had but 730 votes, a lead of only 4 over Hall, and that's far below normal.

The prize mystery of election day here was and is how one voter came into possession of two official ballots and tried to cast them both. One of these was marked as a straight, the other as a split ticket. There were members of the democratic caucus arousing for this precinct. A ballot box tender detected the two ballots, neither of which was counted, but the man slipped down and out of the hall before identification could be established and no action taken against him.

An echo of the election will be a reception to be given later at Wildwood Park by King George Jacques of East Killingly in celebration of the Hall victory. The date had not been fixed Tuesday.

Wednesday afternoon the board of selectmen as now constituted will meet at the selectmen's rooms in the town hall building for organization. The town school committee, with its new members also will organize this week.

More was heard Tuesday as to why James C. Moran, who as a democratic candidate for a place on the school committee of Brooklyn was ruled not [illegible] enough to receive a greater number of votes than either of his republican opponents who were declared elected in Monday's election in that town.

Mr. Moran's name was placed on the ticket for a place on the school committee held by D. M. Havens, whose term has not expired. Prior to the election Mr. Havens is said to have had some correspondence with Town Clerk Oscar F. Atwood as to resigning from the board, but there is no evidence that he did resign so that he remains a member of the board, the period for which he was elected not having expired. This being the case Mr. Moran was elected for a place already filled. In this peculiar situation Mr. Moran with 266 votes in Monday's election necessarily gives a place on the board to John C. Gardner, who had 189 votes and Sidney W. Bard who received 182 votes.

The detail of the vote in Brooklyn follows: Assessor, *Albert Bernier, r and d, 443; C. F. Rainville, written in, 14; board of relief, R. B. Witter, r, 177; *Daniel Smith, d, for 3 years, 267; J. Edward Allen, r, 160; *Willis A. Kenyon, d, for two years, 247; selectmen, Everett M. Colvin, r, 132; *Frank S. Spaulding, r, 196; *E. M. Marcor, d, first selectman, 313; *Hugh Gorman, Jr., d, 265; agent town deposit fund, *Oscar F. Atwood, *d and r, 445; auditor, *E. C. Babson, r, 180; *E. L. Baker, d, 264; grand jurors, *Samuel Jowd, r, 178; *Laura M. Pike, r, 153; *Henry Allerie, 173; Henri Bernier, d, 29, *William N. House, d, 44; *Romeo Maynard, d, 32; *Catherine Harrington, d, 43; *Walter H. Evans, d, 40; collector of taxes, *John M. Bessette, d, 303; A. B. Because the democrats nominated more candidates for grand jurors and constables than they were legally entitled to a certain number of votes cast for each candidate were not counted.

It is true as ever that advertising pays, but on the other hand, there are times when it causes misunderstandings. A reader that appeared in this column last Saturday morning did just this thing. It led many women to believe that new crepe, satin and other dresses in fall styles were being offered at half-price, whereas the half-price quotation applied to some materials that were being closed out and not to the dress part of the announcement, though there was ground for believing, as the advertisement read that it applied to all. The advertisers were not responsible for the form in which the announcement appeared, but they have been constantly hearing about it ever since.

It was announced that democrats of Brooklyn are to have a free victory dance at a pavilion on the West Side at an early date to celebrate their triumph in Monday's election.

Monday and Tuesday of next week bring party caucuses in Killingly to fill places on the state ticket.

Steady progress is being made on the work remaining to be done at Killingly High school, where sessions are now being held regularly as artisans labor in some parts of the structure.

An exceptionally high fence to keep out raiding deer is being constructed around a plot where an orchard is to be set out by Ernest R. Warren, on the Green Hollow Road.

The hunters have the hours counted to the time when they can go afield with dog and gun Friday morning, the opening of the fall hunting season.

Gerald Boulaine has plans for forming a basketball team that he hopes may be a unit of a league embracing some eastern Connecticut towns, for the fall and winter season.

Employes of the D. and P. Gas and Electric company continue to set poles between West Brooklyn and Hampton for the electric light service that will be made available to Hampton about Thanksgiving time.

Few people can recall a duplication of a situation like that existing Tuesday when superior court was being held at Putnam and Willimantic at the same time, the Putnam session being for the consideration of criminal and the Willimantic session for the hearing of civil matters.

Hundreds of the French-speaking members of St. James' parish are attending the mission services being held every morning and evening this week at the church on Franklin street.

Arthur C. Benson of Springfield was a visitor with friends in Danielson on Tuesday.

In the list of honor students of Yale university for the past academic year appears the name of Harry E. Back, Jr., son of Attorney and Mrs. Harry E. Back of Danielson. The list was made public Sunday.

Several students at Killingly high school who came here from neighboring towns have found homes in Danielson and other communities of the town of Killingly for the period of the school year.

A five-day week for organized labor! A worthy move, but not approximating some Killingly labor that has the science of work reduced to no more than five days a month.

WEDDING
Everett-Wells

DANIELSON, Conn., Oct. 5—Miss Cara Bebe Wells, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. De Forest Wells, of South Main street, Danielson was united in marriage at 4 o'clock Saturday with Kenneth C. Everett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Everett of Lowell, Massachusetts at the home of the bride's parents. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Harding W. Gaylord, in the presence of relatives and friends. A reception followed the ceremony.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a white georgette gown and tulle veil caught with orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of white roses.

Miss Ethel Wells, sister of the bride who was bridesmaid wore a pink crepe de chine dress and carried pink roses. Master Cade Hands, Jr., was ring bearer and little Miss Jacqueline Caffrey was flower girl. Miss Amy Wells, sister of the bride, played the wedding march from Lohengrin. De Forrest Wells, Jr., was best man.

Mrs. Everett is a graduate of Killingly high school and of Willimantic Normal school.

Mr. Everett is a graduate of Lowell high school and of Clark university, A. B. 1922. He is a textile chemist employed by the Bradford Dying association (U. S. A.) as acting chief chemist.

After a brief wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Everett will make their home at

DAHLIA STALK TEN FEET DWARFS BOSTON CHAMPION

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Oct. 5.—A Boston paper tells of a dahlia five feet in height, which led to dahlia growers sending in stories of tall dahlias and the highest was eight feet. Thomas Jones of this city is fond of plants and raises some beautiful flowers. He has a dahlia that stands ten feet two inches above the ground and is still growing. He has plenty of them that are from six to eight feet. If the champion flower is eight feet tall, the one raised by Mr. Jones is two feet, two inches higher.

SUMMING UP RESULTS IN QUIET TOWN ELECTION

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Oct. 5.—The republicans as usual carried the town election which was almost devoid of interest, as there were no contests. There were less than 500 votes cast, the smallest number in years, the average republican majority being 100. There was a minority representation in the board of selectmen, auditor, registrar of voters and school committee. For the last named, there were three to be elected, two republicans, Silas M. Wheelock and Joseph A. P. Gagne. The democrats named two candidates and James J. Charron won from Mrs. Dorothy Jones Bartlett, 187 to 179.

The candidates elected are: Assessor, Ernest E. Kent, r; selectmen, Clarence E. Pierce r, William P. Warren r, Edward F. Girard d; auditors, Lucius P. Merriam r and John J. McGarry d; collector of taxes, Irving P. Wilson r; constables, Peter Gardner r, Ernest L. Chandler r, Hermon O. Carver r, August Martin r; registrar of voters, Hermon G. Carver r and George Potvin d; school committee, Silas M. Wheelock r, Joseph A. P. Gagne r, James J. Charron d; library directors, Frank P. Russell r, Eric H. Johnson r, and Abbie H. Keith r.

Mrs. Dorothy Schmoll, 24, died Tuesday morning at the home of her parents Mr. and Mrs. Marcus A. Covell, of North Grosvenordale. Her death came after but two weeks' illness. She was well known here in Putnam as well as in her home town and there is universal regret at her early death.

Putnam and vicinity have a number of football players who are distinguishing themselves. Among those who helped to win glory for their teams recently are Jack Cronin, halfback for Boston college which defeated Catholic university; Chandler Morse, Amherst left end, in their game again Princeton. Both of these young men are residents of Putnam. Pop Williams of Danielson, fullback for Storrs, helped to defeat Wesleyan.

The first of October brought many changes at the Ben Grosvenor inn, Pomfret. Among those leaving for their homes were Miss Elizabeth Washington of Philadelphia, Misses Norma, Hope, Annie and Elizabeth Stewart to Boston; Mr. and Mrs. A. Emerson Benson to Boston; Miss E. B. Bancroft and Miss Makepeace to Providence; Miss Marg Woodberry and Miss Jeanne Robinson to Boston; Professor and Mrs. Waldo S. Pratt to Hartford; Mrs. Beckwith to Norwich.

The arrivals included Mr. and Mrs. S. Bertram Richards of Philadelphia, Mr. and Mrs. Warner J. Steele and Miss McCrea, Philadelphia; Mrs. Henry Sanford and Mrs. Charles Coster, New York; Miss Fanny Godard, Baltimore; Mrs. James Jackson and Mrs. Montgomery Wilcox, Boston.

An event of considerable interest to people in this vicinity was the opening of the Silver Samovar at Providence. It is supposed to be the last word in tea houses and is under the management of Mrs. Winan Burnett and Mrs. Beck Mamendorff, both of Thompson. The waitresses are dressed like Russian peasants. An alluring sign representing a Russian girl bearing a silver Samovar was painted by Miss Beatrice Stevens of Pomfret. A number of people from Thompson and Pomfret attended the opening.

STONINGTON

NEW HOTEL PLANNED FOR ERECTION IN BOROUGH

(Special to The Bulletin)

STONINGTON, Oct. 5—The American Hotel corporation, of Brockton, Mass., is to build a 60-room hotel on the grounds formerly owned by Andrew W. Perry, who built a cottage there about a year ago. It will be a three story building, 70x100 feet with two wings each 25x50 feet, these will be two stories high. On the main floor will be the lobby, elevator, women's and men's waiting rooms, kitchen and a ballroom, 40x60 feet, in addition to a large dining room. In all there will be 30 bathrooms and 26 of the 60 rooms will have baths connected. The second story and ells will contain the sleeping rooms. The servants' quarters will be on the second floor of the large garage. This is an ideal spot for a hotel, as it has a view of the Long Island sound and the shore will be put in condition for bathing. It will be a handy location for those who play golf as the Manor Golf course is near by. A swimming pool and tennis court are talked of. The officers of the corporation are: President, Charles H. Whipple of Providence, treasurer, Capt. R. D. Tillson of the borough; clerk, George A. Morse of Massachusetts; directors, A. W. Perry of the borough; Jeremiah Sullivan of Newport, John McCarthy, Brockton, Mass. The office is located in the Washington Trust company building, Westerly.

A party was held Friday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Chesebro in Cutler street on the fourth birthdays of John B. Findlay, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Findlay. His young friends helped him celebrate the day.

Are You Overdoing?

Hurry, Worry, and Overwork Bring Heavy Strain.

MODERN life throws a heavy burden on our bodily machinery. The eliminative organs, especially the kidneys, are apt to be overtaxed and become sluggish. Retention of excess uricacid and other poisonous waste matter to give rise to a dull, tired feeling and, often, toxic backaches and headaches. That the kidneys are not functioning properly is sometimes shown by burning or scanty passage of secretions. More and more people are learning to assist their kidneys by drinking plenty of pure water and the occasional use of Doan's Pills—a tested stimulant diuretic. Ask your neighbor!

MERCHANT MARINE PLANS

Is the shipping board trying to pass the buck? Under a resolution sponsored by Senator Jones of Washington adopted last June the board was directed to prepare and submit to the senate not later than the first of January plans for the maintenance of an American merchant marine either through private capital and under private ownership, or through constructions operation and ownership by the government.

The idea is apparently to get down to brass tacks relative to the merchant marine, and the shipping board is called upon the same as experts are to give its assistance. In view of its experience and its close touch with the various phases of the merchant marine problem it was the logical thing to do to seek the board's help.

But the board seems to think that it is the sentiment of the people rather than the recommendations of the shipping board that is sought, and it proceeds to send out a questionnaire to the American people, to get their views. Perhaps the board will listen to what the people have to say, when it has been disposed to do what it pleases regardless of administration policies and wishes, but it will be interesting to note whether the plans it submits are credited to the board, the public or presented as a joint product.

The Jones resolution doesn't specify how the board shall "prepare and submit" the plans sought. It doesn't say that it shall or shall not get the sentiment of the people through hearings or otherwise and from the various ideas work out a plan. But as experts and in close touch with the shipping problems it might be expected that the board would have views of its own that should be expressed as such. That would seem to be the intent of the resolution. It is only when it appears to be wandering afield and arranging to put forth plans that will represent the composite sentiment of the people that it appears to be departing from the intention of the senate resolution. And perhaps it makes no difference how it arrives at its conclusions so long as the plans are feasible and actually insure the building up and maintenance of an adequate merchant marine for commercial and national security.

SOUNDING THE PEOPLE

There are those who favor and those who oppose a referendum on the dry question. Those who favor it insist that the people are opposed to prohibition and have never had a chance to express themselves. Those who oppose a referendum feel that the amendment to the Constitution settles the matter, that it was obtained in accordance with law and that it should be a repeal of the amendment rather than a referendum that should be sought if that is the purpose of the action.

As an advocate of the submission of national prohibition to the people through a referendum there is Senator Borah, a believer in prohibition, who has recently urged such a decision as a national referendum would give. It makes a difference what form the referendum takes whether he favors it, for while he has recently spoken in favor of submitting national prohibition to the people he is opposed to the referendum as it is to be held in New York state.

Senator Borah believes that the success of the amendment lies largely in the voluntary obedience of the people rather than in the drastic provisions calculated to assure enforcement, and for that reason he is a believer in the sounding of the people in order that it may be determined whether the people who want enforcement and are prepared to back it are in the majority or minority.

The idea of the referendum is to sound the people. By that method it should be determined whether there is anything back of the claim that the people are opposed to prohibition. New York is going to set the ball in motion in this respect. If all those who can vote do not make the most of the opportunity to express themselves, regardless of which side they stand on it will be a mistake on their part. What New York votes doesn't mean that it will be carried out. The idea is to learn how the people feel and such an expression is expected to be used as a guide to the representatives of the people in upholding or shaping legislation. Even though Senator Borah differs with the New York plan he sees the desirability of sounding the people.

CRIMINAL CLEANUPS

By the arrest of a number of young men as suspicious characters Washington appears to have opened a campaign for ridding the city of such undesirables. This comes about as the result of the killing of a policeman by a gang of young criminals who are rightly regarded as a menace to any community.

But there are many cities which have set out on the same quest as Washington, served notice to that effect, started in and for a while actually did do a good bit of clean-up work of this character and then seemed to forget it, which was of course simply an invitation for the return of the old conditions.

In these clean-ups it is not infrequently the case that such undesirable individuals are told to get out of town, a chance which they are glad to take. But that only means the shifting of the scene of their operations. Those who are told to move along do just as the are allowed which means a floating population of bad characters ready to engage in law breaking at the first opportunity and serving as a public menace wherever they are located. Sending them out of town does nothing in the way of reforming or penalizing them. It may only serve to throw them into the company of other and more accomplished crooks.

If there is a chance for deporting some of these individuals who are contributing so freely to the crime records in the cities of this country well and good, but sending them from one city to another provides no permanent relief. It simply lets them go unrestricted just that much longer and become a menace to others.

Perhaps Washington will carry out its clean-up in such a way that punishment will offer discouragement instead of encouragement to the gun users and other criminals. It may cost more than the idea of shifting them off onto someone else but the benefits should be worth all that they cost in this direction. In all probability it will be the best thing that could happen to those who are inclined to get far away from the straight and narrow path and who are helped along by a lot of misdirected and unappreciated leniency.

A COLLEGE STRIKE

Out in the middle west there has been started a strike of the students of a college. It results from new regulations which have been put into effect at this co-educational institution. The students feel that they are being unjustly treated so they resort to the interesting expedient of striking and in striking they are refusing to proceed with their studies for which they paid tuition and for which they went to college. Because they cannot have their own way and because they are required to observe college rules they resort to taking it out on themselves, for when they strike there is no one seriously affected except themselves.

They of course get the idea too often from others who are older and ought to know better. They may get it from home but college strikes seldom accomplish what is sought and are in fact a poor method of making protests, for when the student body refuses to pursue the studies they throw out of joint all other college activities and inflict punishment upon themselves, though they may not realize it at the time.

The new rule adopted which occasioned the college strike was a discipline measure. There were apparently conditions which needed correcting for which those involved in the strike were probably responsible. Unfortunately this institution hasn't gotten to the stage where it is ready to turn its affairs over to the students and it has served notice that it doesn't intend to, and perhaps in later years they will realize the importance of that decision. In the meantime it would be interesting to know whether the parents of the strikers are supporting them or the college.

FLIRTING WITH DEATH

In connection with the danger in the highways reference was recently made to the position which the bicycle rider occupies in the streets today and the chances which are taken by them in threading in and out of traffic, wobbling about in front of autos and catching hold of vehicles to be towed.

The streets are not what they were some years ago. It is necessary for each and every one to watch what he is doing and anticipate trouble.

Manchester, Pa., this week a 12 year old boy was riding his bicycle by holding on with one hand to the rear end of a truck. It is probably that his presence there was unknown to the truck driver, and when the truck was suddenly moved down the boy in order to get away from its position under such circumstances turned his wheel directly in the path of another truck with the result that he was run over and killed to death.

What he had a right in the street there is no question but he was engaged in a perilous undertaking. He might have been able to get a tow but he had no idea as to what the truck driver was going to do or how soon he would be forced to quickly take care of himself. When he did he projected himself into the path of another machine and the accident was inevitable.

Motorists cannot be expected to do the impossible under such circumstances. It is the penalty of taking the most ordinary chances in the streets where there is danger from fast moving vehicles. Distressing as such fatalities are there so many of them of a similar character that the lesson of self protection ought not to be a hard one to learn.

HER REWARD

She had always wanted to play the violin; to awaken sounds from that double-arched box. But always it seemed that there was other work to be done. Factory work at 16, when her father had died, leaving her the eldest of six growing youngsters. Then breadmaking and dishwashing at 20 in a tiny home of her own. And babies—five. God bless them! Four were now in their own homes, so.

It was upon Gilbert, the youngest and still unmarried, that the fairies had bestowed that wonderful power to give forth the melodies buried so deep in his mother's heart.

And so, although the large concert hall was crowded to the doors, she seemed to sit all alone at the end of the first row. Her hands, work scarred and covered with black silk gloves, lay tightly pressed in her lap. No one, not even Gilbert—oh, especially not Gilbert—knew the endless years those fingers had drudged, that he might have quiet hours to master the violin.

An amused smile stole into her eyes as she waited tensely, for the velvet curtain to draw aside. What a youngster Gilbert had been! Wild with joy over his violin even at 7; yet hasty tempered and stubborn when she took his beloved instrument away at regular intervals because he would play popular tunes by ear and he would not practice his scales. And yet, somehow, through all the tears and the despair, she never doubted Gilbert's talent.

She stole a glance around the hall, a delicious quiver of joy rushing through her at sight of the eager faces set stageward. They were all waiting to hear her son. Well dressed women, daintily perfumed, some of them also musicians themselves, men in tuxedos; restless children whose fond parents had brought them to hear Gilbert Baxton play, "so that when you go home you'll practice real hard, too, like mother and dad want you to, won't you, dear? Se, he was just a little boy not so many years ago, and he practiced real hard!"

Then the professional musicians come to judge one or their own. At last, but by no means least, the newspaper critics, whose skilled pens could blaze a name to fame or thrust it into oblivion.

She watched them eagerly: a prayer gleamed in her soft blue eyes. In three hours or less they would be sending in their reports of her son playing. By morning a city would open its papers to read of Gilbert Baxton in recital. What would they say? She trembled a little as the curtain was slowly drawn aside. Surely they would remember that Gil was only 19, just a youngster compared to these others. Her tired hands in their black silk gloves went cold.

The slim young man in the center of the stage had been playing for fully ten minutes before his mother thrust back her fears and smiled with a great sigh of relief. There would be no need to remember his age, no occasion for allowances.

The drawing of the bow across the strings was the touch of a master—deep, throbbing. And when the melody was ended, how the first notes shuddered on the air, like echoes of a silver bell in a far-off forest.

Here were not the only mothers in the large hall as Gilbert made his youthfully staff, embarrassed bows.

"I wonder if his mother's here to hear him," whispered the woman back of her as Gilbert's accompanist gave a light opening chord. "I hope she is. Bu you can't tell. I understand he's quite a poor boy, his mother must've worked awfully hard to put him where he is. Hope he appreciates it."

"They never do," replied the woman's cynical escort.

"No, I suppose not," sighing. "You try and try and do everything in the world for them, and then they grow up and forget you. That's usually the way."

The concert was ended at last. Gilbert's mother saw her son congratulated on all hands. Older men slapped him on the back; women beamed softly at him, at his youthful, his lovable clumsiness. A gay little group, with a critic or two in its midst, proposed a little luncheon party in the coffeeshop next door.

Gilbert's mother saw him raise a hand in protest; smiling. And then he broke through he admiring crowd and came straight to her. His arm slipped about her.

"You liked it, mother? Was it all right?" His voice rose on an anxious note. "Come on, mums," he whispered as she nodded. "Let's run off home by ourselves. I'll blow us to a taxi, dear."

And Gilbert's mother had had her reward.—Chicago News.

SELECTING A HUSBAND FOR MISS X-RAY

By Louis Gregory Cole, M. D. New York City

Member Gosgas Memorial Institute

X-ray is the youngest sister of the medical specialities. She was born about a generation ago and is just now coming into maturity. In the early days Miss X-ray was not considered a legitimate, dignified member of the family of medical specialties.

Like Topsy in Uncle Tom's Cabin, she "just growed up" without much supervision from her parents, General Medicine and Mrs. Electricity and she was rather quarrelsome with all her sister specialities.

But in her early teens she was an interesting flapper who attracted many suitors. Some of them were qualified with medical degrees and some were not. Now comes the selection of a husband for Miss X-ray.

Shall he be a physician with a knowledge of anatomy, physiology, pathology medicine and some knowledge of surgery and something or the other sister specialties, pledged to a life of service and high ethical standards; or shall he be a commercial quack to ruin her reputation and wreck her future?

That is for you readers to decide. Every time you or your friends need an X-ray and go to a man, who is not trained in the making and reading of X-ray plates, you are favoring one of the less desirable suitors for the hand of Miss X-ray.

The shadows of X-ray plates are like the hieroglyphics on an obelisk. They are very interesting but of no value unless you know the language. They are like the Chinaman's laundry check. Quite valueless, too, are interesting but of no value unless the person who looks at them knows the language and he can learn it only by years of study. Unless a man knows anatomy, how can he know whether a bone is larger or smaller, harder or softer than normal?

Unless he knows pathology, that is, the manner in which disease attacks tissue how can he interpret the X-ray shadows in terms of disease? How can he tell whether the shadows he sees in the lung mean tuberculosis or not?

Many men flock to new medical specialties, like rabbits to a new field. Some states and cities have done something to mitigate this evil, but "doctoring" in this line, traffic in health and life, is popular.

A few surgical instruments do not make a surgeon; a saw, hammer and square do not make a carpenter; nor do a weapon or pipe lungs make a gunner. It requires years of special training to become a surgeon or an engineer and it requires an equal time to

Make the Most of Books

Constant Study

There is no occupation where a fund of general information is not valuable, provided it be accurate. The knowledge of a little law is as useful to the doctor as that of a little medicine is to the lawyer.

How much more useful a man is in all branches of his calling if he knows the rudiments at least one part of it. You cannot do anything that will add more to your value to yourself and to the world in general than to study your own calling all your life. If your work as a student ends with school or college, your usefulness will be limited and you will always occupy a subordinate position.

Life is not long enough, we have no time to waste, but we should take time enough to do it well. Be satisfied with a mere acquaintance if you are getting all you want out of a book, but do not be turned aside from the track.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Cardinal Gasparri, who has again applied to the pope for permission to retire from his position as papal secretary of state, on the grounds of age and health, is now in his 75th year and has held his high post at the vatican for 12 years. In his younger days he taught theological in the Pontifical Roman seminary and canon law in the University of Paris. In 1908 he was appointed apostolic delegate to Peru, Bolivia and Ecuador, returning to Rome four years later to become secretary to the congregation for extraordinary ecclesiastical affairs. In 1914 he was elevated to membership in the sacred college. Cardinal Gasparri is regarded as the best authority on canon law now living.

Vapors stop Colds

VAPORS reach a cold directly because they are breathed right into the air passages and lungs. It is for this reason that Vicks VapoRub brings such quick relief. When rubbed over throat and chest at bedtime:—

It is vaporized by the body heat and inhaled, while you sleep, right to the affected parts, loosening the phlegm and easing the difficult breathing.

At the same time it acts through the skin (like a poultice or plaster) "drawing out" the pain and soreness.

Most colds yield by morning to this double action of Vicks.

Little Talks on Thrift

FINANCIAL ILLITERATES

One seldom picks up a newspaper without reading about the operations of those engaged in fraudulent practices. Recently, at an important conference on thrift education, a speaker made the statement that there are 6,000,000 people in the United States who are financial illiterates. Estimates varying from $1,000,000,000 to $1,400,000,000 have been made as the amount of money lost by citizens through various frauds and swindlers. Authorities throughout the United States are constantly uncovering the activities of gangs of swindlers.

Were it not for the splendid public service rendered by the press in exposing these criminals, the sums of money lost through get-rich-quick investments would be far greater than even now is the case.

It is amazing that persons generally well-informed and capable of understanding business problems should be so gullible in these matters and so ready to risk funds on enterprises that bear the mark of fraud as clearly as the printed page of a book.

The one simple lesson all should bear in mind is that the legitimate earning power of capital is limited. Now and then money will yield an abnormal income. But these instances are always exceptional. Those who go in for them assume risks that are not in keeping with ordinary common sense.

You cannot afford to jeopardize your hard-earned savings in order to get a few more dollars of income.

Experience has shown that the individual gets further in the long run in the mater of accumulating money by following a conservative policy. To do so is true thrift.—American society for Thrift.

Stories That Recall Others

The Admonition of Age

Dick possessed a tennis racket, which although it had been classed as "junk" by an older sister was the envy of the youngsters of the neighborhood. One gang was assembled in the backyard one day and little Mary, who pestered the tennis racket and said: "I saw the ball, Richard, and I saw it."

HUMILIATION OF BEATING TOO MUCH FOR HOUSEKEEPER

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 5—(AP)—The shame and humiliation of two black eyes, plus injuries which kept her in bed for several days, are Mrs. Mary Holland's reasons for filing suit in superior court here against William G. Kingsford, of Wallingford. Mrs. Holland, who was Kingsford's housekeeper, says in her suit that the injuries resulted from a beating which he administered August 22, with his fists.

Models' Pay Poor

The models in Paris are having a hard time. For years pretty girls have sought to make a legitimate profession of posing for artists, schools or students in Montmartre or Montparnasse, and many of them picked up a tidy living thereby.

But now, with falling exchange, the business is almost hopeless. At the Ecole des Beaux Arts the models are paid 60 francs a week for fours hours' posing per day. In many ateliers and studios the rate is much less. Sixty francs is about $2.
